By Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent.

PATRONIZED BY ROYALTY, THE NOBILITY, THE MEDICAL PROFESSION, &c.

THE "EXCELSIOR"
PATENT SPRING MATTRESS

Thirteen Prize Medals and Eighteen Certificates of Merit have been awarded.

MATTRESS on Polished Pitch Pine Frame.

Made any size, to fit Wood, Brass, or Iron Bedsteads.

THIS Mattress forms a wonderfully elastic, comfortable and healthy bed, adapting itself to the recumbent form, noiseless and simple, strong and durable in construction, and though never out of order can, if damaged, be easily repaired; the springs running lengthwise ensure complete isolation where two or more occupy a bed, the principle of construction effectually preventing depression in the centre. Only a thin Hair Mattress is required with the "EXCELSIOR," the old-fashioned thick flock and straw palliasses and feather beds being dispensed with, the cost of bedding is much reduced, the labour of bed-making is materially lightened, and cleanliness and purity are ensured.

THE "EXCELSIOR" HOSPITAL BEDS.

THE "EXCELSIOR" INVALID CHAIR.

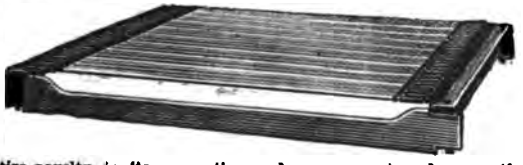
With adjustable leg support, castors, and side racket arrangement, enabling the sitter to adjust the back of the Chair to any angle. The leg rest when detached, forms an admirable Bed-rest.

The "MATLOCK" INVALID COUCH,

With Swivel arrangement, reducing length from 6ft. 9in. to 4ft. 3in.

Also made in one length (not reducible), 6ft. 9in. long. An elegant and useful article of Furniture, made in Mahogany, Oak, Pitch-Pine, and Imitation Ebony.

WOOD'S PATENT SPRING LATHS FOR IRON BEDS,



Forming a spring bottom easily applied to any bed requiring new laths.

The "EXCELSIOR" SHIPS' BERTHS on Wood or iron Frames; made any size or shape.

THE NEW PATENT WOVEN WIRE MATTRESS,

Prize Medal awarded at the Sanitary Exhibition, Dublin, October, 1884.

MATTRESS on Polished Pitch-Pine Frame.

Made any size to fit Wood, Brass, or Iron Bedsteads.

THIS Mattress is an entire novelty in its conception and arrangement, and unquestionably embraces advantages possessed by no other elastic web or woven wire mattress. Its leading peculiarity is the unique combination of a woven wire central portion with helical springs of great strength and reliable temper. The addition of suitable helical springs to a woven wire mattress removes the great objections made to this kind of mattress, viz., that two sleepers are liable to be thrown or moved into the centre of the bed, and that the mattress depresses or becomes hollow from constant use.

PREFACE.

MESSRS KELLY, in submitting to their Subscribers and the Public this Edition of the DIRECTORY OF LINCOLNSHIRE with THE PORT OF HULL, trust that it may be found equal in accuracy to the previous Edition.

Every effort has been made to render it as perfect as possible; lists of Wapentakes and Poor Law Unions, and also the Polling places appointed pursuant to the Ballot Act, 1872, have been included in the Topography of the County; it is stated under each Parish in what Parliamentary Division of the County, and the Wapentake, Union and County Court District it is situated, as well as the Diocese, Archdeaconry and Rural Deanery; and the College and University of every beneficed Clergyman have been given as far as they can be ascertained. The population from last Census and the names of the Parish Clerks are given under each Parish; lists of Farm Bailiffs of Gentlemen farming their own land have been added; the Money Order and Telegraph Offices and Post Office Savings Banks and Government Annuity and Insurance Offices are noticed; a Map of the County, specially engraved, is prefixed to the Work, with the lines of Railways laid down and corrected to date.

A sketch of the Geological features of the County, by Mr W. J. Harrison, of the School Board, Birmingham, is added.

The Proprietors have to thank those Clergymen, and other Gentlemen, who have given the work the benefit of their local knowledge, by correcting the proofs submitted to them, and also the Clerks of the Peace, who have supplied the lists of Magistrates and other information.

 The letters S.O. and R.S.O. at the end of Addresses in various parts of the book are abbreviations adopted by Her Majesty's Post Office, to represent Sub-office and Railway Sub-office; and if these Initial letters with the name of the County, are added to the address on any letter in lieu of the usual name of Post Town, the delivery of such letters will be accelerated.

HULL.

HULL, or more properly KINGSTON-UPON-HULL, is a large and populous town, parliamentary and municipal borough, polling place for the East Riding of Yorkshire, head of a union and county court district, shire by itself, and seaport, situate on the west side of the river Hull, at the point where that river discharges its waters into the estuary of the Humber, 20 miles from the German Ocean at Spurn Point. On the east side it is surrounded by a level tract of country known as the shire of Holderness, in the rural deanery of Hull, East Riding archdeaconry, York diocese and province, Northern circuit. Hull has communication with all parts of the kingdom by the North Eastern railway and its branches, and by the Great Northern and Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, by a steam ferry across the Humber from New Holland. Hull is 173½ miles, by way of New Holland, from King's Cross station, London, 242½ from Euston Square station, London, 30¾ south from Bridlington, 40½ east from Doncaster, 19 south from Driffield, 16½ north from Great Grimsby, 122½ from Rugby, 53½ from Sheffield, 64 from Thrisk, 74½ south from Whitby, 105½ from Worcester, 41½ south-east from York, 51 from Leeds, 99 from Leicester, 119½ from Liverpool, 45½ from Lincoln, 90½ from Manchester, 39½ south-east from Malton and 75 from Nottingham.

Hull has for many years been making a gradual but steady increase; it may date its greatest improvement from the formation of the docks: it had from its foundation been surrounded by a wall and a ditch; in 1774, when the country was freed from intestine broils and party warfare, the defences were considered useless, and the increase of trade and commerce having required greater scope for development, the military works surrounding the town were levelled and the docks formed on the site thereof (the whole of the original part of the town being now enclosed between the docks and the river). From this period the commerce rapidly increased, and it has now become the third port in the kingdom, being only surpassed by London and Liverpool. Before the year 1778, shipping lay in the Old Harbour. The Queen's Dock was opened in the year 1778; it is 1,703 feet long; the Humber Dock in the year 1809; and the Prince's Dock in 1829, since which the Victoria Dock has been formed on the east side of the river Hull, with entrances from the Humber and the Hull; this dock will admit vessels of very great tonnage. The Railway Dock was opened on the 3rd of December, 1846. The Albert Dock, opened in July, 1869, comprises an area of 24A. 0R. 25P. it is 3,370 feet long and 480 feet wide at the east end, and 200 feet at the west end; the entrance lock is of ample dimensions, the length of the lock between the gates being 320 feet, and the clear width 80 feet. Sir William Wright Dock, situated at the west end of Albert Dock, was formed at a cost of £271,366, and opened in May, 1880. St. Andrew's, the new fish dock, also situated to the west of Albert Dock, was opened 24th September, 1883, and cost £414,707. Rails are laid on both sides of most of the docks, in connection with the Hull and Selby railway, giving great facility to the trade of the town.

The Dock Office is an elaborate structure in the Italian style, of the Venetian type, and is built of stone from the Ancaster quarries, in Lincolnshire; the ground floor order is Ionic, that of the first floor Corinthian, the panels over the windows and the key-stones and spandrils of the arches of the wings being richly carved; a deep and highly enriched cornice, with medallion windows in the frieze, surmounts this order, and there is a double blocking course over it; at each of the three angles (the building in plan being an irregular triangle adapted to the site) are circular towers of the Composite order, over which are domes covered with lead, and crowned with elegant lanterns, the height of these cupolas being 100 feet; the principal entrance is in the centre of the Junction street front, its position being emphasized by a portico on the ground floor, and projecting pilasters and engaged columns on the first floor, above the main cornice of which is a pediment, the tympanum of which is enriched with sculpture, representing Commerce, Prosperity, and the river Humber, and over which is grouped a trophy of the arms of the company, the town and Trinity House; the entrance to the general public office is in the centre of the quay front, which is very effective, from its bold circular sweep following the contour of the dock; crowning its centre is another handsome trophy of sculpture, representing Neptune and Amphitrite supporting the arms of the company; internally the principal features are the entrance hall, with a spacious staircase having handsome wrought iron hand-railing; the board-room, in which are hung paintings of past chairmen; and the court room, which is large, lofty and very magnificent, with columns of red marble, and highly enriched capitals and cornice of the Corinthian order; between the columns is a sub-order in the Composite style, over the entablatures of which, between the first floor and medallion windows, are placed figures holding shields, on which are emblazoned the arms of the various ports trading with Hull; the ceiling is of most chaste and elegant design; the floor is of parqueterie, of oak and fancy woods: the general public office, on the ground floor, is also a very fine apartment, designed in the Doric order, and is 100 feet in length: in the basement are extensive ranges of cellars: the whole building is fireproof, and is heated with hot air and ventilated on the most approved system. The architect of this fine building was Mr. C. G. Wray, of 46 Cannon street, London.

