HAINTON is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Wraggoe petty sessional division, Louth union, county court district of Market Rasen, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 1½ miles north-west from South Willingham station, 5 miles north-east from Wragby, 7 south-east from Market Rasen and 10 West from Louth, situated on the road from Wragby to Louth. The church of St. Mary is a handsome stone structure of the Norman, Early English and Decorated periods, consisting of chancel, with chantry chapel, nave, aisles, south porch and tower surmounted by a lofty spire, and containing 3 bells and a clock: the church contains several memorials to the Heneage family: the first in order of date is a floor slab with effigies in brass of John Heneage, 1435, in a civilian's dress, and Alice, his wife, in a long-sleeved gown and horned head-dress: a smaller brass is inscribed to John Heneage, 1530, and Katherine, his wife: in front of the north wall of the chancel is a small altar tomb of Purbeck marble, with a reredos of the same material, and effigies, kneeling before a desk, of Sir Thomas Heneage kt. 1553, Katherine (Skipwith), his wife, his daughter Elizabeth and her husband, Lord Willoughby of Parham: the former bears a tabard of his arms: against the west wall is the tomb of John Heneage, 1559, and Anne (Cope), his wife, with effigies of both, the former being in complete armour, under a double arcaded canopy, supported by fluted columns: the tomb is of stone, partially painted, and above it are funeral helms and spurs: next is a grand altar tomb of alabaster, with effigy to Sir George Heneage kt. 1594; the figure, reclining on a mat, with the head on a cushion, is in full armour, richly gilt, and at the feet a sejant greyhound: on the south side of the chapel is a finely sculptured monument, with many symbolical figures and inscriptions to William Heneage, 1610 æ. 91, and Anne (Fishbourne), 1585: and Jane (Brussels), 1596, his wives: there are kneeling effigies of himself and his first wife, and below figures of children: there is also a mural monument to Sir George Heneage, 1659, with symbolical carvings, erected in 1692, and another to George Heneage, and Mary (Petre) and Elizabeth (Hemloke), his wives: a small slab of the fifteenth century commemorates William Maltby. The register dates from the year 1674. The living is a vicarage, with Sixhills united, joint gross yearly value £298 including 33 acres of glebe, in the gift of Edward Heneage esq. M.P., J.P. and held since 1883 by the Rev. Arthur Trosse Fortescue, St. Alban hall, Oxford, who resides at Sixhills. A Catholic church, dedicated to St. Francis of Sales, was erected here in 1836 by the late G. H. Heneage esq. in memory of his wife. Hainton Hall, the seat of Edward Heneage esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. lord of the manor and sole landowner, is a large and handsome mansion, standing in a well-wooded park of 145 acres, and has been the seat of the family since the reign of Henry III. The soil is strong clay and sand; subsoil, clay; on the Wolds, chalk and limestone. The crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,306 acres; rateable value, £3,224; the population in 1881 was 304.

GREAT and LITTLE HALE are townships, forming the parish of Hale Magna, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Aswardhurn, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Aswardhurn-with-Lafford No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. Great Hale is 5½ miles east-south-east from Sleaford and half a mile south from Heckington station on the Boston and Sleaford line. The church of St. John the Baptist is a building of rubble of the Early Norman, Early and Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells: the tower dates from a period anterior to the Conquest, but has no features of genuine Saxon character; the octagonal font belongs to the Perpendicular period and has been engraved in "Simpson's Fonts:" at the eastern end of the south aisle is a piscina, on the opposite wall an aumbry: in the north aisle are a floor tablet, brass and monument to Robert Cawdron, 1665, also brass to his son Francis Cawdron, 1650, and a brass to Anne Cawdron, wife of Robert, recording the fact that she bore to her husband ten sons and six daughters; date of this brass 1625. The register dates from about the year 1690. The living is a discharged vicarage, rated in the King's Books at £8 6s. yearly value £600 gross with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Ernest Julius Turckheim. The poor's allotments in Great Hale, of 19 acres, let at £34 yearly, and in Little Hale, of 20 acres, let at £30; both sums are distributed in fuel. The Marquess of Bristol, who is lord of the manor, J. Farrant esq. and Hussey Packe esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners in Great Hale. The population of the township of Great Hale in 1881 was 708, and the entire parish 1,070; the area is 5,110 acres, including Little Hale; rateable value, £10,820.

Little Hale township is one mile south of Great Hale. The Marquess of Bristol, who is lord of the manor, Hussey Packe esq. D.L., J.P. Rev. John Cheilds, George Hides esq. Mrs. Dickens, G. Sills, Felix Tomlinson, Charles Sharpe and J. S. Godfrey esqrs. are the principal landowners. The soil is in some parts light loam, and in others clay; subsoil, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, seeds and turnips. The acreage is included with Great Hale. The population in 1881 was 362.

BROADHURST is one mile and a half south-east.

HALTHAM-UPON-BAIN is a parish in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, soke, petty sessional division, county court district, and union of Horncastle, rural deanery of Gartree, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles south from Horncastle. The church of St. Benedict is a very old stone building, in the Early Norman, Early English, and Later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch and low wooden belfry on the western gable containing 1 bell: the south doorway is Early Norman, the next earliest feature being the Early English arcade; the chancel is Decorated throughout, the east window being a remarkably fine specimen of the style, with elaborate tracery in the head: in the jamb of one of the windows is a curious recess, with a little pillar at the angle, serving as a canopy to a piscina within; there are also three sedilia, an aumbry, and four brackets; in the churchyard stands the base of an ancient cross. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a discharged rectory, united with that of Roughton, joint yearly value £650, in the gift of F. S. Dymoke esq. and held since 1867 by the Rev. Henry Spurrier B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. F. S. Dymoke esq. the Hon. the Queen's Champion, who is lord of the manor, Sir Henry James Hawley bart. and W. H. Trafford esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is sand and clay; subsoil, same. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 2,380 acres; rateable value, £1,198; the population in 1881 was 179. By the Act 44 Vic. c. xvii. a detached portion of the Fen Allotment was transferred to the new parish of Wildmoor.

HALTON HOLEGATE is a parish and village, with station on the Spilsby branch of the Great Northern Railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Bolingbroke soke (East division), Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Candleshoe No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles north-west from Firsby junction, 125 from London, and one mile and a half east-south-east from Spilsby railway. The church of St. Andrew is a fine structure of the Perpendicular period, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, porch, and a large tower containing 6 musical bells: the east window and various others in the church are stained: the ancient font is panelled, and exhibits: shields bearing the arms of Wells, and various devices; in the chancel lies the figure of a knight, in armour, found buried under the floor, but still in excellent preservation, the head rests on cushions, and the feet on a lion; the shield suspended over the left shoulder, displays a lion rampant, and the sword hangs from a belt: this effigy is supposed to represent Sir Henry de Holton, a member of a family holding possessions here in the fourteenth century. There is also a coffin-shaped slab of Purbeck marble, with this legend in Lombardic capitals around the edge, "Sire Walter Bec Gist Ici De Ki Alme Diev Ait Merci": another sepulchral slab, apparently once bore the effigy of a civilian beneath a canopy, with a marginal inscription: during the restoration several coffins were discovered under these slabs, in one of which, made of lead, were the remains of a female, whose golden coloured hair was perfectly preserved. There is a small inscribed brass to Bridget (Thorey), wife of John Rugeley, 1658: one of the bench ends has a singular carving of seven monkeys, and another has on a lozenge the quartered arms of Bec and Ufford: the church was, in the year 1846, completely repaired, at a cost of £1,960, of which sum the late Rev. T. H. Rawnsley and family expended upwards of £1,500; the remainder was raised by subscriptions, aided by a parish rate, the late Lord Willoughby de Eresby, S. Vessey esq. A. Booth esq. and others, contributing: in 1866-7, the tower of the church, which was considered dangerous, was partially taken down and restored, as well as heightened, and strengthened by new and enlarged buttresses, under the direction of the late Mr. J. E. Street R.A. and Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, and a tower clock, striking the quarters, erected at a total cost of £1,144. The register dates from the year 1591. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £290, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Thomas Walker Sale M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The charities amount to about £5 13s. 11d. which sum, by a vote of the vestry, is appropriated towards the maintenance of the National school. Robert Holgate, Archbishop of York, 1544, and afterwards deprived, was probably born here. John Henry Vessey J.P. is lord of the manor and chief landowner, and resides at the Manor house. The soil is partly sand, and the subsoil clay. The crops are on the four-course system. The area is 2005 acres; rateable, £3,329; the population in 1881 was 499.

FENSIDE is a hamlet near the Catchwater drain, one mile and a half south from the church.

destruction of the earlier church by fire in 1682, consists of chancel, nave, tower with 3 bells and vestry added in 1837: it was partially restored in 1837, and more fully in 1876-7, when the chancel was rebuilt at a cost of £576, and the nave at a further expenditure of £496, the chancel being reopened, both chancel and nave being reseated and the windows glazed afresh: in the chancel four carved bench ends of oak, a communion table cloth and other embroidery, were executed and presented by Mrs. Murray, wife of the rector: a stained memorial window has been inserted on the south side by Mary Sharp, of West Halton, in remembrance of her father, and another window was restored by Mr. James Green, of Coleby, churchwarden: the font, a new work, is of Caen stone, and a new pulpit has been erected at the cost of the rector. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £750, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Norwich, and held since 1874 by the Rev. James Murray M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Primitive Methodists have a chapel here, which was built in 1877. Steamers from Goole and Gainsborough run daily on the Humber to and from Hull, calling at Whitton Pier, two miles north of West Halton. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Sir Robert Sheffield bart. D.L., J.P. the rector and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The soil is good loam; subsoil, partly clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, potatoes and oats. The population of the township in 1881 was 266, and of the entire parish 362; the area is 4,870 acres; rateable value, £3,774 15s.

HANNAH-cum-HAGNABY.

HANNAH (or HANNAY) is a small parish in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of the hundred of Calceworth, Calceworth petty sessional division, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles from the coast, 4½ north-east from Alford station, and 15 south-east from Louth. The church of St. Andrew, conspicuously placed on a rising ground, is a small building of brick, consisting of nave only and a wooden belfry containing 1 bell: the church is about to be pulled down and replaced by another. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with the vicarage of Markby, joint net yearly value, from 119 acres of glebe £280, in the gift of the Rev. E. H. Edman M.A. rector of Thornton-le-Moor, Caistor, and Charles Langton Massingberd esq. J.P. of Gunby Park, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Arthur Smyth M.A., LL.B. of Trinity College, Dublin, who resides at Markby. The charities amount to £1 15s. yearly, arising from interest on £22, given by R. Bowis and an unknown donor, and are distributed in bread among the poor. The devisees of the late Thomas Alcock are ladies of the manor. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late Adderley Howard esq. of Long Sutton. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The area is 940 acres; rateable value, £1,250; the population in 1881 was 117.

HAGNABY is a hamlet in the parish, about one mile west from the church. There was here a Præmonstratensian abbey founded by Herbert de Orreby in 1175 and dedicated to St. Thomas the Martyr: at the Dissolution it had nine canons and its yearly income was valued at £287; the site was granted to John Freeman of London: there are still traces of the moats that surrounded the buildings, portions of the foundations of which have been met with.

HARLAXTON is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Spittlegate petty sessional division, Grantham soke union and county court district, rural deanery of South Grantham, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles south-west from Grantham, on the Melton Mowbray road, and 108½ from London; half-a-mile north of the village is a wharf on the Grantham canal, which runs through this parish. The church of St. Mary and St. Peter is an ancient building, in the Transitional, Early English, and later styles, consisting of chancel with aisle chapels, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch, and an embattled tower, with crocketed stone spire and pinnacles, and containing 5 bells: the lower portion of the tower is Decorated, but the upper part, including the spire, is Perpendicular; the rest of the exterior is also of this date, some portion of it being quite late: the north aisle arcade is chiefly Transitional, the south Early English: the north chancel chapel is believed to have been founded and dedicated to the Holy Trinity by Thomas Mason, ob. 1323; and the chapel on the opposite side by William Strood, ob. 1533; in the north chapel is a canopied monument, with a richly cusped and crocketed arch, surmounted by an embattled cornice, beneath which are two recumbent alabaster figures of a civilian and his wife, of the early fifteenth century: there are also several memorials to the De Ligne family, including, in the north chapel, an altar tomb of black marble to Sir Daniel De Ligne, 1686, and Lady Elizabeth, his wife, 1682; above this is a mural monument, of Classical design, to Daniel De Ligne, 1730; Anna Maria, his daughter, 1729; Cadwallader Glynne, his nephew, 1730; and Dorothy (Burrell), wife of the latter, who erected the monument in 1742, and died in 1747: near it is a modern mural tablet to the Gregory family, successors of the De Lignes and Glynnes: at the east end of the south chancel chapel is a sepulchre of Perpendicular work, and near it a piscina with shelf and canopy of the same period: the stained east window was erected to John Sherwin Gregory, who died in 1869: another window in the south aisle is a memorial to Gregory Gregory, 1860, erected by his tenantry: the octagonal font is Decorated, and is adorned with symbolical carvings. The register dates from the year 1558, and includes that of Wyville with Hungerton up to the year 1813. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £586 with residence, in the gift of Queen's College, Oxford, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Edward Garfit M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, Prebendary of Lincoln. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. In 1632 John Usher, of the Isle of Ely, and in 1701 Edward De Ligne, gent. of Harlaxton, gave each £10, the interest to be distributed to the poor annually. Glynne's charity of £5 yearly, left in 1730 by Cadwallader Glynne, of the Manor house, Harlaxton, is distributed amongst them in money. In 1742 Cassandra Beanmont gave £10, the yearly interest to be laid out in books. A close near to the Gregory Arms was left by an unknown donor to pay for the ringing of the church bell morning and evening for ever. In 1740, an urn, containing burnt bones and Roman coins, was found here. Here are stone quarries. Harlaxton Manor, the seat of Mrs. Sherwin Gregory, situated on a wooded eminence half-a-mile north-east of the ancient manor house, is a noble and elegant mansion, in the Jacobean style, erected in 1843-45, from a design by Salvin: the old Manor house of Harlaxton, was of great antiquity, but with the exception of a few remains still existing, it was demolished by Gregory Gregory esq. in 1857; the manor passed from the De Lignes to the late George de Ligne Gregory esq. by marriage with Ann Orton, heiress of the De Lignes. Mrs. Sherwin Gregory is lady of the manor and owns all the land except a small portion of land belonging to the Wyggeston hospital, near Leicester. The soil is various; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,530 acres: rateable value, £4,033; the population in 1881 was 383.

HARMSTON is a village and parish, 6 miles south from Lincoln, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, higher division of the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, union and county court district of Lincoln, rural deanery of Longoboby and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. The Great Northern line from Lincoln to Grantham has a station about half a mile from the village, which stands on an eminence near the confluence of the Brant and the Witham, in the western valley, over which it commands an extensive view. The church of All Saints is a stone building in the Norman and Early English styles, and consists of chancel with vestry and organ chamber, nave of three bays with clerestory, north and south aisles, south porch and western tower of Norman date containing 8 bells: in 1868 the church was partly rebuilt and remodelled, a vestry and organ-chamber added and the interior wholly refitted, at a cost of upwards of £1,300, the work being carried out under the direction of Mr. Withers, architect: it contains several monuments to the Thorold family. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £150, with residence, including 60 acres of glebe, in the gift of Mrs. Irving, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Edward Kefford Lutt M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. The Wesleyans and the Reformed Methodists have chapels here. The charities consist of a copyhold estate at Waddington, purchased upwards of 150 years ago by benefactions left to the poor of Harmston for ever, by Bryan and William Middlebrooke esqrs. Thomas Thorold esq. alderman of the city of London, and Sir Christopher Nevile kt. of Aubourn Hall, which now produces an income of £30 yearly, and this amount is distributed half-yearly in money by the trustees of the charity in conjunction with the vicar and churchwardens. Harmston Hall, the property of Mrs. Irving, is a large stone mansion, situated near the village, and commanding extensive views to the north and west, and is now unoccupied. Mrs. Irving is lady of the manor and lay impropriator. The landowners are John Bastin and J. W. Danby esqrs. Mrs. Irving, Rev. E. K. Lutt, H. Nevile esq. and Sir C. R. Tempest bart. D.L. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, limestone or sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, clover and turnips. The area is 2,529 acres; rateable value, £4,397; the population in 1881 was 345.

1370-80, and the porch is of the same date; the chancel is Early English: beneath the arch is the recumbent stone effigy of a man in gown and hood worn over a tunic or cassock, on the head is a skull cap and at the feet a large grotesque head; below is an inscription to William de Harrington, rector here circ. 1346: in the north wall of the chancel, affixed to a black marble slab, are effigies in brass, both in a kneeling posture, of a knight in armour and a lady, representing, it has been suggested, John Whichcote and Margaret (Tyrwhit) his wife circ. 1480: there is also a memorial to Marmaduke Tyrwhit esq. 1599 and Ellen (Revesby) his wife: the old altar stone was about 1866 converted into a memorial of W. Carrington, rector, ob. 1697, and his descendants. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a donative, net yearly value £100, in the gift of Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. and held since 1880 by the Rev. Timothy Gascoigne Lynde, of Durham University, who is also vicar of and resides at Hemswell. Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. D.L. of Aswarby Hall, Folkingham, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and pasturage. The area is 2,180 acres; rateable value, £2,128; the population in 1881 was 125.

HARRINGTON is a small village and parish, pleasantly situated, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred of Hill, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Spilsby, rural deanery of Hill No. 2, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-west from Spilsby, 7 west from Willoughby station and 8 east-north-east from Horncastle. The church of St. Mary, rebuilt in 1854-5, at the cost of the rector, under the direction of Mr. S. S. Teulon, architect, in the Decorated style, is a building of Somersby sandstone, with coigns of Ancaster stone, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a massive western tower containing 4 bells: the only relics of the former church, an edifice, much altered, of the Early English and Late Perpendicular periods, are the tower arch, the font and a very interesting series of monuments, of considerable value, to the Harrington, Coppledike and Amcott families, formerly landowners here: the oldest of these is a low altar-tomb, placed beneath a mural arch, at the east end of the nave, bearing the recumbent effigy in stone of a knight in mail armour, his hands upraised and legs crossed, and probably representing Sir John Harrington (temp. Ed. I.): in the chancel, now removed from its slab, which is still on the floor, is a brass figure of Margaret (Tilney), wife of John Coppledike (1480); the figure of her husband and the marginal inscription are lost: next in date is a monument to Sir John Coppledike, 1552, and succeeding it a monument of Purbeck marble, consisting of an altar-like base, reredos and canopy, in the late Tudor style, to his son, John Coppledike, 1585; opposite which is a memorial to his brother Francis, 1599; the latest is that of Thomas Coppledike, nephew of Francis, 1658, described in his epitaph as "the last and best of his race:" the font is Perpendicular, with an octagonal panelled basin, exhibiting the impaled coats of Coppledike and Tilney. The register dates from the year 1697. The living is a rectory, consolidated with that of Brinkhill, tithe rent-charge, £243; joint gross yearly value £310, including 40 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir Henry Day Ingilby bart. and held since 1850 by the Rev. Robert Wentworth Cracroft B.A. of Balliol College, Oxford, J.P. Harrington Hall, the property of Sir H. D. Ingilby bart. and occupied by Meaburn Staniland esq. J.P. is remarkable as being one of the very few examples of the late Tudor style in this part of Lincolnshire: it was built by one of the Coppledike family in the reign of James I. and afterwards Italianised by Vincent Amcotts esq. who purchased the place in or about 1678. Sir Henry Day Ingilby bart. of Ripley Castle, Yorks, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is sand and blue clay; subsoil, mostly clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,052 acres; rateable value, £1,464; the population in 1881 was 123.

HATCLIFFE is a small village and parish in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Bradley Haverstoe wapentake, union of Caistor, county court district of Great Grimsby, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, situated in a valley of the Wolds, about 6½ miles east from Caistor, 7 south-west from Great Grimsby and 4½ south-west from Waltham station on the East Lincolnshire railway. The Hatcliffe beck runs through the parish. The church of St. Mary is a plain building of stone, in the Norman and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, and a low embattled western tower, originally Norman, and containing 1 bell of pre-Reformation date: the church was restored in 1861-2, under the direction of Messrs. Rogers and Marsden, of Louth, when the chancel was rebuilt and a vestry and organ chamber erected: there are two stained windows in the chancel, and some remains of a formerly existing north aisle: the ancient Norman font, which had long lain in the churchyard, has been replaced in the church. The register dates from the year 1696. The living is a rectory, with the perpetual curacy of West Ravendale annexed, tithe rent-charge, £314; gross yearly value, £315, including 4½ acres of glebe land, in Hatcliffe, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Manchester, and held since 1840 by the Rev. Thomas Massey B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who is also vicar of East Ravendale. There is a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1837; attached to which is a school. John Sowerby and Thomas Coates esqrs. who are lords of the manor, Harrison Hayter, and William Goodenough Hayter esqrs. and Samuel Henry Haxby esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is light and chalky; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The parish contains 1,371 acres; rateable value, £2,249; the population in 1881 was 203.

HAXEY, with BURNHAM, CRAISE LOUND, EAST LOUND and WESTWOOD SIDE.

HAXEY is a large and pleasant parish, including the hamlets of BURNHAM, CRAISE LOUND, EAST LOUND, WESTWOOD SIDE, UPPERTHORPE, NEWBIGG, NETHERGATE and PARK, in the Isle of Axholme, Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, west division of Manley wapentake, Epworth petty sessional division, union and county court district of Gainsborough, and rural deanery of Axholme, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln; Haxey is 3 miles south from Epworth, 2 north-west from Gainsborough, and 12 north-east from Bawtry. Haxey was formerly the capital of the Isle of Axholme. The Great Northern and Great Eastern railways have a joint station 2 miles south from the village, on their loop line from Gainsborough to Doncaster. The Ferry Drain runs through the parish, and the Trent, 3 miles east, is navigated by the Hull and Gainsborough steamers; Owston ferry is the nearest sanding place. The church of St. Nicholas is a stone structure, in the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with chantry, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches, and a western tower of three stages, with embattled parapet and eight crocketed pinnacles, and containing a clock with chimes and 7 bells: in the chantry is a table tomb, with the recumbent effigy of a priest, in a fine state of preservation, but without any inscription: the church was extensively repaired in 1853-4, and in 1874 the chancel was restored and re-seated with open benches: the east window is stained. An estate, left for the repair of the church, yields about £260 yearly: the roof is a beautiful specimen of oak carpentry, and the screen which separates the nave from the tower (in continuation of the interior), is a rich piece of oak carving. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, yearly value about £980 gross, with residence, in the gift of the Archbishop of York, and held since 1861 by the Rev. John Johnstone M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. In this parish are chapels, belonging to the Old, New and Primitive Methodists. There are almshouses for seven poor widows belonging to the parish, built and bequeathed in 1723 by Jane Farnery, each inmate receives 2s. 6d. The poor estate consists of cottages and land, amounting to about £70 yearly, which, together with a bequest made by Mrs. Catherine Shore, of upwards of £100 a year, and £3 under the will of Vincent Brown; also the Midsummer Charity, producing £10 10s. is annually distributed amongst the poor in clothing. A pleasure fair is held on July 6th; and on the 6th of January (Twelfth-day) the rustics amuse themselves with an ancient game called "Throwing the hood," which consists in the celebration of an old festival by running after a leather bag fashioned like a ladies' hood or cape; this custom, however, is dying out. In 1741 a great portion of the village was destroyed by fire; in 1802 a statue of black oak 6 feet high, representing a warrior, with a bow and sling over his shoulder and an arrow in his right hand, was discovered in this parish several feet below the surface of the ground; this ancient relic has, however, been destroyed. The manor of Haxey and Hallgarth is held by Thomas Harsley Carnochan esq. of Hirst Priory; Westwood and Epworth by Alfred Parkin esq. The property in this parish is in the hands of small freeholders. The soil varies, from sand to a rich loam, under which is a stratum of gypsum, useful for plaster and manure. The area is 8,470 acres; rateable value, £15,340; the population of Haxey in 1881 was 1,982, which includes the hamlets.

Parish Clerk, Charles Edward Whiley.

HAYDOR (or HEYDOUR), anciently "Heidure," is a parish and small village situate on a declivity, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Winnibriggs, petty sessional division of Sleaford, Sleaford and Grantham unions and county court districts, rural deanery of Grantham No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles south-east from Ancaster station; 7½ east-north-east from Grantham and 7 south-west from Sleaford. The church of St. Michael, situated on a slight eminence, is a spacious structure of Ancaster stone, in the Norman, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, chapel, porch and a lofty tower with pinnacles, containing 5 bells; the north aisle windows contain some fine specimens of stained glass of the reign of Richard II. which have been carefully repaired; the westernmost one contains figures of three favourite patron saints of England, viz.: St. Edward, St. George, and St. Edmund, and below are three shields of arms: the second window displays figures of saints, and in the third are patriarchs and prophets: the font, an octagon, is Decorated, with varied panelling; the rood loft stairs remain, and the porch has a stone roof; in the small chapel are two hagioscopes, and a carved oak chest; the south aisle retains a piscina; there are several marble monuments to the Newton family, formerly the wealthy owners of Culverthorpe Hall, including an inscribed marble slab to the last male heir, the infant son of Sir Michael Newton K.B. and Margaret Countess Coningesby, his wife, who was stolen from his cradle, in the absence of the nurse, by a pet monkey, and the beast being pursued, fled to the roof of the hall, and at length dropped the hapless child over the parapet, killing it by the fall, January 14, 1723: there is also a monument by Rysbrach to the bereaved countess. The register, including Kelby and Culverthorpe, dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelries of Kelby and Culverthorpe annexed, yearly value, £500 with house, erected in 1857 from plans by Mr. W. White, architect, of London, in the gift of John Archer Houblon esq. and held since 1856 by the Rev. Gordon Frederic Deedes M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. In 1756 John Hilton left for the poor of Haydor and Culverthorpe £20, the interest of which, amounting to £1 yearly, is distributed by the vicar and churchwardens. Here are quarries of freestone. In a field west of the church are traces of a large mansion or castle, supposed to have been built in the reign of Stephen by one of the Bussey family, who were seated here till about 1609. John Archer Houblon esq. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The area of the township, which is in Grantham union and county court district, is 3,140 acres; rateable value, £3,576; the population in 1881 was 363. The area of the parish, which includes Culverthorpe and Kelby townships, is 5,140 acres; the population in 1881 was 447.

AISBY, a quarter of a mile on the south, and OSEBY, a quarter of a mile south-west, are hamlets.

Culverthorpe is a township in the parish of Haydor, in the Aswardhurn wapentake, Sleaford union and county court district, 5½ miles south-west from Sleaford. Culverthorpe Hall is a building in the Italian style, consisting of a central division with wings, and approached by a broad flight of steps. The drawing-room, a fine apartment, has a picture by Wootton of Sir John Newton, equipped for hunting, and his family; the staircase has a painted ceiling; it is occupied by Robert Lindley esq. John Archer Houblon esq. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is various, in parts light loam, and in others stiff clay; subsoil, principally limestone. The chief crops are all kinds of cereals and roots. The area is 1,847 acres; rateable value £963; the population in 1881 was 85.

KELBY is a township, and will be found under a separate heading.

HEALING is a parish and small village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Caistor union, Great Grimsby county court district, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, distant 4 miles west from Great Grimsby, with a station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire Railway. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient building of stone, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, and containing 4 bells: the chancel and tower were restored in 1840, and the former has now a good east window and open oak roof; the entrance is at the west end, through the lower stage of the tower: over the western doorway are three pinnacles: in 1876, under the direction of James Fowler esq. architect, of Louth, the church was re-roofed, new windows inserted, and the south side rebuilt, at a cost of £600, defrayed by subscription: there are 80 sittings: there is a large and ancient stone sun-dial in the churchyard: on a stone in the south side of the tower is an inscription from the 14th verse of the 14th chapter of Job, with the date, April 30th, 1739. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £270, net yearly value £260, including 20 acres of glebe with residence, in the alternate gift of the trustees of Alfred Arthur Wallis esq. and Robert John H. Parkinson esq. J.P. and held since 1877 by the Rev. Cecil Legard LL.M. Magdalene College, Cambridge. The trustees of the late Alfred Arthur Wallis esq. are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is strong; subsoil, clay. The parish is farmed on the four and five-field system. The area is 1,296A. 2R. 13P.; rateable value, £2,609; the population in 1881 was 96.

HEAPHAM is a parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Corringham, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Gainsborough, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles east-south-east from Gainsborough, and 3 north-east from Lea station, on the Great Northern loop line, which joins the main line at Doncaster and Peterborough. All Saints' church, restored in 1868, is an ancient stone fabric, in the Norman, Transition, and Early English styles: it consists of chancel, nave, north aisle which is divided from the nave by two bays, south porch and a western Norman tower, containing 2 bells: there is a very fine specimen of Saxon arch and an ancient Norman font. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a discharged rectory, consolidated (in 1876) with the discharged vicarage of Upton, joint gross yearly value £320 with residence, in the gift of Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts J.P. and held since 1876 by the Rev. Thomas Brown Vaughan A.M. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. Colonel Holden Hutton is lord of the manor and the principal landowner; there are a number of small freeholders. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and peas. The area is 1,250 acres; rateable value, £1,612; the population in 1881 was 144.

HECKINGTON is a parish, village and station on the Grantham, Sleaford and Boston line of the Great Northern railway, situate on the road from Sleaford to Boston, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Aswardhurn, Sleaford petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Lafford No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles east-by-south from Sleaford, and 11 west from Boston: the village is lighted with gas. The church of St. Andrew is a cruciform building, wholly in the Decorated style: it consists of chancel, with vestry of two storeys on the north-east, nave with high clerestory and eastern turrets, aisles, transept, south porch, and a disengaged western tower with spire, containing a clock and 8 bells: the bells were rehung in 1882, when 2 new bells were added at the sole expense of Edward Godson esq. of Heckington: the structure is architecturally remarkable for the extreme richness of the exterior as compared with the plain and unadorned character of the whole interior, except the chancel, which exemplifies the Earliest and best part of the Decorated period, and is very elaborately and admirably worked out; it is of three bays, and retains three sedilia, double piscina, and one of the finest Easter Sepulchres remaining in England; below are sculptured the sleeping Roman guard, clothed in the armour and bearing the shields of soldiers of the fourteenth century; in the centre above is the recess, in which the Host was solemnly deposited on Good Friday, where it remained until an early hour on Easter Day: "the upper part of the sedilia and the whole front of the sepulchre are covered with flat foliage in flowing patterns of the purest and best curvilinear type": in the north wall of the chancel is a monumental arch, enclosing the effigy of the founder of the church, said to be a former rector of Heckington: in the south transept are three sedilia of plainer character and a piscina: the turrets at the east end of the nave contain staircases, which led to the rood loft and to the roofs of the church, the nave itself extending one bay beyond the transepts eastward: the south porch has richly decorated buttresses and panelled front: the tower, of three storeys, has a plain parapet and pinnacles of considerable size and height, connected with the spire by small flying buttresses: the font is hexagonal and of the Decorated period: the church was partially restored and re-pewed in 1867, at a cost of £2,400, when a new and lofty roof was erected, the nave rescated and other works effected, under the direction of Messrs. Kirk and Parry: the base and shaft of an ancient market cross have been removed into the churchyard. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value £340 with residence, in the gift of William Allison esq. and held since 1861 by the Rev. George Thomas Cameron M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. Here are two Wesleyan chapels and one Baptist chapel. In the Fen is a chapel of ease, in the Early English style, consisting of nave only, a Primitive Methodist chapel and one for Reformed Methodists. A cemetery of 1½ acres was formed in 1880, at a cost of £600, and has two mortuary chapels; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The poor's land of 44 acres produces £89 yearly, which is distributed in fuel. Taylor's charity of £24 yearly, left in 1680 by John Noble Taylor, of Heckington, is distributed in food. A sheep and cattle fair is held on the 2nd Thursday in September. The Temperance Hall was built by the late Moses Franks esq. and is used for parish purposes. The principal landowners are Jonathan Ward esq. Charles Henry Little esq. Mrs. Elizabeth Little, Joseph and George Godson esqrs. Hussey Packe esq. J.P. of Caythorpe Hall, T. Tennant esq. Messrs. Martin Christopher and Charles Sharpe, the Rev. George Thomas Cameron M.A. and a number of small freeholders. The soil is various: subsoil, gravel and clay. The area is 5,720 acres; rateable value, £10,920; the population in 1881 was 1,766.

GARWICK (or GARRICK) is a hamlet, about 2½ miles east, on the road to Boston, and the piece of land called the SIX HUNDREDS, now occupied by Jonathan Ward esq. and comprising 615 acres, lies 4 miles east.

Parish Clerk, James Barnes.

Clerk to Fen Chapel, Benjamin Humberston.

HEIGHINGTON is a pleasant village and township of the parish of Washingborough, and station on the Great Northern and Great Eastern Joint railway from Lincoln to Spalding, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, the second division of Langoe wapentake, union and county court district of Lincoln, 1½ miles south-east from Washingborough station on the Great Northern railway, Lincoln and Boston line, and 4 south-east from Lincoln. A small stream called The Beck flows through the parish. The chapel of ease, originally a late Norman structure, is a small building of stone, in the Early English style, and consists of small chancel and nave: in the reign of Charles II. it was restored and fitted up as a school chapel by a Mr. Thomas Garrett, who was engaged in drainage operations in the neighbourhood, and had purchased land in the place: in 1865 it was repaired and enlarged by the trustees, the older portion to serve as a church, and the remaining portion as a school room and class room, the work being carried out under the direction of Mr. Michael Drury, architect: the chapel contains a stained window, presented by C. Seely esq. M.P. in memory of his mother. The register is included in that of Washingborough. The Wesleyans and Wesleyan Reformers have each a chapel here. Heighington Hall, the property of Alfred Shuttleworth esq. D.L., J.P. is situated in the village: the grounds are tastefully laid out: it is occupied by Edwin Mackinder esq. Richard Bergne-Coupland esq. D.L., J.P. of Skillingthorpe Hall, who is lord of the manor, and Alfred Shuttleworth esq. D.L., J.P. of Hartsholme Hall, Coningsby Charles Sibthorp esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. of Canwick Hall, and Messrs. Rudgard, are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is included with the parish of Washingborough; the estimated extent is 2,471 acres; the rateable value, £5,427; the population in 1881 was 747.

HELPRINGHAM is a parish and large village, and station on the Great Northern and Great Eastern Joint railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, hundred of Aswardhurn, Sleaford petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Aswardhurn-with-Lafford No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-east from Sleaford and 7 north-east from Falkingham. The church of St. Andrew is a large and handsome building, in the late Early English, late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, south porch and a lofty western tower with spire, containing 5 bells: the church, which is of the Early English period, contains a trefoiled arcade, comprising three sedilia and piscina: the nave, late Decorated, is of three bays, and retains its original aisles, windows, doorways and clerestory; the principal feature of the church is the noble Decorated tower, opening by three fine arches into the nave and aisles; it is finished by four bold battlemented pinnacles, from within which rises a tall crocketed Perpendicular spire: in the south aisle there is a trefoiled piscina and a locker: the font is cylindrical, with a tall arcading of plain pointed arches, and appears to be late Transitional work: the nave is seated with high plain oak benches of the sixteenth century: it was restored in 1871-73: on the north side of the chancel is a brass to Antonie Newlove, 1597. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £200, in the gift of and held since 1855 by the Rev. Frederick Latham B.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. There are three chapels, viz. Baptist, Congregational and Primitive Methodist: the latter was rebuilt in 1883, at a cost of £350. A cemetery of 2R. 38P. was formed in 1872, at a cost of £300: it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. There are several small charities, producing £47 yearly, for fuel. The once navigable Car dyke, now almost a dry trench, is close to the village. The principal landowners are Lord Willoughby de Broke, Felix and Augustus Tomlinson, Joseph Barnes, James Ward, and Thomas Widdowson esqrs. The soil is clay and loam; subsoil, principally gravel and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, turnips and seeds. The area is 3,227 acres; rateable value, £7,034; the population in 1881 was 941.

HEMINGBY is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, North division of Gartree wapentake, county court district, petty sessional division and union of Horncastle, rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, situated on the river Bain, 4 miles north from Horncastle. The church of St. Margaret, is a small, old, plain stone structure, consisting of chancel, nave, and low square tower, with conical roof, containing 3 bells. The register dates from the year 1579. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £500, which is derived from 420 acres of glebe, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Edward Stewart Bengough MUS. BAC., M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel. Here is a Free school for poor children of this parish, founded by Jane Lady Dymoke, in 1727, and endowed by her with a yearly salary for a schoolmaster and mistress, and with a provision for clothing six of the said children, and apprenticing some of them. The same charitable lady left also four almshouses, with an endowment of £6 per annum and two tons of coal each to four poor widows, inhabitants of the county of Lincoln. The yearly income of the charity is about £180, derived from land at Woodhall and Asterby, and £900 £3 per Cent. Consols, exclusive of the house and farm occupied by the schoolmaster, which is worth upwards of £40 a year. The late Mrs. Barker also left, in 1848, the interest of £500 £3 per Cent. Reduced Bank Annuities, for supplying coal to the poor. Capt. Trafford, who is lord of the HEMSWELL is a small parish and village, lying in a valley, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, partly in the wapentake of Aslacoe (west division) and partly in Corringham, petty sessional division of Lincoln, union and county court district of Gainsborough, rural deanery of Aslacoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles east from Gainsborough and 5 south-east from Northorpe station. The church of All Saints is a large and handsome building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle and a tower, containing 2 bells: the body of the church is in the Late Decorated style, but the tower is Perpendicular: the east window and those of the south aisle are stained: on the south side of the chancel are the remains of a sedilia, now used as a credence table. The register dates from the year 1676. The living is a vicarage, tithe rentcharge £21, gross yearly value £94 with residence, in the gift of Alexander D. Mills esq. of Godalming, Surrey, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Timothy Gascoigne Lynde, of Durham University, who also holds the donative vicarage of Harpswell. The rectorial rights, comprising 528 acres, producing £890 yearly, were sold by Henry VIII. to the Corporation of Lincoln, who still hold them. There are a few charities amounting in the aggregate to £5 3s. 10d. which sum is applied to the relief of the poor and the maintenance of church expenses. Here is a small Wesleyan chapel and a Primitive Methodist chapel. Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. D.L. of Aswarby Hall, Falkingham, who is lord of the manor, and the Mayor and Corporation of Lincoln are the chief landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and pasture. The area is 2,890 acres; rateable value, £3,372; the population in 1881 was 373.

HIBALDSTOW is a large parish and village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east wapentake of Manley, petty sessional division of Winterton, union of Glanford Brigg, county court district of Brigg, rural deanery of Manlake, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, and near the navigable river Ancholme: it is on the Lincoln road, three quarters of a mile from Scawby station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, 4 miles south-west from Brigg and the same distance north-east from Kirton-in-Lindsey, 19 from Lincoln and 163 from London. The name of this village is to be found in Domesday Book. The church of St. Hibald is an edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with vestry, nave of four bays, north aisle and a western tower, containing 3 bells: the chancel was rebuilt about 1866 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, when a sarcophagus, apparently of Saxon date, was found, containing the skeleton of a man of powerful frame, with a crozier by his side, possibly St. Hibald himself: the nave was rebuilt by subscription in 1876, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, at a cost of about £1,550: the tower, which was very old, fell in July, 1875, after the old nave had been taken down, but its arch has been rebuilt in the west wall of the present church. The register dates from the year 1631. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300 from 242 acres of land with residence, in the gift alternately of the Bishop of Lincoln and M. H. Dalison esq. of Greetwell Hall, and held since 1874 by the Rev. John Thomas Grey, of Durham University. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel here. M. H. Dalison esq. is lord of the manor. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, the Duke of St. Albans P.C. and Sir Hugh Arthur Henry Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is light loam; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 4,390 acres; rateable value, £7,391; the population in 1881 was 800.

HOGSTHORPE is a parish and large and pleasant village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred of Calceworth, petty sessional division of Alford, Spilsby union and county court district, rural deanery of

Digitized by Google

Calceworth No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles south-east from Alford, 5 east from Willoughby station, 6 north from Burgh and 2 from the coast of the German Ocean. The village is lighted with gas. The church of St. Mary is a large and ancient structure, some portions of which show an affinity to the Norman style, the general character of the work being, however, Early English, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and an exceedingly massive embattled tower containing 6 bells: there are several stained windows in the nave: the church was extensively repaired in 1853 and reseated with open benches: the chancel was rebuilt in 1870 of Ancaster stone, at a cost of nearly £600: there are sittings for 400 persons. The register dates from the year 1574. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £280 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1878 by the Rev. William Gilbert. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Thomas Goodwinne, in 1639, bequeathed an estate of 55 acres in this parish, which yields an income of £120 yearly, and is applied partly to charitable uses and otherwise to the maintenance of the clergyman and the repairs of the church. Ashton's charity of £20 yearly is distributed in coals. There are corn mills and brickfields. The Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, Lieut.-Col. Sir Nelson Rycroft bart. of Kempshott Park, Basingstoke, who is lord of the manor, Miss Nisbet-Hamilton and R. Bradshaw esq. are the chief landowners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, blue clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats. The parish comprises the hamlets of SLACKHOLME, 1 mile south-west, AUTHORPE ROW north, and part of HELSEY, 1 mile north-west, and contains 2,870 acres of land and 455 of water; rateable value, £5,338; the population in 1881 was 719.