The Hull, Barnsley and West Riding Junction Railway and Dock Company was constituted by an Act of Parliament in the Session of 1880, and has a railway from Hull to a point near Barnsley, and at the Hull terminus a dock called the Alexandra Dock, both of which are now in course of construction; thus an easy mode of transit for goods from foreign parts to the heart of England will be provided. Messrs. W. Shelford and G. Bohn are the engineers for the railway, and Mr. J. Abernethy is the engineer-in-chief for the Alexandra Dock; Messrs. Lucas & Aird, are the contractors for the entire works; Mr. J. Daniell, secretary. In the Session of 1882 the Company obtained a very important Act for extending their system to Huddersfield and Halifax: the Act also provides for additional dock accommodation in the shape of timber ponds and a fish dock. The Company has entered into an agreement with the Midland Railway Company for running powers over the latter's system to Cudworth, where a large Exchange Station will be built by both Companies. This will give immediate access to the main line of the Midland Railway Company from Hull, Huddersfield and Halifax, and will place Barnsley in direct communication with those towns. In the Session of 1883, the Company obtained an Act to construct new railways in the Hull district, and for other purposes. The new railway passes over the town at a high level and crosses the river Hull by a swing bridge of 75 feet span.

TRADE OF THE PORT.—The principal imports in 1883 were cattle, 12,866; sheep and lambs, 37,470; pigs, 6,646; butter, 333,052 cwt.; cheese, 24,805 cwt.; cotton wool, 130,005 cwt.; fish from foreign ports, chiefly mackerel and mussels, 171,375 cwt.; fruit, 815,357 packages; wheat, 1,357,850 qrs.; barley, 547,608 qrs.; oats, 318,634 qrs. and maize, 326,802 qrs.; hemp, 11,000 tons; hides, 60,694 cwt.; oranges, 280,494 bushels; potatoes, 448,604 cwt.: provisions—bacon, 388,161 and hams, 54,478 cwt.: seeds—linseed, 899,450, rapeseed, 200,043 and cotton seed, 112,309 qrs.; sugar (refined), 238,823 cwt.; vegetables, 246,792 packages; timber, 94,229 and deals, 373,985 loads; wool, 24,923,754 lbs. Of exports, coal amounted to 602,530 tons, Germany, Russia and Sweden and Norway being principal customers; cotton goods, plain, 49,205,800 and printed, 32,733,185 yds.; cotton yarn, 73,328,300 lbs. and woollen and worsted yarns, 18,996,200 lbs.; woollens, flannels &c. value £621,430; worsteds (plains and mixed), value £388,798; linseed oil, 17,961 tons; cotton oil, 8,567 tons.

The Hull customs' revenue for 1883 was £143,421.

In the year 1883 the number of sailing and steam vessels that entered the port of Hull with cargoes from foreign countries and British possessions, was 2,870, with a tonnage of 1,704,884. The total tonnage on which dock dues were paid was 2,460,564; registered tonnage of the port, 201,871.

There are upwards of 450 deep-sea fishing-boats belonging to the Port of Hull, and whose produce finds its way by means of steam cutters and the rail to the London and other markets and materially contributes to the prosperity of the town. There are 10 steam cutters constantly employed carrying fish from the various fleets to the London and other large markets; these vessels are all fitted with trawling gear, which is used by them when not employed in carrying fish to the markets. In addition to the deep-sea fishing-boats, there is a large number of smaller craft, which are employed fishing off the coast. The fishing community of the port of Hull (fishermen alone) are estimated at 3,500, and the fishing trade generally finds employment for about 7,000 more. 166,078 cwt. of coarse fish and 231,876 boxes of best fish were landed in 1883.

From Hull regular lines of steamers leave at stated intervals for Aarhuus, Abo, Africa, Amsterdam, Antwerp, Barcelona, Bergen, Bombay, Bordeaux, Bremen, Bremerhaven, Brussels, Cadiz, Charente, China, Christiansand, Christiania, Copenhagen, Cronstadt, Danish ports, Dantzig, Drontheim, Dunkirk, Gefle, Gothenburg, Hamburg, Harlingen, Havre, Helsingfors, India, Konigsberg, Leghorn, Libau, Lisbon, Marseilles, Odessa, Mediterranean ports, New York, U. S. Nova Scotia, Oporto, Quebec, Revel, Riga, Rotterdam, Rouen, Soderhamn, Stavanger, Stettin, Stockholm, South America, St. Petersburg, Taganrog, Trieste, Valencia, Wasa and Wyburg, also Aberdeen, Dundee, Leith, London, Gainsborough, Goole, Grimsby, New Holland, Lynn, Newcastle, Yarmouth, York, and other coast towns.

Shipbuilding is largely carried on and there are rope yards and sail lofts. The iron shipbuilding yards and Earle's Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, Limited, are very extensive.

Among the principal manufactures are flax, cotton, crushing and refining oil from linseed and rape-seed and making linseed cakes; also the manufacture of blue and black lead and oil, paint, colors and varnishes. There are also several engineering works, foundries and breweries. The Kingston Cotton Mill Company, Limited, is a large establishment.

The streets in the older part are narrow and confined, but in other parts of the town they are spacious and regularly formed. The houses are principally built of brick; the streets are well paved with stone brought from Iceland; the town is lighted by three gas companies, and well supplied with water from very fine springs, about 4 miles distant.

During the past few years considerable improvements having been made in the town, several imposing buildings have been erected and a great number of new streets constructed, and great alterations are still in progress in the widening of several of the old streets.

The Waterworks at Spring Head form an ornamental pile of red and white brick with stone dressings: the tower stands in the centre of the engine house, on its south side: the works themselves consist chiefly of a pumping shaft 14 feet in diameter, 71½ feet deep, lined with cast iron cylinders to a depth of 40 feet, with a bore at the bottom of the shaft 18 inches in diameter by 210 in depth; two condensing engines, 60 horse power each, an engine and boiler house &c.

In 1847, a pier, in the form of the letter T, was erected in front of Nelson street; in fine weather it forms a delightful promenade and is most attractive; the broad expanse of the Humber, which is here nearly 2½ miles wide, studded with the sails of arriving and departing vessels and the steam ferry boats frequently passing to and fro, form a source of enjoyment to the pent-up inhabitants of a large town.

In 1881, the reconstruction of the Pier and construction of the New River Wall was commenced. The widening of Nelson street; erection of a splendid promenade pier, from which a magnificent view of the Humber and the Lincolnshire coast can be obtained, and the reconstruction of the Vittoria jetty, were amongst the alterations. They were completed in 1883, at a cost of £20,000, borne by the Corporation.

The borough returns two members to Parliament.

The government of the town is vested in a corporation, whose first charter was granted in the reign of Edward I., in 1299, which was renewed and enlarged by subsequent charters until the reign of Henry VI., when the corporation assumed that form which it retained until the passing of the Municipal Reform Act, when the town was divided into seven wards. By the Hull Extension and Improvement Act, 1882, 44 and 45 Vict. c. cxv. which came into operation on April 1st, 1883, the municipal limits of the borough were extended. The town is now divided into 12 wards, namely, Albert ward, Alexandra ward, Beverley ward, Botanic ward, Central ward, Coltman ward, Drypool ward, Newington ward, Paragon ward, Park ward, Queen's ward and Sutton ward: the corporation now consists of a mayor, 14 aldermen and 42 common councilmen, recorder and sheriff.

The sanitary condition of the town is under the control of the corporation.

The borough has a commission of the peace and separate court of quarter sessions.

The assizes were formerly held here for the shire of Hull, but of late years the trials for capital offences, committed within the town and county of Hull, have been transferred to York and Leeds, according to the gaol deliveries.

All Saints' church, Sculcoates.—This noble building is the parish church of the great northern division of the town of Hull, generally known as SCULCOATES. The name is supposed to be as old as the times of Athelstan, who rewarded one Schül with lands in the East Riding of Yorkshire. Until 1869 St. Mary's church was the parish church; but when this new church was consecrated, in that year, the rights and revenues of the parish church were removed to All Saints', by a deed of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The church itself, which is of red brick with white stone facings, is in the Gothic style, built on a site given by the Rev. Canon Jarrett, of York: the late G. E. Street esq. R.A. was the architect: it is 150 feet in length, 60 feet in width, and the apex of the roof is 60 feet from the ground: the roof is supported by stone pillars, and over the capitals of each is carved stonework, inlaid with black, each pillar sustaining a different device: the baptistery is at the west end of the church: and looking from the east the three arches which divide the baptistery from the nave have a most striking effect: the chancel arch is very good, the open stonework between it and the red brick being very beautiful; the chancel is apsidal, and the communion table is approached by seven steps from the nave floor: a stone screen separates the chancel from the nave, above which rise the carved finials of the clergy and choir stalls; the chancel floor is laid with enamelled tiles, of different shapes and colour: there is a spacious organ chamber on the left of the chancel, supported by three small columns, of white stone, above which, resting on the brickwork, are a number of smaller white columns, making a kind of triforium: the chapel opposite forms a passage from the vestries, which are outside the apse and contain three stained windows of the Three Apostles SS. Paul, Barnabas and Silas, as a memorial to Lady Walsham, the mother, and lieut. Arthur Walsham, the brother of the late vicar: there are five stained windows over the communion table erected as memorials, and the windows of the aisles are stained, representing the Apostles and the Evangelists, and the smaller west window represents the Virgin Mother and Mary Magdalene: there is a very handsomely carved lectern, of brass; this and the brass pulpit and altar desks, and a richly embossed offertory plate, are the gift of the late J. Loft esq. alderman of the borough and ex-mayor: the communion plate, which is a massive service of silver, the north chair of carved oak, with angels upon the arms, the books bound in red morocco, with gold crosses, are the gift of the late F. Huntingdon esq. of Hull: there are several magnificent altar cloths, of red, purple, green and white: the pulpit, which stands at the north-east corner of the chancel arch, is of white stone, with open columns. The entire cost of the building was nearly £8,000; a tower was added during the year 1883 at a cost of £1,200, as a memorial to the late vicar, the Rev. Canon Walsham: the church has sittings for 1,100, of which 150 are free. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a vicarage, yearly value uncertain, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1882 by the Rev. John Watson M.A. of Queens' college, Cambridge, who is also a surrogate for the diocese, and chaplain to the Sculcoates Union, the Rev. W. Ambrose Hayes M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, and Rev. P. Saber M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, are curates.