HOLBEACH is a station on the Bourn and Lynn line of Great Northern railway, union town, head of a county court district, and a parish, in the Southern division of the county (for which it is one of the polling-places), parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, rural deanery of East Elloe, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, pleasantly situated on the road from Spalding to Wisbech, 8 miles east from the former, 14 north-by-north-west from the latter town, 17 south from Boston and 101 from London. The parish comprises the town of Holbeach, and the scattered villages or hamlets of HOLBEACH DROVE, HOLBEACH ST. JOHN'S, HOLBEACH HURN, HOLBEACH CLOUGH, PENNY HILL and HOLBEACH BANK and HOLBEACH MARSH, consisting chiefly of farms. Holbeach is said to have been named from the old beach, the ancient boundary of the German ocean, from which all the lands in the neighbourhood have at various periods been recovered, as is evident from the numerous embankments on the marshes. A Local Board of Health of 9 members was established in 1850, and various sanitary improvements have been effected. The town consists of one main street, and of some smaller ones diverging irregularly therefrom: it is well paved and drained, and was lighted with gas in 1834. The church of All Saints is a very fine spacious and complete structure of the early part of the fourteenth century of Late Decorated period, with some portions of Perpendicular date, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of seven bays, aisles, a tall and narrow south porch, a spacious and magnificent north porch of much later date, with a parvise and flanking turrets and a large western tower, with embattled parapet, surmounted by a lofty octangular spire, 180 feet in height, with four tiers of louvre lights, and containing a clock with chimes and 8 bells: the windows, formerly rich in stained glass, are particularly beautiful, and the original tracery, which has been much admired, remains perfect: the font is an enriched example of late and rather coarse Late Decorated work; the clerestory, with fourteen windows on each side, has embattled parapets, and at the south-east angle of the nave is a stair which formerly led to the rood loft; the font is Decorated and has an octagonal basin, with panelled sides, enclosing figures of angels: the pulpit, a costly work, is a memorial erected by the Rev. Prebendary Brook M.A. now rector of Hackney and vicar of Holbeach 1866-72 to his father: in the north aisle is an altar tomb, profusely ornamented around the sides and bearing a recumbent effigy of Sir Humphrey Littlebury, who was born in 1346; he resided at Penny Hill Hall and is supposed to have been slain in the wars of the Roses; near this tomb is a slab bearing the mutilated brass of a knight, and another with an inscribed brass to Johanna (Leyke), wife of Richard Welby, sen. 1458: the whole building has undergone extensive repairs, which were completed in 1872, at a cost of £3,200. In the churchyard is an inscription to Mary Middleton, who had "20 young teeth after 72 years old." The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £830, net yearly value £550, including 7A. 1R. 23P. of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Fielder Hemmans M.A. late fellow of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, prebendary of Gretton and rural dean of East Elloe. The rectorial tithes, commuted for £5,000, have been purchased by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners of Col. George Tomline D.L., J.P. of Riby Grove, Grimsby. Here are Congregational, Baptist, Primitive Methodist, Wesleyan and Reform Wesleyan chapels. A Burial Board of nine members was formed in 1853; the cemetery, situated on the Penny Hill road, outside the town, was purchased and laid out by the Board, and has two mortuary chapels, erected in 1855; these are Gothic in style, and connected by an arch surmounted by a spire; 2,646 persons have been buried here since 1855. The charities are numerous and amount to £100 yearly, arising from gifts in money and lands bequeathed and devised by Jacob Davey esq. Thomas Everson esq. and others: these are dispensed in bread, coals and money, at stated periods of the year. William Stukeley M.D., F.R.S. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, the antiquary, was born here 7th November, 1687; in 1729, after having been elected a fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, he took holy orders and became incumbent of All Saints, Stamford, subsequently he was presented to the rectory of St. George the Martyr, Queen's square, London, where he died 3rd March, 1765; Henry Rands, or Holbeach, Bishop of Lincoln 1547-52, and one of the compilers of the Liturgy was also a native of this place. A curious Roman pitcher, now in the Boston Literary Institution, was dug up some years ago at the Hurn, on the spot formerly occupied by a cross, and many urns, coins and other vestiges of Roman and Saxon occupation have been found here at different periods. The market was granted by Royal Charter to Thomas de Multone in 1252. Here is a good market house, erected in 1844. The market day is on Thursday; and the fairs are on the 17th of May, 17th of September and 11th of October. A weekly stock market is also held every Thursday: it was established in 1868 by Mr. W. Hackworth, auctioneer, and a considerable amount of business is done. Here are public assembly rooms holding 300 persons, and a small Masonic Hall belonging to the Alexandra lodge of Freemasons. The representatives of William Butt are lords of the manor of Holbeach Lord Dacre; Richard Caparn esq. is lord of the manor of Holbeach Abbots, a great part of which was enfranchised in 1859; Holbeach and Whaplode Pipwell is the third manor, of which Samuel Kingston esq. is lord. The principal landowners are the Crown, Edgar Walter Garland esq. of Michaelstow, Ramsey, Essex, the Duke of Somerset K.G., P.C. Rev. Henry Thring, C. W. Christie, Henry Waddington Hartley, of Fencegate, Burnley, William Belgrave esq. of Heacham Hall, King's Lynn, Messrs. John Carbutt, Joseph Ward and Joseph Wm. Ward, and John Bett esq. William Welch esq. Henry Cole Tinsley esq. John Hardy Carter esq. and Paul Speke esq. There are many smaller resident freeholders. The soil is principally a rich light loam, with a subsoil of silt; in some parts of the fen it is a stiff clay. The crops are all kinds of cereals, roots and seeds; potatoes are largely grown and there is a large area of grazing land. The area of the parish is 21,133 acres of land and 14,240 of water; rateable value, £39,583, the population in 1881 was—of the parish, 5,190, 2,214 of which are in the town.

HOLBEACH HURN is an ecclesiastical parish, formed from that of Holbeach in 1870: it is situated 2 miles north-east of the town of Holbeach, near the Fleet haven. The church of St. Luke is a building of red brick with stone dressings, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave and south porch: it has an alabaster reredos, bearing evangelistic symbols. The register dates from the year 1870. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £362, including 2 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Holbeach, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Ferdinand Wilhelm Becker M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. Here are also Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The area is 3,250 acres; the population in 1881 was 526.

HOLBEACH MARSH forms the Northern portion of Holbeach parish, extending to the Wash: it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish, April 16th, 1869, and has two small churches. The church of St. Mark, situated five miles north of Holbeach, was erected in 1868-9, at a cost of £1,350 on a site of half an acre, given by the Crown, and was consecrated 6th Jan. 1869, by Bishop Jackson, formerly of Lincoln: it is an edifice of red brick, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. Ewan Christian, and consists of apsidal chancel, nave and small north transept: the windows of the apse are stained and were inserted in 1873-4, at a cost of £100, and there is a memorial window in the nave to a daughter of Mr. John Teesdale. There are 188 sittings, all free, and subject to allotment by the churchwardens. The register dates from April, 1869. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £365, net £288 with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Holbeach, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Grant William Macdonald B.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. The parsonage house, towards the erection of which the Ecclesiastical Commissioners furnished a sum of £1,400, occupies a site presented by the Crown. St. Matthew's, a chapel of ease in the ecclesiastical parish of Holbeach Marsh, is situated 3 miles due east from St. Mark's and 8 miles north-east of Holbeach: it was erected in 1868-9 on a site given by J. Ward esq. at a cost of £800, raised by subscription, and was consecrated April 5, 1869: the chapel is built of red brick, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. Ewan Christian, and consists of chancel and nave, under a single roof, south porch and a bell turret. There are sittings for 110 persons, all free, and subject to allotment by the churchwardens. Divine service is held here on Sunday afternoons by the vicar of St. Mark's. A school for 72 children is about to be built in connection with St. Matthew's, the site for which has been conveyed to the vicar of St. Mark's and the Archdeacon of Lincoln as trustees: the estimated cost is £313. The area is 9,240 acres; the population in 1881 was 743.

HOLBEACH FEN, in the Fen district of the parish, is about 4 miles south from Holbeach, and was in 1867 constituted an ecclesiastical parish, which includes all of the portions of Holbeach, Fleet and Gedney parishes lying south of the Little South Holland Drain. St. John's church, erected in 1840 on a site given by the Duke of Somerset K.G. is a building in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave and a turret containing 1 bell: the church was built by subscription, the late Bishop Kaye of Lincoln generously contributing £800. There are about 200 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1867. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £109, net yearly value £320, arising from a grant of £200 a year made by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and £100 a year from the vicar of Holbeach, and including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Robert Joshua Leslie M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The area is 6,190 acres; the population in 1881 was 872.

Fen church in Fosdyke Fen, close to the North Forty Foot drain, was erected in 1812 by Act of Parliament, as a chapel of ease to Fosdyke, and is a building of brick in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel and nave only, with a bell turret in the west end, containing 1 bell. The register dates from 1812, and includes the eleven towns of Holland. St. John the Baptist church, in Algarkirk Fen, consecrated in 1867, was erected, at a cost of £4,500 by the late Rev. Prebendary Basil Beridge, rector of Algarkirk, 1823-80, from designs by Mr. E. Browning, of Stamford and, is a building of red brick, relieved within by coloured brickwork, and consists of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch and a western bell cote, containing 2 bells. The register dates from 1864. The living is consolidated with Holland Fen: it is a vicarage, yearly value about £259 with residence in Kirton parish, in the gift of the representatives of the late Rev. Basil Beridge, and held since 1878 by the Rev. John Smith, who resides at Holland Fen Vicarage, situate in Kirton Fen. The principal landowners are Ernest H. C. Cust esq. and John Teesdale esq. there are several smaller owners. The soil is chiefly clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and turnips. The area is 8,835 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,039.

HOLTON (or HOLTON with BECKERING) is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, western division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Lincoln union, county court district of Market Rasen, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles north-by-west from Wragby station on the Louth and Lincoln railway, 3 east from Wickenby station on the Hull and Lincoln railway, 6 south from Market Rasen, and 11 north-east from Lincoln. The church of All Saints is a fine stone building of mixed architecture, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and square tower containing 3 bells: the walls of the chancel are richly painted with frescoes; all the windows are stained and a carved oak screen divides the chancel from the nave; the open oak benches in the chancel, carved by Mr. Swaby, of Marsh Chapel, were fixed in 1851, when the chancel was rebuilt under the direction of Mr. Nicholson, of Lincoln, at the cost of the Rev. E. F. Hodgson, rector: in 1859 extensive repairs were effected under the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. at a cost of £1,200, the north arcade, both aisles, and a mortuary chapel being rebuilt, and the whole roof renewed: a new pulpit and seats were fixed, and an elaborate cover, enriched with iron work, placed over the font. The register dates from the year 1695. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £345 with residence, in the gift of Christopher Turnor esq. and held since 1860 by the Rev. William Knox Marshall B.D. of Trinity College, Dublin, and J.P. prebendary of Hereford. The charities are £4 11s. yearly, arising from various small donations, and are distributed on St. Thomas' day. H. Caldecot esq. who is lord of the manor, W. F. Burton esq. and Mr. J. Bennard are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and seeds. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, chalky clay. The area is 1,862 acres; rateable value, £2,648; the population in 1881 was 165.

HOLYWELL with AUNBY forms a picturesque township and chapelry in Castle Bytham parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake and petty sessional division of Beltisloe, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Beltisloe and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, about one mile south-west from Little Bytham station on the Great Northern railway and 7 miles north from Stamford, bounded on the west and south by the connty of Rutland. The chapel is a small stone building, in the Early English style, reconstructed in the reign of Queen Anne, and partly with the materials of an ancient Norman structure, believed to have been the destroyed church of Aunby; it consists of chancel, nave, south aisle and a tower containing 2 bells: the Norman column supporting the tower, the Decorated doorway and the stained east window are some of the transferred portions referred to: the church was restored in 1863-4, when an open timber roof was substituted for the former flat ceiling; improved windows inserted, and the interior refitted in oak: the whole work was effected under the superintendence of the Rev. J. B. Reynardson, rector, no architect being employed. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, consolidated with the chapelries of Careby and Aunby, joint gross yearly value £400 with house, in the gift of C. T. S. Birch-Reynardson esq. and held since 1844 by the Rev. John Birch-Reynardson M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. A medicinal spring rises here, from which probably the township takes its name. Holywell Hall, a stone mansion, situated in a well-wooded park, is the seat of Charles Thomas Samuel Birch-Reynardson esq. D.L. lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are barley and wheat. Holywell contained a population in 1881 of 63, and, inclusive of Aunby, 2,300 acres of land; rateable value, £1,110.

Aunby is a hamlet, one mile south-west from Holywell, 2 miles south-west from Little Bytham and north-west from Essendine stations: its area is 638 acres; rateable value, £530; and the population in 1881 was 63.

HONINGTON is a village, parish and station on the Grantham, Sleaford and Boston branch of the Great Northern railway, and junction of the Lincoln line, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Winnibriggs, Spittlegate petty sessional division, Grantham union and county court district, rural deanery of Lovedon, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, pleasantly situated, 6 miles north-by-east from Grantham and 111 from London. The church of St. Wilfred is an ancient building, in the Norman, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, with north aisle or chapel, clerestoried nave of two bays, north aisle, porch and a square tower of Early English date, with Perpendicular parapet and pinnacles, and containing 3 bells: the north aisle is Late and poor Perpendicular, and opens into the chapel beyond, which is of still later date; the chancel arch encloses the remains of a stone screen; the existing aisle or chapel was apparently built by the Hussey family in the reign of Henry VIII. and opens into the chancel and nave aisle by arches: at the west end of the chapel is a monument of stone, with figure, to William Smith esq. 1550, and his wife, a daughter of Augustine Porter of Belton esq. and six children: in the pavement of the chancel is a huge grey slab, formerly commemorating a priest, part of whose effigy remains, but over this is now a brass plate inscribed to John Hussey esq. 1587, and Elizabeth, his wife; another slab is inscribed to John Hussey, 1553, a benefactor to this parish and to Caythorpe: the nave was restored and reseated and the interior of the tower restored, in 1873, at a cost of about £500. There are sittings for 120 persons. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £200, net yearly value £196, including 47 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Edward Lambert esq. and held since 1867 by the Rev. Henry Dodwell Moore M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, and rural dean of Lovedon. Hussey's charity of £30 yearly, left in 1533 by John Hussey of Honington, is for distribution in this parish and that of Caythorpe. On the heath, near the village, is the site of a Roman camp, with fosse and vallum; in 1691 many coins and urns were found near this spot. The whole earthwork remains in a very perfect state, only a portion of the outer vallum having been partially cut away at two points. Honington Hall, the seat of James Hornsby esq. J.P. was erected in 1861-2, and is a stone building in the Elizabethan style: attached to the building is a tower used as an observatory. Edward Southwell Trafford esq. of Wroxham Hall, Norwich, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and seeds. The area is 1,454 acres; rateable valne, £2,891; the population in 1881 was 177.

HORBLING is a parish and village, half-a-mile from the station at Billingborough, on the Bourn and Sleaford branch of the Great Northern railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland hundred, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 1, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3½ miles north-east from Falkingham, 15 north-north-west from Spalding and 14½ east from Grantham. The church of St. Andrew is a cruciform building, in the Norman, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, transepts and a central embattled tower, with pinnacles, containing 5 bells: the chancel, with its piscina and sedilia, and an arcading in the west front, are Norman work; the tower, owing to bad foundations, was successively repaired or rebuilt in the Transitional, Early English and Early Decorated periods: the north aisle and transept are Late Decorated, the south aisle and transept Perpendicular and the clerestory belongs to the same date: the font is a rich example of Decorated work: the stained west window was inserted, in 1854, as a testimonial to Benjamin Smith esq. at whose expense the church was restored about 1852: in the north transept is a monument, apparently of the middle of the fourteenth century, with the effigies of a knight and lady, kneeling, with the arms of De la Maine: in the south transept are several memorials to the Brown family. The register dates from the year 1658. The living is a vicarage, yearly value about £270, from 262 acres, with house, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Plumpton Stravenson Wilson M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. There are several bequests, amounting to about £70 yearly, which are spent in the repair of the roads. In the village is an abundant ever-flowing spring of pure water, encompassed by a stone reservoir. The principal dwellings are lighted with gas, from the works of the Billingborough and Horbling Gas Company. George Shaw esq. is lord of the manor. The chief landowners are Edward Nathaniel Conant esq. Captain Henry Smith J.P. and George Shaw esq. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 2,620 acres; rateable value, £5,156; the population in 1881 was 501.

BRIDGE END is a hamlet, about one mile and a half east, on the Car Dyke. Here are the remains of a priory, completely overgrown by grass.

HORKSTOW is a parish and pleasant village in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, North division of Yarborough wapentake, Glanford Brigg union, Barton-upon-Humber petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles south-west from Barton station and 9 north from Brigg, extending to the navigable river Ancholme, over which is a suspension bridge connecting it with West Halton. The church of St. Maurice is an ancient edifice of brick and stone, partly in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a small tower containing 3 bells: the chancel was thoroughly restored in 1868, in memory of the late vicar, at a cost of £450: in the church is a handsome tablet to the late Admiral Shirley, who was the fifth son of the late Earl Ferrers. The register dates from the year 1556. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £255, gross yearly value £256 with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Yarborough, and held since 1879 by the Rev. William John Wylie M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. In 1796 fragments of three tesselated pavements were found in a field near, one of them having the representation of a chariot race; Roman coins have also been found. The Earl of Yarborough D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, Messrs. C. Hele and C. J. Calthrop are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk and marl: subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats barley and pasture. The area is 2,086 acres; rateable value, £3,515; the population in 1881 was 274.

HORNCASTLE.

HORNCASTLE is a market and union town, head of a county court district, parish and terminus of a line from Kirkstead, on the Lincoln and Boston branch of the Great Northern railway: it is the capital of the soke of Horncastle, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, and gives name to a rural deanery, in the archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln: it is situated in a valley at the foot of the hills called the Wolds, on the rivers Bain and Waring, principally situated within an angle formed by the confluence of those rivers, 21 miles east from Lincoln, 136 from London by road and 130 by Great Northern railway, 10 north-west from Spilsby, 15 north from Alford, 20 north from Boston and 13 south-west from Louth.

In 1792 an Act was obtained for canalizing the river Bain from here to the river Witham, at Tattershall, a distance of 10 miles, the authorized capital being £15,000, in £20 shares: in 1800 another Act was obtained to raise an additional £20,000. A good trade is carried on in coal and corn, malting and brewing.

The railway was opened on the 12th of August, 1855: it joins the Lincoln and Boston line at Kirkstead, thus opening a communication with all parts of England.

The manor, as in Domesday Book, was in possession of William the Norman. Henry III. in the fourteenth year of his reign, granted three charters, one for a free warren, one for an annual fair and one to try felons and hold a court leet. The town is, almost without doubt, built on the site of the Roman station "Banovallum," and derives its name from the Saxon "Hyrn-Ceaster," referring to the horn-shaped piece of ground on which the town is built; the arms of the town, representing a "horn" and a "castle," maintain the tradition. Several British urns and fragments of bones and cinerary Roman urns have been found south-east of the town, numerous coins of the Lower Empire and some fine specimens of the earlier Imperial coins, as well as Early English silver currency. The Romans erected on this spot a very strong fort, enclosing an irregular parallelogram 600 feet long by 350 wide, on its eastern side, and 300 on the western, with a wall 16 feet thick, and portions of all four walls, in some parts as much as 12 feet high, still exist, the date of the masonry may be generally assigned to A.D. 78, before the close of the reign of Vespasian, to which Emperor the earliest coins found here belong; the Romans appear also to have constructed at least three roads, leading from the station to the west, north and east, and perhaps two others southwards.

The town has been much improved; it is paved, lighted with gas and abundantly supplied with water, and is under the Local Government Act, the board consisting of 12 members.

The church of St. Mary is a building chiefly in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of large chancel with aisles, nave of four bays, aisles, north and south porches, vestry and an exceedingly massive square embattled tower, with spire containing 6 bells and a clock: the north aisle was rebuilt in 1820, the south in 1821: the nave appears to belong to the Earlier half of the fourteenth century, with a clerestory added in the fifteenth century, the chancel is of about the same age as the nave, but the north aisle or chantry is later; the earliest remaining portion of the edifice is comprised in the arches and piers supporting the tower, which date from the latter part of the thirteenth century: the church was thoroughly restored in 1860, under the direction of Mr. Ewan Christian: the chancel, by James Banks Stanhope esq. and the rest by subscription: the interior was fitted with open oak benches and a new oak roof erected; the cost of restoration was about £4,000: the organ was rebuilt, at a cost of £2,000, through the munificence of Henry J. Fielding esq. and contains three manuals & fine pedal organ, 45 stops and upwards of 2,500 pipes: in the chancel is a handsome reredos, of Caen stone, elegantly carved; the eagle lectern of bronzed iron was the gift of the Rev. Saml. Lodge M.A. rector of Scrivelsby, and head master of Horncastle Grammar School, 1854-70: the ancient carved screens have been re-erected in the chancel, and the piscina on the south side restored: the east window is a memorial to the late Rev. H. Milner, vicar of Horncastle: in the north aisle is a mural brass, on a slab of Purbeck marble, to Sir Lionel Dymoke, with kneeling figures of himself, two sons and three daughters: on the pavement is another brass representing the body of Sir Lionel in a shroud, with two scrolls and an inscribed brass below: in the north chancel aisle is a monument with arms to Sir Ingram Hopton kt. killed at Winceby, October 11th, 1643: in the south aisle is a memorial, reproduced with much care from the original painting on the south arcade wall, to the Rev. Thomas Gibson A.M. 44 years vicar of this parish, 1678, with a shield of arms: besides the east window there are others to the Rev. Robert Giles, a former vicar, and to Mr. Frederick Harwood: the south-east window is stained, in memory of the Rev. A. Scrivener, late vicar of this parish. The parish register dates from 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £675, including 370 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Edwin Fowler Quarrington M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge.

A chapel of ease, named the Holy Trinity, in the Early English style was built, partly by public subscription and partly by a legacy of £500, bequeathed for that purpose by Dr. Madely, the late vicar: it was opened for divine service in Easter week in 1848: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and high open belfry containing 1 bell, and is capable of containing about 400 persons; all the sittings are free.

There are Wesleyan Methodist, Congregational, Baptist and Primitive Methodists chapels.

George Whelpton, a native of Horncastle, erected, in Queen street, six almshouses for poor persons of the town, in memory of his wife, with an allowance of 2s. 6d. a week, the endowment arising from £1,500 invested in the funds; the inmates are nominated by the vicar and churchwardens. Hurstcroft's and Snowden's charities are for apprenticing orphan boys belonging to the parish: the income about £100 yearly: other charities, the principal of which, amounting to £60 a year, are for distribution.

The Court House, North street, is a spacious building of brick and stone, fitted up with the usual offices: special and petty sessions for the Horncastle division of the parts of Lindsey are held here every saturday. The meetings of the Commissioners of Taxes and the County Court are also held in the same building.

The market, held on Saturday, is well supplied with poultry and other provisions; and five annual fairs are held, the first, on the fifth Thursday in Lent, for cattle and sheep; the second, on the 21st, for horses, and 22nd of June, for cattle; the third, the great horse fair, now confined to one week, commences on the Monday after the 8th of August, for sheep on the Thursday, and for cattle on Friday in the same week; this is considered to be one of the largest horse fairs in the kingdom, and is resorted to by dealers from all parts of England and the Continent; the fourth fair is for foals and sheep, and is held on the second Thursday of September; the fifth is for pleasure, cattle, horses and sheep, and is held on the 28th and 29th of October, and was removed here upon payment of £200, from Market Stainton in 1768. The butter market, erected at the expense of James Banks Stanhope esq. was opened November 15th, 1853.

The Dispensary, established in 1789 by the late Drs. Harrison and Fawssett, is a great benefit to the town and neighbourhood: it is supported by donations and subscriptions, and collections made at all places of worship in the town: the average number of patients is about 1,000. A building for the dispensary was erected by subscription as a memorial of Sir Henry Dymoke bart.: it stands opposite the Court House and is of white brick with stone dressings.

A handsome Corn Exchange, situated in the High street, was opened on the 5th of July, 1856: it is of brick, with stone facings, and will hold 500: the cost was about £3,500. Concerts, lectures and assemblies are held here; the Mechanics' Institute, which occupies two rooms adjoining the Corn Exchange, was founded in the year 1836: it has now a good general library of about 2,500 volumes, in which is included the special reference library purchased out of a bequest of the late Henry Fielding esq. in 1879: there is a news room which is supplied with all the principal papers: the number of members is 250; the Rev. J. C. Hudson, vicar of Thornton, is librarian, and takes an active part in the management.

On the south-western side of the town, near the castle, is the Julian Bower close, the site of a maze of Roman origin, long since effaced by cultivation: many urns, coins, fibulæ and other Roman remains have been at different periods discovered here. At the south-eastern part of the parish, near the mill on the Mareham road, is Hangman's Corner, where those found guilty of capital offences in the court of the manor were formerly executed.

J. Banks Stanhope esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner.

The area of the parish is 1,868 acres; rateable value, £13,625; the population in 1881 was 4,818, including 119 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

By the Act 44 Vic. c. xvii. the Fen Allotment was transferred to the new parish of Wildmoor.

Parish Clerk, John Coats Osborne.

Sexton, Francis Dawson.

HORSINGTON is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, southern division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Gartree, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles west from Horncastle, 4 north-east from Stixwould station of the Great Northern railway and the navigable Witham. The church of All Saints, wholly rebuilt in 1860, under the direction of Mr. D. Brandon, architect, is a building of red brick with stone dressings in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, and a tower with spire, at the south side of the chancel, containing 1 bell. The register, which is of parchment, dates from October, 1558. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £400, in the gift of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1871 by the Rev. Francis Hugh Deane B.D. late fellow of that college. Here is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel. The President and Scholars of Magdalen College are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,904 acres; rateable value, £2,008; the population in 1881 was 360.

HOUGH ON-THE-HILL is a pleasant village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Loveden, Grantham union, petty sessional division and county court district, Loveden rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north-west from the Hougham station on the Great Northern railway, 10 south-east from Newark, and 8 north from Grantham. The church of All Saints, situated on an eminence, is a stone building of the Saxon, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of two bays, aisles and a western tower, surmounted by crocketed pinnacles and containing 5 bells: the most interesting feature of this church is its tower, the lower portion of which, as well as the staircase turret, are both of Saxon origin: the upper stage is Perpendicular, and to the same date belong the east chancel wall and the clerestory: the aisle arcades and chancel arch are Early English: near the latter remains the entrance to the rood loft: the font is an interesting specimen of the first stage of Early English: in the chancel is a shallow arched recess, serving as a sedile, and near it a piscina: on the north side an Early English arcade of two bays opens into a vestry, where is preserved a coffin-shaped slab of the fourteenth century, with a richly carved foliated cross: there are two mural tablets to members of the Payne family, former lords of the manor: in 1845 the church was re-seated with open benches, and the edifice thoroughly repaired and restored, at a cost of £560, defrayed by subscriptions, to which the late Earl Brownlow contributed liberally: there is a small side chapel, formerly used as a parish school, but now converted into a vestry: the ancient font was restored: there are two marble monuments to the Payne family, former owners of the manor. The register dates from the year 1620. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £250, in the gift of Earl Brownlow, and held since 1855 by the Rev. Christopher Robert Andrews M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. A substantial vicarage house and a school were erected in 1867, chiefly at the expense of the Earl Brownlow. The poor have about 17 acres of land, now yielding about £38 yearly, distributed in coals, and for the support of the school. Castle Hill, near the church, is an artificial mound. In the village are several fine springs of water, (the source of the river Brant), one of which is said to be strongly impregnated with iron. A priory of Augustine canons was founded here about 1164, subordinate to the Abbey of St. Mary, at Cherburgh, in Normandy; but was seized by Richard II. and granted first to Spittal-in-the-Street and afterwards to the Carthusians of St. Anne's, Coventry. Earl Brownlow is lord of the manor and principal owner of the soil. The soil is a red loam with some clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, oats, turnips and seeds. The area is 4,004 acres; rateable value, £6,632; the population in 1881 was 619.

Brandon and Gelston are hamlets; the former is situated about 2 miles north-west and the latter 1 mile south-west from Hough: these hamlets maintain their roads separately. Brandon is between two branches of the river Brant. The chapel at Brandon, originally a Norman structure, but now chiefly of the Early English period, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, with a chapel or aisle on its north side, nave and a bell-cote, containing 2 small bells: the earliest existing feature is a Norman doorway in the south wall of the nave, which bears on the hood moulding above the key-hole device seen at Stow and elsewhere: the nave, rebuilt in the Early English period, has the piers of a north arcade built into the wall on that side: the chancel, which is Decorated, has an east window of Perpendicular date and two aumbries: in the chapel adjoining is a rudely executed niche with crocketed pediment and pinnacles: the font is Early English: the chapel was restored in 1872, through the liberality of Earl Brownlow, when the whole structure was newly roofed and the interior re-fitted, under the direction of Messrs. Kirk, architects, of Grantham. At Gelston there is a place of worship for Wesleyan Methodists; and an ancient cross.

HOUGHAM is a village and parish, with station one mile east from the village, on the Great Northern railway, in the southern division of the county, wapentake of Loveden, parts of Kesteven, Newark union, Grantham county court district, rural deanery of Loveden and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 111½ miles from London, 6¾ north-north-west from Grantham and 8¾ south-east from Newark, situate on the river Witham, which separates it from the adjoining parish of Marston. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, in the Norman, Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel with north aisle, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower of Early English date, with Perpendicular parapet and crocketed pinnacles, containing 4 bells: the oldest feature of the church is the Norman arcade of the south aisle, the north arcade being Decorated, with octagonal piers: the porch, chancel arch and north chancel aisle are Perpendicular, but the chancel itself is modern: at the east end of the south aisle there remains a piscina and some statue brackets, and the entrance to the rood loft is also extant: the north aisle is partly enclosed by a screen erected at the cost of the rector in 1845: in the chancel is a monumental slab with the recumbent effigy of a knight (temp. Ed. I or II) in mail armour; the head rests on cushions, the right hand grasps a sword and from the neck is suspended a long shield with the arms of Bussey; the figure is supposed to represent Sir Hugh de Bussy, whose arms are also borne on a shield by one of the corbel figures between the clerestory windows and over the east window of the chancel: the manor of Hougham is conjectured to have belonged to this family, and Sir Hugh was, perhaps, the founder of the church: near this stone is a massive marble tomb, in memory of Arthur William, youngest son of the present rector: over what may be termed the vestry door, at the east end of the north aisle, is an elaborately carved canopied tablet, erected in 1875 by the rector, to the memory of his wife: near the effigy of Sir Hugh Bussy is a grey stone, from which two brass effigies and a shield of arms have been removed; there are also two suspended helmets apparently real: the church was restored at the cost of the parishioners in the year 1845. The register dates from the year 1562; the earliest registers of this place and Marston being apparently mixed. The living is a rectory, consolidated with that of Marston, tithe rent-charge £110, joint gross yearly value £730, including 389 acres of glebe and good residence, in the gift of Sir John Henry Thorold bart. and held since 1836 by the Rev. Henry Baugh Thorold B.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. This parish formerly belonged to the Brudenell family, and a portion of the old manor house still remains; it is now occupied by a farmer. Sir John Henry Thorold bart. D.L., J.P. of Syston park, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is a light loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and seeds. The area is 2,590 acres; rateable value, £8,303; the population in 1881 was 271.

HOWELL is a small parish, with three farms, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Aswardhurn, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Lafford No. 2, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 1¼ miles north from the Heckington station, and 4½ east-by-north from Sleaford. The church of St. Oswald is a small but interesting structure in the Norman, Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle and chantry, porch, and small western bell-gable with 1 bell: the south door is Norman, and there is a beautifully stained Early English lancet window at the west end, representing the patron saint of the church: the window at the east end is a memorial to J. W. Dudding esq.: the piers of the nave arcade are circular and massive, and support semi-circular arches: there is a simple piscina and a stone bench formed in the sill of the south chancel window to serve as sedilia: on the north side is a double locker; on the floor are several inscribed stones, and an incised slab with the figure of John Croxby, a former rector, vested 1,400: in the little chantry chapel is a low arch with hanging tracery, enclosing a tomb with sculptured effigies of a female and child partly shown within deeply sunk panels: there are also corbels for an altar, a locker, and brackets for images, and a monument, temp. Jas. I. to Sir Charles Dimok, of Howell, and Margaret, his wife: the font, given by Richard de Hebden, who died in 1373, is octagonal, and of Perpendicular date, with shields of arms in the panels: in the churchyard are remains of a cross: the church was restored in 1870, at a cost of £550, raised by subscription. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1710. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £125, including 29 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of —. Machin esq. and others, and held since 1877 by the Rev. John Christian Curwen Underwood. The principal landowners are —. Machin esq. who is lord of the manor, John Walter Dudding esq. and W. Brown esq. The soil is loam and sandy; subsoil, partly gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,650 acres; rateable value, £2,150; the population in 1881 was 89.

HUMBERSTONE is a small village and parish, on the sea coast, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Bradley Haverstoe wapentake, Caistor union, Great Grimsby county court district, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles from the Humber, 5 south-south-east from Great Grimsby, 1½ miles east from Waltham station, and 156 miles from London. The church of St. Peter, rebuilt in 1710, is a plain structure of brick, with a good Perpendicular tower (1470-80) containing 1 bell and a clock: there are several monuments, one being to Matthew Humberstone, who died in 1709. The register dates from the year 1748. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £280, in the gift of Lord Carrington, and held since 1877 by the Rev. John Morgan M.A., LL.D. of Trinity College, Dublin: the vicar's annuity is charged on the manor and impropriate rectory of Humberstone, now belonging to Lord Carrington. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1835. Matthew Humberstone, of this place, the son of a foundling of Homerton, who, after being educated at Christ's Hospital, grew to wealth and purchased this manor; bequeathed, in 1709, £1,000, to rebuild the church, £300 to erect a monument, £500 for the erection of a Free Grammar School and almshouses, and £600 for the endowment of the latter; also an annuity of £40 for the augmentation of the vicar's income, provided he officiates as schoolmaster: but more than a century elapsed between the date of the bequest and the establishment of the charity: under a scheme issued in 1878 by the Charity Commissioners, the Grammar school ceased to exist, its place being taken by an elementary school and a higher grade school, which is to be erected in the parish of Clee: the master of the former will receive a yearly stipend out of a part of the Humberstone charity funds: the higher school is to be designated Humberstone New Foundation at Clee: the charity is to be governed by six governors, four of whom are to be ex-officio and two representative, elected by the vestry of Humberstone; £3,700 3 per cent. Reduced Annuities are set apart for the old almshouses; there are to be six almspeople, who are to receive 5s. per week each and £3 at Christmas for clothing. The Benedictine abbey of SS. Mary and Peter, formerly existing here, was founded by William Fitz-Ralf, in the reign of Henry II. and at its dissolution was valued at £42. Lord Carrington is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, the same. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,930 acres of land and 5,215 of water; rateable value, £2,779; the population in 1881 was 264.

HUNDLEBY is a pleasant village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Bolingbroke soke, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Hill No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 1 mile west from Spilsby railway station. Part of West Fen civil parish is ecclesiastically annexed to this parish. The church of St. Mary is a structure of stone, in the Perpendicular style, and rebuilt in 1854-5, and a north aisle of disproportionate size erected, at a cost of upwards of £1,300, raised by subscription, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, modern Early Decorated porch and a tower containing 3 bells: the interior is fitted with open oak benches, and all the windows of the nave are stained: the pulpit, of stone, richly worked, was presented by the Rev. John Gylby Lonsdale, canon of Lincoln: the chancel was restored by Lord Willoughby de Eresby: in 1874 new oak choir stalls were placed in the chancel and an organ chamber built on the north side of it. The register dates from the year 1707. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £4, net yearly value £81, including 68 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1883 by the Rev. William Wright Layng M.A. St. Mary Hall, Oxford and vicar of Spilsby. In 1884, through the instrumentality of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, aided by local subscriptions, the income of the living was augmented by £26 13s. 4d. yearly. There is a Wesleyan chapel here. The charities amount to £8 yearly. The Spilsby Union house is situated in this parish. Here are the holly nurseries, about 20 acres in extent, belonging to Mr. John William Cole. The Baroness Willoughby de Eresby is lady of the manor and chief landowner. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The soil is sandy clay and chalk; subsoil, clay, sand, rock and marl. The area is 971A. 3R. 14P.; rateable value, £2,136; the population in 1881 was 631 (including 148 officers and inmates in the Spilsby workhouse, in the civil parish) and 690 in the ecclesiastical. By a Local Government Board provisional order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by the Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. a detached part of this parish, with a population of 59, was transferred to the new parish of West Fen.

HUTTOFT is a pleasant village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Calceworth hundred, Spilsby union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, and is situated on an eminence above the surrounding salt marshes, commanding extensive views, both of the country round and of the North sea, from which it is distant 2½ miles and about 5 east from Alford station, 13 north-east from Spilsby and 14 south-east from Louth. The church of St. Margaret is an ancient building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, large south porch and a lofty embattled Early English tower, repaired in 1882 by W. Murgatroyd esq. of Halifax, and containing 3 bells: there is a fine old font, standing on a square pedestal, and several sepulchral slabs, with inscriptions: the church was thoroughly restored in 1869, at a cost of nearly £1,000, raised by voluntary contributions: in 1880, a stained window was erected in the nave by the parishioners as a token of esteem for the late vicar and his wife, on their attaining the fiftieth year of their marriage: the churchyard is being enlarged by voluntary subscription. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £120, including 18 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Samuel Hope. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The charities consist chiefly of the amount derived from the sale of the produce of 3A. 3R. 30P. of land, which is distributed among the poor at Christmas: there are also yearly doles amounting to £4 6s. left by various donors; and the interest on £376 left by W. Robinson and distributed among four poor families; this benefactor also left a similar amount to the Primitive Methodists of this place to keep their burial ground and chapel in repair. This district is celebrated for its breed of rams, which are exported to all parts of the world. The principal landowners are William Murgatroyd esq. of Halifax, Messrs. S. Bristow, E. Davey, J. L. Needham, J. W. Budibent and George Budibent. The soil is strong clay and loam; subsoil, blue clay and marl. There is also a great quantity of rich pasture land. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area of the parish is 3,348A. 1R. 28P.; rateable value, £5,016; the population in 1881 was 631.

NORTH HYKEHAM is a village and parish, with a station 1 mile north-west from the village, on the Midland railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, lower division of Graffoe wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Graffoe, and diocese and archdeaconry of Lincoln, 4 miles south-west from Lincoln, situated on the west bank of the river Witham, and intersected by the Roman Foss way. The ancient church belonging to this parish was dilapidated and became disused early in the eighteenth century: the burial-ground belonging thereto is still occasionally used. The church of All Saints, a building in the Decorated style, was rebuilt in 1858, from the plans of Mr. M. Drury, of Lincoln, and consist of chancel, nave, south aisle, and a small tower containing 1 bell, and has sittings for about 220 persons. The ancient register is included in that of South Hykeham; the modern register dates from the year 1856. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £165 from 150 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1868 by the Rev. Frederick Teeling Cusins M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, diocesan inspector of schools. There is a parsonage-house, built in 1859. The lay impropriators of the rectory are trustees of R. Milnes esq. The Wesleyans have a chapel here. Richard Cotton Carline esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the trustees of R. Milnes esq. and Christ's College, Cambridge. The soil is gravelly; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 1,990 acres; rateable value, £2,385; the population in 1881 was 455.

SOUTH HYKEHAM is a village and parish, 2 miles north-west from Hykeham station, on the Midland railway, bounded on the east and south by the river Witham, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, lower division of Boothby Graffoe wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, Graffoe rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-by-west from Lincoln. The church of St. Michael is a small building of stone, partly in the Decorated style, but chiefly modern, and consists of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch, and a tower with spire containing 2 bells: the chancel and nave were rebuilt in 1725, but the tower and spire are Decorated: the whole fabric was thoroughly restored in 1869, at a cost of about £630, chiefly contributed by the late Hon. C. H. Cust M.P. of Arthingworth, who died in 1875; the chancel arch was then rebuilt, the external walls strengthened with Decorated buttresses, relieved by dressings of Ancaster stone, a new south porch erected, new windows inserted in the Decorated style, and the interior refitted, including new roofs to the choir and chancel, the pulpit and font being of Ancaster stone; these works were effected under the direction of Messrs. Drury and Mortimer, of Lincoln. The register, including North Hykeham, dates from the year 1695. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £288, including 85 acres of glebe with house, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1867 by the Rev. James Jones Reynolds M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, and rural dean. There is £2 yearly derived from land in Thorpe-on-the-Hill, distributed to poor widows of North and South Hykeham and Haddington: there is also the interest of £5 distributed in bread on St. Thomas' day. Ernest Charles Cust esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravel; subsoil, strong clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,160 acres; rateable value, £1,181; the population in 1882 was—parish, 149; township, 103.

HADDINGTON township, 1½ miles south-west, is partly in this parish and partly in Aubourn parish; the area is 644 acres; rateable value, £1,380; the population in 1881 was 91.

Parish Clerk, Charles Hunt.

INGOLDMELLS is a small village and parish, pleasantly situated upon the sea coast, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Candleshoe wapentake, union and county court district of Spilsby, Candleshoe rural deanery No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 7 north-east from Burgh station and 12 east-by-north from Spilsby. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of freestone, the massive round piers of which seem to indicate a Norman origin, but the capitals are of later date, probably Early English, but greatly varied, the remainder of the structure is chiefly of the Decorated period: it consists of clerestoried nave of 6 bays, aisles, porch and a Decorated western tower with embattled parapet and angle pinnacles, and containing 4 bells and a "ting-tang," or sanctus bell: the chancel is supposed to have been taken down about the year 1706: in 1865, two fine old chantry screens, of richly carved oak, which enclosed the easternmost bays of the aisles, were broken up and disposed on a modern pulpit and in various parts of the church; these were originally set up by Thomas Bec, bishop of Lincoln, 1343-51: the font is Decorated, with a stem panelled in quatrefoils: the church was once very rich in sepulchral slabs, but in 1746, when the interior was refloored, many were destroyed and others have since disappeared: in the north aisle is a large slab inscribed to John Hyltoft, of Ingoldmells, gent. ob. 10 December, 1473, and Margaret, his wife; before the north door is another, inscribed to Philip de B——, canon of Markby: on the floor of the north aisle is a brass, with the figure of a man leaning on a short crutch, under which is inscribed, "Pray for the sowle of Willm Palmer with ye stilt, which decesid on holy rode day (Sep. 14) in ye yere of Our Lord God A. MO. CCCCC. XX.:" in the same aisle is a slab with inscription to William Skegnes, "de yrggoldmeles," ob. 4 June, 1508: the church was entirely restored in 1866, and vestry with stained windows were added: upwards of £400 was expended: the sittings are all open and are free and unappropriated: the church is supported by a voluntary rate. An iron fence encloses the churchyard, erected at the cost of the rector. The register dates from the year 1633. The living is a discharged rectory, gross yearly value £173 with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Giles, and held since 1865 by the Rev. Joseph Charles Edwards M.A., F.R.S.L. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1836. Charles Langton Massingberd esq. J.P. of Gunby Park, Burgh, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late Nathaniel Cartwright, George Sidney and William Hurdman esqrs. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, peas and potatoes. The area is 1,407 acres of land and 450 of water; rateable value, £2,061; the population in 1881 was 241.

Parish Clerk, John Sowden.

IRBY-IN-THE-MARSH is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of Candleshoe wapentake, Spilsby union and county court district, rural deanery of Candleshoe No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, half a mile east from Firsby railway station, 12½ miles from London, 5 east-south-east from Spilsby and north-west from Wainfleet, west from Burgh. The church of All Saints is a building of sandstone and brick in the Norman and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel and nave and a low western tower containing 3 bells: it appears originally to have had aisles, and the northern arcade remains, built up in the wall: in 1863 the church was restored, reseated and a new roof was added. In the churchyard is an altar tomb to the Rev. John Smorthwaite, vicar, 1813. The register dates from the year 1566. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £93, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Charles George Ridley who is rector of and resides at Bratoft. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. In 1503 John Holden, of Burgh-in-the-Marsh, left by will 54 acres of land in the parishes of Burgh and Irby for charitable purposes now producing about £120 yearly. Of this sum, £10 is assigned to the vicars of Burgh and Irby, £6 13s. 4d. to the churchwardens and the balance is distributed at the discretion of the trustees in assisting the coal and clothing clubs and the schools of Burgh and Irby. The land in this parish is the property of various small owners. The soil is a rich loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and pasture. The area is 1,090 acres; rateable value, £1,085; the population in 1881 was 178.