Holy Trinity church is situated on the west side of the Market place. In the year 1285 it is stated that the "High Church, dedicated to the Holy Trinitie, was at first founded as a chapel by James Helward," the mother church, as the MS. states, being Hessle. The church is 273 feet long from east to west; it consists of a chancel with chancel aisles, nave and aisle, transept, south or vicar's porch, a small chapel, vestries and a noble tower in the centre; the style of architecture is Gothic: the eastern portions of the church are of the Decorated period; the nave, built about the year 1450, is in the Perpendicular style; it is 72 feet wide with the aisles and consists of 8 bays of 16 feet 6 inches each. The west end forms a beautiful example of Early Perpendicular Gothic architecture: the piers of the arcades are unique for their lightness, the ancient builders having wisely adapted their work to the yielding nature of the foundation; there is a fine clerestory and a low pitched roof and ceiling: on either side of the door are three tall niches with rich canopies and above it the great west window, of nine lights, occupies the entire breadth of the nave and reaches to the parapet. In the centre of the parapet of the nave is a large niche, in which is placed a very fine full-sized statue of Our Saviour. On the south side the lower part of one of the windows is occupied by the vicar's porch. There is a doorway in each end of the transept and in front of that on the south side is a small porch: the doorway in the north end of it was restored in 1828: in each end of the transept is a large six-light window, with Decorated tracery, and the gables are crowned with stone crosses: the large east window is of seven lights, having the sweep of the arch filled with quatrefoil and cinquefoil tracery: there are two five-light windows at this end of the chancel aisles and the parapet is finished with a pierced battlement. The sides of the chancel aisles contain ten four-light windows, the west window is stained: the west doorway is elaborate, and very similar in character to the west doorway of Beverley Minster: over the vicar's porch a memorial window to the late vicar, the Rev. John H. Bromby M.A. has been inserted: the transepts are 32 feet wide, and 97 feet from north to south, built about the year 1312, in the purest part of the Decorated period of Gothic architecture; the windows are beautiful examples of this style and the new ceiling under the tower is a good specimen of rich polychromatic decoration; a stained window has been inserted by Mr. Peck, churchwarden, in memory of his father and mother: the chancel and aisles are of the same width as the nave, and its aisles, consisting of five bays; this part was built about the year 1400; in the south-west bay of the chancel is the Broadley tomb, somewhat in the style of the Percy shrine at Beverley, though on a smaller scale, and showing a recumbent effigy under a groined and richly carved and crocketed canopy; the little chantry chapel is seen beyond it, containing an ancient niche and piscina and having an entrance from the south transept; the chapel and tomb were restored by the late Miss Broadley: in the next bay but one is another tomb, containing two recumbent effigies under a groined and carved canopy; a window at the back of this tomb, formerly blocked up with brickwork, has been opened out: in the north window of the transept are the Royal arms and those of the Corporations of Hull and the Trinity House, in stained glass: a line of low buildings, formerly chantry chapels, but now used as vestries, extend the whole length of the chancel: the noble tower is in two stages: on each side of the lower stage are two windows of three lights each, and in the upper stage are similar windows more highly enriched, with pedimental canopies terminating in finials above the battlements; the height of the tower is 147½ feet. Internally the aspect of this spacious church is very striking: the nave and aisle are divided on each side by pointed arches resting on lofty clustered columns, formed by a union of four cylinders: the mouldings of the arches rests on figures of angels, playing on musical instruments; the ceilings of this part of the building are flat and panelled and embellished with stars, on a blue ground; the tower is supported by four strong and uniform pillars and in it is a peal of eight bells and a large clock: the roof of the cross aisle or transept appears to be modern and has the date of 1755: there is a large brass lectern, representing the "Eagle," given by Messrs. John and George Parker, Dec. 28th, 1847, on the event of the late Rev. John H. Bromby M.A. completing his 50th year of incumbency of this church, and in 1875 a beautiful organ was erected by Messrs. Forster and Andrews, at a cost of £2,000. The work of complete restoration was conceived in 1851. A report was made by Sir Gilbert G. Scott, that the cost of the works would be £20,000, the works were begun immediately; at the present time all the works contracted for have been completed: the chancel has been fitted with stalls and seats; the floor has been laid in part with encaustic tile paving; the steps within the altar rails are of black polished Plymouth marble, and the other steps of Hopton Woodhouse stone. The entire cost of the restoration amounted to £32,750, exclusive of more than £600 paid by the late Miss Broadley for the restoration of the chantry chancel, on the east side of the south transept: during the progress of the work many interesting discoveries were made: a merchant's tomb, next to the vicar's porch, probably opening into a chapel; the entrance to a chapel on the east side of the north transept, and various fragments of ancient workmanship in the vestries and walls on the south of the chancel. The church has seats for over 2,000 persons, of which 500 are free. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £600, in the gift of trustees and held since 1875 by the Rev. Canon McCormick M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, and rural dean; and the curates are the Rev. John Rawlings B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge; Rev. Wm. Thomas Lawson B.A. Clare College, Cambridge; Rev. Daniel Keys Moore, of Trinity College, Dublin (vicar-designate of St. Philip's, Trippett).

St. Mary's church, in Lowgate, built about the year 1327, is a handsome stone building in the Perpendicular style, with lofty square tower containing 6 bells: it was perfectly restored in 1863-65, by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. at a cost of nearly £10,000; to widen the footpath in the street, the wall at the west end of the aisles was moved further back and an arch made through the tower, which still projects into the street: it has a chancel, nave, north aisle, two south aisles and a beautiful carved oak pulpit, sedilia, choir, stalls and lectern, a reredos of stone, exquisitely decorated with fresco painting in the three centre panels and the carved work throughout picked out with gilding and colours; there are fifteen beautiful stained windows; the organ is large, with three rows of keys, originally built by the famous Sultzer: the church has 1,000 sittings, all free and unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £380, with residence, in the gift of the late vicar, the Rev. Canon Scott, and held since 1884 by the Rev. James William Hay Carr, of London University; the Rev. Alfred Thomas Greenstreet M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge and the Rev. John Clarke Hanson LL.B. of St. John's College, Cambridge, are curates.

St. Andrew's church, Drypool, situated in the Holderness road, was consecrated by the Archbishop of York on the 20th of July, 1878, and by the deed of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and the consent of the archbishop the patron, and vicar, took the place of the old church of St. Peter as the parish church: it is in the Geometrical style, built of red brick, with stone dressings, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry and organ chamber, containing an organ: the nave is separated from the aisles on each side by an arcade of six bays; the floors of the chancel, nave and aisles are laid with patent tiles; the church is heated throughout by hot water: the total cost of the church, including the organ, was £6,000: it is intended to erect a tower and spire as soon as sufficient funds are obtained (£2,000): the seats, half of which are free and unappropriated, are open benches of stained pine, capable of holding 700 persons. The register dates from the year 1878. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, in the gift of the Simeon trustees, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Thomas Davis.

St. John the Baptist parish was formed, in 1879, from Newington civil parish: the church, St. George's road, Newington, built on a site given by D. P. Garbutt esq. was consecrated by the Archbishop of York on the 27th December, 1878: it is in the Gothic style of the thirteenth century, and consists of chancel and chancel aisles, nave, aisles and vestry used as organ chamber: the exterior of the church is of red brick, Ancaster and Whitby stone being used in the dressings: the windows of the aisles are small lancet windows arranged in couplets, the west window being a triplet within a large moulded brick arch carried on shafts with moulded caps, bases and bands: the east window is of four lights with Geometrical tracery, the clerestory windows are circular with cusps: internally the church is chiefly of white brick and consists of four bays of arches and piers on each side, which separate the nave from the aisles: the chancel arch is particularly lofty; a brick and stone screen, with tiles inlaid in panels, separates the chancel from the nave: the seating is of a very simple character and is of red wood stained and varnished, with sittings for 730 persons, and all free and unappropriated; the chancel and nave floors are laid with tiles in patterns: it is intended at some future time to build a tower and spire, but at present the church is surmounted by a small spire containing one bell: the entire cost of the church, exclusive of site, was £5,000. In 1883 parish rooms and Sunday schools were built at a cost of £1,000: in 1884 a parsonage house was erected at a cost of £1,700: these adjoin the church. The register dates from the year 1878. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £350, in the gift of the Archbishop of York, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Charles Robert Job M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge.

The following are ecclesiastical parishes:—

St. Barnabas parish was formed in 1874: the church, situate in Hessle road, was consecrated by the Archbishop of York on the 25th of February, 1874: it is in the Early English style, and is built of red brick with white stone facings, on a site given by H.S. Constable esq. of Wassand: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, large vestry and organ chamber, containing a large organ, built at a cost of nearly £600: the chancel forms a semi-circle: the church was originally built with but one (north) aisle, but in November, 1876, the south aisle was added, at a cost of over £1,100, and stalls were also provided, instead of chairs, at a further cost of £350: the interior of the church is 140 feet in length, 80 feet wide, and the apex of the roof is 70 feet from the ground; the total cost, exclusive of alterations, was upwards of £6,000, towards which W. Harrison-Broadley esq. M.P. (f

The temporary church of St. Augustine, Queen's road, is a wooden structure capable of holding 420 persons and built at a cost of £400: the ground on which it stands cost £1,800, and it is proposed to build a permanent church on the same site, at a cost of about £7,000, which will have a fine peal of bells: a portion of Newland parish will be assigned to the church; it is not yet decided in whose gift the living will be. The Rev. William Henry Abraham B.A. is curate in charge.

The church of St. Nicolai, situated in Osborne street, is a Danish Lutheran church, and has been erected for the benefit of the Danish and other Scandinavian residents in Hull, and of the many foreign seamen who enter this port every year: it was consecrated on Wednesday, May 10, 1871, by the Very Rev. Archdeacon Rothe, of Copenhagen, who had been commissioned to represent the Right Rev. Bishop Martens, the Primate of Denmark: this is the first church of the kind which has been duly consecrated in England: it is a Gothic building, consisting of a nave with apsidal chancel, with small vestry on the east end of the chancel and reading room; it is of red brick with Ancaster stone dressings, and the entrance is through the tower, which is surmounted by a belfry and spirelet: the nave is seated with open stalls of stained deal, and has sittings for 300 persons; the floor is paved with Minton's tiles; the roof is of open woodwork; the nave is divided into six bays, and is lighted by double lancet windows; at the end is a gallery for the organ and choir: the chancel contains an arcaded reredos in nine compartments, each bearing a Danish text in gilt letters on a scarlet ground; the chancel arch is lofty, the chancel is lighted by three stained windows, the subjects represented being the Swedish, Danish, and Norwegian arms on shields, filled in with diaper work and bordering; the pulpit stands in the angle formed by the apse of the chancel; the font, which is of stone, was presented to the church by the Danish Missionary Society for the Propagation of the Gospel amongst the Scandinavian Seamen in Foreign Parts; and the white altar cloth was given by a lady residing in Copenhagen.

The Catholic Church of St. Charles, Jarratt street, is a handsome and spacious structure in the Grecian style; the form is a parallelogram, the walls are of brick, the front is cemented, and surmounted by a stone cross; the interior has been renovated at a cost of over £1,000; the sanctuary has been re-decorated, and the high altar with the two side altars are of stone, from the designs of Mr. E. Simpson, architect, Bradford, the principal one being erected as a memorial to the late Very Rev. Dean Trappes, who was for 25 years the pastor of the church. The present priest is the Very Rev. Dean Randerson.

St. Mary's Catholic church is in Wilton street: service is at present performed in the school-room, until funds can be raised to erect a permanent church.

The German Lutheran church, Nile street, formerly a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1848, is a red brick building and consists of chancel, aisles, north south and west galleries; the church is principally intended for the foreign sailors entering the port; it will seat 500 persons. Rev. F. Pfeiffer is the pastor.

The Baptists have chapels in George street and South street.

There are Congregational chapels in Albion street, Anlaby road, Fish street, Hessle road, Hope street, Williamson street, Cogan street, and a mission chapel in Broadley street.

The New Connexion Methodists have three chapels in the town, situated in Charlotte street, Osborne street, and Beverley road, Stepney.

The Primitive Methodists have sixteen chapels in the town divided into four circuits, situated in the following localities:—West street, Spring Bank (Jubilee and Ebenezer chapels); Jarratt street, Lincoln street, Fountain road; Holderness road, Williamson street, Hedon road, Hodgson street, Stoneferry; Great Thornton street; Crown terrace, Anlaby road, Hessle road, St. George's road, Newington; Edgar street and Selby street, Newington.

The Grammar school, in South Church side, founded in 1486, by John Alcock, Bishop of Ely, was rebuilt in 1583; but owing to its rapid decay, premises have been taken in Baker street until a permanent building can be erected; the classics are taught free, but certain charges are made for the other branches.

The Hull and East Riding College, Park street, for the education of sons of gentlemen, was erected by a company, and is in the Gothic style of red brick with stone facings: there are two large halls, and separate class rooms sufficient for 300 boys; Mr. Francis Bond M.A. is the principal, and Mr. Edward Haigh M.A. vice-principal.

The Trinity House Navigation school was founded in 1786, where 150 boys are taught navigation and nautical astronomy and clothed at the cost of the Hull Trinity House.

Cogan's school, situated in Salthouse lane, was founded by Alderman Cogan, in 1753, for clothing and instructing 20 poor girls, who are allowed to remain in the school three years. Marriage portions of £6 are given to each girl who, previous to marriage, has been seven years in respectable service; the number has since been increased to about fifty.

There are National, British and Foreign, Catholic, and Wesleyan and School Board schools; and Sunday Schools are attached to most of the places of worship in the town.

The Humber Industrial Schoolship "Southampton," is moored in Hull Roads.

The Town Hall, situated in Lowgate, is a noble building in the Italian style, erected in 1862-66, from designs by Mr. Cuthbert Brodrick; the front has eight circular-headed casement windows on the ground floor, and nine similar windows on the first floor, having red Mansfield columns with carved caps between each, and a handsome carved cornice with ornamental balustrade; in the centre is a square tower containing a four-faced clock; from the tympanum above it is circular, and is supported by eight red Mansfield stone pillars, above which is an elegant stone dome, resting on eight arches: in the lofty and handsome vestibule is the principal staircase, with Caen stone balustrades and Sicilian marble handrail, leading to the council chamber, a spacious and beautiful room, the mayor's reception, robing and private rooms: on the ground floor are the offices of the corporation, town clerk, treasurer, surveyor, and record rooms; in the rear are the sessions, police, bankruptcy and county courts, and the offices of the board of health, school board committee, waterworks and watch committee: there are statues of William Wilberforce, Andrew Marvell, William de la Pole, Michael de la Pole, James Clay and Anthony Bannister.

The Custom House, in Whitefriargate (formerly the Neptune inn), is a large red brick building with stone quoins and dressings: the "long room" (formerly the ball room) measures 52 ft. by 24 ft. and in it is transacted the general business.

The Corn Exchange, in High street, erected on the site of the Old Custom House, is a stately edifice, and consists of an elaborate cut stone front, 60 feet high, with a finely carved entrance, supported by Corinthian columns, and an entablature on each side; the whole is surmounted by an attic with ornamental balustrades, the centre being occupied by the Arms of the Corporation: the great hall is very fine; its length is 157 ft. width 36 ft.

The Trinity House, in Trinity House lane, is a handsome building of brick, stuccoed, and in the Tuscan style; it is a quadrangle surrounding a spacious area or court, three sides of which contain thirty rooms for younger brothers and master mariners' widows: the front of the building has a pediment of freestone, with a large carving of the Royal Arms supported by figures of Neptune and Britannia: the west side of the building contains the hall, over which are two handsome apartments—the dining and council rooms; also a reading room and small museum, and the offices of the secretary. The chapel, in the garden, behind the house, was rebuilt in 1839-40: the style is Grecian, and the interior is elegant: the floor is paved with marble. Service is performed here for the inmates every Friday and the first Wednesday of every month, but there is no service on Sunday. The Society of the Trinity House was founded in 1457, and received a charter of incorporation under the title of the Corporation of the Holy Trinity of Kingston-on-Hull, with full powers for levying primage for the support of poor mariners, their wives and widows, and for the erecting lighthouses, placing buoys, licensing and appointing pilots, and for regulating the navigation of the river Humber.

The Hull Club in Yorkshire buildings is a handsome structure, well fitted with the usual appurtenances of clubs; the offices of the York City and County Banking Company Limited are in the same building.

Her Majesty's Prison, on the Hedon road, about 2 miles from the town, was commenced in 1865, and opened in 1869: it is on the new model principal: it is of brick, consisting of body and three annexes, admirably arranged, with residences for the governor, chaplain, and other officials, the whole occupying about 12 acres of land: the prison was handed over to the Government under the Prison's Acts, 1878, and since that time important additions have been effected.