IRNHAM is a pleasant village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Beltisloe hundred, Bourne union and county court district, rural deanery of Beltisloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, about 2½ miles north-east from Corby station, 6 north-west from Bourn and 10 south-east from Grantham. The church of St. Andrew is a fine old stone building in the Early English style, having chancel, nave and north aisle, with a square tower, containing 4 bells; it contains some ancient monuments and brasses, also a handsome east window in memory of W. H. Woodhouse; in 1858 the church was entirely reseated and an ancient eastern sepulchre, previously in the chancel, removed to the east end of the north aisle; and in 1866, the trustees of the estate erected new entrance gates of iron, with stone pillars and iron palisading set in stone curb, at the approach to the churchyard from the Corby road. The register, including Bulby and Hawthorpe, dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Corby annexed, net joint yearly value £700, including 82 acres of glebe, with residence at Corby, in the gift of the trustees of the late William Hervey Woodhouse esq. and held since 1851 by the Rev. Charles Farebrother B.C.L. of Trinity College, Oxford, who resides at Corby. The Hall, a handsome stone mansion in the Tudor style, is the residence of William Hornsby esq. J.P.; it is situate in a beautiful park of about 270 acres. Miss Isabel Hervey Woodhouse is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat. The area of the parish is 3,520 acres; rateable value, £4,615; the population in 1881 was 152 in the township and 284 in the parish.

BULBY, 2 miles east, and HAWTHORPE, one and a half north-east, are hamlets, forming together one township for the support of the poor; they belong principally to Lord Aveland, whose seat, Bulby House, is situated in the former; it is a substantial Elizabethan structure, situated on an eminence, in a pleasant park, and is approached from the Bourn road by a carriage drive through a pretty avenue. Bulby contained in 1881 a population of 98 and Hawthorpe 70.

WEST KEAL, anciently called "Oustcal," "Westerkele" and "West Kiel," is a parish and pleasant village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, west division of Bolingbroke soke, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Bolingbroke, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles south-west from Spilsby railway station. The church of St. Helen, situated on a bold eminence, is a building of green sandstone and brick, in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, porch and a fine tower containing 5 bells: the tower fell from decay Sept. 18th, 1881, but has been rebuilt, partly by the late Col. Weston Cracroft-Amcotts, of Hackthorn Park, and completed by his son, Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. in 1884: the chancel was rebuilt in 1866, in the Early Decorated style: the nave and aisles were re-seated in 1865: and there is a stained window in the chancel, to the memory of John Jones esq. of West Keal Hall: near the door is a stoup. The register dates from the year 1625. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from 314 acres of glebe £420, net £450, in the gift of Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. and held since 1879 by the Rev. John Sam Ladds M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The charities amount to £5 yearly, arising from land. Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. of Hackthorn Park, is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil of the low part of this parish is clay, and the upper part sand and red loam. The crops are on the four-course system. The area is 1,963 acres; rateable value, £2,605; the population in 1881 was 369, in the civil parish, and 415 in the ecclesiastical.

KEAL COATES is a hamlet of this parish, situated near a navigable drain, about one mile and a half south from the church and on the road from Spilsby to Boston, and has a Wesleyan chapel. By a Local Government Board Provisional Order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by Act 44, Vict. cxvii. a detached part of this parish, with a population of 36, was transferred to Stickford parish, and a detached part, with a population of 10, was also at the same time transferred to the new parish of West Fen.

KEELBY is a parish and large village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Yarborough wapentake, Caistor union and county court district, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles north-east from Caistor, 3 south-west from Stallingborough station and 8 west from Great Grimsby. The church of St. Bartholomew is a very ancient building of stone, with some portions of Norman date, but is chiefly of the Decorated period, consisting of chancel and nave and a western embattled tower containing 3 bells; there was formerly a south aisle, the arcade of which can still be traced; at the end of the north aisle is a monument to John South, 1591, and in the north wall of the same aisle a circular medallion bust of Alice South, 1605, with a quaint Latin inscription in verse: all the brasses have disappeared, but the slabs once containing them remain, and are very fine. The church plate includes a chalice of silver of the sixteenth century. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £173 including 62 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Earl of Yarborough, and held since 1855 by the Rev. John Mussendine Holt M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The glebe land is let in allotments. There is a Wesleyan chapel, built on the site of the old one, with a Sunday school attached, at a cost of about £1,300, and opened May 1st, 1867; it will seat about 400 persons. The Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1850, and holds about 250 persons. The poor have 10 acres of land, left by Mrs. Alice South, of Keelby, in the year 1605. A pleasure fair is held here on the 10th of July. Colonel George Tomline D.L., J.P. of Riby Grove, who is lord of the manor, the Earl of Yarborough and John Hall esq. are the principal landowners. The subsoil is loamy, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, turnips, barley and seeds. The area is 1,756 acres; rateable value, £3,625; the population in 1881 was 742.

KELBY anciently "Chileby" or "Chillebi," is a township and chapelry, in Haydor parish, Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Aswardhurn, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of North Grantham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5½ miles south-west from Sleaford, 9 north-east from Grantham and 3 south-east from Ancaster station. The church of St. Peter is a fine building in the Norman, Decorated and Perpendicular styles consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, porch and a tower with spire containing 1 bell; the Decorated windows of the south aisle, which is groined in stone, are very beautiful, and among the remains of the painted glass in that at the east end is the figure of an angel censing: the font, a plain octagon, is Early English: the lower part of the tower Norman and the clerestory Perpendicular: there is a Norman piscina in the chancel, and an aumbry: the tower and spire which had fallen were rebuilt about 1850: the carved benches belong to the late Perpendicular period and have lately been restored. The registers are included in those of Haydor. The living is a chapelry, annexed with that of Culverthorpe to the vicarage of Haydor, joint yearly value £600, in the gift of J. A. Houblon esq. and held since 1856 by the Rev. Gordon Frederic Deedes M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford, who resides at Haydor. J. A. Houblon esq. who is lord of the manor, and Lt.-Col. M. W. Willson J.P. of Rauceby Hall are landowners in this parish. The soil is various; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are all kinds of cereal and roots. The area is 900 acres; rateable value, £909; the population in 1881 was 99.

NORTH KELSEY is an extensive parish, on a branch of the river Ancholme, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, south division of Yarborough wapentake, Caistor union and county court district, Yarborough rural deanery No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln: the village is one mile and a half west from the station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, 160 miles from London, 8 east from Kirton-in-Lindsey, 5 west from Caistor and 7 south from Brigg. The church of St. Nicholas, with the exception of the tower, was restored in 1869, at a cost of £1,500: it is a building of stone, and consists of chancel, nave, aisle, north and south porches: the tower is ancient and contains 3 bells: the chancel and nave are Early Decorated; the east window is stained, in the memory of Maria, wife of William Frederick Chambers M.D. aged 42: the church was restored in 1869, at a cost of £1,500. The register dates from the year 1612. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £360, including 242 acres of glebe, with house, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Joseph Curry M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel, the former built in 1848, the latter in 1882; there is a good organ in the Wesleyan chapel, erected by subscription. A chapel was erected on the moor in 1873, at a cost of £500, raised by subscription: the building, which is of red brick and Ancaster stone, in the Gothic style, from designs by Mr. H. M. Townsend, of Peterborough, consists of chancel, with vestry and a bell turret; a triple arch separates the chancel and nave. The poor have the benefit of a few small charities, amount uncertain. John Wright esq. is lord of the manor. S. W. Wright esq. and Mr. John Cox, G. B. Skipworth esq. Thomas Gibbons and Thomas Atkinson are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, sand. SOUTH KELSEY (with the hamlet of MOORTOWN) is a large parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of Walshcroft wapentake, Caistor union and county court district, Market Rasen petty sessional division, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln. The village is pleasantly situated, about 2½ miles west from the Moortown station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, 6 miles south-west from Caistor and 8 south-east from Brigg. The church of St. Mary is a modern building of stone, almost entirely re-erected in 1795 and in part with the materials of the church of St. Nicholas, then removed: it consists of Decorated chancel, nave of four bays, western tower (1250) with 3 bells and a clock: the stained east window, erected in 1853, was the gift of the late George Skipworth esq.: the church was structurally re-arranged in the same year, under the direction of Mr. Butterfield: within the north wall is the stone effigy of a knight in chain mail and cyclas, or long skirted surcoat, bearing a shield with the arms of Hansard; the figure is of the thirteenth century, and may represent Robert Hansard, who distinguished himself in the Scottish wars, in the reign of Edward I.: in the central aisle is a slab with effigies in brass, of a knight and lady of the time of Henry IV.; the former is in full armour. The registers, including those of St. Nicholas, date from the year 1539. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £550 with residence, in the gift of the Crown and G. B. Skipworth esq. alternately, and held since 1865 by the Rev. Herbert Charles Brewster B.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. There were formerly two livings, SS. Mary and Nicholas, which were consolidated at the beginning of this century. The church of St. Nicholas has been pulled down, but the churchyard is still used as a burial-ground. The Wesleyans, Free Methodists and Primitive Methodists have each places of worship: the Wesleyans have also a chapel at Moortown. At a place called Wenghale, or Winghale, in this parish, there formerly existed a Priory founded in the reign of Henry III. as a cell to the Abbey of Sees in Normandy, and dedicated to St. John the Baptist, of which there are now no remains: at the dissolution, it was granted successively to Robert Lincoln, clerk, and Richard Hansard, and afterwards to King's College, Cambridge. The Foresters and Drnids have clubs here, and hold their meetings at the Bull inn, an old established and commodious house, situate in the centre of the village. A farm house now stands on the site of the old hall of South Kelsey, of which, however, some portions, consisting chiefly of the inner moat, part of one of the angle turrets, a stone arch and some other fragments remain; the building was of brick with stone dressings, with a central courtyard, and the principal front, of which there is a drawing in the Gough Collection in the Bodleian Library, was flanked by octagonal towers with domed roof covered with lead. The hall was for many centuries the seat of the ancient family of Hansard of Northumberland. The manor and hall in the sixteenth century came into the possession of Sir Francis Ayscough by his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of William Hansard, and the sister of Sir Francis was the Lady Anne Ayscough (called Askew by Foxe, in his Book of Martyrs), who was taken from South Kelsey Hall and burnt at Smithfield, in the reign of Queen Mary. The estate was purchased by Mr. Philip Skipworth, the grandfather of the present proprietor, at the beginning of this century. George Borman Skipworth esq. of Moortown house, is lord of the manor, and owns all the land with the exception of a small portion. The soil is peat, sand and clay; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and turnips. The area is 4,980 acres; rateable value, £5,914; the population in 1881 was 615.

MOORTOWN, 3 miles south-west from Caistor, is a railway station on the M. S. & L. Railway. Moortown House is the residence of George Borman Skipworth esq.

KETTLETHORPE with FENTON.

KETTLETHORPE is a parish, pleasantly situated on the west side of the Foss Dyke navigation, over which there is a ferry for passengers and vehicles: it divides this parish from the Hardwick township; it is in the Mid division of the county, Well wapentake, parts of Lindsey, Gainsborough union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9½ miles west-north-west from Lincoln, 3½ west from Saxilby, which is the nearest railway station, and 10 south from Gainsborough. Kettlethorpe proper, where the church is, is very picturesque; it is flanked by plantations; there are some fine avennes of old timber and some charming walks. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an old stone building in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave and a western tower surmounted by battlements with 3 bells: the upper portion of the tower is Perpendicular: the three-light Decorated stained east window was inserted in 1874, in memory of the Rev. G. J. Atkinson, a former rector of this parish; there are two other memorial windows, also some mural tablets, one of which, in the east wall of the chancel, to the Rev. John Becke, is dated 1597. The register, including Fenton, dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £520, from 311 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. and held since 1882 by the Rev. Edwd. Augustus Faber M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. The charities amount to £23 yearly, and are £24 from 5A. 3R. 23P. of land allotted at the enclosure in lieu of land left by the Rev. William Becke in 1597, £7 from Hall's charity, and 13s. 6d. interest of £20 left by Mrs. Leake in 1723. Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is a sandy loam; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and pasture, and there is much woodland. The area of the entire parish is 2,972 acres; rateable value, £4,271; the population in 1881 was—of the township 240, and of the parish 508.

Fenton, a village and township in this parish, is one mile north-west. The Foss Dyke navigation skirts the township to the north and east. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. Here is a lock on the Foss Dyke, likewise wharf and maltkiln. The area is 1,121 acres; rateable value, £2,220; the population in 1881 was 268.

KILLINGHOLME is a parish, comprising the townships of North and South Killingholme, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Yarborough wapentake, Glanford Brigg union, Barton-on-Humber county court district, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln.

North Killingholme is a small, straggling village, 8 miles east-by-south from Barton, 2 north-east from Ulceby Junction, and 2 from the Humber. The church of St. Denis is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles and a small tower containing 4 bells: the tower arch is Norman: there is a hagioscope. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, with that of Habrough annexed, joint gross yearly value £500, including 135 acres of glebe at Killingholme, in the gift of the Earl of Yarborough, and held since 1842 by the Rev. John Byron M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford. Killingholme Manor, the seat of Miss Byron, is a brick mansion of the period of Henry VII.; in the grounds there are several ancient yew trees. The principal landowners are the Earl of Yarborough D.L., J.P., the Rev. John Byron M.A. vicar, Miss Byron, who is lady of the manor, and Col. Sir John Dugdale Astley, bart. J.P. of Elsham Hall. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The population in 1881 was 216.

South Killingholme is a small village, one mile south from North Killingholme, the township extending to the Humber, where there are three lighthouses; two were erected in 1836, and one in January, 1852. There are Wesleyan, Baptist and Primitive Methodist chapels here. Here are the brick and tile works of Messrs. Isaac Good & Sons. On the shore is a small haven. The Earl of Yarborough D.L. J.P., who is lord of the manor, Miss Byron, and the Rev. John Byron M.A. vicar, are the principal landowners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area of the entire parish is 5,290 acres of land and 1,935 of water;

KINGERBY is a parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of the wapentake of Walshcroft, Caistor union, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln. The village is within 2 miles east of the Ancholme navigation, on a feeder of the river Ancholme, 5 miles north-west from Market Rasen station and 2½ miles west from Usselby station. The church of St. Peter is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, porch and a western tower containing 2 bells: the north aisle appears to have been removed in the early part of the fourteenth century: in the chancel are two effigies of knights in chain armour of the thirteenth century, and probably represent members of the Dyves family: there is also here a curious monument to one of the Disneys, consisting of a coffin-shaped tomb, with openings in the upper part, through which appear the bust and feet of a civilian, the head reposing under an ogee canopy: four shields adorn the remaining space. The church plate includes a chalice and paten of silver, given by Thomas Bell, an apothecary of London, who was born here: both are adorned with bold and effective representations of the crucifixion. There are several monuments to the Youngs. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1765, marriages 1776. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £295, including ten acres of glebe with house, in the gift of Thomas Arthur Young esq. and held since 1874 by the Rev. William Allen Cottee M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Almshouses for six poor people were founded and endowed in 1676 by Thomas Bell, mentioned above, who left £100 a year for that purpose. Kingerby House, a large modern mansion, is now unoccupied. Thomas Arthur Young esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil and subsoil are clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and pasture. The area is 1,435 acres; rateable value, £1,951; the population in 1881 was 100.

BISHOP BRIDGE is a hamlet, 1½ miles south-west, a small part of which is in this parish, the remainder being in Glentham.

KIRKBY-ON-BAIN is a township and parish, near the Horncastle navigation, in the Mid division of the county, south division of the wapentake of Gartree, parts of Lindsey, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Gartree, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles from Woodhall Spa Railway station (which is for passengers only) 4½ miles from Kirkstead Railway station, 5 miles south-by-west from Horncastle and 4½ north-by-east from Tattershall. The church of St. Mary, rebuilt in 1802, in the Debased Gothic style of that period, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, porch, vestry and small bell gable of Ancaster stone, containing 1 bell; the church was greatly improved in 1879 by the addition of a porch and vestry in Ancaster stone, and the erection of a bell gable, the whole interior being at the same time relaid, reseated and refitted: the windows were also filled with mullions and tracery, and a western gallery removed: these works were effected at a cost of £616, and the church was reopened November 6, 1879, by the Bishop of Lincoln. The register including Tumby dates from the year 1562. At the rebuilding in 1802, several of the monuments previously in the chancel are supposed to have been destroyed for want of room, but they are recorded in the Harleian MSS. 6829. In 1451 died Richard Lambard a former vicar; a flat stone to William Balliour a former vicar 1510; a gravestone with brasses to William Brackenbury and his wife, 1476: about 250 years ago there were in the windows of the rectory house the armorial bearings of twenty county families, including Willoughby, Beke, Percy, Lucy, Tyrwhit, Taylboys, Gascoyne and Dymoke; all these as well as the monuments have disappeared. The living is a rectory, in the peculiar jurisdiction of the manor court of Tattershall, having Tumby annexed, joint yearly value £485, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1846 by the Rev. Charles Frederick Rogers Baylay M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There are in the village a Wealeyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Earl Fortescue is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is sandy; subsoil, sand and alluvial. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the whole parish is about 5,387 acres, 1678 being in Kirkby-on-Bain; the rateable value of which is £1,349; the population in 1881 was 261 in the township and 580 in the parish.

TUMBY, a township of Kirkby-on-Bain, will be found under a separate heading.

EAST KIRKBY is a parish and pleasant village, in the Mid division of the county, west division of the soke of Bolingbroke, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, parts of Lindsey, rural deanery of Bolingbroke, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles south-west from Spilsby station on the Tattershall road, and 9 north-east from Tattershall. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient building of green sandstone and Ancaster stone, chiefly of the Decorated period, with some remains of Early English work, and Perpendicular insertions, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, and an embattled tower adjoining the south aisle towards its western end, and containing 2 bells: the greater part of the oaken wood screen, including the doors, remains intact, and on either side of the chancel are considerable portions of the screens formerly enclosing chantry chapels at the end of both aisles; all this wood work is of Early Perpendicular date; in the north wall is a piscina, with credence, united in one, and over these an ornamented canopied reredos of diaper-work; adjoining these, to the west, is a Decorated aumbry; at the east end of the south aisle is a sepulchral slab with a beautifully incised cross, and a defaced marginal inscription to Sir Robert Sylkestone, who founded the chantry in this aisle, and died 14th June, 1347.: a Decorated slab, with heads of figures at the angles, perhaps an altar bracket, also belonged to this chantry; there is another monumental slab with incised cross, a few ancient tiles, and some fragments of painted glass. The parish register dates from the year 1583. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £170, including 118 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of J. B. Stanhope, esq. D.L., J.P. and held since 1857 by the Rev. George Maughan M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, who is also vicar of Hagnaby. There is a Wesleyan chapel here erected in 1862. Thomas Goodricke or Goderich, of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, Bishop of Ely (1533-54) and Lord Chancellor of England from 1551, was born here; he died May 10, 1554. There is a drain near the village, which is navigable to Boston. Tom Robinson esq. M.D. is lord of the manor, James Banks Stanhope esq. D.L., J.P. of Revesby Abbey, Boston, and Roger Pocklington-Coltman esq. D.L., J.P. of Hagnaby park, are the principal landowners. The soil is sandy, loam and clay; subsoil, blue clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, seeds and turnips. The area is 1,956 acres; rateable value £2,611; the population in 1881 was 354.

KIRKBY GREEN is a small parish, in the Mid division of the county, first division of the wapentake of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, Longoboby rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north-by-east from Sleaford, 7 south-west from Kirkstead station, three-quarters of a mile south-west from Scopwick station, on the Great Northern and Great Eastern joint line, and 130 from London. Scopwick beck flows through the parish. The church of the Holy Cross, erected in 1848 on the site of the old church, then removed, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave, and has a bell turret on the western gable with 1 bell and a small western porch: the communion plate is ancient. The register dates from the year 1722. The living is a vicarage, united with Scopwick, joint gross yearly value £330, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1866 by the Rev. Charles Hall B.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, who resides at Scopwick. Henry Chaplin esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Blankney, Sleaford, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is strong; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, oats, turnips &c. The area is 401 acres; rateable value, £716; the population in 1881 was 123.

KIRKBY-CUM-OSGODBY (formerly called Angotby) is a small parish, in which are two villages, in the Northern division of the county, north division of Walshcroft wapentake, Caistor union, Market Rasen county court district, parts of Lindsey, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles west from Usselby station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, 4 north-west from Market Rasen, and 8 south-west from Caistor. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient building, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel and nave, with a western tower with pinnacles, containing 4 bells: the nave was rebuilt in 1825, but the chancel and tower are Early English, and there are some Decorated windows: in the north wall of the chancel is a double piscina, and a single one in the east wall: on the south side is a fine altar tomb, with a male effigy in armour, with jupon and baldrick, and the feet resting on a wild boar. The Latin legend commemorates John Wildebere, who died 3 Non. Oct. (5 Oct.) 1398: on the north side, within a canopied recess, surrounded by graceful foliated work is the effigy of a lady reposing within an open coffin, her head, covered with a square coif, resting on two pillows; this figure represents Margaret, wife of John Wildboar, and is of much the same date as that in the other tomb: within the recess are two shields, one displaying the arms of Wildboar, the other a chevron between three oxen: it is uncertain whether this Margaret was the wife of the John Wildbere of the other tomb. The register, including Osgodby, dates from about the year 1555. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Owersby, joint gross yearly value £444, in the gift of William Angerstein esq. and held by the Rev. Charles Moon, who resides at Owersby. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have places of worship here. In Osgodby there is a Catholic chapel dedicated to St. Joseph, built in 1793 by the Young family of Kingerby. George Hewitt esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are William Angerstein esq. and Thomas Arthur Young esq. The soil is clay and sand; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, oats, and much land is in pasture. The area is 1,710 acres; rateable value, £1,843: the population in 1881 was 374.

KIRKBY LAYTHORPE (or LA THORPE) originally "Ledulvethore," being the settlement of one "Ledulf," is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Aswardhurn, parts of Kesteven, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, rural deanery of Aswardhurn-with-Lafford No. 2, 2 miles east from Sleaford, on the road to Boston. There were formerly two churches in this parish, but that of St. Peter, representing the northern mediety, has been long destroyed: it stood near the north-west corner of the rectory house: in 1859 many fragments were dug up, and Saxon remains have also been discovered. The church of St. Denis is an ancient and picturesque building of the Norman, Transitional, Late Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a low embattled western tower, with pinnacles, chiefly Decorated, containing 3 bells: the south entrance is plain Norman, with circular pillars: the aisle is separated from the nave by three low circular columns, supporting semi-circular arches of Transitional work: the chancel is modern, and has a stained east window, of three lights and three stained lancet windows: there is a Perpendicular rood screen in five compartments of light open tracery, and a panelled octagonal font: some delicately painted glass of the Decorated period remains in the aisle windows. The chancel was rebuilt by a former rector in 1854-55; the nave and north aisle are now (1884) in a dilapidated state. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a rectory, with that of Asgarby annexed, tithe rent-charge (Kirkby) £300; joint net yearly value £600, including 47 acres of glebe at Kirkby, in the gift of the Marquess of Bristol, and held since 1877 by the Ven. John Gorton M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford, and late archdeacon of Madras. The rectory house is a spacious building erected by the present rector in 1878; the grounds are very large and well laid out. Kirkby Laythorpe was formerly a distinct chapelry, and the site of the chapel may be traced. In the register for 1737 is the following memorandum:—

"By an instrument bearing date April 1st, 1737, the rectory of Kirkby was united to the rectory of Asgarby by the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Lincoln and the Rev. Gascoigne Wright, Rector.

Signed H. HARRIS, his X mark, } Church-
W. J. MUSTON, } wardens."

By a deed bearing date July 20th, 1743, a piece of land at Asgarby, now in the occupation of Mr. B. Tomlinson, was conveyed to the rector and overseer of the poor of Kirkby, and to their successors for ever, in trust for the poor of Kirkby, the rents to be distributed at the discretion of the trustees. The Marquess of Bristol is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and potatoes. The area is 1,570 acres; rateable value, £3,957; the population in 1881 was 256.

KIRKBY UNDERWOOD is a parish and pleasant village, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 1½ miles west from Rippingale station, 5 north from Bourn, 4½ south from Falkingham, and 101 from London. The church of St. Mary and All Saints, situated a short distance west of the village, is a small building of stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, and a tower containing 3 bells: it is at present (1884) in a very ruinous state. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, from 206 acres of glebe, £258; net £185, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Lemuel Saywell PH.D., of Rostock University. There are five almshouses, which had once an income of £59 yearly, but this benefaction has been diverted from this parish for some years, and is now applied to other objects at Belton. Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay; bricks are made here. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The parish contains about 1,340 acres, including a great deal of woodland; rateable value, £1,409; the population in 1881 was 213.

KIRKSTEAD is a parish and station on the Great Northern railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, South division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, 3 miles north-west-by-north from Tattershall, 122¾ from London and 7 south-west from Horncastle, in the vale of the river Witham, over which is a ferry to Martin and Timberland. The church of St. Leonard, situated to the south of the abbey, is a small building of stone, in the Early English style: the walls have been for some years in an insecure state, apparently from the foundation having given way: it consists of nave only, with a small turret containing 1 bell: it has extremely narrow lancet windows and a groined roof; the north-west and south-west angles are supported by massive buttresses rising nearly to the wall plate; the west front of two stages has a fine Early English recessed doorway, and in the upper storey an elegant arcade of three arches, the central arch, which is rather larger than the others, enclosing a vesica-shaped window: the interior is even more beautiful, dwarf shafts, with delicately carved capitals rising at intervals from a string course running round the building, and supporting vaulting principals enriched with the tooth ornament, which divide the roof into four squares with large circular bosses in the middle: at the east end is an exquisite triplet of three lancet windows, with clustered and banded shafts between, and arches decorated with nail-head carving: on the south side there is a piscina, and there are some remains of a wooden rood screen; the canopied pulpit is Jacobean: the chapel also contains the upper portion of a knightly effigy in mail-covered helmet; the armour exactly coincides in date with the architecture of the building, and the figure may therefore represent Robert de Tattershall and Kirkstead, who died in 1212. There is a strong feeling in favour of the restoration of this church, but no steps have as yet been taken in the matter. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a donative, yearly value £40, in the gift of the trustees of the late G. Moore esq. and held since 1869 by the Rev. James Conway Walter M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, vicar of Langton St. Andrew. Disney's charity of £200 yearly, left in 1715 by Daniel Disney, of Kirkstead, derived from lands, now forms an endowment for a Presbyterian chapel. The Cistercian abbey of St. Mary, Kirkstead, of which some remains still exist, was founded in 1139 by Hugh Brito, and colonized from Fountains Abbey in Yorkshire: the revenues at the Dissolution were estimated at £286. The land is tithe free, having formerly been part of the possessions of the abbey which were of great extent. The trustees of the late G. Moore esq. are lords of the manor and sole landowners. The soil is sand and peat; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, seeds and turnips. The area is 1,459 acres; rateable value, £1,883; the population in 1881 was 114. By a Local Government Board order dated December 24th, 1880, a detached part of the parish containing 14 inhabitants was transferred to Langriville in Boston union.

TOWN END is one mile north-east of the church; Wood Corner 1½ miles north-east.

KIRMINGTON is a small agricultural parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, East division of Yarborough wapentake, Glanford Brigg union, Brigg county court district, Yarborough rural deanery No.2, Stow archdeaconry and Lincoln diocese, in a fertile vale, 7 miles north-east from Brigg, 3 east from the Barnetby station, 168 from London and 7 north from Caistor. The church of St.Helen is a building of stone,in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel,nave,vestry and a tower of the twelfth century,to which,in 1838,a wooden spire covered with copper was added,at the cost of the Earl of Yarborough; it contains a clock and 1 bell: the clock was given to the parish by Mrs. C.C. Barnard,wife of the late rector. The church was restored in 1859, under the direction of S. S. Teulon esq. at a cost of £800, defrayed by William Hudson esq.: both aisles were then rebuilt, the nave new roofed, the tower arch opened and a vestry added: the windows in the aisles are stained; the font, the west window, representing St. Helen, and one of the windows in the south aisle were given by the Rev. R. C. Brackenbury, then vicar. The register dates from the year 1698. The living is a vicarage, annexed to Brocklesby, joint gross yearly value £450 with residence, in the gift of the trustees of the Earl of Yarborough, and held since 1869 by the Rev. John Henry Johnson B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge. The rectory house was built in 1846, at a cost of over £2,000. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each small chapels here. The Earl of Yarborough D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is generally free; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips, generally farmed on the four-field system. The area is 1,822 acres; rateable value, £3,206 5s.; the population in 1881 was 401.

KIRTON is a large parish, including the small hamlets of KIRTON END, KIRTON HOLME, SKELDYKE, KIRTON MERE, SEADYKE and KIRTON FEN, the latter extends from 7 to 10 miles north-west from the church, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Kirton, parts of Holland, Boston union and county court district, North Holland No. 1 rural deanery and Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese: the village is 103 miles from London and 4 south-south-west from Boston, on the road from Boston to Spalding, with a station on the Great Northern railway. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, north and south porches and a western tower of four stages, with embattled parapet and angle pinnacles and containing 8 bells and a clock: the present tower, wholly rebuilt in the present century, is a fine feature and incorporates portions of the old tower; the west, south, and north doorways are Early English: the nave arcades are of the same date and support a fine clerestory, lighted by twelve windows on either side; the nave roof is a good example of Perpendicular timber work; at the bases of the principals, under canopies, are figures of saints and angels upon brackets: on the south side of the tower arch there remains a crocketed canopied recess: the font is octagonal, each face being panelled and arcaded, and on the base is this inscription: "Orate pro anima Alanuii Burton MCCCCV": the church was originally cruciform, and remains of the transepts with western aisles and of the former Decorated chancel with its aisles can be still traced. The register dates from the year 1555. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value £420 and house, in the gift of the Mercers' Company, London, and held since 1846 by the Rev. William Ludlow M.A. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge and Prebendary of Lincoln Cathedral, who is non-resident; the Rev. Edward Marshall B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, is curate in charge. There are Congregational and Wesleyan chapels. There are almshouses for four poor women; each inmate receives 1s. 3d. weekly. The poors' estate of 41 acres produces £130 yearly. The consolidated charities amounting to about £300 are distributed to the poor of this parish. The market is disused. A Gas Consumers' Company Limited was formed here in 1865. D'Eyncourt Hall, the residence of Samuel Smeeton esq. is a modern white brick building. The principal landowners are The Mercers' Company, London, Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. D.L. E. R. C. Cust esq. D.L. of Arthingworth, Northants, the Very Rev. Arthur Perceval-Purey-Cust D.D. Samuel Smeeton esq. and several smaller freeholders. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay and loam. The chief crops are wheat, beans and potatoes; here is also a large quantity of excellent feeding pasture land: 676 acres of marsh land were enclosed from the sea in 1873. The area is 8,962 acres; rateable value, £15,865; the population in 1881 was of the ecclesiastical parish 2,011, which includes part of the civil parish and Simon Weir civil parish; the population of the civil parish in 1881 was 2,580, which includes 253 in Brothertoft township and 456 in Holland Fen ecclesiastical parish.

KIRTON END is 1 mile north-west; KIRTON HOLME, 3 miles north; KIRTON MERE, 2½ miles north-west; SEADYKE, 1¾ mile south-east; and SKELDYKE, 2½ south.

SIMON WEIR, from 2 to 3 miles south-west of the church, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish in Boston union, and is ecclesiastically annexed to Kirton, containing 4 acres of land; population in 1881, 17.

KIRTON FEN will be found under Holland Fen ecclesiastical parish.

Parish Clerk, Joseph Rossington.

KIRTON-IN-LINDSEY is an ancient market town, station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, large parish, and polling place for the Northern division of the county, in Corringham wapentake, parts of Lindsey, Glanford Brigg union, Brigg county court district, petty sessional division of Gainsborough, Corringham rural deanery, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln: it is beautifully situated on the western side of a commanding eminence, 159½ miles from London, 10 north-east from Gainsborough, 18 north from Lincoln and 8 south-west from Glanford Brigg. The town is lighted with gas in the houses, but not in the streets. The church of St. Peter and St. Paul is an ancient structure of large dimensions, in the Transitional, Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, baptistery (formerly south porch), and a large western tower (with Perpendicular parapet and pinnacles at the angles) containing a clock and 6 bells: the church was originally erected in the twelfth century, but having been frequently repaired, it now exhibits features of every style from that period to the fifteenth century: the church was restored about 1860, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Hakewill, of London, when the tower was opened to the nave, a new chancel arch built, the roof enriched with hammer beams and carved ribs, and the interior reseated with open benches: the restoration of the chancel, undertaken by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, was superintended by their architect, Mr. Ewan Christian, its lancet windows (four of which are now filled with stained glass) were renewed, the Norman priests' door renovated, an arcaded stone reredos erected, and the interior refitted with carved oak stalls: in the church is the effigy of a cross-legged knight in chain mail, much dilapidated, with his feet upon a griffin; there is an aumbry, an altar slab, and two good piscinæ; but the most interesting feature disclosed during the restoration was that of a mural painting between two windows of the north aisle, representing the crucifixion, with SS. Mary and John, the sacraments, and the shield of the donor below the painting: dated, probably, from late in the fourteenth century: the old south doorway, now in the baptistery, is most beautiful Early English, and in fine preservation: the east window was filled with stained glass in 1868, as also are two small lancet windows in the baptistery: the font, a handsome carved stone specimen, with small marble columns, is dedicated to the Rev. Robert Ousby, who was 32 years curate of the parish. The register dates from the year 1585. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value £316 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Robert Henry Charters B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, and surrogate. The Baptist chapel, built in 1663, was rebuilt in 1841, and will seat 250 persons; the Wesleyan chapel was built in 1840, and has been enlarged and greatly improved; the Primitive Methodist chapel was rebuilt in 1862. The Grammar school, lately situated on the green, and endowed by decree of the Court of Exchequer in the year 1517, is now in the hands of the School Board, under the provisions of a new scheme framed in 1879; two fellowships, each worth £60 per year, with rooms and commons at Magdalene College, Cambridge, and 7 scholarships, worth £22 10s. founded by Sir Christopher and Lady Wray, about 1596, but never awarded, are now thrown open; the remaining portion of the endowment, about £100, is now partly appropriated in the foundation of six exhibitions of the yearly value of £4, tenable for two years, and one or two exhibitions of the yearly value of £25, tenable for two years, at some school or place of higher education approved by the governors. Boys or girls may be presented as candidates who are attending any public Elementary Schools in the parish of Kirton-in-Lindsey, or in Blyborough, Grayingham, Hibaldstow, Manton, Messingham, Northorpe, Redbourne, Scotter, Scotton and Waddingham, preference being given to Kirton-in-Lindsey, if there are a sufficient number of candidates duly qualified. The charities consist of 30s. yearly from the town yard, left by Richard Torksey in 1679; £4 from the Poor Close allotted at the enclosure; £7 12s. from Hawcroft Close, left by Mary Turner in 1741; and £6 from Brass Close for clothing, left by Anne Darwin. The spring markets commence on the first Saturday after Good Friday, for cattle, and continue for five alternate Saturdays; the winter markets commence on the Saturday before the 11th of October, and continue for five alternate Saturdays. Two large cattle fairs for stock are held on the Green on July 18th and December 11th. The County Bridewell, or House of Correction, is now disused, and prisoners are taken to Lincoln. On Kirton Green stands the Court House, a detached brick building, where the manorial courts are held and the records kept. The Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire Railway Company have a station and warehouse about half a mile north of the town, near to which is a tunnel 1,100 yards in length, passing under the hill known here by the name of the Cliff. Here are limekilns, brick and tile yards, rope walks and steam and wind mills. The manor and soke of Kirton was formerly part of the Duchy of Cornwall, but was sold to the late John Julius Angerstein esq. in 1799. The mineral rights and Court House were reserved, and are still held by the Duchy of Cornwall. Arthur Richard Oldman and Charles Edmund Oldman esqrs. with Mrs. Eliza Oldman are joint lords and lady of the manor. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners and the Duchy of Cornwall are the principal landowners. The area is 4,700 acres; rateable value, £10,713; the population in 1881 was 1,851.

Parish Clerk, George Austin.

KNAITH is a parish, on the east bank of the navigable Trent, which here divides the county from Nottinghamshire, in the Mid division of the county, wapentake of Well, parts of Lindsey, Gainsborough union, petty sessional division and county court district, 3½ miles south from Gainsborough, on the Great Northern railway, which intersects this parish, and has a station, called Lea station, situate one mile north-east from the village. The church of St. Mary is a small building of stone, in the Late Decorated style, consisting of nave only: it is a remnant of the Cistercian or Benedictine nunnery of Heyninge, founded by Rayner Evermue about 1180, at the dissolution of which there was here a prioress and twelve nuns, the revenues being valued at £49 5s. 2d. clear: the existing church appears to have been either a transept or chapel belonging to the conventual church, and the style of architecture would suggest that it was erected in the latter part of the fourteenth century: a slab in the pavement bears an incised effigy of William, son of Phillip D'Arcy, of Moult, ob. 26th July, 1454 (a former lord of the manor of Knaith); the figure represents him in full gown with large open sleeves, and from its folds at the feet a little dog is peeping out: there is an incised shield with some heraldic bearings, partly defaced, but the second and third quarters are barry of eight; the border legend, much worn, is in Norman French: the church has fittings and seats of ancient oak: there is one stained window: the communion plate of massive silver was given by Lord Willoughby, of Parham, in the reign of Charles I.: the church will seat about 90 persons. The register dates from the year 1575. The living is a donative, yearly value £40, in the gift of Lieut.-Col. George Morland Hutton, the lay impropriator, and held by the Rev. John Robert Underwood Elliott M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. Thomas Sutton, founder of the Charter House, in London, was a native of this place. Lieut.-Col. George Morland Hutton D.L., J.P. of Gate Burton Hall, is sole landowner and lord of the manor. The soil is loam and sand; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, turnips and pasture. The area is 1,640 acres; rateable value, £2,505; the population in 1881 was 88.

SOUTH KYME is a parish, consisting of the townships of North and South Kyme, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Aswardhurn, parts of Kesteven, Sleaford union and county court district, rural deanery of Aswardhurn with Lafford No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-west from Dogdyke station, 123 from London, 10 east-north-east from Sleaford and 9 south-west-by-south from Tattershall. The keep of the ancient castle of Kyme still stands a conspicuous object in the landscape: it is a lofty tower of stone, in good preservation; the entrance leads into a vaulted and groined apartment, having in the centre of the roof the arms of Umfravill: this room is lighted only by narrow loopholes, which serve to show its thick and massive walls and appears to have been intended as a place of confinement: immediately above this is the chequer chamber, which seems to have had connection with the castle, and named, probably, from the floor being covered with a sort of pebble called by some "chequers:" above this were two other chambers, the situation of the fire places of which may be distinctly seen, but the roof and floors have disappeared: at one angle of the tower, and over the staircase, is an elevated position, probably used as a watch tower; from this summit a very extensive view of the surrounding country is obtained: the castle was pulled down between the years 1720 and 1725. The river Kyme flows through to the Witham. The church, which was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, by its founder, Philip de Kyme, is a very old but interesting stone structure: it is part of the south aisle of the ancient conventual church: the Gothic windows on the south are unusually large, and the tops filled with well-executed tracery: those on the north are small and mean in appearance: the porch on the south is large, and the inner doorway pure Norman; the inside arch is particularly fine; the outside one is plain, having over it a niche, wherein are seated two figures, the upper parts of which are demolished: a small open belfry contains 1 bell: in 1805 the old church was in a great measure pulled down and the present edifice erected: only half of the old octagonal stone font remains; it is placed against the west wall, has a plain round shaft, and is adorned with blank shields: the inscription formerly on Lord Taylboy's tomb is now fixed on the north wall, and is as follows:—"Here lyeth Gylbert Taylboys, lorde Taylboys, lorde of Kyme, wych maried Elizabeth Blount, one of the dowghters of Ser John Blount, of Rynlet, in the counte of Shropshir, knight, wych lorde Taulboys departed fourth of this world the 16 day of Aprill, A. D'ni M'CCCCC'XXX, whose solle God pardon. Amen." There is another mural monument to the memory of Marmaduke Dickenson: he was the son of the parish clerk, and is said to have been apprenticed to a tailor at the expense of the parish: he travelled to London, where by great care and perseverance he made a fortune: this monument, which is on the west wall, is supported by Death and Time, and bears the following inscription:—"To the memory of Marmaduke Dickenson citizen of London who dyed January ye 9th 1711, and by his last will gave to ye poore of South Kyme two hundd pounds to be paide unto ye minister and churchwarden within twelve months of his decease and to be by them laid out in a purchase of fen land and ye yearly income of ye same to be by them distributed unto ye poorest sorte of people of South Kyme and accounted for unto their Jury upon December ye 21st day for ever." The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £250, in the gift of Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. and held by the Rev. Rodney Granville Randolph M.A. of Christ's College, Oxford. Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat and oats, but the largest portion of the parish is pasture. The area is 4,787 acres; rateable value, £6,499 15s.; the population in 1881 was, of the township 530, of the parish 1,226.

North Kyme is a township in the parish of South Kyme, in the Mid division of the county, first division of Langoe wapentake, parts of Kesteven, Sleaford union, one mile and a half south from Billinghay, 5 miles south-west from Tattershall station. The Car dyke passes through it. Through the exertions of the late vicar, the Rev. Edward Garvey, a church was erected here in 1877, at a cost of £1,400, which has all been cleared by voluntary subscriptions: it is a building of brick in the Late Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave and a south porch, and has an open belfry containing 1 bell: it is in connection with South Kyme, and is served by the Rev. Rodney Granville Randolph M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, the present vicar: the church was pulled down at the Reformation. There is a Wesleyan chapel here. Frank Gilbert esq. who is lord of the manor, John Sills esq. and the trustees of the late Mr. Edward Jackson are the principal landowners. The soil is black alluvial clay and gravel; subsoil, blue clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, mangold and cole seed. LACEBY is a parish and well-built village, on the road from Grimsby to Caistor, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Parliamentary borough of Great Grimsby, Bradley Haverstoe wapentake, Caistor union, Great Grimsby county court district, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles south-west-by-west from Great Grimsby station. The church of St. Margaret is an edifice of Ancaster stone, in the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, west porch and an embattled tower of Perpendicular date, with eight pinnacles and containing four bells: the church was seated with open benches in 1850, and thoroughly restored in 1870; an organ was purchased by subscription in 1852: in the chancel is a monument of W. Laude, who died in 1424. The register dates from the year 1538, there is also in it a complete list of all the incumbents of this parish from the twelfth century, and a remarkable entry relating to the execution of a witch here in 1546. The living is a rectory, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £535, gross £607, including 17 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Mrs E. H. Knight, formerly of Thimbleby Lodge, Northallerton, Yorkshire, but now of Laceby, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Edmund Hinds Knight, of St. Aidan's. The Wesleyan chapel was built in 1853, at a cost of £1,200 and will seat 300. The Primitive Methodists have two chapels, one in the village, built in 1837, the other, built in 1861, close to the boundary of the parishes of Laceby and Irby-upon-Humber, and is usually called the Irby chapel. A cemetery of 1½ acres was formed in 1875, at a cost of £300, and is under the control of a burial board of 12 members. Here is a temperance hall, erected in 1872, at a cost of £500 and seating about 300 persons. There are various charities connected with the village, amounting in the aggregate to £7 yearly, which is distributed amongst the poor. There is a hiring fair for servants, held every year at the beginning of May, but not held on any particular day. John Whitgift, Archbishop of Canterbury, (1583–1604), was for some time rector here, he was born at Great Grimsby in or about 1533, and educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge, of which he became a fellow, and in 1571 was made dean of Lincoln. In 1596 he founded the hospital at Croydon which still bears his name; he died at Lambeth, 29th February, 1603–4, and was buried in the parish church of St. John the Baptist, Croydon, but the monument erected to his memory was almost wholly destroyed in the fire of January 5th, 1867. Oaklands is the residence of Mrs. Long. William Coates esq. who is lord of the manor, Col. George Tomline D.L., J.P. of Riby Grove, Theophilus John Harneis esq. J.P. of Hawerby, Mrs. Long, George Cartwright and William R. Marshall esqrs. are principal landowners. The soil is generally strong; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area is 2,063 acres; rateable value, £5,389; the population in 1881 was 1,017.

LANGTOFT is a parish and village, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Ness wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, Ness rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north from Market Deeping, 7 north-east from Stamford, 92 from London, 5 south from Bourn and 3 north-east from the Tallington station on the Great Northern railway, pleasantly situated on the high road from Market Deeping to Bourn. The church of St. Michael is a fine building of stone, in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, north and south chantries, aisles and a tower with spire at the west end of the south aisle, containing a clock and 5 bells, the older portions, which include the lower stages of the tower, the bases and columns of the arcades and some other features, are of the thirteenth century: the turret with the spiral staircase, which led to the rood loft, remains: there are Decorated piscinæ in the north chantry and chancel: in the south wall of the chancel is a marble monument with the effigy of a lady kneeling on a faldstool before a desk, on which is an open book, and below an inscription to Elizabeth, wife of Bevell Moulesworth esq. of Langtoft, 1648: there are other memorials to the Hide family, who resided for several generations at the east end of the village: the interior of the church was restored and reseated in 1859. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1668; marriages, 1669. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £280, including 128 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Lord Aveland, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Charles Whitworth Ferrall M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here are Wesleyan and Congregational chapels. The principal charity consists of a legacy of £50 left for the poor parishioners by Rachael Hyde in 1770: this sum was laid out in the purchase of a small copyhold estate; which, having received an allotment at the enclosure of the common, was sold in 1835 for £450, and this sum was invested in the purchase of four houses at Long Sutton, now producing a rental of about £18. In 1830 the Rev. John Mossop gave 1A. 2R. 25P. of land, producing £6 yearly, to be divided equally between the poor parishioners of Langtoft and Baston. The manor during the early part of the eighteenth century belonged to the Hyde family, from whom it passed to Sir John Heathcote bart. great grandfather of the present owner, Lord Aveland: an old gateway, formerly the carriage entrance to Langtoft Hall, an avenue of trees and other features still attest the stateliness of its former owners. Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. William Holland esq. J.P. of Market Deeping, and Richard Thompson esq. are principal landowners; there are also some smaller owners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 2,520 acres; rateable value, £3,472; the population in 1881 was 584.

LANGTON ST. ANDREWS is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1850 from the civil parishes of Langton, Thimbleby, Thornton and Woodhall, in the Mid division of the county, rural deanery of Gartree, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles south-west from Horncastle, with a railway station at Woodhall Spa. The church of St. Andrew, situated near Woodhall Spa, is a small Gothic stone building, erected in 1846: it consists of chancel, nave and open stone belfry containing 1 bell, and has sittings for 190 persons. The register dates from the year 1870. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, in the gift of the rector of St. Margaret, Langton, and held since 1869 by the Rev. James Conway Walter M.A. of St. Catherine's College, Cambridge. The Primitive Methodists erected a chapel in 1834. In 1875 the Wesleyan Methodists built a handsome chapel of red brick, with stone facings, at a cost of £1,500. There is a chapel for Presbyterians, endowed with a freehold estate, of which the minister is beneficial owner; the Rev. Robert Holden is minister; the sittings are all free. The Great Northern Railway Co. have two stations in this parish. The population in 1881 was 515.

Parish Clerk, Richard Hucknall.

Railway Station, Kirkstead, George Birkinshaw, collector

Woodhall Spa is situate 6½ miles south-west from Horncastle, with a station on the Horncastle branch of the Great Northern railway; it stands on a strip of light sandy soil. The air is dry and bracing. The Spa is protected by the north and west winds by a long range of lofty wolds running parallel with the coast, and also by extensive woods and plantations. The mineral waters of the Spa were discovered by a fortunate accident, through sinking a shaft for coal to the depth of about 1,020 feet. The water is raised at a depth of 400 feet. The baths are heated by steam. The mean rain-fall of England is 31 inches, that of Woodhall Spa 29·9, and it is considered to be one of the most healthy places in England, the death rate being very low. There is a large hotel for those who seek the curative benefits derived from the waters, surrounded by pleasure grounds. The hotel has been recently refurnished and is under new and efficient management. The bathing establishment is furnished with all modern appliances for the relief of patients who frequent the Spa. The cases treated here are rheumatism, gout, sciatica, epilepsy, scrofula, chronic skin

LANGTON-BY-SPILSBY is a village and parish, situated in a picturesque valley, in the Mid division of the county, Hill hundred, parts of Lindsey, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Hill No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles north from Spilsby railway station and 9 north-east from Horncastle. The church of St. Peter is a modern building of brick, of the Corinthian order, consisting of chancel and nave and an octagonal tower containing 6 bells. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £340, gross yearly value £450, including 33 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of B. R. Langton esq. and held since 1872 by the Rev. William Rupert Cochrane M.A. of King's College, Windsor, Canada. Langton has been for 800 years in the possession of the family of that name, who took their rise from this place; the ancient family mansion was destroyed by fire in the reign of Henry VI. and has subsequently been twice rebuilt and taken down. Stephen Langton, created a cardinal of Rome in 1207 and Archbishop of Canterbury, 1207-28, during the reign of King John, was born here; in the famous contest between that monarch and the barons, he took part with the latter and materially assisted them in procuring the great charter; he died 9th July, 1228: Dr. William Langton, president of Magdalen College, Oxford, in the time of James I.; and Bennet Langton esq. whose name is associated with that of Dr. Johnson, both by epistolary and literary productions, were also natives of this parish. The mansion of Langton Hall was erected in 1866-67 by the present owner, Bennet Rothes Langton esq. D.L., J.P. and is a noble structure of brick, with stone dressings, in the Elizabethan style, standing upon an acclivity a little north from the village, overlooking a wide space of picturesque country, and is well sheltered from the north and north-east by beautiful woods. A short distance from the village are three barrows, known by the name of Spellow Hills, in one of which a quantity of human bones was discovered many years ago. Bennet Rothes Langton esq. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and owner of all the land. The soil is sandy, loam and chalk on the wold or high lands; subsoil, principally red loam and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and seeds. The parish contains 1,287 acres; rateable value, £1,975; the population in 1881 was 219.

LANGTON-BY-WRAGBY is a parish and village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Horncastle union and county court district, Wragby petty sessional division, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, one mile south-east from Wragby station, 9 miles north-west from Horncastle, situated on the road from Horncastle to Lincoln. The church of St. Giles is an edifice of stone, of mixed styles, rebuilt (with exception of the tower) in 1866; it consists of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry on the north and a massive embattled tower containing 4 bells: the chancel window is stained and represents, in three compartments, The Nativity, Crucifixion and Resurrection: the cost of rebuilding was about £1,300, defrayed by the landowners, vicar and principal farmers in the parish. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £319, in the gift of Earl Manvers and Christopher Turnor esq. alternately, and held since 1859 by the Rev. Sween Macdonald Mackay M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. Earl Manvers, who is lord of the manor, and Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is mostly heavy loam; subsoil, blue clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 2,249 acres; rateable value, £2,341; the population in 1881 was 296.

LAUGHTON is a parish, township and pleasant village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Corringham, Gainsborough union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles north-east from Gainsborough, 2 north from Blyton station. All Saints church (endowed in 1310 by John Dalderby, then Bishop of Lincoln) is an ancient building of stone, varying in styles from Norman and Early English to Perpendicular, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, and a tower (repaired in 1876) containing a clock and 3 bells: the northern arcade, which constitutes its principal feature, is Transitional: the clerestory is lighted by three two-light Perpendicular windows and the tower is also Perpendicular: the north and south aisle windows are of the Decorated period: at the east end of the south aisle is an altar-tomb with brass inscriptions in Latin, commemorating William Dalison, 1543, and his son George, 1549; the tomb bears the effigy of a knight beneath a beautifully executed triple canopy, which is, however, a century and a half earlier than the inscription: inserted in the wall above the Dalison tomb is a remarkable piece of sculpture of the fourteenth century; this is a female bust in high relief and of much beauty, within a circular panel; the slab out of which it is carved is square and is supposed to have been cut out of an oblong one, formerly constituting the sepulchral memorial of some lady; it bears no inscription; the altar-stone, with its five consecration crosses forms part of the pavement of the nave. The register dates from the year 1566. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £223 with residence, in the gift of the Hon. Mrs. Meynell-Ingram, of Hoarcross, Burton-on-Trent, and held since 1871 by the Rev. Daniel Ace D.D. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel here. The Dalisons were lords of the manor of Laughton in the sixteenth century, and one of its members—Dr. Roger Dalison—founded a school here in 1566, which he endowed with the great tithes of Campney Grange, Yorkshire: the income is about £20 yearly, which amount is annually increased to £50 by the lady of the manor. The Hon. Mrs. Meynell-Ingram is lady of the manor, and owns the greater part of the parish. The soil is black loam; subsoil, principally sand, with a little gravel and clay. The crops are chiefly cereals, with potatoes. The area of the entire parish is 4,598 acres; rateable value, £3,598; the population in 1881 was—of the township 295, and of the parish 425.

Wildsworth is a hamlet in this parish, 4 miles north-west from Blyton station, on the east bank of the river Trent. A chapel of ease, named St. John's, was erected here in 1838, at a cost of £450, given by the late Lady Gordon: it is a small structure of white brick, in the Norman style, and has chancel, nave and a square tower with spire and 1 bell. Here are chapels for Primitive and Wesleyan Methodists. The area is included with Laughton parish; the population in 1881 was 130.

LAUGHTON (near Falkingham) is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, attached for ecclesiastical and educational purposes to Falkingham, from which it is distant one mile south-by-east. The church went to ruin many years ago, but the remains of a churchyard may still be traced. The inhabitants attend the church at Falkingham. The register is included in that of Falkingham. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with the rectory of Falkingham, joint gross yearly value £511, in the gift of Thomas A. H. Heathcote esq. and held since 1861 by the Rev. George Carter LL.M. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge; the Corporation of Newark are lay impropriators, but the rectorial tithes are almost nominal; the vicarial tithes are now commuted for £91 5s. 6d. The manorial rights are divided between the Corporation of Newark and Charles Harvey esq. The principal landowners are Charles Harvey esq. Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. and Edward Nathaniel Conant esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. of Lyndon Hall, Oakham. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 1,136 acres; rateable value, £147; the population in 1881 was 82.

LEA is a pleasant parish, on the Eastern side of the navigable river Trent, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Corringham wapentake, Gainsborough union, petty sessional division and county court district, Corringham rural deanery, Stow archdeaconry and Lincoln diocese, 2 miles south-south-east from Gainsborough and 146 from London. Lea station, on the Great Northern loop line, which joins the main line at Doncaster and Peterborough, is situate one mile south-east from the village, in the parish of Knaith. The church of St. Helen, situated on an acclivity, and restored in 1848, is an edifice in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, with organ chamber, nave, north aisle, south porch, vestry and a tower containing 6 modern bells, 2 of which were added in 1882, in memory of Fras. Foljambe Anderson, son of the present Sir Chas. Henry John Anderson bart. and a clock, with quarter chimes, presented by Lady Nelthorpe in 1814: the tower dates from about 1500: there are several stained windows, chiefly memorials to members of the Anderson family: the north aisle contains an effigy, in stone, of a cross-legged knight, stiffly habited in plate armour and trunk hose, representing one of the Trehanton family, whose arms are carved in relief on the shield of the figure: conspicuous amongst the mural tablets are those in memory of Mary Anderson, wife of Edmund Anderson, 1636, and the Rev. R. T. Lowe, rector of Lea, and Katherine Maria, his wife, who died by the foundering of the "Liberia," on her voyage to Madeira: there is a marble monument to the late Sir Charles John Anderson bart. dated 1846. The register dates from the year 1603. The living is a rectory, yearly value £460 with residence, in the gift of Sir C. H. J. Anderson bart. and held since 1874 by the Rev. Chas. Edward Cockin M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. Bole and Burton rounds, two large circular pieces of land, belonging to this parish, have, by the shifting of the course of the river, been left on the Nottinghamshire side of the Trent, which formerly flowed round them. About one mile east of the church is the moated site of a crenellated manor house, now called the Hermit dams. Lea Hall, the seat of Sir Charles Henry John Anderson bart. M.A., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and chief landowner, is a brick mansion, close to the village; it is surrounded by a terrace, is partly covered with ivy and has park-like grounds flanked by plantations: the house contains much carved oak, and a choice collection of family and other pictures. The soil is sandy loam and clay; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are hay, with cereals, LEADENHAM (or LONG LEDENHAM) is a large village and parish, situated on the Lincoln and Honington branch of the Great Northern railway, with a station, a handsome building of Ancaster stone, on the north side of the village, which is on the Cliff road from Lincoln to Grantham (which is here crossed by the road from Sleaford to Newark), in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Loveden, parts of Kesteven, Grantham petty sessional division, Sleaford union and county court district, rural deanery of Loveden, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 12 miles north from Grantham, 10 east from Newark, 118 from London, 10 west-north-west from Sleaford and 13 south from Lincoln. The church of St. Swithin is a handsome stone building, in the Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of a chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north and south porches and a tower with octagonal pinnacles and a beautifully crocketed spire, adorned with fine louvre lights: the tower contains 6 bells with chimes and an excellent clock, put up at a cost of £409, by Philip Reeve esq.: in 1830 the church was thoroughly repaired, and was re-seated with open oak sittings in 1861: the stained east window, representing the threefold office of Christ—Prophet, Priest and King, was executed in Flanders, and placed here in 1827 by the Rev. Thomas Brown, a former rector: another stained window has also been placed in the chancel. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly value £700 and residence, in the gift of Col. John Reeve, and held since 1879 by the Rev. William John Binder B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge. A Wesleyan chapel was erected in 1841. At the Enclosure, the church and poor lands were exchanged for an allotment of about 52 acres, which is partly let to labourers at £1 per acre: the whole income is about £130 a year, out of which £30 is paid to the schoolmaster for teaching 20 poor children. Twelve of the poorest men of Leadenham have annually divided amongst them £15, arising from the rent of upwards of 10 acres of land, derived from the bequest of Mr. John Key in 1784: the recipients of this charity also have £10 per annum charged on the manor of Leadenham by William Reeve esq. in 1820, and General Reeve's Charity, amounting to £6 13s. 6d. yearly. The poor also have an interest in a few smaller bequests. A statute fair for servants is held here in May, and a feast on the Sunday after the 2nd July. A drinking fountain was erected in 1867, in memory of John and Susan Reeve, by their children. Near the village is a barrow and a spring called St. Anne's Well. The view from the adjacent cliff is very extensive, comprising in its range Lincoln Minster, Boston church, Grantham and Newark churches and Belvoir Castle. Leadenham House, a substantial mansion, surrounded by extensive pleasure grounds, is the seat of Lieut.-Col. John Reeve D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is fine strong loam, heath and stiff clay; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and seeds. The area is 3,722 acres, including Bayard's Leap parish; rateable value, £5,869 7s. 11d.; the population in 1881 was 646.

LOWFIELD is a hamlet in this parish, comprising a few scattered houses, situate about 2 miles south-west, on the road to Newark.

MAIDEN HOUSE, formerly extra-parochial, has been annexed to this parish by Act 20 Vict. cap. 19: it is situate near Ermine Street, and is the property of Lt.-Col. Mildmay W. Willson: the land is farmed by Mr. Richard Bestall, of Bayard's Leap.

LEAKE is a scattered parish, and station on the East Lincolnshire railway, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Skirbeck, parts of Holland, Boston union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north-east from Boston. The station is 4 miles from the church, near the Hobhole Drain, which passes through the parish. The church of St. Mary is a stone building, chiefly in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, with some remains of Norman work, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, nave, aisles and a low embattled tower of late Perpendicular work, containing 6 bells: there are four Norman pillars, two at each end of nave, and over the doorway in tower is a fine specimen of a Norman arch: the chancel was thoroughly restored in 1873, at a cost of £1,400, and a very handsome reredos and east window added: it retains a rudely-worked piscina and sedilia, and on the north side an aumbry: the east end of the south aisle has a statue bracket: at the south-east angle of the nave is an octagonal turret, with spire-like crocketed roof, and enclosing a stair: the clerestory is Perpendicular, and is lighted by six windows on each side: the tower was begun in 1490 and finished in 1547, at a cost of £359: the nave roof was restored in 1863: near the tower is a recumbent effigy in alabaster of a knight in armour, supposed to represent one of the Leake family, and in the wall are two projecting stones, richly carved, one representing a man playing the bagpipes, the other a woman with the harpsichord: in the south aisle is a curious octagonal poor-box, bound with iron: the font is octagonal, and there is a fine-toned organ: in 1362 the church of Leake was given to the College of Priests in the Cathedral of Lincoln, when the vicar's portion was fixed at 40 marks, the same sum being now paid by the appropriators, who receive £1,000 yearly from land given in lieu of tithes at the Enclosure. The register dates from the year 1575. The living is a discharged vicarage, yearly value £200 with residence, in the gift of the Governors of Oakham and Uppingham schools, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Joseph Dunne, of St. Aidans. Christ Church, chapel of ease to St. Mary, situated about 2 miles north of the church, is an ornamental white brick building, with stone dressings: the entrance is through a large and handsome north porch; the magnificent roof is open, massive and of good design; as yet there is no chancel.

but there are three lancet lights at the west end, and a stone bell turret with 1 bell: the church is fitted with open seats of good material and workmanship; the pulpit and communion table are of pitch pine; all the wood-work, except the roof, is stained and varnished: the church was erected in 1875, at a cost of about £1,000, by subscription, Mr. Charles Brookes being the chief contributor. There are three Dissenting places of worship, two for Wesleyans and one for Primitive Methodists. There are also Primitive Methodists and Wesleyan Sunday schools. There are several charities in this parish; the most extensive of these was left by Edward Hunston esq. (who died here in 1655), for the benefit of decayed gentlemen of the county; in 1655 the land let at £50 per annum; 1854 the rent was £600. The charities amounted to about £100, but are now much increased, and are distributed half-yearly. Mrs. Rowley is lady of the manor. William Welsh, Charles Brookes and Joseph Caudwell esqs. are the principal landowners, and there are many smaller landowners. The soil is light and rich; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and roots. The area is 7,739 acres of land and 1,775 of water; rateable value, £9,009; the population in 1881 was 2,120 in the civil parish and 1,843 in the ecclesiastical parish, the remainder being ecclesiastically annexed to Bennington, Boston, Frieston and Leverton parishes. By a Local Government order, dated December 24th, 1880, detached parts of Bennington, with 76 persons; of Butterwick, with 95; Leverton, with 84; Revesby, without inhabitants, and Boston East Fen allotment were transferred to the ecclesiastical portion of New Leake.

At LADE BANK, on the west side of Hobhole Drain, a pumping engine has been erected for the drainage of the East Fen north of that point, and for the West and Wildmor Fens.

NEW LEAKE, a hamlet and village, about 5 miles north-by-north-west from the church, is included in the ecclesiastical parish of Eastville, and the names of residents are given under that parish.

SOUTH LEASINGHAM, with NORTH LEASINGHAM or ROXHOLME.

LEASINGHAM is a parish consisting of the consolidated parishes of South Leasingham and North Leasingham, or Roxholme, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Flaxwell, parts of Kesteven, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, rural deanery of Aswardhurn with Lafford No. 1, 2 miles north from Sleaford, on the road to Lincoln. The church of St. John the Baptist, in North Leasingham, was pulled down many years ago. The remaining church of St. Andrew, in South Leasingham, is a building in the Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, porch vestry and a fine Early English tower with grand Decorated spire containing 4 bells: on each side of the entrance arch of the porch are two beautifully carved figures of angels bearing sickles: the font has a base and stem of Early English date; the bowl appears to be a rude copy, by some local mason, of an ancient font and was probably executed in the time of Henry VIII.; on its sides are unskilled representations of Our Lord in glory, and other scenes: affixed to a pillar is an ancient hour glass stand: in 1862 the church was thoroughly restored, and the chancel, which had wholly disappeared, rebuilt; the floors were relaid and a new pulpit of stone and other fittings introduced. The register, including Roxholme, dates from the year 1682. The united livings form a rectory, gross yearly value £977 with residence and 40 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir John Henry Thorold bart. and held since 1843 by the Right Rev. Edward Trollope D.D., F.S.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, bishop suffragan of Nottingham, archdeacon of Stow and rural dean of Lafford. The rectory house is a handsome stone mansion, erected in 1840. Here is a small place of worship for Reformed Methodists. There are almshouses, erected by the Bishop of Nottingham, during the years 1876-84, for poor widows and others. The Rev. John Neville L. Calcraft B.A. rector of Haceby, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Richard LEGBOURNE is a pleasant village and parish, and station on the East Lincolnshire Railway, in the Mid division of the county, Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, though locally in that of Louth Esk, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Louth Esk and Ludburgh No. 3, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 138½ miles from London, 3 south-east from Louth, and 10 north-west from Alford, situated on the road between the two places. The church of All Saints is remarkable as an uniform specimen of Decorated style of architecture of the close of the fourteenth century; it was restored in 1868, at a cost of about £2,000, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory and arcades of four bays each, aisles, square western tower with 3 bells, south porch, and contains seven stained windows; in the south aisle there was in ancient times a chantry, traces of which remain in the appearance of a small plain piscina in the south wall, the existence of which was unknown before the restoration; there is an ancient carved oak rood-screen, also two old stones, one an altar slab with the five crosses, with which such slabs used to be marked, still dimly visible, the other to the memory of a priest of this chantry, and which bears the following inscription in Latin:—"To the memory of Thomas Maidenwell, chaplain of this chantry, who died in the month of January, 1507." The register dates from the year 1711. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £200 with residence, in the gift of John Lewis ffytche esq. J.P. and held since 1883 by the Rev. Edward Clowes M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Here are places of worship for Wesleyan, Primitive, built 1834, and Free Methodists, built 1856. A Church of England school was erected in 1863 for boys and girls, at a cost of £300. A priory of Cistercian nuns was founded here before the reign of King John, by Robert Fitz-Gilbert, in honour of the Virgin Mary, no traces of which remain; the site is now occupied by a modern mansion, called "The Abbey," the property of John Goulding Sewell esq. J.P. Kenwick Hall, the seat of Mrs. Garfit, is a handsome and spacious mansion, surrounded with richly-wooded grounds. John Lewis ffytche esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. is impropriator of the rectorial tithes. John Lewis ffytche esq. who is lord of the manor, John Goulding Sewell J.P. Howard Jackson esqrs. Capt. Henry Charles Hynman Allanby and Mr. Frederick Exley are chief landowners. The soil is clayey; subsoil, clay. The principal crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,277 acres; rateable value, £3,181; the population in 1881 was 476.

tower with broach spire containing 3 bells: in 1879 the church was restored, re-roofed and re-seated, and the aisles and chancel laid with Minton's tiles by Messrs. Rudd & Son, of Grantham, under the superintendence of Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth; the cost, £1,600, was met by a subscription; Lord Aveland gave £700 and the Earl of Dysart £300: in the north of the chancel is a large and handsome tomb to the memory of Sir William and Lady Mary Armyne, of Osgodby, who died in the year 1657: the silver communion plate is ancient, and was the gift of the Armyne family. The register dates from the year 1576. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Hanby annexed, joint yearly value £688, including 15 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Lord Aveland, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Edward Bradley B.A. of University College, Durham. Here was a free school for boys and girls, now merged in the adjoining board school, at which five poor children of the parish of Lenton were taught to read and write, endowed in 1721 by Mrs. Mary Parnham, whose remains are interred in the churchyard. Lord Aveland, who is lord of the manors of Lenton and Osgodby, and the Earl of Dysart, who is lord of the manor of Hanby and Keisby, are the principal landowners. The population of Lavington township in 1881 was 178, and of the parish 301. The area of Lavington and Hanby is 1,829 acres; rateable value, £2,489.

Hanby is a parish, half a mile north, with a population in 1881 of 38.

Keisby is a township, one mile south-east, with a population in 1881 of 62; area, 1,247 acres; rateable value, £1,402.

Osgodby is a township, one mile and a half south. Osgodby Hall, the property of Lord Aveland, is an ancient structure in the Elizabethan style; what remains of it is occupied as farm houses. The area is 1,093 acres; rateable value, £1,244; the population in 1881 was 61.

This parish is included in Ingoldsby United District School Board, formed in 1876; the children attend the Board School there.

LEVERTON is a parish in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Skirbeck, parts of Holland, Boston union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-east-by-east from Boston, and 3½ east-by-south from Sibsey station of the East Lincolnshire railway, on the road to Wainfleet and extends to the Wash. The church of St. Helen is a building of stone, in the Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, with south chapel or sacristy, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles and low Perpendicular western tower, with plain parapet, and containing 4 bells; the first bell is inscribed, "Thomas Norris made me, and the rest of my fellows as you may see, 1637:" over the chancel window is a large ancient cross, having the figure of Christ upon it, in good preservation: at the west end of the nave is an octagonal font, raised on a pediment of three steps: the church was thoroughly restored and reseated in 1882, from plans of James Fowler, of Louth, when the brick clerestory which was erected in 1872 was removed and a new one substituted: two statue niches and a piscina at the east end of the south aisle, indicate its former use as a chantry, and on the opposite side was a corresponding chapel: the entrance to the rood loft remains, and the remains of a fine old screen of carved oak span the chancel arch; the chancel retains three Decorated sedilia, and at the back of the easternmost is a square hagioscope connected with the adjoining chapel, on the door of which is an escutcheon, and on the sill of one of its windows is cut the name of Henry Peaham and the date 1597, said to refer to the well-known author of "The Compleat Gentleman:" the communion plate includes a chalice dated 1569, with the Leverton rebus, a lever and a tun: there is also a marble slab to the memory of the Dymoke family. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £900, arising from 415 acres of glebe with a residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and A. Booth esq. alternately, and held since 1878 by the Rev. William Wright Mason B.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. The charities are of about £150 annual value. Miss Bertie-Percy, Colonel Lennard, the Tennant family, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Lindsey and the Rev. J. H. Oldrid are the chief landowners. The soil is silty; subsoil, strong clay. The chief crops are wheat and potatoes. The area is 2,894 acres of land and 3,710 of water; rateable value, £4,123; the population in 1881 was 593 in the civil parish and 719 in the ecclesiastical, which comprises parts of the civil parishes of Leake and West Fen. By a Local Government provisional order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by the Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. Leverton West Fen allotment was transferred to the new parish of West Fen, and by a Local Government board order, dated December 24th, a detached part of this parish, containing 84 persons, was transferred to Leake.

archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 10 miles west from Great Grimsby, 5 south from Ulceby, 5 south from Brocklesby station and 10 east from Brigg. The church of St. Peter is a large and ancient stone fabric, in the Norman and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, with attached chapels, south porch, and a low embattled western tower of Decorated date containing 3 bells: in 1859 the Early English east window of three lights was filled with stained glass as a memorial to George Nelson, who died in 1846: the interior was partly restored in 1875, the chancel and nave being reseated with open benches, and a new stone pulpit erected; a reredos of alabaster and encaustic tiles was also erected, sedilia and a credence table constructed, and altar rails put up: there is a very ancient font of the twelfth century: there is a stained window given by William Frankish esq. of Limber, in memory of his parents; the west window in the south aisle was given by the vicar in memory of his son: a new organ was placed in the church, July 30th, 1884, at a cost of £300, raised by voluntary subscription. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, corn rent in lieu of tithe £383, gross yearly value £550, including 50 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Thomas ffoster Chamberlain M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, hon canon of Manchester. The Wesleyans have a chapel here, built in 1841, and seating about 100. A charity of £20 yearly, left in 1707, and called Smith's charity, is for clothes and fuel. Here was an alien priory, founded before 1180, by R. de Humer, as a cell to the abbey of L'Aulnay in Normandy, but afterwards appropriated to the Carthusian Abbey of St. Ann, near Coventry. The Earl of Yarborough is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is generally free; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. This parish is farmed on the four and five-field systems. The area is 4,970 acres; including 936 acres of woodland; rateable value, £6,520; the population in 1881 was 489.

LINCOLN.

LINCOLN the "Lindcoit" of the Britons, and the "Lindum Colonia" of the Romans, is a city and county of itself, the head of the see of Lincoln, and a municipal and parliamentary borough and assize town, and capital of the county to which it gives name, capital likewise of the Lindsey division and of North Lincolnshire, and a great railway station, 18 miles south-east from Gainsborough, 36 north-west from Boston, 34 south from Barton-upon-Humber, 23 north from Grantham, 30 south-west from Great Grimsby, 15 north-east from Newark-on-Trent, 38 north from Stamford and 132 from London. This ancient city is finely situated on the summit and declivity of a bold eminence, which rises on the north side of the navigable river Witham, at the confluence of the Foss Dyke Canal. The Roman city, the plan of which may still be traced, was in form a parallelogram, surrounded by walls from 10 to 12 feet thick, and 20 to 25 feet in height, and was divided into four equal parts, which crossed it at right angles; the northern boundary reached as far as the southern extremity of the British settlement, and was here entered by the existing Newport gate; parallel to this on the south, and on the very summit of the hill, the wall was pierced by a corresponding gate, partly taken down about the beginning of the sixteenth century, but of which one jamb of the principal arch, and the east postern, now built into a house, still exist; there were also east and west gates, the former of which was extant till between 1740-70, when it was destroyed in order to erect a mansion; the western gate was accidently discovered in 1836, in making some excavations to the north of the western gate of the castle, where it was found entire, having been buried in the earthworks; of the walls which connected these several gates, fragments may yet be seen, and the exterior ditch, also Roman, is in parts very perfect; the walls were subsequently extended southwards, and continued by the Saxons and Normans; a portion of a round tower which defended the south-west angle, near Brayford water, improperly called the "Lucy tower," is now incorporated into the front of a modern warehouse; the southern wall, connected with the present Sincil Dyke, an arm of the Witham, had two gates, Great Bar and Little Bar, both of which were standing in 1730. The city thus consists of two parts, the upper and lower town, of which the former is again divided into the Bail, or liberty of the castle, representing the area of the Roman city, and the Close, or Liberty of the cathedral, included in it, and both of which were exempt from the jurisdiction which the burgesses of Lincoln exercised by charters from the crown. The principal street is the High street, which follows the course of the Roman Ermine street, and is above a mile in length; it crosses the Witham by the High bridge, a ribbed Norman arch of 22 feet span and 11 feet high, with smaller arches at right angles; on the east side is an obelisk, erected in 1763, beneath which is a conduit; the New road connecting the upper and lower towns on the east, was laid out in 1786; the High street is continued in the upper town by Bailgate, from which, and nearly at right angles, proceed East Gate and West Gate; a point near the top of Steep Hill, uniting High street to Bailgate, was called "The Mayor's chair," and indicated the northern limit of the municipal jurisdiction; various other streets still have the suffix "gate." The Grecian stairs are a flight of steep steps leading down from a small postern gate at the east end of the Close to the New road; the name is a corruption of "Greesen," an obsolete word meaning steps. Gowts bridge, which stands a little to the south of the church of St. Peter at Gowts, was built in 1813 by the Corporation, from a design by Mr. W. Hayward, an alderman of the city: Beaumont Fee is the name given to a part of the lower city, situated a little west of St. Martin's church, between Hungate and Motherby Hill; it was anciently a manor belonging to the Beaumonts, and exempt from municipal jurisdiction: a fine Elizabethan mansion was erected on the site of the manor house, called "Vesci Hall," by J. Hayward esq. Dunstan's Lock is a narrow entry, leading from the High street to the strait. On the final departure of the Romans Lincoln suffered severely from the predatory incursions of the Scandinavian and other marauding tribes, and was alternately in the hands of the Saxons and Danes. Under the former, it constituted part of the kingdom of Mercia, and was retaken by Eadmund Ironside in 940 and 942; in 1013 it was reoccupied by Swegen the Dane; and in 1043 by Cnut, and one of the streets in the lower city still bears the name of "Danesgate;" in 1110, 1123, 1143, it was greatly damaged by serious fires, and in 1185 by an earthquake. During the prolonged struggle between Stephen and the Empress Matilda, the former surprised and for some time held the castle against the Earls of Lincoln and Gloucester, but in a desperate encounter on the heath north of the city, February 2, 1141, he was defeated and taken prisoner. Henry II. and most of the Plantagenet kings appear to have paid the city many visits, and Richard II. on coming hither granted to the mayor and his successors the right of having a sword borne before them in their processions. Henry VI. who was at Lincoln in 1446, held his court in the episcopal palace; and Henry VII. after the victory of Bosworth Field, August 22nd, 1485, spent three days here in offering up prayers and thanksgivings for his success. At the reception of Henry VIII., August 9th, 1537, incense was burnt before him; James I. arrived here March 27th, 1618; and on the outbreak of the Civil War, Charles I. came to the city July 15th, 1642, and was welcomed by an enthusiastic concourse of nearly 60,000 people; Lincoln, however, fell into the hands of the Parliamentary forces, and though retaken was again captured, after a stout resistance, by the Earl of Manchester and Cromwell in May, 1644. Several parliaments have been held at Lincoln; at the first of these, which met 20th January, 1301 (29 Edwd. I.) to consider the Papal claims to the sovereignty of Scotland, was drawn up the famous letter of the Barons to the Pope, Boniface VIII., wholly denying his claim to that kingdom, as a fief of the Holy See; the next parliament of importance held here began January 27th, 1316 (9 Edw. II.), and was convened for the purpose of furnishing the King with supplies for carrying on the war with Scotland; and on this occasion its members sat in the hall of the Dean and in the Chapter House; two other parliaments, in 1315 (September 1st.) and 1316 (July 26th), are also recorded; in that of January, 1316, a fine of £300 was paid for a confirmation of the city charters and an extension of its privileges. A mint existed in Lincoln in the time of King Alfred, a coin of whose reign has been met with, bearing the name "Lincolnia," and another of the tenth century also has the name of the city, with that of St. Martin; the mint appears to have been maintained into the Plantagenet period, and examples of Lincoln mintage are to be met with, illustrating the reigns of most of the kings from Eadwig to Henry III.; Edward I. also struck coins at Lincoln, but after his reign there is no certain evidence that the Lincoln mint was continued; some of the coins struck here about 1180 bear the name of the city under the French form of "Nicole."

Lincoln has conferred the title of earl on the families of Meschines, Romara, Gant, Blundeville, Lacy, Plantagenet, de la Pole, Brandon and Clinton; it was bestowed on Edward Lord Clinton, Lord High Admiral, by Queen Elizabeth, and is now borne by his direct descendant, the Duke of Newcastle.

As a borough, Lincoln can lay claim to a higher antiquity than almost any other in the kingdom. The Patent Rolls of 2 and 3 Hen. III. (1218), Nos. 356 and 357, mention the Mayor and Provosts of Lincoln as being ordered to pay Nichola de la Haya, wife of Gerard de Camville, several sums of money for the reparation of the Castle, but the city seems not to have been regularly incorporated till 1314, when Edward II. is said to have granted it a charter, under which, in the same year, Henry Best, the first recorded Mayor of Lincoln, was elected. The corporation as now constituted consists of a mayor, six aldermen and eighteen councillors, the mayor being included among one or the other of these; the corporation also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority, and the city has a commission of the peace and a separate court of quarter sessions.

The municipal regalia include a great silver gilt mace of the reign of Charles II. about 4 feet 2 inches in length; the large globular head being surmounted by an imperial crown of bold design, and adorned with the initials C.R. and the crowned rose, thistle, fleur de lys, and harp: the handle is ornamented with the city arms, amid roses and thistles, and an inscription records that it was "beautified in the mayoralty of William Hayward esq. 1818;" the state sword, a fine double-handed weapon, is probably of the fifteenth century, and measures about 4 feet 7 inches: a silver mace of 19 inches with a coronetted head; a mace of wood, tipped with silver, and bearing the arms of the city and the see; a state sword called "the Lent Sword," in a scabbard of black velvet, usually carried before the mayor on going to church during Lent, and dating from the early fifteenth century; another sword of earlier date, said to have been presented to the Corporation by Richard II. on the occasion of a royal visit to Lincoln. There are also two Caps of maintenance, one used in 1734, and another of maroon velvet, adorned with the royal and city arms, a great rose on the crown and long cords and tassels; it was made in 1814, and is usually worn by the sword bearer when preceding the mayor in procession.

The city was first represented in Parliament 49 Hen. III. (1264-5), the writ of summons for which election exists in the Close Rolls of that date, but no returns have been found; the first recorded members are William Cause and Peter Thornhawe, who were elected for the Parliament of 1295 (23 Edw. I.); the city still sends two representatives, who are returned by the householders and resident freemen, and by freemen residing within seven miles of the city.

Amongst other privileges possessed by the resident freemen is the right of turning three head of cattle each upon the large common on the west of the city; other householders who are not freemen being allowed to pasture only one each. The South Common is also under similar regulations. The Holmes Common has been sold to the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire Railway Company, and the purchase money invested for the benefit of the freemen and of freemen's widows of the city, the oldest of whom are paid out of it an annuity of £5 each. The Monks Leys, an oblong piece of ground on the hill side, formerly devoted to the use of the freemen, has been converted into a public Arboretum; the Corporation paying to the freemen of the City, in lieu of their rights of stocking &c. a sum of £200 yearly, from which the freemen receive an annuity of £5 each. Canwick, or South Common, contains about 206 acres. West or Carholme Common, containing 250 acres, is the ground where the races are held, twice a year, in March and October: the grand stand on the course was erected at an expense of £6,000, and has since been considerably enlarged at a cost of about £2,000.

The lower parts of the city are furnished with drinking fountains, supplied from conduits filled by a spring rising near the monks' house; these, situated in different parts of the city, include one of ancient date on the west side of the churchyard of St. Mary-le-Wigford. This curious little structure was erected shortly before Leland's visit to Lincoln in 1540, and is composed of materials brought from the dissolved convent of the Carmelite or White Friars, which formerly occupied the site of the Midland Railway Station. The style of all the details is very late, and the balls surmounting the gables were added during repairs in 1672; the other conduits are at the High Bridge and the Grey Friars. In a field near the Union are the upper reservoirs of the Waterworks Company, to which the water is brought from Prial brook, some miles distant, and forced to the upper part of the town by a steam pumping-engine.

The main sewering of the city, carried out under the superintendence of Mr. James Mansergh C.E. was completed in 1881, having been ten years in course of execution, at a total cost of £101,986 10s., of which the chief or No. 1 contract, first undertaken in 1876 and concluded in 1880, absorbed a sum of £74,480 4s. 3d. The contract No. 2, for pumping-machinery, was carried out for £5,156; No. 3, including the pumping-station buildings, including engine and boiler-houses, store, chimney-shaft and two cottages, cost £3,272 4s. No. 4, for the iron pipes required in a siphon across the valley from Monks road, to the Washingborough road, was executed for £3,958 7s. 6d. Contract No. 5, for laying and jointing the above pipes, cost £1,380 14s. No. 6, for the sewage-tanks situated at the head of Canwick Farm, required an outlay of £4,550 10s. and in addition, £4,226 10s. has been spent on other works, including terracing, pipes &c. at the farm.

Lincoln is efficiently connected with the great railway and canal systems of the midland and eastern counties; the chief means of communication is through the Great Northern system, with the main line of which it is directly united northward at Doncaster (vid Gainsborough and Retford), and southward is again united to the main line at Grantham, from which latter a further branch, proceeds through Sleaford and Bourn, also touches the main line at Essendine, and continues to Stamford; another line extends to Boston, with branches from Bardney junction to Louth and Great Grimsby, and from Kirkstead junction to Horncastle. The Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire line, vid Market Rasen to Barnetby, there meets the Retford and Gainsborough line, which parts eastward to Great Grimsby and northwards to New Holland for Hull. Lincoln is also directly connected with the main line of the Midland Railway by the branch line of that system from Nottingham through Newark. Both the Great Northern and Midland Railways have stations at Lincoln. The joint line of the Great Northern and Great Eastern Railways through Sleaford to Spalding places Lincoln in connection with the Great Eastern system. The Foss Dyke navigation unites itself to the Trent; and the Witham, which is navigable for steamboats, falls into the sea at Boston.

The district now constituting the diocese of Lincoln originally formed part of the great diocese of Merica, which was seated at Lichfield. Until 19th April, 1837, the diocese of Lincoln included the counties of Lincoln, Leicester, Huntingdon, Bedford and Bucks, with portions of Herts, Rutland, Oxon and Northamptonshire, excepting certain peculiars of Canterbury in the county of Bucks, but all peculiars in this diocese were abolished by order in Council 8th August, 1845. The whole county of Nottingham (excepting the deanery of Southwell), then belonging to the diocese and province of York, was by a further order dated August 21st, 1837, included in the see of Lincoln; but the exempt jurisdiction of Southwell was afterwards added June 4th, 1841; and by the former order also the whole county of Leicester was detached from Lincoln, and annexed to the diocese of Peterborough; more recently, by an order in Council, Feb. 2nd, 1884, Nottinghamshire has been separated from Lincoln and united with Derbyshire to form the new diocese of Southwell, so that the diocese of Lincoln now consists only of that county.