The Royal Institution, in Albion street, is a handsome building, and includes the Hull Subscription Library, which contains about 40,000 volumes. A good local Museum is attached to the institution: it is built of cut stone, in the Corinthian style, and it covers an area of 2,200 square yards: the principal façade is 160 ft. long and 40 ft. high: it is approached by stone steps, and protected by handsome cast iron palisades: the library occupies the west end of the building; there are besides a committee room and an office for the librarian.

The Merchants' Exchange is situated at the corner of Lowgate and Bowlalley lane, on the site occupied in the fourteenth century by the Suffolk Palace and its dependencies, the residence of the De la Poles, a name imperishably connected with the town of Hull: the building, from designs of Mr. W. Botterill, is a substantial and elegant structure, three stories in height above the basement, and is of white stock bricks with elaborately carved dressings of Hare hill stone. The principal entrance is by a bold arched doorway in the circular corner, which, by a flight of stone steps, gives access to the exchange hall, 70 ft. long, 40 ft. wide and 32 ft. high, elegantly designed and decorated, with coved and vaulted ceiling, having deep moulded coffers, some of which are filled in with plate glass for light, in addition to the windows on one side of the hall. The keystone in the arch of the principal entrance doorway exhibits the head of "Neptune," as emblematic of the maritime bearing of the town. In a triple-arched window over the entrance, the keystones bear the head of "Mercury" in the centre, and of "Peace and "War" on the sides respectively, and a figure of "Britannia" surmounts the whole, rising from the parapet at the base of the roof: the Bowlalley lane entrance doorway is also chastely carved, and the tympanum in its circular arch displays the arms of the Company: the building, in addition to the Exchange, also furnishes offices for the Hull Chamber of Commerce, and Hull Guardian Society for the protection of trade.

The General Post Office is situated in the Market place, with an entrance in Scale-lane. This noble building was opened on the 4th of August, 1877, and is in the Modern Italian style of architecture, with a Yorkshire stone front; and has a most imposing appearance.

There are several banking establishments in Hull, and a branch of the Bank of England.

The offices of the Hull Banking Company Limited are situated on a commanding site at the corner of Silver street and Lowgate: the building is of Ancaster stone, three stories in height above the basement, and is a handsome and attractive architectural object of Italian type, designed by Mr. W. Botterill, of Hull; the street façades exhibit three orders of bold pilasters with richly-carved capitals, and in each storey deeply-recessed arched windows of plate glass; the whole is terminated by a massive cornice, with consoles and balustraded parapet above the eaves of the roof: the principal entrance is in the splayed angle, the doorway having an arched stone canopy supported on polished columns of grey Aberdeen granite, with carved stone capitals; the banking office and manager's room occupy nearly the whole of the ground floor, the former being a lofty apartment about 42 feet by 40 feet; its walls are relieved with pilasters: the ceiling has an elegant cornice with medallions, and is divided into compartments with ornamental circular panels, one of which is open, and covered by a domed skylight of plate glass: the floor in the public space is of Minton's ornamental tiles: the basement story extends over the whole area of the site, and is divided into fire-proof strong rooms, with Chubb and Sons' fittings; the first and second floors comprise directors' board room and a residence for the secretary, Mr. R. K. Witty.

The Theatre Royal, in Paragon street, was erected in 1872 on a part of the site of what was formerly the Queen's Theatre: it is a small stuccoed structure with Corinthian front.

The Music Hall is in Jarratt street: in the large room the decorations illustrate the three styles of the Renaissance period: the capitals are brought out in white, gold and green, and a frieze with a running pattern constitutes an effective break, from which springs the cove of the ceiling containing the circular-headed windows. The organ and the orchestra have been elaborately adorned with designs of various flowers. The floor is of pitch pine, the boards are of narrow width, and not a nail is to be seen in the floor: it will seat about 1,500 persons.

The Mechanics' Institution, George street, formerly a private residence, was purchased, and a large hall built in the rear: a stone staircase leads to the first floor, on which are the library, news-room, reading-room, and committee-room; the library consists of about 5,000 volumes; there is also a museum containing a number of curiosities. The Corporation of Hull have selected this institution for the deposit of patents of inventions, the specifications of which number about 50,000.

Hull Church Institute, Albion street, was erected in 1845; it is a fine building in the Classical style: the interior contains a library and reading, news, chess and draught rooms; the library contains 8,000 volumes.

The Young People's Christian and Literary Institute, Charlotte street, contains a good library of about 10,000 volumes—3,069 having been added during 1883: it also contains reading and news room, chess, coffee, committee and class rooms.

The Catholic Institute and Young Men's Association, formerly a private house, is a comfortable building adjoining the Presbytery, Jarratt street, and consists of a library, reading and news rooms, and chess, class and committee rooms.

Hull Lyceum Library and Reading Room, St. John's street, was founded in 1807: the present building was erected in 1835: two small but comfortable reading rooms, containing copies of the leading periodicals, are on the ground floor: the second story is formed by a gallery all round, by which means the upper book cases are reached; the library contains upwards of 17,000 volumes.

The Hull Workhouse, in Anlaby road, is in the Italian style, of red brick with stone dressings, the frontage measuring 270 feet in length: the centre of the front is surmounted by an illuminated clock; the building contains 24 courtyards, and there are beds for about 662 inmates: the whole occupies an area of 6½ acres of land, two of which are used as kitchen and ornamental gardens. The union comprises the united parishes of Holy Trinity and Saint Mary; population in 1881, 78,222.

The Sculcoates Union Workhouse, in the Beverley road, is a handsome red brick building with stone dressings in the Tudor style, erected in 1845: four additional annexes have since been added, and there are beds for 640 inmates. An extensive block of buildings, with an imposing front, and two wings, in the Tudor and Italian styles, for schools and officers' residences was completed November 20th, 1883, at a cost of £12,000, and covering about 1½ acres. The Sculcoates union comprises the following places:—Anlaby, Cottingham, Drypool, Hedon, Haltemprice, Garrison side, Hessle, Kirk Ella, Marfleet, Melton, Newington, North Ferriby, Preston, Sculcoates, Southcoates, Sutton, Swanland, Waudby, Welton, West Ella and Willerby; population in 1881, 99,868; rateable value, £437,806.

The Borough Lunatic Asylum has been removed from Argyle street, Anlaby road, to new and more suitable buildings at Tranby, near Cottingham.

In Trippett are the Corporation Baths and Washhouses, in the Tudor style, built at a cost of £12,000, and contains a swimming bath 78 feet by 25, and 56 first and second-class private baths.

The Hull General Infirmary, in Prospect street, was erected in 1782, by subscription: it is a brick building, stuccoed over: in the centre of the front is a projecting basement, forming a portico ed entrance, above which are four fluted pillars with Corinthian caps, supporting a pediment: the wings are recessed and plain. Since the erection of the main portion of this charity many important additions have been made, notably the wings completed in 1842; the new kitchens in 1859; the convalescent wards in 1868; the porter's lodge at the west entrance in 1871 and the detached fever wards in rear of the main building, commenced in 1873 and finished in 1874. The arrangement of the interior is excellent: there are bath-rooms, lavatories, operating theatres, a library with periodicals and newspapers for the use of the patients: the building is able to hold 153 patients. The average number of in-patients receiving attention during the last five years is 96. On the lawn in front stands a monument of John Alderson esq. M.D. physician to the hospital from 1792 to 1829. In the entrance hall is a statue of Dr. Jenner and busts of Dr. Fielding and James Alderson. In the board room are busts of Mr. Frederick Huntington and Mr. John Higson, who for 42 years filled the office of house surgeon and secretary respectively: here, too, hangs a splendid portrait of Sir Henry Etherington bart. presented to the institution in 1859.

The Hull and Sculcoates Dispensary, St. John street, is a brick building, erected in 1814: this institution affords relief to a great number of patients, and is supported by voluntary subscriptions.

The Hospital for Poor Sick Children, 21 Story street (formerly a private house), was purchased in 1873, and the necessary alterations made to fit it for the purposes of a hospital to hold 30 patients: it is supported by voluntary contributions.

The Almshouses are those supported by and in connection with the Trinity House, namely:—Merchant Seamen's Hospital, for poor worn-out seamen and their widows; the Charterhouse, founded in 1384 by Michael de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk, where 80 aged people of either sex receive a weekly stipend of 7s. each, besides coals (the Rev. Henry William Kemp B.A. is master and chaplain); Lister's Hospital, founded in 1641, for 12 poor persons; Gregg's, founded in 1416, for 12 women; Crowle's, founded in 1661, for 12 women; with several others of a kindred nature, are great boons to the town.

The Sailors' Home is in Salthouse lane, in the spacious premises formerly occupied by the Bank of England: this building was opened in May, 1860: a comfortable reading-room, excellent library, together with draughts and other amusing games, are at the service of the sailors.

The Sailors' Orphan Home and School, Park street, is a handsome stone building, erected in 1863, capable of containing 224 children: it is supported by voluntary contributions. The objects of the charity are destitute children of deceased seamen or fishermen. The sphere of the society's operations embraces all the ports and fishing stations upon the north-east coast, from Lynn in the south to Hartlepool in the north, also the places connected with the inland navigation of the river Humber.