The Cathedral of the Holy Trinity and St. Mary, placed on the summit of the hill around which the city is built, forms a conspicuous landmark from every part of the surrounding country: it is built of oolite from the limestone beds on Lincoln heath, and of calcareous stone from Haydor, near Grantham, and although it includes portions both of Earlier and subsequent periods, by far the greater part of the structure is of Early English date, and it acquires in this respect a particular interest from the fact that the choir and eastern transept are among the very earliest known examples of the style, taking precedence both of Salisbury and Westminster. The first cathedral church was built by Remigius or Rémi, a Benedictine monk of Féscamp, whom the Conqueror, in 1067, had made bishop of Dorchester; on the removal of the see to Lincoln about 1073, he began and rapidly completed this edifice on the plan of the cathedral of Rouen, placing it in the south-east quarter of the Roman city; he died, however, four days before that fixed for the consecration (May 6, 1092), and was buried before the high altar of the church of Remigius. The lower storeys of the western towers, the central portion of the west front and the foundation of the eastern apse (now below the present stalls) remain: in April, 1123, and June 22, 1141, the structure was injured by fire; Bishop Alexander (1123-48) the successor of Remigius, built the three great western doorways and the later Norman work of the western towers; and also vaulted the church with stone, and Bishop Geoffrey Plantagenet (1173-83) gave two large bells. On April 15, 1185, an earthquake rent the fabric from top to bottom. Bishop St. Hugh of Grenoble or Avalon (1186-1200) began the Chapter House, erected the choir, then apsidal, the choir transept with its chapels, the east side of the main transept, and also added to the west side as high as the second tier of windows: the architect for these works being one Godfrey de Noyers, while the bishop himself laboured at the building with his own hands. On 4th March, 1192, the church was dedicated to the Holy Trinity and St. Mary, and the works were still progressing in 1205. Shortly after the death of St. Hugh, his successor, Bishop William de Blois (1204-9), completed the main transept and Galilee porch; and in the Episcopate of Hugh de Wells, who followed (1209-35), the upper part of the chapter house and the western chapels were finished, some additions made to the west front and the central tower advanced, the latter, however, was badly constructed, and in 1239 fell during service time, burying three men under the ruins: Bishop Grostête (1237-54) rebuilt the tower as far as the first storey above the roof, and also the central gable and north-east turret of the west front, the central tower was completed by Bishop d'Alderby (1300-20) who crowned it with a spire, which remained till 1547, when it was blown down; the beautiful angel choir or presbytery was begun by Bishop Lexington (1254-8) about 1256, and completed by Bishop Sutton (1280-99), on St. Faith's day, Oct. 6, 1280, when the remains of St. Hugh were translated into it in the presence of King Edward I. his queen, the royal children, the lord archbishop, with seven bishops, six abbots and a very great multitude of people. New works were carried out or portions of the fabric finished during 1300-21, the rood screen being erected about 1313; the cloisters, to which Bishop Sutton gave 50 marks, were in progress in 1282-1300, the south alley being far advanced in 1296; the vaulting of the towers, statues of the kings and windows of the west front, choir stalls and some part of the south wing of the main transept, are assigned to J. Welbourne, treasurer and master of the works (1350-80); Bishop Alnwick (1436-50) erected the great west window, and added the upper storeys of the western towers, the spires of which were removed in 1808.

The cathedral as at present existing consists of a western screen and transept, each wing of the latter being divided into two chapels, nave of seven bays, central tower, main transept of three bays in each wing, with eastern aisles divided into chapels, and with a Galilee porch attached to the south-west angle of the south wing; choir of four bays, choir transept, with apsidal chapels on the east and vestries on the west; Lady Chapel or angel choir of five bays (two of which form the presbytery), with chantries and porches on the north and south, cloisters, extending between the main and choir transepts, and communicating with the latter, and a chapter house approached by a vestibule from the western alley.

The west front has a grand and impressive effect, which is materially enhanced by the western towers, which rise immediately behind it: it may be broadly described as a vast Early English screen covered with tiers of arcading, but containing in the centre, a large portion of the original Norman elevation, with a central gable and octagonal flanking turrets, also arcaded, and terminating in plain conical cappings: the central gable, covered with reticulated work, contains five lancets, two of which form lights, and other two, at the extremities, enclose statues; below the gable is a lofty Early English arch, 85 feet in height, with a cinquefoiled window in the head, and underneath it a Perpendicular window of five lights, c. 1380; immediately below the sill of which is a range of eleven crocketed canopies, containing effigies of kings from William I. to Edward III. over a deeply recessed Norman arch of five orders, covered with an infinite variety of ornament; the space on either side of the central Early English arch, to the height of its capitals upwards, and extending some distance north and south, constitutes the original Norman front, its leading features, besides those already described, being two deeply recessed round headed arches, one on each side, containing Perpendicular windows, c. 1370, and below these, Norman doorways leading to porches under the towers: upon either side of these aisle entrances are larger and richer Norman doorways, now walled up, but formerly leading to the transeptal chapels; above these are rude bas-reliefs of the eleventh century, representing incidents from the Old Testament; the remaining portion of the west front, expanded in height and breadth from the Norman original in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries by the addition of a gable and wings, is covered with six tiers of arcading, four of which are continued round the flanking stair turrets, and the whole is finished by a coped parapet of the fourteenth century; the entire breadth of the west front is 173 feet, and its height, 83 feet.

The western towers are of two periods; the three lower storeys, erected about 1092, rise to a height of 120 feet, and are arcaded; the upper stage, of Late Decorated work, has a different arrangement in either tower, but each face is filled by two lofty enriched windows, with canopies, surmounted by an elaborate panelled parapet; the angle turrets are octagonal, and have two bands of arcading at the top, which is ornamented with trefoiled pediments, surrounding the terminal pinnacles; the whole height of these towers is 184 feet, the north-west tower bearing the name of St. Mary or Great Tom, and the south-west tower that of St. Hugh; the latter now contains a peal of 8 bells, and in the former once hung the original "Great Tom of Lincoln," cast in 1610, and weighing 4 tons 8 cwt.; this bell, cracked in December, 1827, was recast, with additions, in 1835, and rehung in the central tower, and now weighs 5 tons 8 cwts.

The western porch, and those on either side of it, were much altered by Treasurer Welbourne, c. 1370, and their vaulting, and the panelling and arcading of the walls belongs to that period; the modern Palladian arches with which they are encumbered were added about 1727-30, to support the towers, and the central flat arch, with a balustrade crossing the porch, was erected by Essex; on the north side of the central porch is a tablet inscribed to the officers and men of the Tenth or North Lincolnshire regiment, who fell in the campaign of 1845-6, in the Sutlej, and in that of 1848-9 in the Punjab; and another to those of the same regiment who fell during the Indian mutiny 1857-8: on the south side is a tablet erected in 1775 to Bishop William Smith (1496-1514), founder of Brasenose College, Oxford. On either side of the north and south porches are vaulted Early English chapels, forming the wings of the west front, and projecting beyond the aisles; that of St. Hugh, or the Ringers' chapel, on the south side, retains its altar steps, and both have interior and western entrances, the latter, built up almost from their erection, having been only lately opened; eastward of these chapels and divided from the aisles by low ornamented walls, are two Early English chapels; that on the south side (Trinity Chapel) contains a double piscina, and is now used as the consistory court; the corresponding Chapel of St. Mary Magdalen on the north side is used for early morning prayer.

The interior of the cathedral produces powerful effect from the great extent of its area, and the spaciousness and elegance of its construction; the gradation from the plainer Early English of the nave and transept to the elaborately ornamented choir is most striking. Towards the west end of the nave, a remarkable irregularity of plan is observable, the axis of the choir, which is continued in a straight line nearly to the end of the nave, being suddenly arrested, and caused to deviate northwards to a degree of nearly eighteen inches. The nave is Early English throughout, and consists of seven widely-spaced bays, with clustered piers twenty-three feet in height, and varying somewhat in detail; but the two westernmost bays are about five feet less in span than the others, and the vaulting at the sixth arch from the east is decreased in height. The triforium is generally arranged in groups of three arches, circumscribed by a larger one, with quatrefoils in the tympana, but the two westernmost bays being narrower have only two subarches: the windows of the clerestory are arranged in triplets, the central light being taller than the others: the triple vaulting shafts spring from corbels of foliage between the spandrils of the great arches, and the vault itself spreads in groups of seven ribs, with bosses of foliage at the intersections; the glass in the upper part of the Perpendicular west window is of Late Decorated date: previous to the Civil War, there were in the nave eighty-seven altar tombs and brasses, and until it was repaved in 1790, two rows of circular stones remained to mark the positions of the bishop, dignitaries and choir in processions.

The aisles of the nave are narrow, and lighted by coupled lancets in each bay; and the north aisle is lined by a continuous arcade of trefoiled arches, set on triple clustered shafts detached from the wall; the quinquipartite vaulting springs from detached Purbeck shafts, and is forty feet in height; in the south aisle the arcading is interrupted by the vaulting shafts which are set against the wall; beneath the second arch on the south stands a huge square Norman font of black basalt, raised on a central pillar, with four shafts at the angles, the sides are rudely sculptured with figures of winged monsters and birds. All the windows of the aisles are memorials, the gift of Sir Charles H. J. Anderson bart. of Lea, and others: the first four at the west end of the south aisle are the work of the Rev. Augustus and Mr. F. Sutton; the high tombs and brasses in this part of the church were destroyed during the Civil War; on the north aisle was placed, in 1872, the coffin slab of the tomb of Remigius, which had been removed to the cloisters in 1782; it is carved in relief with a kind of genealogical tree of Christ, twined to form three vesicas and enclosing figures of Our Lord, the Virgin, David and others.

The central or rood tower, probably the finest central church tower in the world, is supported on four massive piers, 48 feet in height, each composed of twenty-four attached shafts, alternately of Lincoln and Purbeck stone, with rich capitals, and supporting lofty arches, 27 feet high: above these are two tiers of arcading, the uppermost forming a clerestory, over which, at a height of 127 feet from the pavement, spreads the elaborately traceried vaulting, which is of later date than the portion below; the upper storey of the tower has in each face two superb canopied windows, each of two lights and of extreme loftiness; the angle turrets are arcaded from the base to the summit, and terminate in pinnacles; the parapet was erected by J. Green and Essex in 1775, and is 238 feet from the floor level.

The great transept, opening north and south from the central tower, has eastern aisles of three bays in each wing, containing chantry chapels; those of St. James, St. Denis and St. Nicholas (or St. Michael) on the north; and of St. Giles (or St. Thomas), St. John the Baptist (or St. Andrew) and St. Anne (or St. Edward) on the south. The transept has triforium and clerestory, the arrangement on the west side resembling that of the south side of the nave; the east side corresponds generally with the choir, except in its lower arcading; the vaulting is sexpartite; both of the transept aisles are raised on two steps, and the chapels are parted off from each other by gabled and arcaded screens of the same date, and from the transept by screens of Perpendicular work; and the monuments to Simon of Barton, archdeacon of Stow, 1280, and Dean William of Lessington, 1272; in the chapel of St. Giles, in the south transept, there is a large Decorated bracket and below it a high tomb of the fifteenth century within a canopied recess, to Sir George Tailbois: here also is a slab with granite cross to Dean Ward, 1860, and two stained lancet windows to his memory; in the south-west angle of this transept are the great doors of the Galilee porch, and against the west wall remain the basement and supports of the silver shrine of John d'Alderby, Bishop (1300-20); two exquisite doorways of the Geometrical Decorated period, with bands of open work, roses and festooned foliage, lead from the main transept into the choir aisles, but its finest features are the windows at the north and south ends; the former includes a magnificent rose window of elaborately wrought plate tracery, one of the most perfect remaining works of the Early thirteenth century, and retaining its original stained glass; at the south end is an equally fine circular window of the pure Decorated period, c. 1350; with stone tracery of the richest and most intricate description, and filled with fragments of Early English glass; the other windows at either end are lancets, displaying portions of old glass.

The rood screen, c. 1310, a very beautiful work of the Early Decorated period, consists of central doorway under a tall crocketed canopy, flanked on either side by four canopied recesses in two stages, and above is a rich corbel table, a frieze of leafage, finished with an embattled parapet; the organ, placed on the screen, was built in 1826, by W. Allen, at a cost of £3,000, and enlarged by his son in 1851; the case was designed by Mr. E. J. Willson.

The ritual choir consists at present of seven bays, of which four, with the crossing of the eastern transept, are St. Hugh's work (1186-1200), the two easternmost belong to the later work (1255-80), and together with the three bays beyond the altar screen form the presbytery; the piers of the first four bays are octagonal and of Lincoln stone, with shafts of Purbeck marble at the four angles; the triforium consists of two large arches in each bay, with double sub-arches; the clerestory is disposed in triplets behind an arcade of filleted and clustered shafts; most of the clerestory windows are filled with modern glass by the Rev. A. and Mr. F. Sutton. The stalls, Late Decorated, are 62 in number, with superb canopies and carved misericords, and are arranged between the organ screen and the eastern transept: the bishop's throne, placed on the south side, was constructed in 1778: the pulpit, erected in 1866 by the Lincoln Architectural Society, in recognition of the services rendered to Ecclesiastical architecture by the present Bishop of Nottingham, is from a design by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A.; it is hexagonal and constructed of oak, with figures of the Evangelists on brackets, and carvings in relief of incidents in Scripture history: the plinth of Caen stone is surrounded by seven shafts of marble and granite: the eagle lectern of brass was presented by John Goche in 1667: in the centre of the pavement of the choir is an ancient stone inscribed "Cantate hic," marking the position of the litany desk: the altar screen, erected in 1380, retains a considerable portion of its original work, but was chiefly renewed in 1775 by Essex, the pedimental canopy being a copy of the tomb of Bishop de Luda at Ely: the altar rail of brass, a fine work, was the gift of Archdeacon Bonney, and cost £300; the brass chandelier was given by Sir Thomas Meers in 1698, the communion plate cost £1,000 in 1824: the carpet was worked and presented by the ladies of Lincolnshire; the pavement of the eastern bay is richly inlaid with marbles and encaustic tiles.

The choir aisles are decorated on their north and south sides with a double intersecting arcade, above which are coupled lancets: the vaulting is quinquipartite: a small door on the north side of the south choir aisle led to the chamber of the constable of the Close, which was built aloft in the aisle: in the third bay are traces of the shrine of little St. Hugh, the base of the shrine and part of the groining of the canopy remain; on the removal of the former during the repaving of the cathedral in 1790, a stone coffin was found containing the complete skeleton of a boy three feet three inches long.

The whole of the eastern or choir transept corresponds in style with the choir, excepting the upper part of the south end, rebuilt in the thirteenth century. The arches towards the choir are St. Hugh's work, but the piers underwent some alterations in the Decorated period: the north arm is vaulted at the level of the triforium in the northern bay, and in the southern on a line with the clerestory; the lancet windows are stained; there are two eastern apsidal chapels in this arm: in the north wall is an enriched doorway opening from the chapel into the canons' Common room: there is a monument here to Dean Honywood, 1681, the remains of the canopy of the Burghersh monuments, and an effigy of a priest fully vested, dug up near the cathedral; both chapels are enclosed by Perpendicular wooden screens; in the western wall of this wing a door opens into an ancient sacristy, now called the "Dean's Chapel," and on the wall above the entrance are frescoes of four bishops, painted by Damini in 1723: the floor of this part of the transept exhibits many incised gravestones, including a figure and inscription to Richard de Gaynsborough, sculptor, and a modern tomb to Mrs. Markham, the authoress of various histories. The south wing of the transept is also St. Hugh's work, but differs from the north wing in its details; eastward, it terminates in the apsidal chapels of St. Peter and St. Paul, the former contains the tomb of Bishop Kaye, 1853, with marble effigy by Westmacott: the chapel of St. Paul, used as a vestry, has stained glass by the Rev. A. and Mr. F. Sutton: on the floor of the transept at this end are stones inscribed to Bishops Grostête, 1254; Richard of Gravesend, 1280; Repingdon, 1420; and Lexington, 1258; whose tombs, formerly on this spot, were destroyed during the Civil War: on the west side of the transept is the ancient choristers' vestry, divided from the choir aisle by a screen of Decorated work, covered on both sides with a rich diapering of four-leaved flowers; it has also a panelled lavatory of stone, and a stone fireplace with hood used by the sacristan for baking the hosts; at the south-west angle is the principal vestry, a late Early English structure of three storeys, the topmost used as a song school; the basement storey, forming a crypt, was probably the treasury; the vestry proper is a fine vaulted apartment.

The Angel Choir or Lady Chapel (1255-80) consists of five bays, two of which, extending westward of the altar screen, form the presbytery, it derives its name from 30 figures of angels, playing on various instruments of music, which occupy the spandrils of the triforium arcade; this choir is, architecturally, the eastern portion of the presbytery, and is one of the richest examples extant of Transitional Early English in its latest form, approaching very closely to Decorated work; the piers have banded shafts and rich capitals: and the spandrils of the arches are relieved with trefoils; the triforium has two arches in each bay, each of these containing two trefoiled sub-arches, with quatrefoils in the tympana; the clerestory windows are of four lights in a double plane of tracery: the east window, 53 by 30 feet, is filled with stained glass inserted in 1855, and illustrating the Atonement.

The aisles attached to the angel choir (1270-82) are vaulted and the windows exhibit Geometrical tracery: the central bay in each aisle has an entrance to the cathedral: and projecting from the bay, east of the north doorway, is the Trinity chapel founded by Bishop Fleming (1420-31), with his effigy, and beneath an altar tomb on the south side a cadaver wrapped in a shroud: in the same chapel is a sarcophagus, with grey marble scroll inscribed to Harriet (Churchill) wife successively of Sir Everard Fawkner kt. and of Governor Pownell, 1777: in the last bay of this aisle is the chantry of St. John the Baptist, founded by the Burghersh family, c. 1340, with an altar tomb supporting an effigy of Bartholomew, third Lord Burghersh, and constable of the tower, 1356: the south choir aisle has east of the porch the chapel of St. Blaise, founded by Bishop Russell, c. 1494: on the opposite side is the chapel of St. Catherine, founded c. 1547, by Bishop Longland; the window over the entrance contains the names of the chancellors of Lincoln from 1092 to 1872: at the east end of the aisle was the chantry of St. Nicholas, founded by Sir Nicholas Cantilupe, c. 1372; adjoining this chantry on the north are two superb monuments with effigies to Nicholas, Lord Cantilupe, 1355, and Prior Wymbysh of Norton; north of these is a table tomb of Caen stone, with sculptured panels, designed by E. Blore, and executed by Fosyth to W. Hilton R.A. 1839; and P. de Wint, painter, 1849; also at the east end and near to the chapel of St. John the Baptist are the tombs of Robert de Burghersh and Bishop Henry de Burghersh, lord treasurer and chancellor (1320-42); the latter has a recumbent effigy of the bishop, richly vested: these tombs are placed in a line with short buttresses between them, and display on the north side a series of very rich canopied niches, enclosing figures of Edward III. his sons, and Thomas Earl of Leicester and Lincoln, illustrating the alliances of the Burghersh family.

Among the monuments not already noticed, are: at the back of the altar screen, the table tomb with inscription, placed by Bishop Fuller over the site of St. Hugh's shrine; the tomb of Bishop Fuller himself (1267-75), and tombs to Bishop Gardiner (1695-1705), and various members of his family; besides inscribed stones to Sir Richard Kaye, dean; in the north aisle of the Angel choir, the gravestones of Bishops Chedworth, 1271; Hugh de Wells, 1235; and Sutton, 1299: and in the south aisle, Bishop Holbeach, 1551; Henry of Huntingdon, the chronicler, 1149; and Sir William Dalison or D'Alanzon, Justice of the Common Pleas, 1559; on the north side of the presbytery, occupying the whole of the first bay beyond the eastern transept, is a large Decorated structure of the close of the thirteenth century, consisting of six vaulted bays, with a coped roof and cresting, divided by a wall in the middle; buttressed shafts rising into slender enriched pinnacles, seem to have formed the tomb of the unknown founder; the eastern bays served as an Easter sepulchre, and the panels bear in relief the figures of three sleeping soldiers, clad in surcoats over chain mail, their heads upon their shields; the interior ends of the walls are admirably carved with foliage; opposite, on the south side of the choir, is the tomb of Katharine Swynford, third wife of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, 1403, from which the brasses have been removed and the original canopy replaced by one of debased character; adjoining, eastward, is the altar tomb of her daughter Joan, Countess of Westmorland, 1440, which has been much damaged.

The cathedral occupies generally an area of 55,580 feet, and the total interior length is 468 feet; the breadth, including the aisles, varies from 79 feet 6 inches in the nave, to 82 feet in the choir, and the height from 72 feet in the choir to 74 in the main transept, and 80 in the nave.

The exterior of the cathedral is especially striking from the variety and picturesqueness of its outline and its general richness of treatment; on the south side may be noticed the enriched gable of the south-west tower, and beyond, the line of the nave, marked by a range of flying buttresses and the continuous arcading of the clerestory; six canopied niches, with brackets, project from the parapet: at the south-west angle of the main transept is the Galilee porch, an elegant cruciform structure of two storeys, and wholly of Early English date, but later than St. Hugh's work of that period; it is vaulted throughout, the ribs of the groining being enriched with dog-tooth mouldings: the eastern arm is arcaded on both sides and has clustered shafts with foliaged capitals: the entrance to the transept is by a double doorway at the east end of the porch, in the room over which, now a muniment room, the Chapter Court was formerly held: beyond the transept are seen the Early English buttresses of the choir, relieved below with banded shafting, and rising above the parapet into heavy triangular headings; slender intermediate buttresses separate the windows: next is the south arm of the eastern transept with its apsidal chapels, each having a small clerestory, and further eastward, flanked on either side by the rich Perpendicular chapels of St. Catherine and St. Blaise, with their panelled buttresses and parapets, is the beautiful south-east entrance or Bishop's porch, which consists of a gable enriched with foils set between two tall crocketed pinnacles, the lower portion being almost entirely filled with deeply recessed arch, lined on each side with canopied niches, over which are convergent bands of moulding, alternately filled with statuary, roses and foliage: in the tympanum over the double portal, is a fine carving of the Last Judgment; on either side of the outer entrance are two headless figures under canopies: the east end of the cathedral, the earliest and most beautiful example of the Early Geometrical style in existence, consists of a lofty central gable, flanked by two smaller, with massive buttresses between each, and at either end, adorned with canopied niches and crocketed pediments and pinnacles; the central compartment is in two divisions: the larger containing the magnificent east window, above which is another fine window of five lights; the north and south compartments exhibit much smaller windows of three lights, and over these two tiers of arcading; the space below all the lower windows is similarly ornamented; the north side of the cathedral resembles the south side in all its general features, the north face of the north-western tower also retaining a Norman gable; near the north-east angle of the east end is an ancient well.

In 1872 the works connected with the north-west transept were completed, and in 1878, the restoration of the west front and south-west tower was substantially advanced; in 1884 the whole of the open parapet on the western side of the great central tower was blown down by a storm, and the remaining three sides rendered so insecure, that an entire reconstruction has become necessary.

The Cloisters, 118 by 90 feet, are reached by a vestibule from the north arm of the eastern transept, and extend from that point partially across the northern face of the main transept; the east, south and west alleys, built by Bishop Sutton, 1280-1300, have wooden vaulting with exquisitely carved bosses representing the seasons, saints and angels: the windows are Early Decorated; the north alley, unwalled or destroyed in 1439 by Dean Mackworth, for the purpose of building stables, was rebuilt in 1665 by Sir Christopher Wren, and now appears as a Doric corridor, supporting a library in the Palladian style. Under the staircase leading to the library at the north-east angle are preserved some fragments of Roman altars, sepulchral inscriptions &c.; in the cloisters are also placed a fragment of Early Norman sculpture, with the figure of an apostle; and several stone coffins; in the cloister garth a Roman tesselated pavement was discovered in 1793: the ancient library, built in 1422 over the east alley, was destroyed by fire, with most of its contents, in 1609, but was rebuilt, after the restoration, by Dean Honywood, who refurnished it and presented a most valuable collection of MSS. and printed books: it is 104 feet long by 17 wide, and contains about 4,500 volumes, including various early bibles and liturgies, some Caxtons and other early printed books; the MSS. comprise one of the four extant contemporaneous copies of Magna Charta; a Bible; Gower's Vox Clamantis; Lydgate's poems; Barclay's Ship of Fools; Episcopal registers 1209-1608; Chapter registers from 1304; and books of Confirmations, Institutions and Endowments &c.

The Chapter house, situated east of the cloisters, is approached from the eastern alley by a vaulted vestibule of two bays, entered by a double arch, over which runs an arcading, and above, in the central gable, a circular window, now destitute of tracery: smaller gables, one on each side cover staircase turrets: the vestibule has four windows on each side, beneath which is an arcading; the chapter house itself is a decagon of the early thirteenth century, of sixty-two feet internal diameter and forty-two feet high, and is supported in the centre by a stone pillar, surrounded by ten hexagonal shafts of Purbeck marble, banded at half their height and terminating in foliaged capitals; each bay has two lancet windows, between which rise the vaulting shafts; below the windows is a continuous arcading, corresponding to that in the vestibule: the exterior has buttresses at the angles, with arched panelling on every face, and terminating in crocketed pinnacles, which, as well as the quatrefoiled parapet, are later additions; these buttresses are in turn supported by flying buttresses from the main structure; the conical roof was restored to its present state about 1800; five of the windows are stained, of these the first two on the left of the entrance are memorials to Chancellor Massingberd, and the others were erected to Prebendary Gilbert, the Rev. Humphrey Sibthorp and Bishop Mackenzie, suffragan of Nottingham and sub-dean; in the floor remains the socket for the processional cross; here, in 1309, the Preceptor of Temple Bruer was arraigned; adjoining the eastern cloister, on the south side of the entrance to the vestibule, are three chambers, anciently forming a single room, called the "Camera Communis," or Canons' common room.

The Close, in which the cathedral stands, was gradually formed at various times in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries; the eastern wall of the Roman city, which crossed the site of the choir transept, was removed by Bishop Lexington (1256-73), and the eastern city wall by Bishop Sutton, who in 1285 surrounded the Close with a wall twelve feet high; Bishop d'Alderby made other additions in 1313; it is now tolerably open toward the east, where there is a fine stretch of greensward, but on the remaining sides it is closely environed by the capitular and other buildings; the principal entrance is by the west or Exchequer gate, a lofty structure of three storeys, built in the early part of the thirteenth century, with a large central arch and two posterns; the east front is broken by two octagonal embattled turrets, one on either side the central arch; adjoining the Exchequer gate on the south are the precentory and sub-deanery, commanding a fine view of the lower city and the country beyond; beneath the former is a Roman hypocaust, discovered in 1739, and the latter retains a late oriel window; at the south-east angle of the Close is Potter gate, the north front of which, pierced by a single arch, is embattled, and has loopholes; portions of a porter's lodge also remain: near this gate, on the south, is the Chancery, which has been the residence of the chancellors of the cathedral since 1316, when it was built by Anthony Bek, who held that office till 1329; the front, of red brick, and a central oriel of stone, were added by Bishop Russell about 1490: northward is a modern gateway leading into Eastgate, and near it is an ancient residentiary house of the thirteenth century, miscalled "The Priory," which has some curious internal work, and a very fine contemporary sideboard; portions of the crenellated wall of the Close, with its towers, remain in the garden of this house, as well as in those of the Choristers' house and the Chancery. The old Deanery, situated on the north side of the Close, was erected about 1190, and its buildings, varying both in style and age, inclosed a quadrangular court, with an entrance tower on the south, erected by Dean Flemyng; it was much damaged during the Civil War, and in 1847-50 was entirely rebuilt a little to the east of the original site, from the designs of Mr. Burn of Edinburgh; some of the walls on the north, next Eastgate, remain.

The ruins of the Episcopal Palace, situated on the slope of the hill south of the cathedral, form one of the most picturesque of the many remains of antiquity with which the city abounds. The palace is believed to have been begun by Bishop Chesney (1147-67) and the portions now remaining consist of the shell of the great hall, with the turreted butteries and kitchen beyond, built by Bishop St. Hugh (1185-1200), and Hugh de Weller (1209-34), most of the inner gate tower, erected by Bishop Alnwick (1436-49), the vaulted basement of the dining and other rooms, and fragments of the south and intermediate walls; the outer gate, leading from the courtyard into the Close, is also extant, and bears the arms of Bishop Smith, who died in 1514, and was the founder of Brasenose College, Oxford; the inner part of this gate was rebuilt by Charles Mainwaring esq. who also, during his term of lease, repaired other parts of the buildings, cleared the vaults and erected stables and a coach-house in the north court; the six clustered columns of grey marble which supported the arcades of the great hall have wholly disappeared, but fragments of their bases and capitals have been recovered; on the west side of the courtyard is a modern mansion. Here in 1541 Bishop Longland entertained Henry VIII. and Queen Catherine Howard, and on March 31, 1617, James I. coming hither from his lodging in St. Catherine's priory, was welcomed by Bishop Neile; the present palace is at Riseholme, 2½ miles north of the city.

The Vicars' Court, south of the Close, and eastward of the ruins of the Palace, is entered by a groined gateway of the time of Edward I.: the house on the south side is of the same date, and has the arms of the see emblazoned in the windows; other buildings are of later date; the court, when complete, had residences for 20 vicars choral; it was begun by Bishop Sutton in 1299, and continued by Bishop Bokyngham: the stables on the east were erected by Bishop Alnwick in 1450, and bear his arms. North of the palace gateway is the chantry founded by Nicholas Lord Cantilupe, whose tomb is in the cathedral; it is now a dwelling house, but retains some old features, especially a fine oriel in the north gable.

The city formerly abounded with churches, but of the fifty-two churches which existed before the Reformation thirteen only remain, some of which are of considerable interest. The little church of St. Paul situated in the Bail, near the Mint Wall, and wholly rebuilt in 1876-7, stands according to Bede (Eccl. Hist. Bk. II), on the site of one erected by Blecca, the Roman Governor of the city, who was converted by St. Paulinus, in this early edifice. Honorius, Archbishop of Canterbury, is said to have been consecrated by Paulinus in A.D. 627. The first stone of the new church, designed by A. W. Blomfield M.A., F.S.A. architect, was laid by the late Lieut.-Col. Cracroft-Amcotts, on St. Paul's day (Jan. 25, 1877); it is a building of stone with brick dressings in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, south transeptal chapel, vestry and organ chamber on the south, nave of four bays, aisles, western porch, and above the chancel arch an open bell-turret, with tall slender spirelet, containing 1 bell. In digging the foundations of the new church, a pavement of black and red tile mosaic was discovered, about 10 feet below the surface of the ground, near which were several large stone coffins: there are 550 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1694. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £300 with residence, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Nathaniel Halliwell Sumner, of St. Bees.

St. Botolph's church, in High street, a plain edifice of stone erected in 1723, to replace the original cruciform church which became ruinous in 1646, was enlarged and improved in 1878, at a total cost of about £1,500, the chancel being extended and a north aisle added; it now consists of chancel, nave and aisles, with arcade of four arches, organ chamber, vestry and a western embattled tower with pinnacles, and containing 5 bells: the stained east window was the gift and work of the Rev. F. H. Sutton M.A. rector of Brant Broughton; the piscina and sedilia were constructed from portions of the ancient church. In 1880 an organ chamber and vestry were added, and in 1884 a south aisle was built at a cost of £600, defrayed by the Bishop of Lincoln, and carried eastward for more than half the length of the chancel from which it is separated by a carved stone screen; the east end is also enclosed by a light iron screen, thus forming a quasi-chancel which is conveniently arranged for the short daily services of the church; the alterations have been carried out under the direction of Mr. W. Watkin, architect. There are 350 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £132 including 88 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Andrew Borradale Chrysostom Ramsay B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin.

The church of St. Martin, described in early records as "St. Martin at Dernstall," claims to be one of the very earliest churches founded in the city of Lincoln; it is first mentioned with certainty in the Conqueror's charter of Lincoln cathedral, of which it is still a prebend: the present church, consecrated in 1873, is an edifice in the Early English style, consisting of an apsidal chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, and a western tower containing 1 bell: all the windows are stained: the materials of the old church were chiefly sold, but the shafts and capitals, with other architectural features, were purchased by the Bishop and presented for incorporation in the new church of St. Andrew: the work was carried out under the direction of Mr. W. S. Beckett, of Nottingham: it has 700 sittings, of which 300 are free: the church plate is ancient. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1548. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £130, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1870 by the Rev. John Joseph Foy, of St. Bees.

St. Mark's church, erected in 1871-2, to replace a mean edifice patched up in 1788 from the ruins of the ancient church, which had fallen into decay during the Civil wars, is a building in the Early English style, consisting of five-sided apsidal chancel, nave, semicircular baptistry, and on the north side a tower, with pinnacles and a spire 120 feet high and containing 1 bell, dated 1585, formerly belonging to the church of St. Benedict: in the walls of the vestry are preserved some Norman arch mouldings, a very diminutive stone coffin and other relics of the former building: there are 308 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1681. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £150, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1871 by the Rev. James Mansell B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, minor canon of the cathedral and diocesan inspector of schools.

St. Mary-le-Wigford, in the High street, originally erected soon after the Norman Conquest by a citizen of Lincoln, of Danish descent, named Colswegen, is an edifice in the Norman, Earlier English, Early and Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, vestry with organ chamber over, and a tower, tall, square, slender and unbuttressed, with coupled belfry windows divided by midwall shafts, furnishing an excellent example of the kind of tower built by our Saxon ancestors 900 years since, and is all that now remains of the church built by Colswegen; it contains 4 bells dating from 1616 to to 1636: built into the western face of the tower is a Roman tombstone, with two inscriptions, one in the ordinary square space and the other in the triangular head of the stone, which appears to have been originally set up in memory of one Sacer, son of Bruscus, a Senonian Gaul, and of his wife, Carssouna, and son Quintus, who lived, perhaps, in the first century after Christ; it runs thus: "Dis m(a)nibvs nomini Sacri Brvsci fili civis Senoni et Carssovnæ conivcis eivs et Qvinti f.". The founder of the church seems to have built this memorial into his tower and then to have recorded his own work in the second inscription, which is Anglo-Saxon, and reads as follows: "Eirtig me let pircean 7 fios godian Crista to lofe 7 Sancte Marie," i.e. "Eirtig had me built and endowed to the praise of Christ and St. Mary": at the west end of the church are two brasses, one to William Horn, formerly mayor (1452) of the city of Lincoln, died the 12th day of March, 1469; the other to John Jobson, formerly alderman of the city of Lincoln, died 4th July, 1525: the nave and chancel are of the Earlier English or Lancet period (1190-1245): the east end is of remarkable design, exhibiting two lancets divided by a buttress with a quatrefoiled vesica-shaped window above; there is a stained memorial window to the parents of H. K. Hebb esq.: the church was restored in 1872, when the vestry and organ chamber were built, and in 1877 a new south-aisle was added in the Decorated style, and the chancel ornamented in colour, from designs by Mr. Leach, of Cambridge; the chancel screens and rails are of light iron-work, gilt, designed by the Rev. F. H. Sutton M.A. rector of Brant Broughton, and executed by Mr. Coldron, of that place; the brass chandelier was given to the Corporation in 1720: a handsome brass lectern was presented to the church in 1877. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge (vicarial) £20; net yearly value £285, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Edgar Wharton M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford.

St. Mary Magdalene is a building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of nave, north aisle and a tower containing 2 bells: the original church was destroyed by Bishop Remigius to make room for the minster; a new church was erected about 1294, by Bishop Oliver Sutton, which was ruined in the siege of 1643 and rebuilt in 1695: in 1882, the church, with the exception of the four outer walls, was rebuilt from designs by G. F. Bodley esq. architect; the cost, £2,500, being defrayed by voluntary contributions: there are 230 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, £125; net £85, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Geo. Tyson Harvey M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

St. Michael's church, erected in 1853, in place of a very plain edifice, which rose from the ruins of the ancient church in 1744, is a small building, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. Teulon, architect, and consists of chancel and nave and a bell turret containing 1 bell: its exposed situation on the brow of the hill made the old church an attractive mark for the Parliamentary artillerymen, who battered it down in 1643; and there was no church in this parish from 1685 to 1744: there are 520 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £130, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. George Browne Jameson M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford and surrogate.

St. Nicholas was among the churches granted by Henry I. to Bishop Bloet; it was rebuilt about 1280, and was so much injured during the Civil war, that most of it was taken down; some portions of the fabric may still be seen in the old wall near the Roman arch. St. John's church was partly taken down in 1546 and demolished in 1584; it stood in the middle of the old Roman road, near the present training college: both churches were so injured as to be disused for nearly two centuries: the present church of St. Nicholas, serving for the amalgamated parishes of St. Nicholas and St. John, which lie north of the old city walls and include the district known by the name of Newport, was erected in 1840, at a cost of £2,500, and is a building in the Early English style, from one of the earliest designs of the late Sir Gilbert Scott, consisting of chancel and nave, and a tower, with spire, rising to a height of 93 feet and containing 1 bell: there are 470 sittings, all free. The register of St. Nicholas dates from the year 1736; that of St. John's from 1708. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln and the Dean and Chapter alternately, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Frederick Beatson Blenkin M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge.

St. Peter-at-Arches, or the Corporation church, built in 1724 at a cost of £3,748, is a spacious rectangular structure of stone, in the Classic style, with semicircular eastern apse, and a tower with balustraded parapet surmounted by four large crosses and urns and containing a clock and a magnificent peal of 8 bells; the eastern windows were filled with stained glass as a memorial to Thomas and Mary Norton and Thomas Postlethwaite in 1853: the stained windows in the south aisle are memorials to Robert and Marian Dawber, and Mary wife of John Mawer; there is a memorial brass in the vestry to John Becke, twice mayor of Lincoln, and Marie his wife, dated 16th December, 1617: the interior walls of the apse were painted with sacred subjects by James Francis Damini, a Venetian, in 1727, at the cost of the city: the whole interior was extensively repaired in 1867, when the aisles were new roofed and the chancel and nave decorated by Mr. Wallhead of Lincoln: the font was given by the Rev. J. Disney, vicar of St. Mary's, Nottingham. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from the year, 1561; burials 1679. St. Benedict's church, now disused, is a small building in the Early English style, and appears to consist of the chancel and north chantry chapel of a much larger edifice; at the west end is a modern tower constructed of old materials: in the church is a brass with effigies and inscription to John Beck, alderman and mayor in 1593, his wife and family; he died in 1620. The register of St. Benedict's parish dates from 1645. The living of St. Peter is a rectory, united with the vicarage of St. Benedict, gross yearly value £220, in the gift of the Bishop, and held since 1851 by the Rev. Thomas Sherlock Nelson M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge, rural dean of the deanery of Christianity, canon and prebend of Lincoln and surrogate.

St. Peter-at-Gowts is a cruciform building in the Norman, Earlier English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, transepts, nave, aisles and a western tower containing 6 bells, it derives its distinctive name from the gowts or water courses, of which several run in its immediate vicinity, and as now standing has been almost wholly restored; the Norman tower and south ground storey of the nave, of the Lancet period, being the only parts existing of the original structure: a monumental arch, opening into the south transept or chantry, bears a singular rhyming inscription of barbarous Latin, in Lombardic characters, to the memory of Ralph Joluf and his wife Amicia, the founder of the chapel, in which was an incised slab with two crosses bearing his name; it runs thus:—

"Radulfus Joluf, sua conjux ac Amicia,
Hic simul humatur, quibus ista capella paratur.
Virgine Mater Theos qui sibi salvet eos
Pro quibus oretis opus hoc quicunque videtis."

The stained east window is a memorial to Fredk. Straw esq. of Skellingthorpe, who died August 14, 1852; the font is Norman. In 1852 a new north aisle in the Decorated style, was built, and the church new roofed under the direction of Mr. Nicholson. There are 320 sittings, all of which are free. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1540; marriages and burials, 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held, since 1884, by the Rev. James Weston Townroe.

The ancient church of St. Swithin, one of the best in the city, after being nearly destroyed by fire in 1644, was rebuilt of stone in 1801 and though latterly disused for some years, existed in this form until 1884, when it was wholly taken down. The new church of St. Swithin, standing on the site of the old Sheep square, and begun in 1870, is a building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry and organ chamber, and a tower in course of erection: the tower and spire, when completed, will form a very important object in the heart of the city, rising as it will to a height of 197 feet above the floor of the church: the material for the interior will be Ancaster stone and for the exterior, Lincoln stone with Ancaster dressings, the material from the old church also being used: during the removal of the old church, several mouldings have been found, showing that the ancient church was of the Decorated period: the tower is being erected as a memorial to the late Joseph Shuttleworth esq. at the sole expense of his son, Alfred Shuttleworth, of Hartsholme: in March 1884, in the course of excavating for the foundations of the new tower, a very perfect Roman altar was discovered, which has been ascribed by Professor Hübner, of Berlin, to the end of the second or beginning of the third century; it is 3 feet in height and hewn out of a single block of oolite and is carved on each side in low-relief with figures of sacrificial vessels; the inscription, still sharp and clear, is as follows:

"PARCIS DEA
BVS. ET. NV
MINIBVS AVG
C ANTISTIVS
FRONTINVS
CVRATOR. TER
AR. D. S. D."

to be thus rendered: "To the Goddesses, the Fates, and to the deities of Augustus, Caius Antistius Frontinus, being curator for the third time, erects this altar at his own cost;" this is the fourth altar found in Britain dedicated to the Fates, the others being in the Carlisle district: the church contains 1,000 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1685. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £11, net yearly value £300 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1866 by the Rev. George Henry Pratt M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford, and chaplain to Lord Hawke.

The church of St. Peter-with-St. Margaret-in-Eastgate, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, erected in 1870, from designs by A. W. Blomfield esq. M.A. architect, at a cost of about £3,000, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a bell cot containing one bell: a reredos, representing Our Lord's Commission to St. Peter, was erected in 1884 to the memory of the late F. Burton esq. and his wife, the cost being defrayed by their four sons: at the same time the walls and roof of chancel were redecorated, both being from designs by G. F. Bodley esq. architect: a brass lectern was also given by Miss Cookson: and kneeling cushions by ladies of the parish: there are two stained windows: the church has 500 sittings, all free: the former church was a plain building, erected in 1778 on the site of a previous church, dismantled in 1643. The register of St. Peter's dates from the year 1662; that of St. Margaret's from 1538; and the register of the consolidated parishes from 1781. The living is a vicarage, united to the curacy of St. Margaret in 1778, gross yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln and held since 1868 by the Rev. James Michaelmas Barrett M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, prebendary of Lincoln, chaplain to the Lincoln union, diocesan inspector of schools and surrogate.

St. Andrew's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1883; the church, erected in 1876-7, is a building in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, and consists of semi-circular apsidal chancel, with vestry and organ chamber on the north, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch, and over the chancel arch a small bell turret with stone spire, containing one bell: the arches of the south arcade are those of the old church of St. Martin reset, with their carved capitals and responds: a low stone screen divides the nave and chancel; the latter has two sedilia and Decorated reredos: in 1882-3 the chancel was decorated from designs by George F. Bodley esq. A.R.A. when five stained windows were inserted at the expense of the Rev. Charles Trollope Swan LL.B. of Saulsthorpe Hall, Spilsby, who also gave the land for the adjoining infants' school: the site and £2,000 were given by the Rev. Francis Swan, prebendary of Lincoln; the Bishop of Lincoln also gave £1,240, together with some of the materials of the old church of St. Martin, which, as stated above, were incorporated into the new church: there are 600 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1877. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £280, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln and held since 1884 by the Rev. Walter Wanstall M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford.

The Catholic church dedicated to SS. John the Baptist and John the Evangelist, in Silver street, built in 1799 and rebuilt in 1854 at a cost of about £1,100, contains a beautiful painting of "The Taking Down from the Cross," brought over by the English nuns from Gravelines, when they were expelled from their convent at the period of the French Revolution, and presented to this chapel by the Rev. W. Beaumont D.D. formerly rector of the University of Caen, in Normandy.

The Wesleyan chapel in Clasket gate, is a spacious building of brick, with a portico of the Ionic order, erected in 1837, at a cost, including site, of about £5,000: the pews were altered in 1856, at a cost of about £1,000, and a new powerful organ added, and in 1870, the Sabbath schools adjoining were rebuilt at a cost of £1,400, and now hold over 1,000 children: there are about 1,400 sittings.

The Wesleyan chapel, in Bailgate, was erected in 1880, from the designs of Messrs. Bellamy & Hardy, architects, at a cost of about £4,500, raised by subscriptions, and is a building of stone in the Gothic style: the principal façade displaying a central gable with flanking buttresses surmounted by lofty pinnacles: in the rear is a large vestry or bandroom, with smaller vestries: the chapel will seat 800 persons.

The Wesleyan or Hannah Memorial chapel, High street, erected in 1874, from designs by Messrs. Bellamy and Hardy, as a memorial to the late Dr. Hannah, is a large edifice of brick, with a portico of the Corinthian order: there are sittings for 1,200: new schools were erected in connection with this chapel in 1881, at a cost of about £1,000.

The Wesleyan chapel, Alfred street, a structure in the Early English style, built in 1864, at a cost of about £1,200, has since been converted into a day school: the Wesleyan School chapel in St. Catherine's was built in 1880.

The Congregational church, situate in Newland, and erected in 1876 at a cost of about £10,000, from designs by Messrs. Bellamy and Hardy, is a handsome structure of Yorkshire stone with Bath stone dressings, in the Transitional style, with a tower and spire, rising to a height of 120 feet. There are sittings for 1,100 persons. The schools and offices adjoining the church are conveniently fitted for lectures and tea meetings.

The Congregational chapel, in High street, is a small and plain building, erected in 1819, with sittings for 500. This has also two mission chapels, one in a part of the city called Far Newland, the other at South Bar.

The United Free Methodist chapel, in Silver street, erected in 1864, at a cost of £3,500, from designs by Messrs. Bellamy and Hardy, architects, is a large edifice of brick, in the Italian style, with columns of red Mansfield stone; there are sittings for 960 persons: the chapel of the same sect in Saxon street is a building of red brick, erected in 1863, at a cost of £1,200, and will accommodate 500 persons.

The Primitive Methodist chapel, in Bethel place, is a large structure of red brick, erected in 1875, at a cost of about £3,000, with sittings for 800 persons: there is also a chapel for the same denomination in Rasen lane, erected in 1863, at a cost of £800, with 450 sittings.

The Baptist chapel, in St. Benedict's square, was erected in 1864, at a cost of £700, and enlarged in 1871, at a further cost of £200: there are sittings for 350 persons.

The Particular Baptists' chapel, in Mint lane, was rebuilt in 1871, at a cost of about £1,400, and has sittings for 600 persons.

The Unitarian chapel is in High street.

There are three cemeteries. The Public Cemetery, situated on the Canwick road, and containing 15 acres of ground, was opened in August 1856 and cost about £5,700: it is under the control of a Burial Board of 81 members; there are two mortuary chapels, in the Early English style. St. Swithin's cemetery is in Rosemary lane; that of St. Peter's and St. Margaret's in Eastgate, is situated in Langworth gate, and belongs to the joint parishes of St. Peter's-in-Eastgate, and St. Margaret's, one acre of ground being allotted to the former and half an acre to the latter parish: it was consecrated in 1856. St. Swithin's is under the control of a Burial Board of 9 members, and St. Peter's and St. Margaret's-in-Eastgate, by a Board of 12 members. The cemetery of St. Nicholas with St. John in Newport, is under the control of a Burial Board of 9 members.

The Scholæ Cancellarii, re-established in 1874 by the Bishop of Lincoln, for the preparation and training of candidates for Holy orders, are so called, since by ancient usage it especially belongs to the office of the Chancellor of the Cathedral of Lincoln to conduct such training. Lectures are given on the subjects usually required by the Bishops at ordination examinations, as well as in certain special subjects, and opportunities are afforded, under the clergy of the city of Lincoln, for obtaining experience in parochial work. Bursaries of £50 and under are given from time to time (by competition) to deserving students standing in need of such assistance, and in other cases tuition fees are remitted. The Bishop's Hostel, Steep Hill, formerly the County Hospital, a building erected in 1769, and enlarged in 1855 and 1860-1, has been converted into a residence for students, of whom there are now (1884) thirty-five, and others reside in lodgings licensed and approved by the authorities. Principal: The Rev. E. T. Leeke M.A. Chancellor.

The Diocesan Training College, situated at the extreme north end of Newport, and beyond the church of St. Nicholas, is an institution for the training of schoolmistresses, erected in 1842; it is built of brick in the Tudor style, and includes a practising school, students' apartments and a residence for the principal. The school, which is partly maintained by the National Society, had 40 students in training during the year 1883. Principal: The Rev. Prebendary Nelson M.A.

The Grammar School occupies a portion of the buildings belonging to the monastery of Grey or Franciscan Friars, founded here about 1230 by William de Beningworth, and situated in Broadgate: it consists of an oblong structure, with gabled roof and is two storeys in height, the lower storey being vaulted, with a plain groined roof, supported on eight octagonal columns, with plain bases and capitals: the upper stage has a coved wooden roof, and is reached by a singular covered staircase at the back: the ancient chapel of the convent now forms the school-room, and some smaller rooms at the west end constitute the library, which contains some rare and curious books: the building was fitted up and given to the city in 1567, for the purposes of a school, by Robert Monson esq. afterwards one of the Justices of the Common Pleas: and subsequently the Jersey School, founded by the Corporation, and endowed in 1693 by Henry Stone, of Skillingthorpe, with a sum of £700, for the purpose of teaching children to spin, was united to the Free School, and carried on in the lower storey. About 1596 Sir Christopher Wray kt. Chief Justice of the King's Bench (1574-1603), and his wife, founded certain scholarships, the revenues of which were derived from an estate at Grainthorpe. Commissioners, framed under the provisions of the Endowed Schools' Act of 1869, and dated August 4, 1882, the endowment of the Grammar School foundation is divided into two endowments: one to be administered under the name of the "Lincoln Grammar School," and the other as the "Lincoln Middle School": the endowment of the Grammar School thereby consists of a capital sum of £10,000, to be provided by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, under the 27th section of the Act above mentioned, and a yearly sum of £300 paid by the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, in lieu of the sums theretofore paid by them to the foundation, together with certain payments from the Mere Hospital, an extra-parochial lordship about 6 miles south, as set forth in a scheme of the Court of Chancery, dated 16th January, 1858. A yearly sum of £100 is applied under the new scheme in maintaining scholarships, each of the yearly value of £10, and tenable at the school: and there are also four exhibitions, each of the yearly value of £60, and tenable for four years at any university or other place of higher education approved by the governors: new Grammar school buildings are now (1884) in course of erection on Lindum terrace, adjoining the head master's present house: these are of red brick with dressings of Ancaster stone, in the Jacobean style, from designs by Mr. W. Watkins, architect, and comprise a large school-room, 54ft. by 24ft. with classrooms at either end, besides cloisters and other apartments and offices for not less than 150 day scholars and boarders: the whole being planned with a view to convenient extension: the school is managed by a body of 13 governors, of whom 8 are ex-officio and 5 co-optative. Head Master.—Rev. William Weekes Fowler M.A., F.L.S. late scholar of Jesus College, Oxford.

The Middle or Commercial School, under the scheme above mentioned, has for its separate endowment (1) the land and buildings hitherto appropriated for the purposes of both schools, with the exception of the house assigned to the head master of the Grammar school, and buildings adjoining it: (2) a yearly sum of £32, or if the governors of the Grammar school think fit, a capital sum of £800, to be paid by them to the governing body of the Middle school: (3) a yearly sum of not more than £139, payable by the Corporation under two indentures, dated respectively 18th January, 1583, and 8th November, 1850, or either of such indentures: the school is for boys and for day scholars only: a sum of £300 is applied yearly by the governors of the school in maintaining not more than 30 scholarships, each of the yearly value of not less than £10, and tenable at the school: and a like yearly sum of £300 in maintaining exhibitions, each of the yearly value of not less than £25, tenable at Lincoln Grammar School by boys who have been at least three years in the Middle School: the school is managed by a body of 13 governors, of whom one, the mayor of Lincoln for the time being, is ex-officio, nine representative and three co-optative. Head Master.—Rev. Robert Markham Hill M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin.

Christ's Hospital, commonly called "the Blue Coat School," situated near the west gate of the palace, was originally endowed by Richard Smith M.D. who in 1602 bequeathed the manor and lands at Potter Hanworth, for maintaining and educating 12 poor boys: to this bequest various munificent additions were subsequently made, and the benefits of the charity from 1815 till 1883 had been gradually extended to upwards of 120 boys, who were lodged, boarded, clothed and educated till the age of 15, and then apprenticed; but the premium of £16 was abolished in 1873. A new scheme for the administration of this charity was formulated in August, 1882, and on the 21st December, 1883, the school ceased to exist. Under the new scheme the Middle School above-named has been established and is carried on in the Grey Friary, occupied until December, 1883, by the grammar school, and there are now (1884) 103 boys on the books: the scheme provides for the foundation of 34 exhibitions of £20 each, of which 24 are to be attached to the Lincoln school, 5 to that at Potter Hanworth and 5 to the school at Welton: the funds of the charity are, however, at present charged with the yearly payment of two separate pensions of £140 and £120 to the late head and under masters respectively, and so long as either of these pensions continues payable, the exhibitions in all will be 25 only, of which 19 are to be held by Lincoln boys, and three from each of the other places mentioned. A girls' school, projected under the same scheme, has not yet been established.

The new Corn Exchange, situated near the Cornhill, is a structure of red brick, with stone dressings, from designs by Messrs. Bellamy and Hardy, and was erected in 1879-80, at a cost of about £7,500, by the Corn Exchange and Markets Company: the ground floor comprises a covered market, 140 feet long by 52 feet wide, with shops and warehouses at the western end and at the opposite end, stores and an apartment for testing weights and measures: the Exchange hall is 140 feet long and 52 feet wide, being one-half as large again as the old Exchange, with retiring rooms at the eastern end and a gallery over these: the roof is of open timber, the north side being covered with ground glass.

The former Corn Exchange, situated in the High street, and the property of a limited company, is a handsome building fronted with stone, in the Classic style, and was erected in 1847-8, from the designs of Mr. W. A. Nicholson: in 1880 it was converted into an arcade of shops, at a cost of £3,000. On the south side of the building is a row of shops, called the New Market, thronged by buyers and sellers on Fridays and Saturdays: the open market for vegetables is on the north side. A cattle market was also established in Monks road in 1848.

The Midland Counties Insurance Company's Office, erected in 1851, is a building of Anston stone, in a Modern Classic style, from designs by Mr. Pearson Bellamy, architect. The front exhibits a rusticated basement, with deeply recessed and ornamented windows, and is surmounted by a deep frieze, enriched with boldly-carved festoons of fruit and flowers, carried by masks: over the cornice is a balustrading, on the dies of which are placed chastely-formed vases. At each end of the building are splayed wings, while the frieze displays the various implements of a fire brigade, with other carvings denoting the purposes of the building.

The Savings Bank, in Bank street, established in 1816, is a building of stone, enlarged and newly fronted in 1859, at a cost of £700: it is opened on Fridays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and on Saturdays from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Lord Monson is the patron; president, the Bishop of Lincoln; actuary, Mr. B. Mawer.

The Mechanics' Institution, first established in 1833, occupies the rooms formerly used as the City Assembly Rooms, erected in 1757 over the Butter Market. The Corporation of Lincoln originally granted the committee the free use of them, but now a nominal rent is paid, and a large sum of money has been expended in making the rooms suitable for their purpose: the library contains about 30,000 volumes, and in the museum a selection of specimens illustrative of natural history, and a small collection of antiquities, discovered in the city and neighbourhood, among which the Roman sepulchral tablets and urns deserve especial notice. There is a Subscription Library and well supplied news rooms.

The Lincoln Club, in St. Mary's street, re-established in 1873, includes both town and country members: it contains a large reading-room, well supplied with newspapers, a good dining-room and a billiard-room.

The Lincoln Diocesan Architectural Society was established in 1844, and in union with similar societies in the counties of York, Bedford, Northampton and Worcester, has contributed a series of very valuable papers to the sixteen volumes already issued by these associated societies.

Lincoln Castle, situated on a limestone rock and defended by deep dry ditches, is said to be one of the eight fortresses actually built by William the Conqueror, who, in or about 1067, converted the English stronghold, which dominated the south-west quarter of the Roman station, into a Norman castle, the boundaries of which enclosed nearly a fourth part of the then existing city, and according to Domesday, 166 houses (mansiones) were destroyed to form its site; the existing walls, varying from 17 to 30 feet in height enclose an irregular area of 6⅝ acres, part of which is planted with trees and shrubs, and laid out as a garden; they are raised upon vast mounds or bulwarks, and are built of unhewn stones, with courses of Norman herring-bone work and a lower layer of masonry, laid on stout beams and batter upwards to a breadth of five feet at the top; the fine east gate, now the only entrance, faces Castle hill and was formerly of two storeys; the lower stage is Norman and has a round-headed entrance arch, enclosed within a later pointed arch, above which rises an angular tower, flanked by two circular stair turrets; the barbican has been destroyed, but the upper portion of the gateway is now restored; within the gateway is a fine oriel, brought here in 1849 from the remains of the so-called palace of John of Gaunt, at the cost of Earl Brownlow; within, the gate is enclosed on each side by projecting buildings terminating in low polygonal embattled towers of two stages. The west gate, or sally-port, which has long been walled up, exhibits a Norman arch with a square tower above pierced by a small doorway opening on to the battlements of the barbican, part of which is still standing; two mounds break the circuit of the walls towards the south; on the summit of the south-eastern mound, which rises at a short distance from the east gate, is a rectangular Norman tower of two floors, vaulted, and chiefly built of ashlar, with a good mural staircase; during the Decorated period, an addition, also of two stages, and flanked by square turrets, was made to the east side; the whole structure is now known as the "Observatory," and commands fine views of the city and country around: the horseshoe tower on the north-east, called "Cobb Hall," was probably built, together with the additions to the south-east tower, by Thomas of Lancaster, Earl of Lincoln, who held the castle from 1312 to 1322; it is of two storeys, vaulted with groined pointed arches and lighted by loops; two small doors led to the terraces below the east and west walls. The keep tower, which crowns the south-western mound, is an irregular polygon of twelve unequal sides, measuring 90 feet from east to west, by 80 feet from north to south; the height, to the rampart walk, is about 20 feet, but the parapet no longer exists; the main entrance is by an arch set in a broad projecting buttress on the north-east, and now reached by a steep staircase, and within is a spacious vaulted porch; no trace of any buildings has been found within the keep, which had been dismantled before 1608, nor are there any loops in its walls; on each side, where the curtain wall joins the keep, is a mural chamber, entered, probably, from above; the keep and part of the observatory tower, with portions of the gates and wall, date from the reign of Stephen.

At the western end of the castle area stands the County Hall, which includes also the Assize Courts; is is a rectangular structure of two storeys, in a modern Gothic style, with embattled parapets and turrets, and was erected in 1826, at a cost of £40,000, from designs by Mr. Smirke; the principal façade displays a central block, slightly advanced from the main building, and flanked by tall octagonal turrets, on either side of which are arcaded ambulatories, finished with coupled turrets at each end; over the entrance is the grand jury room, the walls of which are adorned with portraits:—Sir Robert Sheffield bart.; Right Hon. Charles Anderson Worsley, 2nd Earl of Yarborough, Lord Lieutenant, Custos Rotulorum and Vice-Admiral of the county of Lincoln, M.P. for Lincolnshire, 1832-5, and Lindsey, 1835-46; born, April 12, 1809; died, Jan. 7, 1862; Right Hon. Earl Brownlow G.C.H.; Charles Chaplin esq. of Blankney, M.P. for Lincolnshire, 1818-31; died, May 2, 1859; Sir Charles Henry John Anderson bart. 1873; Right Hon. Lord Kesteven, 27 years M.P. for Mid-Lincolnshire, presented July 9, 1869; Lieut.-Col. Weston Cracroft-Amcotts, of Hackthorn, July, 1884. In the south-east angle of the Castle area is the gaol, erected about 1787, from designs by Mr. Carr, of York, and consisting of two detached blocks of buildings constructed of red brick with stone dressings, lying parallel to each other, and united by buildings in the centre, the principal front facing north-east having slightly projecting wings.

Her Majesty's Prison, situated on the Greetwell road, half a mile from the Cathedral, is a building of red brick, faced with Ancaster stone, and was opened in June, 1872, at a cost of about £39,000; the principal entrance is by a gateway flanked by embattled towers; on either side the entrance are the governor's and chief warder's houses, and there is also a chapel, with a good organ; the building will now hold 300 prisoners; the average number up to March 31st, 1884, was 218 males and 27 females. This prison is now the only house of correction in the county; the total staff of officers is 24, being 21 males and 3 females.

The general quarter sessions for the city and liberty of Lincoln are held in the first week after Epiphany, the first week after the close of Easter, the first whole week after St. Thomas à Becket (July 7), and the first whole week after the 11th of October.

The Judges' Lodgings, an elegant mansion, situated on the Castle Hill, was built at the expense of the county as a residence for the judges during the assizes.

The Masonic Hall and Concert Room, Newland, built in 1875, is a handsome building of red brick with stone dressings in the Venetian-Gothic style, from designs by Mr. W. Watkins; the concert-room has since been converted into a theatre.

The Lincolnshire Agricultural Society, formed in 1869 by the amalgamation of the North and South Lincolnshire Societies, has for its object the holding of annual exhibitions of farming stock and implements, and the awarding of prizes to servants and labourers for continuous service. The Society consists of about 1,400 members. The offices and council-room are in St. Benedict's square. Patron, Earl Brownlow; secretary, Mr. S. Upton.

The Lincolnshire Chamber of Agriculture was established in 1867 for the purpose of discussing subjects connected with agriculture, and has about 250 members, with branches at Boston, Grantham, Louth, Brigg, Spalding and Great Grimsby.

Lincoln is the depôt of the first and second battalions of the Lincolnshire Regiment, Regimental district No. 12 and the headquarters of the Royal North Lincolnshire Militia, which forms the 3rd battalion. The Barracks, situated on the Burton road, and built in 1857 from the designs of Mr. Goddard, of Lincoln, at a cost of about £6,500, form a large quadrangular building, capable of containing 1,000 stand of arms. The quadrangle is 246 feet long by 102 feet wide, and has offices and drill shed on the south, and quarters for six sergeants and their families on the north. New quarters for the permanent staff, a detached residence for the adjutant and a hospital were built in 1866.

The old City Gaol and Sessions House, situated at the junction of the Lindum and Monks roads, is a building of red brick, erected in 1805-9, the prison being rebuilt in 1844; it is now disused as a prison and occupied as an armoury by the volunteers. Within the grounds, and in front of the Sessions House, stands a Russian gun.

The County Constabulary Office, erected in 1860, and situated at the top of Monson street, is a large brick building. The force consists of 19 superintendents, 13 inspectors, 31 sergeants, 225 police constables, under one chief constable, Captain P. B. Bicknell; deputy chief constable, James Martyn.

In and around Lincoln are several large maltkilns, corn warehouses, corn mills, bone mills, seed mills, extensive iron foundries and agricultural machine works and nursery grounds; brick fields, limekilns and wire working are carried on.

The principal hotels are the Saracen's Head, Great Northern hotel and the Club House hotel, near the station, the Spread Eagle and Monson's Arms, in the High street and the White Hart, above Hill, near the Cathedral.

The newspapers published here are the 'Lincolnshire Chronicle,' established 1832 (Conservative), Tuesday and Friday; 'Lincoln Gazette and Times,' established 1859 (Liberal), Friday and Saturday; and the 'Lincoln Saturday Chronicle,' a working men's and sporting paper.

The County Hospital, Sewell's road, erected in 1878, at a cost of £32,000, raised by subscription, is a large building of red brick in the Renaissance style. The hospital is available for 110 patients; during the year ending December 31, 1883, there were 752 in-patients and 948 out-patients under treatment: the total income for 1883 was £13,782 18s. 7d. The hospital is managed by a body of governors, which includes the physicians and surgeons, the Dean of Lincoln and the mayor, together with the president, vice-presidents and treasurer, are ex-officio governors, and 13 others are elected. President, the Right Hon. Earl Brownlow; house surgeon, Mr. E. Colby Sharpin; matron, Miss C. M. Beachcroft; secretary, Mr. Wm. B. Danby.

The General Dispensary was instituted February 11th, 1826, and formerly occupied premises on Cornhill. The new building, in Silver street, erected in 1879, at a cost of £2,082, from designs of Messrs. Watkins and Scorer, is of red brick, in the Renaissance style, and consists of residence for medical officer, consulting-room, out-patients' waiting-room, retiring-room and dispensary; the number of patients treated during the year 1883 was—home, 1,399; out, 1,281. The receipts for 1883 amounted to £2,282 18s. 8d.

The Lunatic Asylum originated by the bequest, in 1803, of £100, left by Paul Parnell esq. towards the erection of such an institution; the original building was opened August 25th, 1817; the present hospital, erected in 1870, is a spacious edifice 260 feet long, with a noble front and portico of the Ionic order. In 1854 a statue of Edward Parker Charlesworth M.D. who died in 1853 after 33 years' service as physician of the asylum, was erected. During the year 1883 the average number of resident patients was 65—28 males and 37 females—and the total number under treatment was 89. President the Right Hon. Lord Monson; resident medical officer, Arthur P. Russell esq. M.B., M.R.C.P.Edin.; secretary, Mr. R. Hall.

There is also a Lying-in-charity for the relief of poor married women, established in 1805.

The Lincoln Institution for Nurses was founded in 1866, with a view to provide nurses of character and experience, for both rich and poor: the nurses connected with the institution are specially trained at the London hospitals, and are sent to all parts of the kingdom, the poor being entitled to their services without fee; a stock of things useful to the sick is kept, which are lent to those who stand in need of them. The institution is under the management of three ladies; lady superintendent, Mrs. Bromhead.

The Lincoln Municipal Charities are managed by a body of thirteen trustees.

Thomas Sutton, by will dated November 11, 1611, left a leasehold estate, which has been sold and the proceeds invested; the whole, producing £300 14s. 4d. yearly, is distributed among twenty of the poorest inhabitants of the city, and by order of the Court of Chancery, 24th May, 1838, extended to any number above twenty in sums of not less than £8 nor more than £12 a year each.

John Smith, of London, left in 1653, freehold estates, which have been sold and the proceeds invested; the whole, producing about £1,000 yearly is distributed—two-thirds among the poor of St. Swithin's parish and the remaining third among the poor of St. Peter-in-Eastgate.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garmston, in 1798, left £2,010, which produces about £90 yearly and is distributed in St. Martin's parish, as follows:—22s. 6d. each quarterly to five poor widows; 22s. 6d. each quarterly to three poor widows;

22s. 6d. each quarterly to four poor men; £4 10s. yearly for educating two poor boys and two poor girls, and 6s. 9d. each yearly to forty poor men and women; 45s. each yearly for three poor men, elected by the minister and churchwardens of St. Martin to receive the interest of a similar charity left by will of the founder's late husband and in augmentation of that charity for ever; £3 12s. yearly for repairing and maintaining an organ and £3 12s. yearly to the parish clerk, on condition of his keeping clean the monument erected to the memory of the founder's husband.

John Garmston, by will dated May 29, 1779, left the sum of £150, which produces £6 15s. annually, and is distributed in sums of 45s. yearly to three poor men of the parish of St. Martin's.

Sir William Ellis knight, of the Close, Lincoln, in 1633 gave by deed a rent-charge of £10, to be distributed among four poor widows; three to be the immediate widows of freemen; the other, appointed by the Dean and Chapter, to be the widow of a singing man.

Westby's Charity, left by will dated 1786, consists of £610, the interest of which is distributed among three poor men and three poor widows of the city above 60 years of age, each of whom receives 22s. 6d. quarterly.

Lyon's Charity consists of £492 14s. 11d. in £3 per Cent. Consols, left in 1804 for poor housekeepers resident in the City, Bail or Close of Lincoln; there are five recipients, of 14s. 6d. each, quarterly.

Durance's Charity consists of £180, left in 1810, the interest amounting to £8 2s. yearly is for two poor women above the age of fifty of the parish of St. Martin.

Harvey's Charity consists of £400, left in 1758 for four poor freemen of Lincoln, two to be chosen from St. Martin's parish: each receives 22s. 6d. quarterly.

Holland's Charity consists of £350, left in 1749 for four poor widows of the parish of St. Martin and for the repair of the church: the interest is distributed in sums of £3 3s. yearly to each of the widows and the remainder appropriated as directed.

Peter Richier M.D. left in 1728 a rent-charge of £12, now producing £9 12s.; also one-third of a rent-charge of £12, now reduced to £9 12s. upon houses in the Bail: this charity is distributed in sums of 16s. quarterly to three poor widows of the city residing below the hill, and 8s. quarterly to two poor men of St. Michael's parish.

Sir Nicholas Raynton left in 1646 a yearly rent-charge of £10 upon houses in Lombard street, London, for apprenticing poor children.

Sir Thomas White, by deed, in 1566, gave £100 for advancing by way of loan on bond for 10 years without interest, the sum of £25 each to young men of the city, being occupiers and inhabitants and freeman of the said city, clothiers to be preferred. The funds are very much increased and now amount to about £600.

Robert Gale, in 1612, left rent-charges of £22 to be distributed among the poor of the city.

William Knight left a piece of garden ground, in the parish of St. Botolph, containing 1A. 3R. 25P. which was sold and the amount, £1,240 6s. 2d. invested in £3 per Cent. Consols; the interest is distributed among the poor of the city, with the exception of the parishes of St. Swithin and St. Peter, in Eastgate.

Anthony Acham, by will, dated 27th June, 1638, left a rent-charge of £12 to be distributed in bread among the poor of Lincoln.

Wrigglesworth's charity consists of £124 4s. 6d. 3½ per Cent. Consols; £110 bequeathed by the will of William Wrigglesworth, late of Lincoln, dated December 28th, 1843, the interest is distributed in bread on the 28th February in every year.

Richard Whitton left the interest of £1,000, for two poor men and two poor women, being regular attendants at St. Mary-le-Wigford church, and one poor man and one poor woman, being members of the Wesleyan Society; any surplus, after the payment of £5 yearly to each of the above to be paid to the Trustees of Lincoln Dispensary.

Mrs. Mary Esther Waldo-Sibthorp, on October 23rd, 1875, left £100 to the vicar of St. Mary-le-Wigford, in trust for the poor of the parish.

The Bede Houses, situated above the Arboretum, and intended as residences for females of limited means, were erected in 1847, and liberally endowed by the late Rev. Richard Waldo Sibthorp B.D.: they are fourteen in number, each with two rooms, a convenient scullery and back yard: the allowance to each inmate is 9s. per week, with three doles of 7s. each and 10s. in clothes annually, and a new cloak every fourth year. The well house is a pyramidal building, covered with roses, the annexed chapel, named St. Anne's, and also built by the founder, is a small but beautiful structure: the windows are all filled with stained glass, and the walls stencilled in colour: there are several brasses on the walls, recording the names and deaths of various members of the Sibthorp family: the Rev. Edwin Richard Kemp is chaplain, and has a residence adjoining.

Just outside the Great Bar Gate, the southern entrance of the lower city, on Swine Green, stood the first of the series of Crosses, erected by order of Edward I. in memory of Queen Eleanor, which, commencing at Lincoln, terminated at Charing Cross. This Cross was repaired at the expense of the city in 1624, but perished altogether in 1643. Another cross, sometimes confused with Queen Eleanor's Cross, stood higher up the hill, at which place the markets were held during the prevalence of plague in the city: this cross was removed in 1600. The other Eleanor crosses were at Grantham, Stamford, Geddington, Northampton, Stony Stratford, Woburn, Dunstable, St. Albans, Waltham and West Cheap.

Brayford is an extensive sheet of water, west of the High street, and is formed by the Witham, and surrounded with warehouses, flour mills and wharves: the views of the upper part of the city from this point are strikingly beautiful.

The Arboretum, situate in the Monks road, was formerly a common called "Monks Leys," devoted to the use of the freemen of Lincoln, but in 1872 the space, which is 13 acres in extent, was tastefully laid out and planted with shrubs and flowers, and contains also a small lake: in 1884 a band stand was erected, at the cost of the local lodge of Odd Fellows: commanding views of the lower part of the city and country are obtained from the terrace.

The Stone Bow which occupies the site of the south gate of the lower city, is a large gateway crossing the High street, a little north of the High Bridge, and flanked by circular embattled turrets; the lower storey is of the time of Richard III. and consists of a central arch, with a postern on either side; the upper story, dating from the time of Henry VIII., constitutes the Guildhall, and contains portraits of Queen Anne, by Kneller, George III. Sir Thomas White knt. and T. Sutton esq. besides some ancient and highly curious chests; on the south front, within niches, are statues of the Holy Virgin and St. Gabriel, and above is an illuminated clock, presented by J. Fardell esq. M.P. for Lincoln in 1830: the interior was refitted in 1845, and is used for meetings of the council, courts leet, court of sewers, charity trustees &c.

There were anciently in the city of Lincoln or its suburbs three priories, four hospitals, and five houses of friars, of some of which remains still exist. The priory of St. Catherine, founded in 1148 by Robert, second Bishop of Lincoln, for Gilbertine canons, was situated on the right hand of the Newark road, south west of the Barr gate; at its gates the first Eleanor cross was erected, and the earlier bishops walked hence to their enthronement barefoot; the priory of St. Mary Magdalene, a cell to the abbey of St. Mary at York, was founded in the reign of Henry II. for Benedictine monks; its Perpendicular chapel now in ruins, stands a mile south-east; the priory of St. Bartholomew existing in 39 Henry III (1254-5) was for convert Jews. The hospital of St. Giles was founded by Remigius, first bishop of Lincoln, for decayed priests, and the mastership was annexed to the vicars choral in 1280; it stood on the Wragby road, and some remains of its buildings, of the thirteenth century, exist; of the hospital of St. Mary Magdalene, in the eastern suburbs, there remains part of a tower of three stories; the hospital of the Holy Innocents, called also the "Maladerie," or "Malardry," stood in the locality now known as the "Malanderie fields;" it was a lazar house, founded by Remigius, and refounded by Henry I. and in 1456-7 was annexed to the hospital of Burton Lazars; the hospital of the Holy Sepulchre, founded before 1198, was an establishment of the Gilbertine order. The Austin friars had a house in Newport, west of the gate, founded in 1291; the grey friars, as stated above, occupied buildings now in part existing and used for the Middle school; the house of the Carmelites or white friars (1269) was in Wykeford (Wigford) where now stands the Midland Railway station; the Black friars or Dominicans was established in Broadgate in the time of Edward I.; and there was also a house of the "de Sacco" order, where afterwards stood the Cantelupe chantry.

Of the Roman city there are still various remains; these include the wall of the sub-deanery, south of the close; a wall at right angles to this, between the palace and Vicar's College; a wall in James' street and the Mint wall, above West gate, a huge fragment 40 feet long, 30 feet high, and 3½ feet thick, built of rough stone, intermixed with courses of Roman brick; north-west of this is the Newport gate forming the entrance to the city on the north, and the only Roman gateway now remaining to any English city; it is built of ferruginous oolite, and originally consisted of a central arch with smaller ones on either side, as shown in Archæologia iv. 82; but now only the upper portion of the centre arch, 16 feet wide and 3 feet 9 in. thick, and the eastern postern 7½ feet wide are visible, the piers being underground, and the western side built into a house; some portions of the north wall, in which this gate stood, also remain to the east and west of it. To the Late Norman period belongs the Jews' House, on the left hand side of the Strait at the foot of Steep Hill; it has good two-light Norman windows, and the arched head of the entrance, which is enriched with interlaced work, carries a chimney; higher up the hill on the right is another Norman house; on the east side of the High street, near St. Peter's at Gowts, stands the ancient Merchants' Guildhall, popularly called "John of Gaunt's stables," the principal front displays a Transitional circular-headed entrance and flat buttresses supporting an enriched cornice, the upper window being in part Early English; in the rear is another block of similar character, with Norman windows; from one window of this hall, removed in 1730, Sir John Hussey knt. first and only baron Hussey of Sleaford was taken to execution in 1537: nearly opposite, but now greatly modernized, stood the palace or mansion of John of Gaunt, which remained nearly entire until 1737; in 1783 the building was further mutilated, and in 1849 the magnificent oriel window at the south end was removed by Earl Brownlow to the castle gateway; some considerable portions of the house are still standing, and the kitchen retains an elegant Gothic window. The Burghersh Chantry house, James street, in the north-east quarter of the Bail, is an edifice of the Decorated period, and was founded in the reign of Edward II. for six chaplains, with an endowment of £57. In almost every part of the city and its precincts Roman remains have from time to time been met with: in 1836 excavations made in the High street disclosed a portion of the surface of the Roman Ermine street, laid down in a kind of concrete with wheel tracks of stone. In 1865, during the construction of the railway from Lincoln to Honington, a fine sepulchral coffin-shaped slab was discovered in the Malandery Field on the out skirts of the city; the slab bears an enriched foliated cross with a double or eight-armed cross head, in the centre of which, through a circular opening appears the head of a female, enwrapped in a kind of head-dress falling on each side of the face, a vesica-shaped opening, lower down, displays the hands upraised in prayer, and at the bottom a smaller circular opening discloses the feet; around the margin is an inscription in Norman-French to Juetta, wife of William de Rauceby, c. 1360-80. In 1879, April 2, a Roman milestone of the Emperor M. Piavonius Victorinus (A.D. 265-267) was found, lying lengthwise from north to south, in making the new drain along the Bailgate, just opposite the north entrance of the Lion and Snake inn; it is about 8 feet in height, and bears the following inscription:—

IMP CAES
MARCO
PIAVONIO
VICTORI
NO PFINV
AVG PONT
MAX
TRP. PP
AL.S.M
P.X.IIII

read by the Rev. Prebendary Wordsworth as: "Marco Piavonio Victorino Pio Felice Invicto Augusto Pontifice Maximo Tribunicia potestate patre patriæ A Lindo Segelocum milia passuum quatnordecim"

In June, 1884, in digging the foundations of the new houses to be erected on the site of the old Angel Inn, at the corner of Eastgate and the Bail, a Roman burial place, containing a number of funereal vessels, was discovered. It consists of a stone chamber, with slightly curved sides, 5ft. 10in. long, by a breadth varying from 2ft. ½in. at the west end to 3ft. 11in. in the centre, and 3ft. 3in. high. It was covered with large undressed slabs, and, at the west end, next the street, a small cell communicated with it by a short passage. The floor was of concrete, about 4ft. above the level of the Roman street. Across the upper end of the sepulchre, on a higher level, a furnace was discovered, at the mouth of which a considerable quantity of wood charcoal was lying ready for use; the wall to which it was attached, the stones of which were reddened by fire, and up which the flue was carried, was of Norman construction: the lofty walls exposed by the demolition of the house which has long concealed them, were those of a Norman tower, perhaps that over the Port of Eastgate granted by Henry I. to Alexander, the third Norman bishop, for his residence when visiting Lincoln. The piers and jambs of a large portal discovered at the same time prove that the entrance of Eastgate from the Bail was protected by a gateway, of which there had been previously no knowledge; subsequently the workmen, whilst extending the digging came upon a quaint looking Roman arch, six or eight feet north-east of the stone chamber mentioned above, and at right angles to it, and was about six feet high and two feet wide; leading from the door of the chamber to the arch was a semi-circular path of concrete, which, after passing through the arch, led to a small room. On Thursday morning, the 26th June, a number of urns of large size were discovered embedded in lime, containing ashes of the dead, and covered with charcoal; not more than twelve or fourteen yards eastward was found, firmly and well puddled in the earth, a nine or ten gallon water jar for the use of animals to drink from with a drain; still nearer was a well in the centre of a large flat stone, four feet square, and well worn by the feet; scattered about were large square tiles, a packing needle of fine brass wire with thread wound round it, and also a handsomely made leaden box with oyster shells and broken pottery.

LOUTH.

LOUTH is a municipal borough, head of a union and county court district, and polling place for the Northern division of the county, market town, railway station and parish, having separate jurisdiction, locally in the parts of Lindsey, hundred of Louth Eske, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludburgh No. 3, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, pleasantly situated in a fertile vale, on the East Lincolnshire railway, and on the eastern side of the Wolds, 140¼ miles from London, 15 south from Grimsby, 26 east-north-east from Lincoln, 13 north-by-east from Horncastle, 34 east from Gainsborough, 13 north-west from Alford, and 33 north from Boston: the ancient name of this town was Luda, which is supposed to have been derived from its vicinity to the small river Lud; it was formerly distinguished for its religious houses, and its inhabitants strongly resisted the measures enforced by Henry VIII. for their suppression, for in 1536 they took an active part in the Lincolnshire rebellion, called the "Pilgrimage of Grace": the King, however, marched against the insurgents with a numerous army, and compelled them to disperse; and in the following year their leader, the abbot of Barlings, the Vicar of Louth, four other priests, and several laymen, were executed at Tyburn. In 1631 Louth was visited by a destructive plague, which swept away 754 persons: the town was nearly abandoned, all trade suspended, and the markets were deserted by the country people, who pitched a temporary mart for provisions about a mile south of the town, on the road to Alford. The town is governed by a corporation, consisting of a mayor, six aldermen and eighteen councillors, and is divided into two wards. The Corporation also acts as the Urban Sanitary Authority. The borough has a commission of the peace. The town, which is upwards of a mile in length, is well built, the streets are paved, and lighted with gas. The Louth Water Works Company was incorporated by Act of Parliament in the year 1871 with a capital of £25,000: the works were completed in the year 1873. The town is now abundantly supplied with excellent water by the above company, whose supply is drawn from a remarkably pure spring, called "silver spring," situated in the valley adjoining Hubbard's hills, from whence the water is pumped by a powerful steam engine into a reservoir near the Horncastle road.

In 1763 an Act of Parliament was obtained for cutting a canal, called "the Louth Navigation," from the town to the Humber: this work, completed at an expense of £28,000, commences at the eastern end of the town, and after a winding course joins the Humber at Tetney lock, near North Coates: by means of this canal vessels regularly trade with Hull and several parts of Yorkshire, and a considerable trade is there carried on: during the last year 306 cargoes have been delivered, including 34 cargoes of foreign corn delivered at Louth: the tolls received in 1883-4 amounted to £1,323: the canal is managed by a committee of four, appointed by the commissioners. The East Lincolnshire railway passes on the eastern side of the town, and a line of railway from Louth to Lincoln was opened in 1876, and a branch from Louth to Mablethorpe, on the shore of the German Ocean, was completed in 1877.

The parish church of St. James is a fine structure, of the Early Decorated and Perpendicular periods, and has a prebendal stall attached to it in Lincoln cathedral: the original church was erected in the Transitional period, probably about 1170, and of this structure many fragments were discovered during the restoration of 1868-9: it was almost rebuilt in the thirteenth century of Yorkshire and Ancaster stone, and is now in plan a parallelogram, consisting of chancel of four bays, with aisles, clerestoried nave of nine bays, north and south porches, a vestry north of the chancel aisle, and a lofty tower of three stages with a pierced and panelled parapet, four large octagonal turret-pinnacles connected by flying buttresses with the spire, and four smaller pinnacles; the crocketed spire, to the cross by which it is surmounted, is 147 feet in height, and the total height from the base of the tower is 294 feet: there are 8 bells: at the east end of the church is an exquisitely beautiful window of seven lights, with highly finished tracery, flanked by two niched and canopied buttresses; the chancel appears to be nearly of the same period as the tower, but the body of the church is of an earlier and much inferior style; the tower, which is built within the main walls, occupies two bays of the nave: in the vestry are two ancient chests, the latter of which has carved portraits of Henry VII. and his Queen, Elizabeth of York: there were formerly three chapels or chantries, dedicated to the Virgin, St. Peter and St. John: in 1548 the chancel roof was repaired, and in 1550 the altars were removed, and 705 ounces of plate sold: in 1843 the spire was seriously injured by lightning: in June, 1844, it was agreed to restore it, according to the plan laid down by the late Mr. L. N. Cottingham, and it was completed in 1846, at a cost of £1,746 19s. 3d.: at the west end of the church is a fine memorial, erected by public subscription, to William Allison esq. late banker of this town, as a testimony of respect for his high charitable and Christian virtues; it is of Caen stone, and has a richly carved and crocketed canopy, supported by light and graceful pillars, supporting four crocketed pinnacles: the chancel and its aisles were thoroughly restored in 1860, and the external walls repaired by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: the internal fittings were supplied by the parishioners, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, architect: the pulpit and brass lectern are most elaborately designed and carved, the latter, designed by Mr. J. Withers, is set with carbuncles and other precious stones: the west and east windows were filled with stained glass, at the cost of Cornelius Parker esq. J.P.; and the cost of the entire restoration was over £2,000: the church was again restored and refitted in 1868 and 1869 by W. Fowler esq. at a cost of £6,347. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1685; marriages, 1538; burials, 1557. The living is a rectory, with that of St. Mary annexed, tithe rent-charge £48, joint gross yearly value £500, including 147 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln and held since 1859 by the Rev. Albert Sydney Wilde M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, canon (non-residentiary) of Lincoln Cathedral, rural dean of Louth Esk, chaplain to the Bishop of Lincoln, and proctor for the diocese.

Holy Trinity ecclesiastical parish was formed out of the mother parish in 1867. The church, rebuilt in 1866, is a handsome and spacious edifice of stone, in the First-Pointed style, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles and tower: the entire cost of the building was about £3,500: in 1882 the interior of the church was decorated with texts and devices, as a memorial by the congregation to Mrs. and Miss Streatfeild, the mother and sister of the vicar, who had died in the preceding year: there are sittings for 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1841. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300 with good residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Henry Bertram Streatfeild M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. This district includes Louth Park, and had a population in 1881 of 2,016.

St. Michael's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1863. The church, erected in 1863, from plans by Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, is an edifice of hammer-dressed stone, with ashlar dressings, lined within with parti-coloured bricks banded with stone, in the Late First-Pointed style, and consists of a chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, apsidal vestry, western porch, a gable of two bays and a bell turret with spirelet containing 1 bell: the communion table, rails, prayer desk and lectern are of oak; the reredos of alabaster and marble, with a malachite cross, elaborately worked, was the gift of Mrs. Wright: the church was built chiefly by the liberality of the Rev. Wm. Wright, late of Brattleby, aided by local subscriptions, and has 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1863. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300 with good residence, in the gift of the rector of Louth, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Ernest Lloyd Gardner T.A.K.C.L. This district includes the south-eastern portion of the town, and had in 1881 a population of 2,590.

St. Mary's Catholic Church, Upgate, was built 1833, enlarged 1845, and restored and re-decorated 1884: this church, so far as its imperfect architecture would admit, has been decorated in a pleasing and effective manner; on the chancel roof, in blue panellings, are depicted in gold and colours, emblems of the Passion and of the Holy Eucharist: a dado in blue and red colours gives a rich appearance to the sanctuary: a full-length painting of S. Hugh, bishop of Lincoln, habited in pontifical vestments, is placed on the north side of the chancel: in the body of the church a painting of the Crucifixion and a statue of our Lord, pointing to his heart: on the north and south walls are the representations of our Lord's journey to Calvary, known as "The Way of The Cross," and above them are the Eight Beatitudes: on the western walls are full-length designs of the apostles SS. Peter and Paul.