The Port of Hull Society for the Religious Instruction of Seamen hold their meetings at the Sailors' Institute, Waterhouse lane. The society was established in 1821, and has for its object the religious welfare of the sailors and fishermen in the port. The institute is a comfortable and well furnished building, with spacious reading-room and chapel capable of containing 800 persons.

The Hull Seamen's and General Orphan Asylum, on the Spring Bank, covers with its grounds upwards of 2 acres; it is built in the Elizabethan style with red bricks, stone dressings and mullioned windows. The original building was designed by Mr. T. H. Wyatt, of London, and the cost, exclusive of fittings, defrayed by the late John Torr esq. M.P. of Liverpool; it was opened in 1866 by the Archbishop of York. Ten years later Lord Hotham opened a handsome dining hall and girls' wing, erected at the cost of C. H. Wilson esq. M.P. and his brother, Arthur Wilson esq. the plans having been prepared by Messrs. Smith and Brodrick on the lines of the original building. In 1881 a still further extension, built by Messrs. C. H. and A. Wilson, was opened by the Archbishop of York, providing the girls with a large and lofty day-room, and further increasing the accommodation, so that now the buildings are available for 200 children. The total cost, including land, heating and furnishing from the foundation amounts to about £22,000. The institution is designed for the orphans of seamen, connected with, or born within, the port of Kingston-upon-Hull, and its ancient limits of Bridlington, Grimsby, Gainsborough and Goole, or within seven miles of the Trinity House, Hull. Other orphans may apply for admission to the Asylum, but it is a fundamental rule that the orphans of seamen have precedence at all elections. The orphanage is conducted on the principles of the Church of England, but orphans of all religious denominations are equally eligible.

The Hull Charity Organisation Society was established in 1876 for the purpose of relieving deserving distress, the suppression of mendicity and of co-operating with the various authorities and charities of this town. The society is governed by a committee, which sits every Monday and Thursday at the office, Junction-place: the mayor is chairman.

The provident clubs in Hull are numerous:—The Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows rank first in regard to numbers, and have a commodious hall for the transaction of their business (formerly the Friends' meeting-house, in Lowgate); Mr. Henry Dixon is the secretary of the district. The Ancient Order of Foresters have sixteen lodges in Hull, and twelve of them are held at Foresters' Hall, Charlotte street, and there are also several trade benefit societies in the town.

The market days are Tuesday and Friday, and there is a market on Saturday for meat and vegetables. A fair is held yearly on the 11th and 12th of October.

Hull Botanic Gardens, situated at the foot of Spring bank, covers 49 acres, laid out in lawns and flower-beds. There are greenhouses filled with a choice collection of plants, and a lake of 3½ acres, upon which are several pleasure boats provided for the visitors.

The country around Hull is level: on the northern and western sides are many pleasing walks.

In August, 1860, the then mayor (Z. C. Pearson esq.) presented the town with about 27 acres, on the west side of the Beverley road, in the parish of Sculcoates, as a site for a public park: a full-size marble statue of Her Majesty has been presented by Mr. Pearson, and placed in the park, and a similar statue of H.R.H. the Prince Consort was erected and added in 1868; there is also a drinking fountain, which was presented by Alderman Henry J. Atkinson in 1864; a committee has been formed to lay out, plant and enclose the park. The Hull Police and Park street Orphan Home bands perform every Monday and Thursday evenings during the summer season.

Hull has taken its share in the great national events, both in the wars of the rival houses of York and Lancaster and during the wars between Charles I. and the Parliament: it has produced several illustrious men; amongst whom are the De la Poles, who, from being merchants, rose to fill some of the highest offices, both in the council and in the field. That inflexible patriot Andrew Marvell was a native of Hull, and represented it in Parliament. Wilberforce was also a native of Hull, and to perpetuate his name a handsome monument has been raised by public subscription at the north end of Prince's dock: it is a Doric column, 100 feet high, surmounted with a statue of the great philanthropist, 12 feet in height.

There is a gilt equestrian statue of King William III. in the Market place, erected by subscription in 1734.

The Municipal and Parliamentary limits are co-extensive; the population in 1881, and rateable value was as follows:—

	Pop.		Rateable value.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1881 was —St. Barnabas, 11,102; St. James, 5,322; St. John the Evangelist, 6,461; St. Jude, 5,211: St. Luke, 6,188; St. Mark, 9,797; St. Mary, Sculcoates, 4,760; St. Matthew, 7,385; St. Paul, Sculcoates, 13,478; St. Peter, Drypool, 8,247; St. Silas, Sculcoates, 4,772; St. Stephen, 12,170.

The suburb of NEW HOLLAND is in Lincolnshire, where there is the station belonging to the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway company. There is also a good pier from whence the railway company's steamboats leave several times a day for Hull. There are also locomotive engine works and shipbuilding yards belonging to the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway company, by means of which the distance by rail to London is reduced 40 miles.

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF HULL.

COTTINGHAM is a township, parish, polling place for the East Riding of Yorkshire, station on the Hull and Bridlington branch of the North Eastern railway, and large and pleasant village, in the union of Sculcoates, in the Hunsley Beacon division of the wapentake of Harthill, county court district of Hull, rural deanery of Howden, archdeaconry of the East Riding and diocese of York, 4 miles north from Hull. The parish of Cottingham contains the township of COTTINGHAM and hamlets of NEWLAND and DUNSWELL: it is governed by a Local Board of nine members; the streets are lighted with gas, and by the Hull Extension and Improvement Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. cxv. which came into operation April 1, 1883; a portion of the parish is now included within the municipal limits of Hull. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a noble cruciform structure, chiefly in the later Early English style, erected about 1272, and consists of chancel, nave, transept, aisles, south porch and a lofty embattled central tower with eight pinnacles, containing 4 bells: the chancel windows are Perpendicular insertions, and there are others of this date in the transept and tower, those of the latter arranged in couplets, occupying the whole face of the tower on every side; both chancel and aisles are battlemented, and there is a fine stone reredos: in 1845 the interior was completely renovated, at a cost of about £1,500: in the chancel is the celebrated brass, with effigy and inscription to Nicholas de Luda, a Capuchin friar, presented to this rectory by Edward the Black Prince, in 1364: the figure of the rector, vested, is under a richly crocketed canopy, surmounted by a flat super-canopy; around the whole is a marginal inscription, which has been restored, at the expense of Thomas Ringrose Voase esq. of Anlaby, and runs as follows:—

"Huius erat rector domûs hic Nicholaus humatus
Factor et erector de Ludâ queso beatus
Porro vires Christi gestans dedit ecclesiarum
Præbendas isti Beverlaci quoque Sarum
Famelicos pavit, rixantes pacificavit
Nudos armavit feneratam nam geminavit:
Sed quia labe carens sub cœlo nullus habetur
Natum Virgo parens aie pete propicietur.
Obijt iii. die mensis Junii anno uni millio ccclxxxiiij."

The south porch was restored a few years before 1860, by Thomas Ross esq. of Harland Rise: the organ was erected at a cost of £760. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £180, yearly value £300, including 4 acres of glebe and house, in the gift of the Bishop of Chester, and held since 1841 by the Rev. Charles Overton. The Bishop of Chester holds the rectory manor, formerly belonging to Haltemprise priory. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners pay £120 yearly towards the maintenance of a curate. The church of St. John, Newland, erected by subscription, assisted by a grant of £240 from the Incorporated Society in 1832, is a plain building, consisting simply of nave, with pinnacles at each corner. There are sittings for 320 persons. The register dates from the year 1863. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £292, including glebe, with a good house, in the gift of the vicar of Cottingham, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Joseph Malet Lambert B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Hull water works, at Springhead and Stoneferry, constructed in 1845, are in this parish, some springs in which are strongly impregnated with iron. The priory of Holy Cross, Newton, afterwards called "Altaprisa," or "Haltemprice," in the parish of Cottingham, was founded about 1324, by Thomas Lord Wake, for canons of the Augustinian order, and colonised from Bourne abbey, in Lincolnshire; it was dedicated in honour of the Nativity, the Annunciation and Exaltation of the Holy Cross, and continued until the dissolution of the religious houses, when its revenues were valued at £100 yearly net: the site was granted 32 Henry VIII. (1540-1) to Thomas Culpeper: the name is retained and the site now called "Priory Fields" can be identified, but not a vestige of the priory is now remaining; the Priory seal, dug up on Burn Park farm about 1350, is engraved in Tickell's History of Hull, p. 17. Cottingham Castle, the ancient seat of the Stutvilles and Wakes, stood a short distance west of the village, and although there are now no remains of the fabric, the outer and inner moats may still be traced. In the year 1200 King John was entertained here with great magnificence by William de Stutville, sheriff of Yorkshire, who afterwards obtained permission to fortify his mansion, then called "Baynard's Castle," and surrounded it with a moat: the structure came into the possession of the Wakes by the marriage of Joan, daughter and co-heiress of Nicholas de Stutville, with Hugh Wake, lord of Liddell, and it continued to be held by the Wakes from the time of Edward I. to that of Edward III. whose son, the famous Black Prince, married Joan Plantagenet, the "fair maid of Kent," daughter of Edmund of Woodstock and Margaret Wake, and widow of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent. Edward I. spent his Christmas here in 1299. In the fifteenth century the manor passed from the Hollands to the family of Barrington, and subsequently to those of Beckford and Tate. Keldgate intermitting springs are about a mile from the village; the most remarkable feature in these springs is the extreme uncertainty with which they flow: sometimes they are dry for two, three, or even seven years, and then suddenly break out and discharge for some weeks an astonishing quantity of water: the autumn of 1852 was a time of unwonted inundation, and about Christmas in that year these springs burst forth and continued to flow with unusual rapidity for about three months. Here is a Congregational chapel, first founded in 1692; the Wesleyan chapel, Northgate, was erected at the sole cost of Mr. Joseph Thompson; there is also a Primitive Methodist chapel, one at Newland for Wesleyans, and at Dunswell one for Methodist New Connexion. Here are a number of market gardens, which supply the Leeds, Hull and other markets. Cottingham grange is the seat of Charles John Ringrose esq. The principal landowners are Colonel Benjamin Blaydes Haworth-Booth, who is lord of the manors of Cottingham, Richmond, Westmoreland and Powis, Charles John Ringrose and Jeffry Wyatville Ringrose esqs. From its proximity to Hull and the easy communication thereto by railway, this place is the residence of many of the merchants and professional men of Hull, and a large number of good houses have been erected and are still in course of construction. The soil is light loam and clay; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are grass and market garden produce, wheat, barley and oats. The parish of Cottingham contains 9,295 acres; now, since St. John's wood and part of Newland have been taken into Hull Borough, 8,165 acres; rateable value, £33,439; and a population in 1861 of 3,131; in 1871 of 4,232; and in 1881 of 6,312, of which 2,720 is within the municipal borough of Hull.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Jameson.

HEDON is an ancient town, municipal borough, parish, polling place for the East Riding of Yorkshire, head of a county court district and station on the Hull and Withernsea branch of the North Eastern railway, 5¼ miles east from Hull and 10 north-west from Patrington, in the middle division of the wapentake of Holderness, union of Sculcoates, rural deanery of Hedon, East Riding archdeaconary and York diocese. The town consists of a market place, a spacious cattle market and several streets, all paved and lighted with gas. The town was incorporated by James I; the Corporation, as remodelled by act of Parliament in 1860, consists of a mayor, three aldermen, nine councillors and an indefinite number of burgesses. The mayor and ex-mayor act as borough magistrates. The Corporation possess some ancient plate, and act as the Urban Sanitary Authority; the municipal income is derived from fee farm rents and tolls. The borough sent two members to Parliament from the 23rd of Edward I. till 1832, when it was disfranchised by the Reform Act. The town was formerly a port, and is said to have had four churches, St. Nicholas, St. James, St. Mary Magdalen and St. Augustine; the last is the only one remaining, and is that which was always the mother church of the parish. There is a navigable haven connected with the Humber, at the south end of the town, improved under a local Act of Parliament in 1776, by which means a considerable amount of traffic is carried on in coals, lime and corn shipped for the West Riding. The police administration is in the hands of the County force. The church of St. Augustine is a magnificent building in the Early English, Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of a chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, transepts and an embattled central tower 129 feet in height to the top of the pinnacles, and containing 6 good bells, a clock and chimes: the choir and transepts are Early English, the nave Decorated and the tower Perpendicular; the chancel retains sedilia, and the vestry has some remains of a chapel formerly existing on the south side; the choir and transepts have a triforium, once continued round the east end; the font, of granite, is Decorated work; in the south aisle is a mutilated effigy, a slab bearing a floriated cross and a stone coffin; on the south side of the nave is a stained window, presented in 1877, by the late William Watson, in memory of his wife; a stained memorial window to the late William Watson esq. who died January, 1879, has also been placed by his son, James Watson esq.: the brass lectern was given by William Rawson esq. of Hull: the east window is only partially filled with stained glass. There are sittings for 400 persons. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from the year 1552; burials, 1549. The living is a vicarage, tithe rentcharge £40, gross yearly value £190 with residence, in the gift of the Archbishop of York, and held since 1884 by the Rev. John Horsfall Richardson M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There is a Catholic chapel, a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1801, and a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1818, and rebuilt in 1875. The Gas Works, erected in 1856, and belonging to a private company, are situated near the railway station. There is an extensive brick and tile manufactory, carried on by Mr. George Handley; also a brewery, a rope walk and a corn mill. The cattle market is held on every alternate Monday. The four annual fairs are held August 2nd, September 22nd, November 17th and December 6th. In the town are three dwelling-houses or hospitals for six poor widows, and eight houses belonging to the Corporation, occupied by poor burgesses. A sum of £3 is yearly paid to the vicar by the trustees of the late Mrs. Watson, of Stoneferry, due on the 3rd day of August; £1 of this money is appropriated towards the education of some poor child in the parish ; £1 6s. for bread to be distributed every Sunday to the poor of the parish, and the remainder to the vicar, for preaching a sermon on the 3rd day of August in St. Augustine's church : a sum of £2 12s. called "Cockerill's Charity," is distributed in bread every Sunday. The Town Hall, situated in St. Augustine's gate, was erected by Henry Guy esq. for many years one of the representatives of this borough in Parliament; it contains two full-length portraits—one of Henry Guy esq. and the other of William Pulteney esq. who was afterwards created Baron Hedon, and in 1741 Earl of Bath ; there is also a portrait of the late James Iveson esq. town clerk, presented to the corporation by the late John Collins esq. of Danthorpe Hall. The Holderness Agricultural Society, established in 1796, hold their meetings in the town half-yearly and have cattle shows twice a year, in March and in September. In the garden of Holyrood house stands the tall shaft of an ancient cross, removed in 1818, by the late Francis Constable esq. from Kilnsea to Burton Constable, and afterwards given to the late James Iveson esq. for the purpose of being placed on its present site ; it is said that this cross was originally erected at Ravensburne, to commemorate the landing at that place of the Duke of Lancaster, afterwards Henry IV. and on it are sculptured emblems of Our Saviour and the Blessed Virgin. The Mayor and Corporation claim to be lords of the manor. The principal landowners are the Corporation, Christopher Sykes esq. M.P., M.A., D.L., J.P. of Brantingham Park, and W. H. Harrison-Broadley esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Welton, Brough. The acreage of the parish is 312 ; rateable value, £3,300 ; and the population in 1871 was 995 ; 1881, 966.

Parish Clerk, Frederick John Batty.

KIRK ELLA is a township, parish and village 5 miles west from Hull and north from Hessle station, on the Hull and Selby railway, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, Hunsley Beacon division of Harthill wapentake, Sculcoates union, county court district of Hull, rural deanery of Howden, archdeaconry of the East Riding and diocese of York. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with chapel, nave, aisles, vestry and a tower containing a clock and 6 bells: in the chancel is a handsome marble tablet, by Chantrey, to the memory of Joseph Sykes esq. a late mayor of Kingston-upon-Hull; there is also a bust by Bacon, of Daniel Sykes esq. a late M.P. for Hull; the east and west windows, with others, are stained: leading from the chancel to the vestry is a small private chapel, belonging to the Sykes family: the tower has been lately (1884) restored by subscriptions and furnished with a new peal of 6 bells, the gift of Arthur Egginton esq. J.P. of South Ella. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £14, gross yearly value £600, including 133 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. Richard Henry Foord M.A. rector of Fox Holes, and held since 1878 by the Rev. James Foord M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford. Edmund Howard Sykes esq. J.P. of Edgeley, Stockport, is lord of the manor and the principal landowner; the other landowners are John Smyth Egginton esq. D.L., J.P. of Kirk Ella and Arthur Egginton esq. of South Ella. The soil is clayey; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The population of the township in 1881 was 342; and the area 980 acres; rateable value, £3,780. The area of the entire parish is 4,390 acres; and the population in 1881 was 1,547.

Parish Clerk, Robert Addison.

West Ella is a township ½ mile south-west of Kirk Ella. Charles Percy Sykes esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The area is 570 acres; rateable value, £1,221; the population in 1881 was 123, of which 90 are in North Ferriby parish.

WOLFRETON is a hamlet.

Anlaby is a township in the parishes of Hessle and Kirk Ella. The church of St. Peter is a chapel of ease to Kirk Ella, and the stained east and west windows were the gifts of John Leaper esq. and Thomas Voase esq.: the church is now (1884) being rebuilt, and will when finished consist of chancel and nave with aisles. There is a Wesleyan chapel and one in connection with the Primitive Methodists. Charles Percy Sykes esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The area is 2,020 acres; rateable value, £3,933; and the population in 1881 was 629, of which 206 are in Hessle parish.

Willerby is a township partly in Kirk Ella and partly in Cottingham parish. The principal landowners are Sir Charles Legard bart. J.P. of Ganton Hall, York, and Arthur Wilson esq. J.P. of Tranby Croft, Hull. The area is 820 acres; rateable value, £2,762; the population in 1881 was 328, of which 84 are in Cottingham.