There are several commodious chapels in the town. The Baptist chapel, Eastgate, will seat 400; the Baptist chapel, Northgate, was built 1800, and will hold 500. The Congregational chapel, in Cannon street, was built 1820, and will seat 500. The Primitive Methodist chapel is in Northgate; it was built 1826, rebuilt 1850, and will hold 900. The United Methodist Free church, in Eastgate, was built 1854, and has seats for 1,200. The United Methodist Free church, in New market, built 1867, will hold 200. The Wesleyan chapel, in Eastgate, was built 1808, rebuilt 1835, and will seat 1,032 worshippers.

A cemetery was formed in 1854, on the London road: it covers about 10 acres; in the grounds are two mortuary chapels, erected in 1855, and has recently been enlarged by the addition of 2 acres on the south side; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members.

The Free Grammar school was founded and endowed by King Edward VI. in 1551, with the property of several ancient guilds in the town, consisting of 306 acres of land, with several messuages and tenements: the gross yearly income is now about £1,192, a portion of which is appropriated to the maintenance of twelve poor women, who reside in the almshouses connected with the charity: the new school and houses were erected in 1869, from the designs of Mr. Fowler, and form a handsome block of buildings of red brick, with stone dressings, in the style of the fifteenth century: the school was reconstituted in August, 1878, as a first grade school, under a new scheme issued by the Charity Commissioners: it is divided into a classical and a modern department, and offers a liberal education on the public school system, at a moderate cost; the tuition fees ranging from £4 to £12 yearly, according to age: the school has twelve scholarships of the annual value of the tuition; and three exhibitions of the annual value of £40 each, tenable for three years at any university or other place of liberal education: the school is managed by a body of eleven governors, the chairman being the warden for the time being.

The Town Hall and Borough Police station, situated in Eastgate, and erected in 1854, is a large building of brick and stucco, and contains a spacious assembly room.

A convenient Corn Exchange, with stone front, was erected in 1853, in the Corn Market.

The Market Hall and shops form an extensive pile of buildings, in the French Gothic style, from designs by Messrs. Rogers and Marsden, erected in 1866-7, with a clock tower rising to a height of more than 100 feet: the Market Hall is 100 feet long and 60 feet wide, and is roofed in a single span with a semicircular arched iron trussed roof, supported partly on the walls and partly on carved stone corbels: there are butchers' shops and a market keeper's office on the east side, and the whole area under the hall is cellared in eight divisions: the clock was purchased by subscription, at a cost of about 100 guineas.

The Market days are Wednesday and Saturday; the former is principally for corn, and is well attended: large sheep and beast markets are held every Friday during the year, at Quarry hill. Fairs for sheep, cattle and horses are held on the two last days of April, and on the Fridays before the 18th of September and the 28th of October, and on the 23rd of November: the Spring fair is held on the Friday before the 4th Sunday in Lent.

The Petty Sessions Court House and County Constabulary station, which is in Eastgate, was erected in the year 1874, on a part of the site of the old Gaol and House of Correction: the force for the Louth division consists of one superintendent, one sergeant, and eleven constables.

The Borough Fire Brigade Station is in Enginegate; the appliances consist of four manual engines, hose and ladder cart and fire escape; keys are kept at the borough police station and with the officers of the brigade.

The Mechanics' Institution, in Upgate, established about 1834, has a library containing 3,500 volumes, and the reading-room is supplied with 30 periodicals and 27 newspapers, including 6 daily papers; the number of members is 439.

The Conservative Club has rooms in Upgate; the Liberal Club, in Walkergate.

The Louth General Friendly Society was established in 1814 and now (1884) consists of 182 members, who have under their control £12,718: 16 members receive annuities, some of them £21 1s. yearly; the society has also sick and funeral funds.

The Hospital and Dispensary, in Crow Tree lane, originally established in 1803, was erected at a cost of about £2,000, on land leased by the Louth Corporation for 500 years, and opened May 10th, 1883: the building is of white brick with red bands, and has beds for 20 patients; the endowments amount to £5,250; the number of patients under treatment during the year ending 31st May, 1884, was 596 in the dispensary and 88 in the hospital; the total expenditure for the years 1883-4 was £616 15s. 3d. and the income was £693 0s. 6d.

The following are the benefactions which have been left for distribution among the poor of Louth:—In 1550, Thomas Spencer left money to provide coals for the poor, and his son augmented it by the gift of a house; the present income is £35 yearly. In 1573, Richard Wright, in consideration of £50 bequeathed to the poor by Arthur Gray and William Richardson, granted 24 acres of land to provide them with coals; the charity has since been augmented by some unknown donor with six cottages, and now produces a yearly income of £100. In 1586, Jarratt Allandale left a rental of £2 to buy cloth for the poor. In 1603, Oliver Kennithorpe left a rental of £6 13s. 4d. charge on certain lands at Brackenborough. In 1638, Anthony Acham left a rental of £5, charged on lands at Asterby, Stenigot and Ramby, which is now distributed in bread to the poor. In 1678, John Skipworth gave 6 acres of land, now producing £20, to provide clothing for 10 poor persons. In 1767, Ann Wadeson bequeathed £200 for the benefit of poor housekeepers, and in 1801, Isabella Phillipson left £200, the interest to be given to 20 poor women, the two together realizing £15 yearly. In 1762, David Atkinson erected an organ in the church, and gave £600 Louth Navigation shares, to provide a salary for the organist, the income from which in 1883 was £15. Codd's Charity of £100 in Louth Navigation shares, the interest of which is given to the poor. Bradley's charity is a field at Saltfleetby, now let for £6 a year, to be given to the poor in bread, after payment for care of tomb in the parish church. In 1680, about 33 acres at Winthorpe, and 12 acres at North Somercotes were purchased with £600, left by Edward Bolle, of London, esquire (son of John Bolle, of Thorpe Hall): the property is vested in 10 trustees; the yearly income of this charity amounts to £94; £50 of this is paid to the governors of the Louth Grammar school, under the scheme of 1878, and the remainder is distributed for the benefit of the poor of Louth. In 1575, Richard Wryghte, of Louth, gave to the poor of Louth, for distribution of "butter and harden cloth," 2 tenements in Eastgate, and about 27 acres of land at Cockerington and Howdales; the property is vested in 12 trustees, commonly called "the Butter Feoffees"; this charity has received the following augmentations, viz.: 3 cottages in Padehole (one of which is now used as a warehouse), were left by Robert Osney in 1637; the Ship inn and 1 acre of land, left by William Wadsley, in or about 1725, and 3R. 16P. awarded at the enclosure of the open fields in Louth, under an Act of 41 Geo. III.; in 1877, the 2 tenements in Eastgate, and the Ship inn and 1 acre of land were sold by the trustees, with consent of the Charity Commissioners, and the purchase monies (after payment of expenses), £962 8s. 9d. invested in Consols. The yearly income of Wryghte's, Osney's and Wadsley's charity (commonly called "The Louth Butter Charity"), amounts to £101 14s. 10d.; £50 of this is paid to the governors of the Louth Grammar school, under the scheme of 1878, and the remainder is distributed to tht poor of Louth, in donations of 4s. each about Christmas, the practice of distributing butter has been discontinued many years.

There are two branches of the Church of England Temperance Society in Louth, one in St. James' parish; the other is Holy Trinity parish. There is also a Band of Hope Society connected with the latter. The combined membership of the two latter is 300.

The 6th Battery of the 1st Lincolnshire Volunteer Artillery brigade is stationed here.

The D Company of the 1st Volunteer Battalion Lincolnshire Regiment is also here.

There is a Freemasons' Lodge here, which has commodious rooms in Rosemary lane.

Louth Savings Bank, Eastgate, was established 1817; the building was erected in 1860; it is a brick building with stone dressings, in the Decorated Gothic style of architecture, from a design by James Fowler esq. of Louth; the cost was about £600: for the year ending November, 1883, the total number of accounts was 2,916 and the amount of deposits £83,167 0s. 8d. The Penny Bank, Eastgate, was established in October, 1859: the number of accounts in 1884 was 671, and the amount of deposits £247 15s. 9d.

The principal hotels are the King's Head, Mercer row and the Mason's Arms, Corn market.

Here are several tanneries, iron foundries, and agricultural implement manufactories; and a trade is carried on in brewing, malting, bone crushing, lime burning, and rope and brick making.

The area of the parish is 3,620 acres; rateable value, £37,753; the population in 1881 was—of the parish 10,807, and of the township and municipal limits, 10,691, which includes 152 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

LOUTH PARK, formerly an extra-parochial liberty, is now included in the ecclesiastical parish of Holy Trinity, but is not included in the municipal borough of Louth; it is half a mile east from the town and station of Louth. An extensive abbey was founded here by Alexander, Bishop of Lincoln, in 1139, for monks of the Cistercian order, dedicated to the Virgin Mary: the foundation and portions of carved work, shafts and capitals remain, as well as some of the walls in the Transitional style: its revenue, in 1296, amounted to £246 9s. 3d. and at the dissolution in 1535, to £169 5s. 6½d. Abbey Park House, the property of William Allison esq. is the residence of John Iles esq. William Allison esq. and Thomas Beverley esq. of Ketsby, are the sole landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay, with marl. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is returned with Louth parish; rateable value, £1,282; the population in 1881 was 136.

LUDBOROUGH, formerly a Roman settlement, is a pleasant village and parish, with a station on the East Lincolnshire railway, in the Northern division of the county, in the parts of Lindsey, Ludborough hundred and petty sessional division, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Esk and Ludborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 146½ miles from London, 8½ south from Great Grimsby and 6 north-by-west from Louth, on the road from Louth to Grimsby. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of white chalk and Ancaster stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave with arcades of three bays, aisles and a western tower of three storeys, terminating in battlements, containing 3 bells: in 1858 the nave was unroofed by a heavy gale, and the building was found to be in such a defective state that the whole required to be repaired; the north aisle and the north arcade of the nave were consequently taken down and rebuilt, as also the south clerestory wall and chancel arch: and in rebuilding the clerestory, one of the old windows then discovered was adopted as a model; on the sill of one of the western windows on the north side of the chancel, there was disclosed, on the removal of the old plastering, a beautiful painting of the thirteenth century, almost as fresh as when painted 600 years ago: at the east end are two windows of larger dimensions, with a stained quatrefoil in the gable, between which, externally, there is a projecting buttress: there are some remains of early stained glass, dating from about 1340, the chancel retains a good double piscina and an aumbry: the whole of the roofs are of framed timber, stained and varnished, and covered with red tiles, those of the chancel being in strize of white and red: the greater part of the area of the nave and aisles has been seated with open wooden benches; the stalls in the chancel being of a more elaborate character and finished with open traceried fronts: a sepulchral slab of the fourteenth century, bearing an incised cross, was discovered during the repairs: the works were carried out at a cost of £900, under the superintendence of Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, and the church was re-opened May 1st, 1860: several additions have since been made to the internal fittings, at a cost of nearly £100. The register dates from the year 1601. The living is a rectory, of the yearly value of £600, having 380 acres of land allotted in lieu of tithes, in the gift of James Widdowson esq. and held since 1854 by the Rev. Augustus Gedge M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, who has a good rectory house. The Primitive Methodists and Wesleyans have chapels here, erected in 1851 and 1844 respectively. A church school, capable of holding 90 children, was erected in 1861, the site being given by the present rector, as also one for a teacher's residence. Here is a Young Men's Improvement Society with library, and a flourishing branch of the Church of England Temperance Society, of both which the rector is president and secretary. The manor house is very ancient, but it has been modernized, and is now occupied by Mr. John Would Parker, farmer. Joseph Montague Livesey esq. is lord of the manor. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,097 acres; rateable value, £2,986; the population in 1881 was 347.

LUDDINGTON is a township, parish and pleasant village, in the isle of Axholme, situated on the old river Don, which here separates Lincolnshire from Yorkshire, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, west division of Manley wapentake, Goole union and county court district, rural deanery of Axholme, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-east from Crowle, the nearest railway station, and 10 east-by-south from Goole. The church of St. Oswald is a building of stone in the Early English style, erected by subscription, at a cost of £2,760, and opened July, 1855: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower with elegant spire containing 3 bells: the chancel windows are stained: a stained window, the gift of Mrs. Sidebottom, of Haxley, was inserted 1884: the organ was erected in 1868. The register dates from the year 1700. The living is a rectory and vicarage, gross yearly value £630, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Harper, and held since 1871 by the Rev. Edmund Tristram Horatio Harper M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. The Catholic chapel was built in 1877, in honour of St. Joseph and St. Dymphna; the services are conducted by one of the Norbertine fathers of St. Norbert's residence, Crowle. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The Hull and Gainsborough steamers run on the Trent, which is 1½ miles east, and has a landing-place near here. Earl Manvers is lord of the manor. William Coulman J.P. of Eastoft Hall, Goole, Thomas and William Ross esqrs. and Messrs. Thomas Bladworth and William Burton are the principal landowners. The soil is rich warp; subsoil, peat and clay. The chief crops are wheat and potatoes. The area of the entire parish is 3,669 acres; rateable value, £7,738 2s.; and of the township 1,996 acres; rateable value, £4,144 12s.; the population in 1881 was—of the former, 1,157; and of the latter, 628.

LUDFORD MAGNA is a parish and village, in the Mid division of the county, east division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, parts of Lindsey, Louth union, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles east from Market Rasen station and 9 west from Louth, situated on the road from the former to the latter place. The church of SS. Mary and Peter was rebuilt by subscription: it is of stone in the Transition style and consists of chancel, nave, transepts and turret with 1 bell and south porch: £1,000 having been left by the Rev. Edward Alington Cooper, a former rector, as the beginning of a fund for the purpose of rebuilding: a handsome stained east window has been placed in this church by the inhabitants, in memory of a former rector, the Rev. W. B. Hastings. The register dates from the year 1696. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with the rectory of Ludford Parva, joint gross yearly value about £300 with residence, in the alternate gift of Edward Heneage esq. M.P., J.P. and Miss Bouncherett, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Charles Underwood Dasent M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Miss Bouncherett is lady of the manor. The principal landowners are Edward Heneage esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. Admiral Edwin Clayton Tennyson-d'Eyncourt C.B. and W. Angerstein esq. The soil is yellow, rather heavy, mixed with flint and chalk; subsoil, chalk, and in some places clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,860 acres; rateable value, £3,901; the population in 1881 was 390.

LUSBY is a parish and scattered village, near the Wold hills, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the soke of Bolingbroke, Horncastle union and county court district, Spilsby petty sessional division, rural deanery of Hill No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles north-west from Spilsby railway station and 6 east from Horncastle. The church of St. Peter is a small building of stone in the Norman style, with later insertions, consisting of chancel, nave and a turret containing 1 bell: there are north and south doorways, the former being enriched with the chevron ornament; in the north wall of the chancel is a curious little key-hole light, and in the south wall a low side window; the interior retains a Perpendicular screen, and in the chancel is a brass, c. 1600, with eight English rhyming lines, constituting a dialogue between a deceased wife and her surviving husband. The register dates from about the year 1691. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Asgarby annexed, yearly value £200, joint gross value £231 including glebe, in the gift of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and held since 1828 by the Rev. Brackenbury Dickson Bogie B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, who resides at Hundleby. There is a small Wesleyan chapel. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor and chief landowners. The soil is loam, sand and white clay. The chief crops are turnips, barley, seeds and wheat. The area is 720 acres; rateable value, £1,059; the population in 1881 was 96 in the civil, and 192 in the ecclesiastical. By a Local Government provisional order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by the Act 44, Vict. c. xvii. the Fen Allotment was transferred to Stickford parish.

LUTTON (or Sutton St. Nicholas) is a village and ecclesiastical parish formed in 1882 out of Long Sutton, Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, Holbeach union and county court district, rural deanery of East Elloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-east from Holbeach, and 2 north from Long Sutton station. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient building of brick and stone, in the Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles at the angles, and an octagonal spire 159 feet in height and containing 5 bells: the clerestory is lighted by eight two-light windows on either side: the massive and curiously inlaid pulpit, with its canopy, dates from 1702, and is said to have been erected by the direction of Dr. Busby; there is an incised stone, with nearly obliterated figures, to Anna and Agnes, wives of John Chelton, c. 1400; another to Thomas Harcroft, a slab inscribed to the Parke family, 1668-1731, and other memorials to John Nicholas 1661; Joseph Nicholas, 1655, and the Danyell family, 1693 &c.: the staircase to the rood loft remains: in 1859 the chancel was new roofed, a new south porch and a vestry erected, the windows restored, and the interior re-seated. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £167, gross yearly value £200, in the gift of the vicar of Long Sutton, and held since 1883 by the Rev. John Henry Spokes M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge; the great tithes belong to T. Kindersley esq. Here are Primitive, Methodist and Unitarian chapels. Thomas Blanks, of Sutton St. Edmunds, left land, the rent of which averages about £20 yearly, to be divided equally between Long Sutton, Sutton St. James, Sutton St. Edmunds and Lutton for distribution among the poor. Richard Busby D.D. the celebrated master of Westminster school, was born here, September 22nd, 1606: he left a sum of money to be applied to the education at Gedney of poor boys belonging to Lutton, and for the erection of the pulpit mentioned above. Some wealthy London merchants settled here in 1603 to avoid the plague. Lutton is supposed to be a corruption of Lode town, from the lodes or drains in the neighbourhood, and was formerly the chief place in the parish. Harper R. Jackson esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Governors of Guy's Hospital, and there are a few smaller proprietors. The soil is light loam; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are wheat, potatoes and other roots. The area is 3,728 acres; rateable value, £6,328; the population in 1881 was 770.

LYNWODE (or LINWOOD), by Market Rasen, is a parish in the Northern division of the county, south division of Walshcroft wapentake, parts of Lindsey, Caistor union, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north-east from Wickenby station, 147 from London, 2 south from Market Rasen station and 12 south from Caistor. The ancient name of this parish was Lynwode, from a family of Lyndewode or Lynwood, formerly the owners: in modern times it has been spelt Linwood, but it has been determined by the principal owners to revert to the original spelling, not only as being more correct, but also to distinguish it from Linwood, in the parish of Blankney. The church of St. Cornelius is a handsome stone building, of the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, with what appears to have been a chantry on the south side, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower with spire containing 3 bells, 2 according to founder's mark, bearing date A.D. 1500: the chancel, rebuilt in 1854, contains a double piscina, two fine brasses of the de Lynwode family, formerly landowners here, the first of which is a canopied brass, with figures of John Lyndewode, wool merchant, 1419, and Alice, his wife, with four sons and three daughters, under smaller canopies; the other brass represents one of the sons of this John Lyndewode; William Lyndewode, one of the sons, was of Pembroke College, Cambridge D.D. 1411, Lord Privy Seal, and in 1442, Bishop of St. David's. The restoration of the church, completed in 1868, included the renewal of the nave roof, the repair of the clerestory, the erection of a new chancel arch, and the general renovation of the exterior: the chantry on the south side, now used as an organ chamber and vestry, is divided from the aisle by a wooden screen: a new stained window, excepting the figure of a bishop, which was taken from an older window, was inserted in the south wall of the chancel: a stained east window was inserted in 1868: a stained window was erected in the north aisle by the late Captain Conway-Gordon, to the memory of his wife: there is a reredos of encaustic tiles, by Minton: the foundations of the south-east corner of the chancel having given way, the rebuilding of the south and east walls became necessary, and at the same time, 1876-7, a new pointed roof was added, more in harmony with the architecture of the church; the walls of the chancel were afterwards stencilled, and otherwise beautified. The chalice bears date 1797. The register dates from 1620. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £530, including 90 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Lieut.-Col. Francis Ingram Conway-Gordon, and held since 1869 by the Rev. Thomas Peach Holdich M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford. There is a school, supported by the lord of the manor, the rector and parishioners. Lieut.-Col. Francis Ingram Conway-Gordon is lord of the manor and chief landowner, and resides in a newly-built manor house. The remains of the mansion of the Lynwodes are still visible. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,316 acres; rateable value, £2,563; the population in 1881 was 184.

MABLETHORPE ST. MARY, is a parish and village, delightfully situated on the shore of the German Ocean, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Calceworth hundred, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north-east from Alford, 137 from London and 16 east-south-east from Louth. There are three large hotels, and many private lodging and boarding houses, and the place is much frequented in the season on account of the excellent bathing accommodation it affords, the sands being smooth and firm, and of gradual descent: it is the terminus of the Louth and East Coast branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of St. Mary, an ancient building of brick and stone, in the Early English style, and consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and a low embattled tower containing 5 bells: in the church, on the north side of the chancel, is a tomb within a recess, from the back of which several kneeling effigies in brass have been removed; near the tomb hangs a broken helmet, traditionally said to have belonged to one of two earls, who were both killed in a duel, upon Earls' Bridge, and one of whom was buried here, and the other at Maltby: there are brasses to Thomas Fitzwilliam and Elizabeth his wife, both of whom died in 1403; Elizabeth, daughter of George Fitzwilliam esq. 1522; and to Sir George Fitzwilliam, kt. 1536: in 1884 the church was reseated with open benches and newly paved. The register dates from the year 1650. The living is a rectory with Stain annexed, tithe rent-charge (Mablethorpe) £419 (Stain) £78, joint gross yearly value £700, including 97 acres of glebe at Stain, in the gift of and held since 1831 by the Rev. Thomas Lovick Cooper M.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Empingham, Rutland, where he resides; the Rev. Thomas Sharp Smith B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, is curate in charge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Mablethorpe Convalescent Home, built in the year 1870, will hold fifty-four adult and children patients. The home is supported by voluntary contributions. The Rev. F. Pretyman B.D. of Great Carlton rectory, near Louth, is secretary. The devisees of the late Thomas Alcock esq. are ladies of the manor. Capt. Robert Charles Vyner and James Paul Badley, William George North, J. A. Kirk esqrs. and Mr. James Twidale Paul, are the principal landowners. The land is principally freehold, and in the possession of many not living in the parish. The soil is clay and heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley, but a large portion of the parish is rich grazing land. The area is 2,798 acres of land and 1,005 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £6,854, including St. Peter; the population in 1881 was 640.

MABLETHORPE ST. PETER is a parish in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Calceworth hundred, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north-east-by-north from Alford, and is situated on the sea coast, adjoining Mablethorpe St. Mary on the north: the nearest railway stations are at Mablethorpe St. Mary and Theddlethorpe, both about half a mile distant. The church of St. Peter is supposed to have been carried away, along with a considerable portion of the parish, by the encroachments of the sea. The living is united with East Theddlethorpe tithe rent-charge (Mablethorpe) £67, joint gross yearly value £600, including 10 acres of glebe at Mablethorpe, in the gift of Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Lewis Drummond Kennedy M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. The devisees of the late Thomas Alcock esq. are ladies of the manor. The principal landowners are Capt. Robert Charles Vyner of Moat House, Ganby, and the trustees of the Rev. J. Wood. The soil is clay and heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley; but a great portion of the parish is very rich grazing land. The area is 907 acres of land and 675 of water; the population in 1881 was 29.

MALTBY-LE-MARSH is an improving village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of Calceworth hundred, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles from North Alford and north-east Claythorpe stations of the East Lincolnshire branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a massive western tower, surmounted by four pinnacles and containing 2 bells: in the chancel is the effigy of a knight in full armour with hands upraised and legs crossed, and traditionally said to represent one of two earls who were both killed in a duel at Earls' Bridge, which connects this parish with Mablethorpe: the other was buried in Mablethorpe church. The register dates from the year 1644. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £300, gross yearly value £345, including 28 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of and held since 1836 by the Rev. John Allott B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here are Baptist and Wesleyan Methodist chapels. In 1705, Mrs. Anne Bolle left a farm of upwards of 70 acres, now reduced by the enclosure to 66 acres, and let at the present time for £80 a year, for the education of the poor children of this parish, with the exception of £2 a year to be given to the poor. Capt. Moore is lord of the manor in right of his wife. Mr. George Mager, Capt. Moore, and the Rev. John Allott B.A. rector, are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 1,379 acres; rateable value, £1,997; the population in 1881 was 302.

MANBY is a pleasant village, and parish, in the Northern division of the county, Marsh division of the hundred of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, Louth Eske and Ludborough rural deanery No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5½ miles east-by-south from Louth station, 3 north-east from Legbourne station, and about 1 mile south from the Grimoldby station, on the Louth and East Coast railway. The church of St. Mary is a stone building, of the late Perpendicular period, erected in the reign of Henry VII. and consists of chancel, nave and a fine embattled western tower with four pinnacles, and containing 4 bells: the pinnacles of the tower were restored about 1851; the merlons, or upright portions of the battlements, were also terminated at one time by smaller pinnacles. The register dates from the year 1679. The living is a discharged rectory, gross yearly value, from 327 acres of land allotted in lieu of tithes £500, net £400, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. Frederick Dickinson Hall M.A. of Owston Vicarage, Rutland, and held since 1852 by the Rev. John Deane Waite B.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. The rectory house, built by the present rector, is a handsome structure, in the Elizabethan style, with beautiful grounds and shrubberies. Here is a Wesleyan chapel erected in 1847. The charities are of £23 4s. yearly value, derived from land left by Richard Down esq. The Rev. John Deane Waite B.A. is the chief landowner. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,460 acres; rateable value, about £1,694; the population in 1881 was 180.

MANTHORPE is a small and pleasant village and ecclesiastical district, formed in 1849, from Grantham civil parish, and with Little Gonerby forms a township: it is situated in the Southern division of the county, Grantham soke, Spittlegate petty sessional division, partly in the municipal, and wholly in the Grantham parliamentary borough, union and county court district, rural deanery of North Grantham, and archdeaconary and diocese of Lincoln, about 1 mile north from Grantham church, on the road to Lincoln. The church of St. John the Evangelist, consecrated by the Bishop of Lincoln, August 17th, 1848, is a structure of stone, in the Early Decorated style, from designs by Mr. G. G. Place, architect of Nottingham, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry and a tower with spire about 50 feet high, containing 2 bells: the church was erected wholly at the cost of the late Hon. and Rev. Richard Cust, then rector of Belton: his brother, the late Earl Brownlow, gave the site for the church, graveyard, and parsonage, and built the latter; and both brothers, by separate benefactions, endowed the living: the spire was erected by the eight surviving children of the late Lady Brownlow and her son-in-law, the late Sir William Middleton bart. as a memorial of her. The register dates from the year 1849, all entries of a previous date relating to this place are included in the registers of Grantham. The living is a vicarage, united with that of Londonthorpe, joint gross yearly value £200 with residence, in the gift of Earl Brownlow, and held since 1851 by the Rev. Charles Garvey M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. Earl Brownlow D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The district is skirted on the north by the blue lias formation, and on the south by the oolite. The soil is sand; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the township is 1,228 acres, of which Little Gonerby contains 700; rateable value, £13,932, namely, Little Gonerby, £10,859, and Manthorpe, £2,064; Manthorpe ecclesiastical district contained a population in 1881 of 243, and Manthorpe-cum-Little Gonerby township 3,567.

MANTON is a parish, containing the townships of MANTON, CLEATHAM and TWIGMOOR, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Manley, Glanford Brigg union, Winterton petty sessional division, Brigg county court district, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln; Manton is 2½ miles north from Kirton-in-Lindsey station, and 6 south-west-by-west from Glanford Brigg, pleasantly situated, partly on the Cliff. The church of St. Hibald, entirely rebuilt in 1861, in the Early Decorated style, under the direction of Messrs. Hooker and Wheeler, architects, is an edifice of blue lias limestone, with bands of white oolite, and quoins of Ancaster stone, and consists of chancel and nave, with a tower and spire of elegant proportions, at the south-west angle, containing 1 bell: there are some handsome stained windows: the east window was placed in memory of George and Sarah Maw by their sons in 1861, and the south window is also a memorial to members of the Maw family: several windows in the nave by Messrs. Lavers and Barraud were presented by Mr. Huddlestone: the fittings of the chancel are of oak, and some of the appointments were the special gifts of friends: the cost of the whole work amounted to nearly £1,200. The register, including Cleatham and Twigmoor, dates from the year 1678. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £210, gross yearly value £280, including 118 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Maximilian Hammond Dalison esq. of Greetwell Hall, and Hamptons, Kent, and held since 1870 by the Rev. John Winfield Hallam. Between Manton and Scawby there are traces of an ancient encampment, where coins, spears, and other relics have been found. Maximilian Hammond Dalison esq. J.P. who resides at Greetwell Hall, is lord of the manor and the sole landowner. The soil is of a light sandy nature and black peat; subsoil, ironstone. The crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the entire parish, including the townships of Cleatham and Twigmoor, is 4,630 acres; rateable value—of Manton £1,049 10s.; the population in 1881 of the township of Manton was 139 and of the parish 309.

CLEATHAM township is one mile and a half north from Kirton-in-Lindsey, and a mile south from the village of Manton. Matthew Maw esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner, and resides at the Hall, a handsome mansion, remodelled in 1855, and overlooking a fine tract of country. The population in 1881 was 114.

MARKET DEEPING is a small, well-built market town, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Ness wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, Ness rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 90 miles from London, 7 east-by-north from Stamford, 9 north from Peterborough, 12 south-west from Spalding and 7 south from Bourn. The Great Northern main line has a station at Tallington, 3 miles west, and the loop line at Deeping St. James about 3½ miles east of the town: it is situated on the river Welland, which divides the counties of Lincoln and Northampton, and is crossed by a stone bridge of three arches, at the south-east part of the town. The town is lighted with gas. The church of St. Guthlac, built or rebuilt in the thirteenth century, is an ancient fabric, in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, porch and a massive tower containing a fine peal of 6 bells: the north arcade has semicircular arches, those on the south side being pointed: the greater part of the church is of the Perpendicular period, but the nave and doorway of the porch are Early English: the east wall of the chancel has richly carved brackets with canopies above, and on the south side are three sedilia and a piscina; there is also an aumbry, a low-side window, barred with iron, and two monumental slabs with floriated crosses, of the fourteenth century: at the east end of the south aisle is another piscina and aumbry. The register dates from the year 1709. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from 270 acres of glebe somewhat over £600, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1880 by the Very Rev. William Wathen Howard M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, Dean of Stamford. The rectory house, close to the church, is a handsome building, a considerable portion of which is the remains of an ancient priory, built by the monks of Croyland in the fourteenth century, the remainder being of modern construction. Here are Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and Congregational chapels. The Town Hall is a stone building, erected in 1839. The late Miss Mary Ann Scotney gave by her will the several sums of £600, £2,100 and £50, to trustees, to be applied by them in founding, establishing and endowing six almhouses for the reception of six Protestant unmarried women, or widows without families, to be chosen by the trustees; three to be residents of Market Deeping, one within the parish of Deeping St. James, one within the parish of Thornhaugh and the other within the parish of Werrington: the almhouses, erected in 1876, occupy a site in Church street, which the testatrix had conveyed to her trustees in her lifetime, and they are occupied subject to the rules and regulations laid down in her will; they are of stone, forming three sides of a square: there is attached a spacious washhouse for the common use of the inmates; each inmate receives 4s. per week, the use of one home and a bedstead, and garden. Here are breweries, maltings, distillery and corn mill. Annual fairs used to be held on October 10th, the second Wednesday after old May-day, the last Wednesday in July and the two feasts or statutes in May and November. The market day is Wednesday, but there is a very limited business transacted. In common with most parts of the fen district, the country around has shared the beneficial effects of the operation of draining, and large tracts of land, previously marsh, have been reclaimed and successfully cultivated. The manor originally belonged to the ancient family of Wake, and by the marriage of Margaret, sister and heiress of Thomas Wake, to Edmund of Woodstock, Earl of Kent, whose daughter Joan, "The Fair Maid of Kent," wedded the Black Prince, it eventually came to the Crown. The manorial rights appertaining to the extensive manor of East and West Deeping have been sold by the Crown for £18,400, since which a great part of the manor has been enfranchised. There are three other manors viz.: Deeping (late Wake's), Dean's and Uffington; Miss Sophia Peacock is lady of the two former manors, and the Earl of Lindsey is lord of Uffington manor. Courts leet and barn and view of frank-pledge are held for the manors of East and West Deeping. The principal landowners are Myhill Boughton Addy esq. William Holland esq. J.P. and Mr. J. Goodale. The area is 1,449 acres; rateable value, £4,231; the population in 1881 was 1,212.

Deputy Parish Clerk, Broom Davis.

MARKET RASEN is a market town, railway station and parish, head of a county court district, polling-place for the Northern division of the county, in the south division of the wapentake of Walshcroft, parts of Lindsey, Caistor union, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 150¾ miles from London, 15 north-east from Lincoln, 15 west from Louth, 20 west from Gainsborough, 21 south-west from Great Grimsby and 9 south from Caistor. The town consists principally of one long street, on the road leading from Louth to Gainsborough, intersected at right angles by smaller ones. The Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, Lincoln and Hull line, crosses the main street; the station is on the south side of the town. The town is governed by a local board of nine members. The Market Rasen Water Works Company was incorporated by Act of Parliament 29th June, 1875; the water, derived from springs at the foot of Bully hill, in the parish of Tealby, a distance of 5½ miles, is conveyed thence through iron pipes. No pumping is required, as the pressure of the water from the higher level (about 280 feet) forces it to a greater height than any building in the town: the water is pure and soft, and is perfectly fit for use without any filtration: the total cost of the works has been about £7,500. The town is lighted with gas. The church of St. Thomas is a building of stone, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch, organ chamber and vestry, forming a kind of transept, and a western tower, now in course of restoration, containing 6 bells: built into the west end of the south aisle is a sculptured tablet, representing the Fall of Man, with a legend, now almost illegible, but probably a Latin quotation of 1 Cor. xv. 22: the church was partially restored about 1862, when the nave was almost wholly rebuilt, the organ chamber and vestry erected, the tower arch opened, new roofs fixed and the interior refitted: a new organ was introduced in 1882, and a lectern given in memory of the Rev. Samuel Allen Windle, a former vicar: the stained east window is a memorial to the late Thomas Rhodes: the church plate dates from 1630. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £27, gross yearly value £632, including 99 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Hely Hutchinson Augustus Smith M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. A very peculiar custom exists here of the vicar receiving a commutation in lieu of the tithe on all ale sold in the town. The Catholic Church, dedicated to the Holy Rood, was built in 1824, and is an edifice of brick, enlarged in 1869 by adding aisles and tower with 1 bell, at a cost of £2,500, raised by subscription: there are several stained windows, two of which are memorials to the late Mrs. Drakes, of Torrington and the late Rev. Algernon Moore: adjoining this church is the priest's house, and near to it a school for children. There is a Wesleyan chapel, erected at a cost of upwards of £4,000, and also Free Methodist and Primitive Methodist chapels. The cemetery, on the east side of the town, is 1½ acres in extent, and has a mortuary chapel, erected in 1855: it was opened on February 1st, 1855, having cost £456, and is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The de Aston school, situated on the Willingham road, is an endowed Grammar school, erected in 1862, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, at a cost of £5,000, under the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln; there are at present 40 boys, about 16 of whom are boarders; Rev. Arthur Temperley M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, is head master; the income amounts to £413 yearly, derived from land at Hemswell, left in 1501 by Thomas de Aston: the school is managed by a body of 15 governors; chairman, the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln. The Corn Exchange and Temperance Hall, both in Queen street, and the Market Hall, standing on church property on the west side of the Market place, are all available for public meetings, concerts &c. Here is also a County Police Station. An hospital was founded here in 1612 by Sir George St. Poll, of Snarford, for the maintenance of eight indigent men, of whom five reside in the hospital: for this purpose he bequeathed £200 for the erection of buildings, and also a sum of £120 expended in the purchase of land at Tealby: his widow was also a considerable benefactor both to this hospital and to the poor of Market Rasen, and left £20 for three ministers: the income of the hospital is now derived from a charge of £40 on the estate of E. R. C. Cust esq. at Faldingworth, and from a charge of £7 4s. on the estate of the Charterhouse governors, at Buslingthorpe: these charities were left to be distributed at the discretion of the trustees: the inmates of the hospital receive £5 9s. yearly, and the three non-residents £4 11s. yearly, and a gratuity at Christmas of coals and clothes: the trustees are the vicar of this parish, the rector of Faldingworth and the master of the endowed school. Some Catholic almshouses were erected in 1841, pursuant to the will of David Young esq. of West Rasen, who died in 1832, and who bequeathed them an endowment of £20 yearly: the almshouses are for three inmates, each of whom lives rent free, and receives a donation of £20 yearly. There are also several minor charities, producing £50 yearly, which is dispensed in sums of 2s. 6d. each to the poor, by the vicar, churchwardens and overseers. The Market Rasen Dispensary, established in 1856, and the Cottage Hospital, in Dear street, founded in 1869, are intended for the relief of the industrious poor: the hospital holds six patients, each of whom has to pay a small sum weekly: the yearly average of in-patients is about 20; out-patients, 230. The market, on Tuesday, for corn and provisions is well frequented, and there are cattle markets every other Tuesday; yearly fairs, for cattle, sheep and horses, are held on the 4th Tuesday in Lent and on September 25th. The races are held yearly, the first Monday after September 25th. A steeplechase meeting is held here annually early in the spring. There are three bank agencies and two breweries. Lieut.-Col. Francis Ingram Conway-Gordon D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The area is 943 acres; rateable value, £9,515; the population in 1881 was 2,612.

Parish Clerk, George Shaw.

MARKET STAINTON is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, North division of the wapentake of Gartree, parts of Lindsey, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 1½ miles south-east from Donington station, 7 east-by-north from Wragby and 8 north-by-west from Horncastle. The church of St. Michael, a small but ancient building of stone, in the Decorated style, consists of chancel and nave and a massive embattled tower with four pinnacles, each surmounted by a vane and containing 3 bells. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1689; marriages, 1690. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £88, in the gift of Jonathan Field esq. and held since 1880 by the Rev. James D'Ombrain, who is also rector of and resides at Sotby, and entered on this benefice at his retirement in 1880 from Her Majesty's service abroad. This village had anciently a weekly market and a yearly fair; the former has long since been lost and the latter was sold for £200, and removed to Horncastle in 1768. Jonathan Field esq. who is lord of the manor, and William Hyde esq. J.P. of Louth, are sole landowners. The soil is fine black loam, sand and clay; subsoil, mostly gravel. The chief crops are barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,180 acres; rateable value, £1,505; the population in 1881 was 97, and is still decreasing.

Parish Clerk, John Brackenbury.

MARSHCHAPEL is a large village and parish, near the Louth navigation and the sea, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Bradley Haverstoe, Louth union and county court district, Louth Eske and Ludborough rural deanery No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-east from Ludborough station, 10 north-north-east from Louth, and 10½ south-east from Grimsby. The church of St. Mary, one of the finest churches in this district, is a structure in the Late Perpendicular style, consisting of a chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, chantry chapel, south porch and tower with seven crocketed pinnacles, and an angle turret with small spire: the chancel is divided from the nave by a beautiful oak screen, which has been restored: the font is octagonal, and has a carved pyramidal cover: near the communion table is a monument with kneeling figures to Walter Harpham, his wife and daughter, 1617: a new roof was put on the nave in 1845, at a cost of £300, part of which was defrayed by the Rev. Dr. Parkinson, and the remainder by a rate; an oak roof was also put on the north aisle in 1848; and in the same year the chancel was rebuilt, at a cost of about £580, defrayed by a former vicar: in 1864 the nave was re-seated with massive carved oak benches, The first date legible in the register is 1st April, 1590; there are some entries for a few years before that date, but the dates, if written, have been long since obliterated. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £220, with 20 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the trustees of the Rev. A. Floyer, late vicar, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Alexander Leslie Routledge M.A. of King's College, Aberdeen. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive and Free Methodist chapels. In 1625 about 6 acres of land were purchased with benefaction money, the annual income arising from which is distributed at Easter and Christmas to the poor of this parish, who have also the produce of 3A. 3R. 25P. of meadow land, left by Mr. Lill in 1800: there is also an allotment, containing 32P. in lieu of an ancient lea in the unenclosed lands, which probably from about the period of the Reformation, had been set apart and the rents applied to the uses of the church. The Stanhope family are the owners of the manorial rights. J. J. Kirkby and William Ireland esqrs. and Lieut.-Col. C. J. B. Parker J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is generally very good; on the east side of the parish it is of a light silty nature, and on the west side strong and stiff; subsoil, silt and clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips, and there is a good grazing land. The area is 3,131 acres of land and 1,160 of water, according to the Government return of 1871, but the parish rate books show 2,981A. 1R. 4P. as under cultivation; rateable value, £5,450; the population in 1881 was 658.

WEST END hamlet is about half a mile south-west; FIRE BEACON hamlet, one mile south-west, near the Louth navigation, and is partly in this and partly in Fulstow parish; ESKHAM, or EAST HOLME, hamlet is one mile east.

Parish Clerk, William Vickers.

MARSTON is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Loveden, Newark union, Grantham county court district, Spittlegate petty sessional division, rural deanery of Loveden, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, about 1 mile south-west from Hougham station on the Great Northern railway, 113 miles from London, 5 north-north-west from Grantham, pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Witham. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone in the Early English, Decorated, and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, with south chantry chapel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and tower with spire of the Early Decorated period, and containing 5 bells; near the chancel arch, previous to the restoration, was the ancient entrance to the rood loft; the south aisle arcade is Early English, and that of the north aisle Decorated: the Perpendicular south porch is adorned with pinnacles at its angles, and has three canopied niches over the arch; in the chantry chapel are several monuments of the Thorold family, of which the oldest, lately removed to the east end of the south aisle, is a tomb of Purbeck marble, with a reredos of the same material rising above it, and inscribed to William Thorold esq. 1569; five other shields of arms surround the base: in the chantry chapel of the south aisle is a similar tomb with reredos and canopy, and an alabaster effigy in the costume and armour of the late sixteenth century, to Sir Nathaniel Thorold knt. son of the William Thorold above mentioned, who was sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1570, and died in 1594: on the reredos are three shields of arms, and below the effigy the letters N. T. and the date 1602, supposed to indicate the time of the erection of the monument: in the south aisle is a memorial to Anne (Thorold), widow of Sir Thomas Hodgson 1719, and foundress of the almshouse at Ruskington; there are also several later monuments of the Thorold family: the chancel was rebuilt in 1881-2 at a cost, inclusive of minor restorations, of £2,300, and is a rich specimen of the Early English style; the reredos is a memorial: all the windows are stained, the east window being the gift of the present Bishop of Rochester, son of the late rector, as a memorial to his sister, Frances Thomasine Thorold: the whole of the wood work, including the roofs, flooring, seats, pulpit and reading desk was restored by the patron and Lady Thorold and the parishioners at a further cost of £850, and an organ was recently erected at a cost of £400. The earliest register dates from the year 1562, and includes entries relating to Hougham names. The living is a rectory consolidated with that of Hougham, tithe rent-charge £110; yearly value, £110, including 77 acres of glebe; in the gift of Sir John Henry Thorold bart. and held since 1836 by the Rev. Henry Baugh Thorold B.A. of Trinity College, Oxford, who resides at Hougham; the Rev. Arthur William Drake is curate and resides at Sedgebrook. There is a Wesleyan chapel here, erected in 1875-6. Sir William and Lady Ann Thorold, in 1670, left for charitable purposes 12 acres at Bassingham, and 16 acres 22 poles at Gelston, now let at £54 per annum; £2 10 is paid to the poor of Cranwell, and £2 to those of Bassingham, and the remainder to this parish, viz. £2 5s. to the parish clerk, £20 to five old men and five old women, the rest being distributed in coals, clothing and money among the poor parishioners, together with £15 15s. from the Poor's Close, 8 acres given by an unknown donor: this parish is entitled to a share of Lady Margaret Thorold's Charity, left in 1717, viz. to the schoolmaster, for teaching and instructing poor boys of the parish, £65 per annum; and £40 for the apprenticing two poor boys of the parish: there is also £4 2s. 6d. per annum from £137 14s. 4d. £3 per Cent Stock derived from various bequests. By a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, dated 1878, the distribution of these charities has been materially altered, and they are now administered by eleven trustees, and the proceeds are distributed as follows:—to the schools of Marston, £120; Sedgebrook, £75; and Syston, £40, and to the high school at Sedgebrook, a sum not exceeding £2 per scholar yearly; £30 is also applied to the apprenticing of poor boys of Marston, Sedgebrook and Cranwell, and £55 is distributed to the poor by the incumbents and overseers as follows:—Sedgebrook, £15; Syston, £10; Silk Willoughby, £10; South Rauceby, £10; North Rauceby, £5 and Quarrington £5 annually; £20 is also allotted to any school in Cranwell conducted as an elementary school. The surplus, if any, goes to form a "suspense fund" to be dealt with by a new scheme upon reaching £500. The Hall, anciently the seat of the Thorolds, is now a farm house; it was while residing here that they were created baronets. Sir John Henry Thorold, bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. Here is the Grantham sewage farm. The soil is light; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are barley, oats, turnips &c. The area is 2,368 acres; rateable value, £3,149; the population in 1881 was 307.