MARFLEET is a township included in the municipal borough of Hull, by the Hull Extension and Improvement Act, 1882, 45 and 46 Vic. cap. cxv. parish and station on the Hull and Withernsea railway, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, middle division of Holderness wapentake, Sculcoates union, Hull county court district, rural deanery of Kingston-upon-Hull, East Riding archdeaconry and York diocese, 2¼ miles east from Hull. The church of St. Martin, a plain building of red brick, rebuilt in 1793, has been again rebuilt on the same site, Mrs. Fletcher, widow of the late vicar of Bilsdall, left £1,100 towards its re-erection, and the Master and Fellows of St. John's College, Cambridge, have given £300. There are sittings for 150 persons. The register dates from the year 1713. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £55 including 23 acres of glebe, in the gift of Herbert Robinson esq. and held since 1864 by the Rev. Edward Birt Kaye B.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, who resides at Hull road, Hedon. The Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1872, stands to the right of Hedon high road. Here is a coastguard station. Sir Frederick Augustus Talbot Clifford-Constable bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are St. John's College, Cambridge, Hull Trinity House and William Henry Harrison-Broadley esq. M.P. The soil is clay; subsoil, same nature. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans, and there is some very good grazing land. The area is 1,138 acres; rateable value, £3,120; and the population in 1881 was 183.

PAULL, or PAGHILL (anciently Pagula), is a township, parish and village, on the river Humber; the parish includes the townships of PAULL and THORNGUMBALD. Paull is 2½ miles south from Hedon railway station and 5 east-south-east from Hull, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, south division of the wapentake of Holderness, Patrington union, county court district of Hedon, Hedon rural deanery, East Riding archdeaconry and diocese of York. The church of SS. Mary and Andrew, standing on an eminence about a quarter of a mile from the village, is an ancient cruciform building of cobbles and hewn stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, aisles and an embattled tower of three stages containing 1 bell: the restoration of this fine old church was carried ont in 1878-9, at a cost of about £2,000; in the course of which it was entirely re-roofed: the church was re-opened Aug. 7th, 1879, by Dr. Thomson, the present Archbishop of York: a memorial window, given by the late Miss Escreet, in memory of the Rev. James Samuel Jones, a former vicar, and his wife Sarah, was placed in the church in May, 1884. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1657; marriages, 1658. The living is a discharged vicarage with Thorgumbald chapelry, tithe rent-charge £98, gross yearly value £235, including 68 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Effingham, and held since 1866 by the Rev. Richard Dymoke Cawdron Cordeaux B.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. The vicarage house stands between the village and the church, on an elevation, and commands a fine view of the river Humber. There are chapels for Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists. In 1825, Thomas Locke esq. left the interest of £50 for the poor of this parish. Paull is a fishing place and is celebrated for its shrimps. Charles I. visited this place in July, 1642, for the purposes of reviewing his forces. Near the river is an old dismantled fort or battery, partially destroyed by the Parliamentary ships in the Humber, in 1642: the battery was rebuilt on a very extensive scale in 1857, and is armed with 19 guns. Twenty men are now (1884) stationed here, under the command of Lieutenant Aldridge R.A. The Hull Artillery Volunteers have the use of the battery during the summer for practice, and camp in the field adjacent. A lighthouse, 40 feet high, was erected here in 1836, by the Corporation of the Trinity House, Hull, but is now disused. Four smaller ones (consisting of two high and two low lights) have, however, been since erected. High Paull House is used as a club house and summer resort by the Col.-Commandant and Officers of the Second East Yorks Artillery Volunteers; it is situated on an eminence and commands a fine view of the Humber. Paull Holme, now a farm house, was anciently in the possession of the family of Holme: an old brick tower, which forms the north wing of the ancient mansion and dates probably from the reign of Henry VII. is still standing; the present farm house was built from the materials of the old hall, in 1837. Sir Frederick Augustus Talbot Clifford-Constable bart. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, Col. George Prickett J.P. and the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy, Capt. Bryan Holme-Holme, the trustees of James Wray and Sir James Robert Walker bart. D.L., J.P. of Sand Hutton, are the chief landowners. The soil in the neighbourhood of the church and ridge and adjacent to the battery is gravelly, but in the lower parts it is warp and clay; the subsoil, strong clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, oats, seeds and barley and there are rich grazing pastures in the parish. The population of the township in 1871 was 496; and the acreage is 4,767; rateable value, £7,552.

PRESTON is an extensive township, parish and large and well-built village, 1 mile north from Hedon and 6 miles east-by-north from Hull. The parish includes the townships of Preston and Lelley, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, middle division of the wapentake of Holderness, union of Sculcoates, county court district of Hedon, rural deanery of Hedon, East Riding archdeaconry and diocese of York, and is situated on the Hedon and Hull road. The church of All Saints is an ancient edifice, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with north aisle, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and a massive western tower, of Perpendicular date, containing 3 bells: the chancel was entirely rebuilt in 1870; and in 1882 the whole church was thoroughly restored, at a cost of £1,800; during the alterations portions of ten beautiful slabs of alabaster, supposed to have formed an eastern sepulchre, were discovered, and are now placed in the chancel: in 1347 a chantry was founded and endowed in this church, for a priest to pray at the altar of St. Mary the Virgin, for the soul of Robert de Pickering. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £100, net yearly value £265, including 16 acres of glebe and other 16 acres in hand, with residence, in the gift of the Archbishop of York, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Edwin Evers M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. There are chapels for Wesleyan and Primitive Methodists. The United Ancient Order of Druids have a hall here, which is used for public entertainments. James Rand left £160 and four tenements for the poor; the interest of the money to keep the houses in repair and the overplus to go to the poor: the money was invested in 35 acres of land, which now let for £92 yearly. John Marshall left £5 5s. per year for bread to be distributed amongst the poor. Sir Frederick Augustus Talbot Clifford-Constable bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor; the principal landowners are William Shillito, Thomas Smith, Thomas M. Lee, George Dickinson and John Walker, St. John's College, Cambridge, Hull Trinity House and Kingston-upon-Hull Dock Co. The soil is warp, clay, marl and gravel; the subsoil is clay. The crops are wheat, beans, oats, seeds, barley and a few turnips. The population of the township in 1881 was 881; and the acreage 5,012; rateable value, £12,030.

Lelley is a township and small village, 2 miles north-by-east from the parish church and 3 north-north-east from Hedon. The township has always been attached to the seigniory, though the present lord paramount of Holderness and lord of the manor has only about 1 acre over which he has manorial rights. There is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1859. Sir F. A. Talbot Clifford-Constable bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Wilson Todd and Joseph Thompson. The acreage is 800; rateable value, £1,369; the population in 1881 was 135.

STONEFERRY is now included in the Borough of Hull.

SUTTON (near Hull) is a township, parish and suburb of Hull, mostly in the municipal and parliamentary borough of Hull, East Riding of Yorkshire, middle division of Holderness wapentake, Sculcoates union, Hull county court district, rural deanery of Hull, archdeaconry of the East Riding and diocese of York. The church of St. James, formerly collegiate, is an ancient structure, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, porch, vestry and a tower, containing 3 bells; the chancel and nave are Decorated, the tower and aisles Perpendicular: there are several stained windows, that at the east end being the gift of Mrs. Liddell, in 1873, in memory of her husband, George William Moore Liddell esq. of Sutton House; there are others to Edward and Mrs. Spence, of Tilworth Grange, in this parish; Thomas and Ann Catherine Kirk, presented by their children; C. C. Brochner esq. presented by his children, and one to Mrs. Bessy Wells, erected in 1865: the stone pulpit is a very fine work: in the chancel stands the very fine tomb, with effigy, of Sir John de Sutton, who died 12 Edwd. III. (1338-9): there is also a font of the twelfth century and several coats of arms belonging to the Percys. The church was restored in 1867-8, and re-seated with open benches, to hold 400 persons. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £120, including 40 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of W. H. Harrison-Broadley esq. M.P. and held since 1878 by the Rev. Herbert Alfred Holme M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. A Public Reading Room was opened in 1882; it was erected at a cost of £400, raised by subscription, and is supported by members' contributions; William Richardson is secretary. Lambwath House is the seat of H. F. Smith esq.; Tilworth Grange is the seat of H. J. Whittle esq.; East Mount, of Mrs. Priestman; Sutton Grange, of John Raspin Ringrose esq.; and Sutton House, of Mrs. Liddell. Here is a college for clergymen's widows and daughters, founded by Mrs. Ann Watson, in 1720; and also a hospital for widows, established by Mr. Chamberlain, in 1804. Sir Frederick Augustus Talbot Clifford-Constable bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Hull Corporation, William H. Harrison-Broadley esq. M.P. the trustees of the late G. W. M. Liddell esq. and Mrs. Priestman. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, red sand. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The area is 4,759 acres; gross estimated rental in the borough, £46,395; without, £13,171; total, £59,566; rateable value in the borough, £36,179; without, £11,472; total, £47,651: the population in 1861 was 8,348, and in 1871, 8,928, and in 1881, 11,551, including STONE FERRY, a place in this township.