MARTIN, near Horncastle, is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, south division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle petty sessional division, county court district and union, rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles south-south-west from Horncastle, bounded on the west by the Bain navigation. The church of St. Michael is a plain but ancient stone structure, in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel and nave only; a recess in the west end of the nave contains 1 bell: the late Norman chancel arch is much admired; there is a piscina on the south side of the chancel, and in the north wall an arched recess; the east window is a memorial to the Rev. J. B. Smith, a former rector; the font was presented in 1851, by the late J. Wadham Floyer esq. of Martin Hall: in 1877 the chancel floor was relaid, the nave refitted and a pulpit of Caen stone erected and the unused north doorway converted into a window; the entire cost of these works was £240. The register dates from 1561. The living is a discharged rectory, consolidated with Thornton, tithe rent-charge (Martin), £143; joint gross yearly value £348, with glebe at Martin, in the alternate patronage of William Jollands Gilliat and the Dean and Chapter of Lichfield, and held since 1875 by the Rev. John Clare Hudson M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who resides at Thornton. The Rev. Thomas Scott, the celebrated Biblical commentator and the son of a small farmer of Baytoft, near Spilsby, where he was born 16 February, 1747, commenced his ministerial labours in this parish in or about 1772. On the moor in this parish is a detached tower, built by Lord Treasurer Cromwell; it is 60 feet high, and contains a spiral staircase of brick. William Jollands Gilliat esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, gravel and white clay. The chiefs crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 764 acres; rateable value, £1,162; the population in 1881 was 70 in the civil parish and in 155 in the ecclesiastical.

MARTON is a parish with station on the Great Northern railway, called Stow Park, situate about 1 mile south-east, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Well, Gainsborough petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 5¾ miles south-east from Gainsborough, and 150 from London; the village is situated on the eastern bank of the navigable river Trent, which here divides this county from Nottinghamshire. There is a ferry across the river to Littleborough. St. Margaret's church is an edifice of stone in the Norman, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, with organ-chamber on the north, serving as a vestry, nave, south porch, aisles, and a western embattled tower of Norman date, containing 3 bells: in 1868 the church was thoroughly restored, at a cost of about £500, raised by subscription, when the north chancel arch, which had been bricked up, was opened, the western gallery removed, the church reseated, and the principal fittings, including pulpit and prayer desk, renewed; the bells were also rehung, and a new ringing floor laid; the table cover and kneeling stools were worked and presented by Mrs. Hutton of Gate Burton. The church will seat 250 persons. The register dates from the year 1650. The living is a discharged vicarage, net yearly value £175, including 70 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. William Reade M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. There are Primitive and Wesleyan Methodist chapels here. Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. D.L., J.P. of Hackthorn, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are J. N. Preston, esq., Col. George Morland Hutton D.L., J.P. of Gate Burton, and John Kirk Gibson esq. The soil is sandy loam and clay; subsoil, generally clay, in some parts sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, turnips, and a fair proportion of pasture. The area is 1,310 acres; rateable value 3,205; the population in 1881 was 439.

MELTON ROSS is a small agricultural parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, southern division of the wapentake of Yarborough, petty sessional division of Brigg, union of Glanford Brigg, county court district of Brigg, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, one mile and a half east-by-north from the Barnetby-le-Wold station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, 5 miles north-east from Brigg, and 166 from London. The hamlet of NEW BARNETBY, in Barnetby-le-Wold civil parish, was added to Melton Ross for ecclesiastical purposes only, by order in council, May 3rd, 1862. The church of the Holy Ascension is an edifice of stone, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch, and bell-turret containing 2 bells: and was rebuilt in 1867, from designs by Mr. Ewan Christian, architect, at a cost of £1,500, raised by subscriptions: there are several stained windows, presented by the family of the late Rev. Thomas Aubertin, a former rector: the three chancel windows by the family of Mr. and Mrs. John West of Melton Ross. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £220, with residence and 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of Earl Manvers, and held since 1875, by the Rev. John Pennell Snow M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Here are lime and whiting works. The Earl of Yarborough is the lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is limestone; subsoil, loam and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 1,755 acres; rateable value, £4,635; the population in 1881 was 273, including 97 in New Barnetby.

MESSINGHAM is a large and well-built village, township and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Manley, petty sessional division of Winterton, Glanford Brigg union, Brigg county court district, Manlake rural deanery, Stow archdeaconry, and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles east from Butterwick Ferry, 7 west-by-south from Brigg, and 5 north-west from Kirton-in-Lindsey railway station; it comprises also part of East Butterwick, on the Trent. The church of the Holy Trinity is a building of stone, originally in the Early English style, and of which the arcades remain; it was partly rebuilt about the year 1818, at a cost of nearly £2,000, by the Rev. Dr. Bayley, sub-dean of Lincoln, and archdeacon of Stow, who was then rector, and who at this time and afterwards, adorned this church with spoils carried off from various other churches in his archdeacoury, as well as from the cathedrals of Lincoln and Manchester: above the vast pulpit is a finely carved oak canopy, brought from Lincoln Cathedral, and formerly placed above an ancient clock presented to the minister in the fourteenth century by Treasurer Welbourne; the carved work of the prayer desks is from Althorpe church; and of stained glass, the representations of Our Lord's Descent into Hell, and His Appearance to Mary Magdalene, with angels censing, properly belong to Kettlethorpe: those of the Virgin and Child, Vine Leaves, and the Shields of Arms of the Neville's were abstracted from Scotton; the figure of Our Lord in Glory (except the head, which came from Malvern) formerly belonged to Snarford; the mutilated figure of a horseman, the best ruby glass, and other portions, were transferred from Manchester, and besides all these there are a few remaining fragments legitimately belonging to the church: on the north side of the chancel is a Decorated aumbry, and three brackets: in the south aisle is a brass to Martin Gravener and Effam his wife, dated 1619: the church plate includes a silver cup and paten dated 1569. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value, from 301 acres of glebe, £400, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1879, by the Rev. Alfred Edgar Moore B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels; the former has been enlarged and improved. A pleasure fair is held here on Trinity Monday. Here is a library of over 400 volumes, and a reading room. At East Butterwick there is access to the Hull and Gainsborough steamers on the Trent. In the principal street of this village, occupying the site of the ancient village cross, is a sycamore tree, called "the Cross Tree." William Smith esq. of Barns Hall, Grenoside, Sheffield, is lord of the manor. The vicar, William Smith esq. Messrs. George Sowerby, George Wakefield, Thomas Wakefield, and William Stocks are the principal landowners. The soil is sand and clay; subsoil, ironstone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the township is 5,450 acres; rateable value £7,129; the population in 1881 was 1,132; the area of the parish, including part of the township of East Butterwick, is 5,552 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,352.

EAST BUTTERWICK will be found under a separate heading.

METHERINGHAM is a parish and large improving village in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, second division of the wapentake of Langoe, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Longoboby, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, ten miles north from Sleaford, on the Great Northern and Great Eastern Joint railway, and nine south-east from Lincoln by rail. The church of St. Wilfred is a large stone building in the Norman and thirteenth and sixteenth century styles, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory (restored in 1858-9), aisles, and square embattled western Norman tower, surmounted by four pinnacles, with 5 bells: the north aisle was re-built in 1870: in 1867 the church was reseated and restored, when additional accommodation for 100 was made. The Incorporated Society for Building Churches granted £30: the total cost for alterations from 1858 to 1870 was £1,053: the old church was burnt down in 1601 and restored in 1603, when the clerestory and embattlements round the nave and tower were added, as also the pillars in the nave; There are two mural tablets, one to Sir Thomas Skipwith bart., sergt.-at-law, Elizabeth his wife, and Sir Thomas, their son: the former died 1694, his wife 1674, their son 1710; all were buried at Upminster, Essex; the tablet was erected by Sir George Bridges Skipwith bart. of this place, who lies underneath, died 1756; the other is to Mrs. Lucy Skipwith, daughter of Sir Thomas Skipwith, died 1763: the tablet was erected by Mrs. Isabella Pitt: there are sittings for 450, all but 8 being unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value, £460, from 262 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Marquess of Bristol, and held since 1881 by the Rev. William Ignatius Snell Rawson. Here are chapels for the Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists. There are three-quarters of an acre of land left by Colley, producing thirty shillings yearly, which is given to poor widows. Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. who is lord of the manor, Hayland Greenham esq. and the impropriators of the Rectory land, are the principal landowners. The upper part of the parish is light land, enclosed from the Lincoln Heath; the lower part is reclaimed fen, and is very productive; the centre of the parish is a heavy loam. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,698 acres: rateable value, £9,490; the population in 1881 was 1875.

MISSON is a parish partly in the wapentake of Corringham, county of Lincoln, but chiefly in that of Bassetlaw, county of Nottingham. Full particulars are given in the Directory of the latter county.

MOORBY is a small village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, soke, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Horncastle, Horncastle rural deanery, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles south-east from Horncastle. The church of All Saints is a small structure of stone, with brick bands and dressings of Ancaster stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, north porch, with a small square tower at the north-west angle, and spire containing 1 bell; it was rebuilt in 1864 under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, at an expense of £1,100, defrayed by J. Banks Stanhope esq. lord of the manor: the reredos is of carved stone and encaustic tiles, with shafts of marble; an arcade of three arches, with columns of green serpentine, opens into the vestry on the south side; the pulpit is of Caen stone, and the chancel is fitted in oak. The registers, including those of Claxby Pluckacre, date from 1561. The living is a rectory, consolidated with the perpetual curacy of Wood Enderby, net joint yearly value about £250, with 14 acres of glebe allotment in Wildmoor Fen, in the gift of the Bishop of Manchester, and held since 1864 by the Rev. Francis Smith. The Wesleyans have a chapel

MORTON, near Bourn, is a parish, township and village, with a station on the Bourn and Sleaford branch of the Great Northern railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland hundred, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles north from Bourn and 7 south from Falkingham: it is near the Roman Car dyke, which divides the Fen from the higher parts of the parish, and on the road from Bourn to Sleaford. The church of St. John the Baptist is a fine cruciform building of stone, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south transept, western porch and a tower containing 5 bells and a clock: the columns of the nave arcade are Early English, the chancel is Decorated, retaining three sedilia and piscina; in the north transept is a credence with mutilated canopy, and in the south transept an aumbry: the west porch, with the window above it, are imposing examples of Perpendicular work: the church was restored in 1860, and has thirty-two windows, all stained: the restoration, which included the substitution of open roofs for flat ceilings, was principally due to the liberality of the late W. Parker esq. of Hanthorpe House. The register dates from the year 1549. The living is a vicarage with Haceby annexed, joint gross yearly value from 219 acres of glebe £430 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Walter Stockdale M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel. Several small charities, amounting in all to about £8, are distributed yearly to the most deserving poor in bread and fuel. Excellent water is supplied in abundance from an artesian well. The Marquess of Exeter P.C., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, Colonel William Parker D.L., J.P. of Hanthorpe, and Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam and fen; subsoil, in the higher portion rock, in the lower silt. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and peas. The area is 3,390 acres; rateable value, £7,678; the population in 1881 was 950.

MORTON-BY-GAINSBOROUGH is a picturesque village, township and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1866 from the civil parish of Gainsborough: it is in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Corringham, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Gainsborough, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, one mile and a half north-by-west from Gainsborough station and 145½ from London. The village is on the east bank of the Trent, on which the Hull and Gainsborough steamers pass: there are wharfs, corn mills and maltings. The church of St. Paul (locally in Gainsborough) is a stone fabric in the Decorated style, erected in 1846, at a cost of about £2,000: it consists of chancel with vestry, nave, with organ in the chancel, and a square pinnacled tower containing 1 bell: there are three memorial stained windows, two of which were inserted by the wife of the late vicar, by whom the organ was given: since the incumbency of the present vicar, the chancel has been reseated with choir stalls, the old reading desk removed and a handsome brass lectern has been presented by W. H. Sharp, of Morton. The register dates from 1846. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1880 by the Rev. German Wheatcroft Danks: & a commodious vicarage house has been erected opposite the church. Here are a Primitive Methodist and a Wesleyan chapel. Here is a school endowed by Joshua Tyler, who died in 1708, for the education of 20 poor children: the endowment now produces £45 yearly, which is equally divided between the National school and the relief of the poor, according to a recent scheme of the Charity commissioners. There are other charities left by the late Samuel Sandars esq. and Mrs. Ann Buddicom, amounting to about £40 yearly, for the church schools and poor. Morton House is surrounded by a lawn, is pleasantly situated, and is the residence of Edward Pearson esq. J.P. The soil is sand and warp; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, potatoes, turnips, carrots and pasture. The area of the township is 768A. 2R. 33P.; rateable value, £3,268; the population of the parish in 1881 was 917.

MOULTON and MOULTON CHAPEL.

MOULTON is a large and pretty village and parish, with a station half a mile south from the village, on the Spalding and Norwich railway, situate on the Holbeach and Spalding road, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Spalding, rural deanery of West Elloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles west from Holbeach and 5 east from Spalding. The church of All Saints is an exceedingly fine building in the Transitional, Earlier English, Early and Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with spire, containing a clock and 5 bells: the nave is late Transitional work, and its pier capitals afford a most valuable series of examples of the carved foliage of this particular date; the clerestory has a continnous external arcade, similar to that of Whaplode, but the finest and most striking feature of the church is its exceptionally well-proportioned and elegant tower and spire, which is in this respect unsurpassed by any in the kingdom: the tower is of four stages, supported at the angles by double canopied buttresses rising into panelled and crocketed pinnacles; the parapet is embattled and from within it springs a light octagonal ribbed and crocketed spire, with three tiers of louvre lights placed alternately; small flying buttresses connect the pinnacles with the spire: the singular font consists of a spherical basin, supported by a representation of the Tree of Life; around the trunk a serpent is coiled, and on either side stand Adam and Eve; the sides of the basin display scenes from the Old and New Testament. There are memorials to Robert Heath, vicar, 1665; Philip Tallents, vicar, 1704; and the Rev. Samuel Elsdale M.A. 1827; the church was restored in 1867, both externally and internally, at a cost of £3,500. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from the year 1558; burials, 1560. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value from 347 acres of land £700 with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Johnson, and held since 1866 by the Rev. John Russell Jackson, M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, J.P. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodists chapels. The Poor's Land Charity, which is managed in accordance with a scheme dated 1870, consists of some 80 acres or thereabouts of houses and land in Moulton. In the year 1884, various minor charities were consolidated by a new scheme entitled "The Minor Charities." H. S. Maples esq. solicitor, Spalding, acts as hon. secretary to the trustees of the Moulton Charities and is also secretary to the governors of the Moulton Endowed schools. Some Roman urns were discovered at Ravensbank in 1721; and in December, 1765, the salt marsh on the north side of the parish was suddenly inundated and many sheep, oxen and horses drowned. Lord Boston, of Hedsor, Maidenhead, and the Crown, and the Ven. Lord Saye and Sele M.A., D.C.L. of Broughton Castle, Banbury, are the principal landowners. The soil is a light loam and clay; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, peas and roots. The area is 11,390 acres of land and 335 of water; rateable value, £19,233; the population in 1881 was 2,248, both inclusive of Moulton Chapel.

AUSTINDYKE (or Assendyke) is a hamlet, one mile and a half south. MOULTON EAUGATE consists of that portion of the parish which lies one mile south of Moulton Chapel and 5 miles south of Moulton. SEASEND (or Seaend) is a hamlet 2 miles north-by-east of the parish church. Here is a school chapel built by subscription in 1868 in which divine service is held on Sundays.

Moulton Chapel is a chapelry of Moulton, from which it is 4 miles south and 6 south-east from Spalding. Here is a small octagonal chapel, erected in 1722. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £90, in the gift of the vicar of Moulton, and held since 1838 by the Rev. Michael Sisson, of St. Bees, who resides at Spalding and is chaplain to the Spalding union.

MUCKTON is a small village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of the hundred, and petty sessional division of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-south-east from Louth and one mile and three-quarters north-west from Authorpe station. The old church of Holy Trinity was rebuilt in 1878, and is a very handsome building of sandstone lined with chalk: the fine old Norman arch was retained: the east window is stained: the church plate is of the time of Charles II. The register dates from the year 1695. The living is a rectory, consolidated with the vicarage of Burwell and Walmsgate, joint yearly value £230 with residence, in the gift of William Hornsby esq. of Grantham, and held since 1853 by the Rev. Charles Argentine Alington B.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. The Rev. Richard Pickles, rector of this parish, left a yearly rentcharge of 10s. for poor widows. The Rev. Joseph Martin Lister is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, beans and barley. The area is 1,025 acres; rateable value, £1,127; the population in 1881 was 96.

MUMBY, with CHAPEL.

MUMBY is a village and parish, pleasantly situated, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, petty sessional division of Alford, union and county court district of Spilsby, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles from the seashore, 5 south-east from Alford and 3½ north-east from Willoughby station. The church of St. Peter is a handsome building of the Early English period, of which the doorway is a very beautiful example; and consists of large chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a massive embattled tower, with pinnacles, and containing 4 bells: the whole was extensively repaired in 1843-4, and the chancel rebuilt in 1874 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, at a cost of over £500. The register, including Mumby Chapel, dates from the year 1573. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £2, gross yearly value £250, including 84 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1840 by the Rev. John Benward Travers M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge J.P. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The charity houses produce £21 yearly. The Governors of Bethlehem Hospital, who are lords of the manor, and Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, blue clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The area of the parish is 2,620 acres; rateable value, £2,878 10s.; the population in 1881 was 639, including the hamlets.

ELSY (or Helsey) is a hamlet of Mumby, one mile and a half south; a very small portion is in Hogsthorpe parish.

LANGHAM ROW is a hamlet of Mumby, one mile north-east.

AUTHORPE ROW one mile and a half east is a hamlet, partly in Mumby and partly in Hogsthorpe.

Chapel (or MUMBY CHAPEL), on the coast of the North Sea, is a village and chapelry in the parish of Mumby, 3 miles south-east from Mumby. The church of St. Leonard, erected in 1794, is a small building of brick and stone, consisting of chancel, nave and an open stone belfry containing 1 bell: the chancel was rebuilt of brick in 1866. A register of this chapelry from 1665-76 is kept with the registers of Mumby. The living is a perpetual curacy, gross yearly value £190, net £179 including 23½ acres of glebe, in the gift of the vicar of Mumby, and held since 1879 by the Rev. William Henry Dunning. There is a Primitive Methodist chapel. Here is a coastguard station. A lifeboat, called "The God-send," was presented by Lady Bourchier in 1870, and replaced in 1876 by "The Landseer," presented by Jessie Landseer in memory of her brother Sir Edwin Landseer R.A. the distinguished animal painter, and is supported by voluntary contributions; Mr. Richard Bradshaw, of Hogsthorpe, acts as hon. sec. The area is 1,289A. 2R. 10P. and 42A. 2R. 21P. salt marshes; rateable value, £1,995 15s.; the population in 1881 was 262.

NAVENBY is a small town and parish, on the river Brant and South Cliff range of hills: the parish is in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, higher division of the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, union and county court district of Lincoln, rural deanery of Longoboby, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 17 miles north from Grantham, 9 south from Lincoln, 10 north-west from Sleaford and 14 east-north-east from Newark. The parish extends westward to the river Brant, and eastward to Blankney, the Roman road Ermine Street intersecting it from north to south. There is a station on the Lincoln and Grantham branch of the Great Northern railway, three-quarters of a mile west of the town. The church of St. Peter is a building of stone in the Transitional, Early English, Early and Late Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower containing 6 bells: in the chancel are a piscina and sedilia, monumental arch over the founder's tomb and an Easter sepulchre, the whole carving of which is unsurpassed in excellence of design and execution: the church underwent some restoration in 1859-60, and in 1875-6 the chancel and nave were completely restored under the direction of Mr. Chas. Kirk, architect, Sleaford, at a cost of £3,335. The register dates from about the year 1681. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £650 with house, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1867 by the Rev. John Hays M.A. formerly fellow and tutor of that college and prebendary of Lincoln Cathedral. The Wesleyan chapel was rebuilt in 1840, at an expense of £600. At the enclosure in 1772 the parishioners had an allotment of 47 acres, in addition to a small portion of old poor's land: a workhouse was afterwards erected on part of it, and 7 acres added; the building, however, is now let out in tenements: the land, let in small allotments, produces about £115 yearly, of which £18 is paid to the schoolmaster, £15 to the mistress, £2 2s. for coals at the school, and about £6 6s. for a yearly distribution of coals amongst the poor; the remainder is carried to the poor rates. A sick club was established here in 1811; it has now 95 members, and an invested fund amounting to £550. Two fairs were originally held, but now only one, on the 17th October, principally for swine. A pleasure fair is held on the Thursday before Easter, and a statute for servants in May. The Dean and Chapter of Lincoln are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,572 acres; rateable value, £4,767; the population in 1881 was 957.

NETTLEHAM is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Lawress wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north-east-by-north from Lincoln and the Witham, and about 2 west from Reepham station, on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a massive western tower containing 6 bells: a stained window has been placed at the east end by the members of the Hood family, and there are two memorial windows at the west end: the font was presented by J. L. ffytche esq. of Thorpe Hall, in 1849: the church was partly restored in 1881, new roofs being put on the nave, north aisle, as well as the chancel, which was then enlarged, an organ chamber erected, and an organ introduced. The register dates from the year 1583. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £310, from 166 acres of glebe, with house, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Charles Warren M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge: there is a charge on the living for the building of the vicarage house. The Wesleyans and Free Methodists have chapels here. The charities amount to £3 10s. yearly, derived from the bequest of John Aistroppe, who in 1786 left £50 to be placed out at interest, and the product to be distributed in bread to the poor of the parish; in 1791, the said £50 was spent in repewing and making other additions to the church, when the minister and others agreed that the yearly interest £2 10s. should be paid out of the church land: John Moss also left £1 yearly, for the use of the poor, derived from a charge on land in 1723. Nettleham Hall, the residence of S. Frankland Hood esq. J.P. stands on an eminence; the approach is by a drive through massive iron gates, formerly at the entrance of the churchyard of St. Peter-at-Arches, Lincoln. The Bishop of Lincoln, who is lord of the manor, S. Frankland Hood esq. J.P. S. ffytche esq. J. Swan esq. and William Rudgard esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,338 acres; rateable value, £5,623; the population in 1881 was 958.

south-east from Brigg, 2 east from the Moortown station, 2 miles from Holton station on the Lincoln, Market Rasen and Hull railway, and 158¼ from London. The church of St. John the Baptist was rebuilt in 1874, at a cost of £1,800, defrayed by the late rector, the Rev. Samuel Turner, and under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth: it retains an Early tower, with doorway reputed to be Late Saxon, and bears a characteristic ornament termed the "Jews' harp," which is found on remains of this period in other Lincolnshire churches: the edifice consists of chancel, nave, north porch and a tower containing 3 bells and a clock: the lower stage of the tower dates from about 1050: the stained east window was the gift of Mrs. Turner, widow of the late rector: the reredos was presented by the patron, Miss Marris: the register dates from the year 1679. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from 409½ acres of glebe £550, with residence, in the gift of Miss Marris, of Caistor, and held since 1877 by the Rev. Hugh Stillie Campbell M.A. of the University of Oxford. Here is a small Wesleyan chapel and a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1858. There is land belonging to the church and parish which is vested in the churchwardens and overseers, producing a rental of from £20 to £30 yearly. J. M. Richardson esq. of Brocklesby Park, is lord of the manor, and the principal landowners are Miss Marris, of Caistor, C. J. Calthorpe esq. of Horkstow Hall, Miss Dixon, Holton Park and William Wood esq. of Habrough. The soil is clay, sand and chalk; subsoil, similar; and there is a great deal of ironstone in this parish. The chief crops are turnips, barley, clover and wheat. The area of the parish is 3,570 acres; rateable value, £4,670; the population in 1881 was482.

NOCTON is a pleasant village, on a small rivulet between Lincoln Heath and the Car dyke, and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, second division of Langoe wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Longoboby and diocese and archdeaconry of Lincoln. The church of All Saints is a handsome building of Ancaster stone, in the Early Decorated style, erected in 1862, at the sole expense of the late Countess Dowager of Ripon, from the designs of the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott, and consists of chancel, with mortuary, chapel and vestry, nave with clerestory, and a tower with spire 130 feet in height and containing 6 bells: the interior has some remarkably beautiful stone carvings, an exquisitely finished alabaster reredos, and a pulpit of stone and various marbles, with figures in the panels of Our Lord, St. Peter and St. John; the chancel is separated from the adjoining chapel by a beautifully carved arcade, and beneath one of its arches is placed the fine altar tomb erected to the late Earl of Ripon, designed by Sir G. G. Scott, upon which is a recumbent figure of the Earl, in white marble, by the late Mr. Noble; the sides are relieved with shields of arms and inscriptions, on diapered work: in the chapel is a stained window, designed and erected by Miss Hobart, daughter of the late dean of Windsor, and formerly vicar of this parish, in memory of two of her sisters: the large west window is a memorial to the late Countess of Ripon; the east window is also from a design by Miss Hobart: in the years 1873 and 1874 the whole of the interior was most elaborately coloured, under the direction of the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott R.A. There are sittings for 300 persons. The register dates from the year 1582. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £852, including 714 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Earl de Grey, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Henry Footman M.A. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge. The poor parishioners receive yearly on St. Thomas' day charity money, amounting to £5 10s. The Abbey Hills, a rising ground overlooking the fen, about a mile east of the village, mark the site of a Priory of Austin or Black Canons, founded here in the reign of Stephen, by Robert D'Arcy or D'Arrecy, and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen. There are now no remains. The manor anciently belonged to the families of D'Arcy and Talboys; and afterwards passed through the families of Ellis and Hobart to that of Robinson, by whom it is still held. Nocton Hall, the seat of the Marquess of Ripon K.G. stands on the site of a former mansion, destroyed by fire in 1834; the present building, erected in 1841, in the Elizabethan style, is surrounded by extensive and well-wooded grounds. The Marquess of Ripon K.G. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is gravel, fen land and heath; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,340 acres; rateable value, £7,314; the population in 1881 was 628.

Parish Clerk, Luke Tether.

NORMANBY-ON-THE-WOLDS is a parish and small village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of the wapentake of Walshcroft, Caistor union and county court district, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-by-east from Market Rasen, 2 north-east from Usselby station and 5 south from Caistor. The church of St. Peter, a building of stone, in the Perpendicular style, was restored in 1868, at a cost of £1,500, raised by subscription, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch, vestry, and a western tower with pinnacles containing 3 bells; the work of restoration included the erection of a chancel and north aisle, both of which had disappeared, but their foundations being still extant, the new structure has been built upon these: the aisle was erected at the cost of Henry and Kate Mary Hargrave, as a memorial of their ancestors: the chancel has credence and sedilia, and a reredos of Caen stone and alabaster: the principal fittings, and the seats in the chancel are of oak. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, annexed to that of Claxby, joint gross yearly value £1,030, including 50 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of and held since 1869 by the Rev. Samuel Wright Andrews M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, who resides at Claxby. The Earl of Yarborough is lord of the manor, and owns all the land except the glebe. The soil is stiff; subsoil, chalk and green sandstone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,926 acres; rateable value, £2,129; the population in 1881 was 142.

NORMANTON is a small village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Loveden, Grantham union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Loveden, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 7½ miles north-by-east from Grantham, 5 north-east from the Hougham station of the Great Northern railway and 2 north from the Honington and South Caythorpe stations of the Grantham, Sleaford and Lincoln railway. The church of St. Nicholas is a building of stone, in the Late Transitional, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles and a tower containing 3 bells: the earliest portion is the Late Transitional south arcade, the north arcade being Early English: the tower of three stages is Decorated, and has a plain Perpendicular parapet and a west window, highly enriched on the exterior with the ball flower ornament and other carving: the clerestory, which is embattled, affords a rich and beautiful example of the Perpendicular period: the chancel and north aisle were restored, and a vestry built, before 1867. The register dates from the year 1650. The living is a rectory, consolidated in 1878 with that of Carlton Scroop, tithe rent-charge (Normanton) £145, yearly value £104, in the gift of the Earl Brownlow, the Marquess of Bristol and the present rector, and held since 1878 by the Rev. William Andrews M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, who resides at Carlton Scroop. The poor have charities, amounting to £5 6s. yearly, £3 6s. left by Capt. Lewis Gwin, and £2 left by an unknown donor, for fuel. Earl Brownlow D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is strong loam and heath; subsoil, stone. The crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and seeds. The area is 1,540 acres; rateable value, £2,307; the population in 1881 was 143.

NORTHORPE is a parish, and station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, in the Northern division of the county, wapentake of Corringham, parts of Lindsey, Gainsborough union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 156 miles from London, 8 north-east from Gainsborough and 4 south-west from Kirton. The river Eau runs through the parish and falls into the Trent. The church of St. John the Baptist is an edifice of great antiquity, and its present plan represents for the most part the original late Norman church, but the existing fabric is chiefly Perpendicular, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles and a western tower containing 2 bells: the door of the south aisle is a most beautiful specimen of curvilinear wood carving with a border of exquisitely wrought trailing foliage; its date is perhaps 1370: the ancient altar stone, marked with five crosses, survives as a monumental stone at the east end of the chancel: the arcades, and a doorway in the chancel are Norman, but the tower, clerestory and the east window are Perpendicular; in the north chancel wall is a small Easter sepulchre and opposite a piscina; there are also the remains of three small brass figures to members of the Yerburgh family; and there are other inscribed brasses to William Monson, of Northorpe, 1538, and Anthony Monson, of Northorpe, 1648: one of the bells has the legend: "Bell, send pastors pure in word and life." The register dates from the year 1594. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value £200 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Cuthbert Sharp Wilkins. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, the greater part of this parish belonged to the Yerburgh family, from whom it passed to the Monsons, and thence, by purchase, to the Daltons: on the death of Charles Dalton esq. it was purchased, in 1830, by Thomas Fox esq. the predecessor of the present proprietor. The greater part of the old Elizabethan Hall, once the seat of the Monsons, is still standing, and, in many parts of the interior, the quaintly carved and painted decorations have been well preserved. The new Hall, erected by the late Thomas Fox Embleton-Fox esq. J.P. is an elegant and well-arranged residence. William Embleton-Fox esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, and the trustees of the late John Coupland esq. of Skillingthorpe, are the landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are a succession of grain. The area is 1,816 acres; rateable value, £3,733; the population in 1881 was 182.

NORTON DISNEY is a small village and parish, in the vale of the Witham, Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, lower division of the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, Newark union and county court district, rural deanery of Graffoe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles north-east from Newark, 4 south-east from the Collingham and Swinderby railway stations and 11 south-south-west from Lincoln. The church of St. Peter, anciently appropriated to the priory of Sempringham, is a plain edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of double chancel, nave, north aisle of three bays, south transept, originally a chantry, and a western tower with pinnacles and containing 3 bells: the church was restored in 1858, and contains several ancient monuments and brasses of the Disney family, including one, dated 1532, to William Disney, sheriff of Lincolnshire, and to his son, Richard, who was also sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1557 and 1566: there is a good font and an ancient screen of Elizabethan date. The register dates from the year 1578. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £115, gross yearly value £172, including 52 acres of glebe, in the gift of Viscount St. Vincent, and held since 1852 by the Rev. George Roberts B.A. of Hertford College, Oxford. Viscount St. Vincent is lord of the manor, impropriator and principal landowner. The soil is sandy; subsoil, clay and moorland. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area is 2,317 acres; rateable value, £2,140; the population in 1881 was 171.

ORBY is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the Candleshoe wapentake, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, Candleshoe rural deanery No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north-west from Bergh, 6½ east-by-north from Spilsby, about 2 east-by-north from the Burgh or Gunby station on the East Lincolnshire railway. The church of All Saints is a Perpendicular structure of freestone, built about the end of the thirteenth century by one of the priors of Thornholm: it consists of chancel, nave, south aisle and a western tower containing 3 bells: the west window is stained: in 1848 the chancel was repaired by the late Rt. Hon. Robert A. Christopher-Nisbet-Hamilton, and the body of the church repewed by the parish, at a total cost of about £300. The register dates from the year 1725. The living is a discharged vicarage, net yearly value £194, including 42 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1877 by the Rev. John Edward Brown Welburn B.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. There is a Wesleyan chapel here. The poor of the parish receive the following charities:—A yearly rent-charge of £2, left by Sir Robert Christopher in 1668; £1 10s. given by an unknown donor; and 12s. from a piece of land formerly used as a road. Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton and the Rev. Richard George Walls M.A. of Boothby Hall, rector of Firsby, are lords of the manor. The land is owned by several small freeholders. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, potatoes, oats, mustard, peas and beans. The area is 2,088 acres; rateable value, £3,167; the population in 1881 was 410.

NORTH ORMSBY (or NUN ORMSBY) is a village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake and petty sessional division of Ludborough, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles south-west from Ludborough station and 5½ north-west from Louth. The church of St. Helen is a building of stone, in the Early English style, with a turret containing 1 bell, and was rebuilt in 1848 by the late Miss Ansell, from designs by the late Mr. S. S. Teulon, architect. The register dates from the year 1741. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £195, gross yearly value £250, in the gift of John Robert King esq. and held since 1880 by the Rev. Alexander Levie, who resides at Ludborough. In 1863, six graves, cut out of the natural chalk, and enclosed by pieces of sandstone, were found in the churchyard, and are supposed to have been of Saxon origin. A priory of Gilbertine nuns, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, was founded here in the reign of Stephen, by William, Earl of Albemarle, and Gilbert, son of Robert de Ormsby: at the Dissolution it was valued at £80 11s. 10d. and was granted by Henry VIII. to Sir Robert Heneage: the site of the buildings, which appear to have been considerable, can still be traced. Erasmus Saunders esq. of Upway, who is lord of the manor, and John Robert King esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,707 acres; rateable value, £2,088; the population in 1881 was 180.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Marshall.

SOUTH ORMSBY-cum-KETSBY is a pleasant village and parish, delightfully situated on an acclivity of the Wolds, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred of Hill, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Hill No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles west from Alford station, 8 north-north-west from Spilsby. The church of St. Leonard is a building of Somersby sandstone, exhibiting in its massive round piers some connection with the Norman style, and consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, small chapel or chantry (now used as a burial place for the Massingberd family) and a massive embattled tower with four pinnacles, and containing 5 bells: it was newly roofed and thoroughly restored in 1871, at a cost of over £1,000: near the chancel is a slab with effigies and inscription in brass to Sir William Skipworth knt. 1485, and Agnes, his wife: in the chantry are several monuments to the Massingberd family: the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. F. C. Massingberd M.A. late rector and was placed by his friends and parishioners in 1873. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, and has annexed to it those of Driby and Ketsby and the vicarage of Calceby, tithe rent-charge £888, joint net yearly value £800, including 85 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Charles Francis Massingberd-Mundy, and held since 1873 by the Rev. William Oswald Massingberd B.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford, and rural dean of Hill No. 1. On the brow of a steep hill near here are the remains of an ancient Roman encampment, in and about which several roman coins, chiefly of the Emperor Constantine, have been found. Ormsby Hall, the seat of Charles Francis Massingberd-Mundy esq. D.L., J.P. is a spacious mansion, pleasantly situated in the centre of a well-wooded park, of 120 acres, containing several extensive avenues, one of which, called the "Lime Tree Walk," forms a natural arched walk of great beauty; there is also a small lake. Charles Francis Massingberd-Mundy esq. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chalky loam; subsoil, chalk and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, seeds and turnips. The area is 2,377 acres; rateable value, £3,224; the population in 1881 was 294.

KETSBY, 1½ miles north-west, is now a hamlet to South Ormsby. Here was formerly a church dedicated to St. Margaret, but no vestige of it remains. A water mill is mentioned in Domesday Book as existing here, and there is still a water mill. Captain Dallas Yorke D.L., J.P of Walmsgate Hall, Louth, is sole proprietor of the land.

OSBOURNBY is a parish and village, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Aveland, Sleaford union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north from Falkingham, 2 south-west from the Aswarby station, 6 south from Sleaford, and on the old Lincoln road. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient building of the Earlier English, Late Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 3 bells: the finest feature in this church is that presented by the richly canopied sedilia, the ogee arches of which are deeply moulded and crocketed in a free and bold style; the chancel retains also a piscina and locker, and there are remains of a rood screen of Perpendicular date, and a Late Norman font with an arcading of interlaced semicircular arches: the tower is finished abruptly and has no parapet; its lower stages are Early English: the church was restored and reseated in 1873, at a cost of £1,460 partly raised by subscription: in 1873 the roof of the chancel and nave was raised to the original pitch, and a new east window inserted, and a new clock was added in 1876. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £210 with residence, in the gift of Hulme's trustees, and held since 1876 by the Rev. John Charles Bagshaw M.A. Hulmeian exhibitioner of Brasenose College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. A cemetery of about an acre was formed in 1882, at a cost of £200, and is under the control of a burial board of 7 members. Osbournby Hall, the property of Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. D.L. of Aswarby, lord of the manor and principal landowner, is now in the occupation of Robert Watson esq. The soil is clay, sand and gravel; subsoil, the same. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,260 acres; rateable value, £2,541; the population in 1881 was 496.

OWSTON and OWSTON FERRY.

OWSTON is a pleasant village and parish, in the Isle of Axholme, extending along the west bank of the river Trent, from Heckdyke Lane End, in the county of Nottingham, to the parish of Althorpe; it adjoins the parishes of Haxey on the west and Epworth on the north, and comprises the township of OWSTON, and the hamlets of OWSTON FERRY, GUNTHORPE, HECKDYKE and MELLWOOD, in the Northern division of the county, west division of the wapentake of Manley, Gainsborough union and county court district, parts of Lindsey, rural deanery of Axholme, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, Owston is 4 miles west from Haxey station, 9 north from Gainsborough and 15 north-east from Bawtry. The church of St. Martin is a building of stone, the oldest portion of which dates from the end of the twelfth century: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 6 bells: the stained east window was given by Mr. Francis Sandars in 1836, and several others are stained: in the chancel are inscribed slabs with shields of arms, to Henry Masterman esq. 1674; to D'Arcy Stanhope esq. of Melwood hall, 1705; to the family of Pindar, of Brumby Wood hall, 1628-1813; the family of Littlewood, of High Melwood, 1797-1837; and that of Peast, 1795-1824: in the chancel is also a large fractured slab with a deeply incised inscription in Old English characters to Richard Beebanke, vicar, 1458: this church was anciently the burial place of the Sheffield family, and there were here in 1530 five tombs, which John Earl of Mulgrave, in the reign of Charles II. is said to have removed to the church of Burton-on-Stather, where there is a mutilated effigy of one of the Sheffields, with a tablet recording the removal: in 1790 the nave roof was renewed, and shortly afterwards those of the aisles, the clerestory being, in the course of these alterations, destroyed; at this time also the ancient oak benches were replaced by pews; the chancel retains a piscina and there are others in the north and south aisles; in 1823 a vestry was erected on the north side of the chancel, and in 1835 an organ was presented by Elizabeth Stonehouse, and placed in a loft built at the cost of Dr. Harcourt, archbishop of York, and Earl Beauchamp: the approach to the church is through a beautiful arch, and an avenue of elms, sycamores and chesnuts planted about 1823. The earliest register, including West Butterwick, consists of some loose leaves only, from the date 1603, but the registers are continuous from 1709: there are also churchwardens' accounts from 1660 to 1684. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £30, gross yearly value £300, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Chester, and held since 1863 by the Rev. George Edward Smith M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, and surrogate. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are impropriators of the great tithes. A new detached church burial ground of ½ an acre was acquired in 1883, but used only for burials solemnized in accordance with the rites of the Established church. A cemetery of 1½ acres was formed in 1881, with a mortuary chapel, at a cost of £700; and is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. Here are almhouses, built and endowed by Miss Sandars, in the year 1860, for six poor women, who receive 5s. per week each. The poor's land produces £42 yearly for fuel, and there are charities of £5 for yearly distribution. Archdeacon Stonehouse, late vicar of the parish, left in 1862 the interest of £5,800, and Miss Sandars in 1868, the interest of £5,300 for various charitable purposes. The Gas Company was incorporated in 1864, with a capital of £2,000. A. Parkin esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are John William Denne Johnson esq. J.P. of Temple Belwood, Rotherham, S. Pulleine esq. J.P. and Messrs. Hutton and Skipworth and John Barnard esq. The soil is loam; subsoil, peat. The chief crops are wheat, barley, potatoes, beans and grass. The area of the entire parish is 5,350 acres; rateable value, £8,566; the population in 1881 was—of the township 1,322, and of the parish 2,058.

Owston Ferry (West) is a hamlet, in the parish of Owston, pleasantly situated on the west bank of the river Trent, which is crossed by ferry boats to East Ferry; this part has been principally reclaimed from the river. There are Primitive Methodist and Wesleyan chapels. Here is a rope-walk, a boat-building yard, several corn mills; and the manufacture of sacking and sailcloth is carried on.

Parish Clerk, William Robinson.

GUNTHORPE, 2 miles south, on the west bank of the Trent, HECKDYKE, 2½ miles south, and Mellwood, 3 miles north, are hamlets.

EAST FERRY, or EAST KINNARD'S FERRY, is a small village, partly in Scotton parish and partly in Owston and partly in Laughton parish, pleasantly situated on the east bank of the river Trent: it is 5 miles west from Scotton, and is on the opposite side of the river Trent to West Ferry. The river is crossed by ferry boats. The small chapel of St. Mary is a building of brick: it was rebuilt about 1800 by the rector of Scotton, and is attached to and served by the clergy of Scotton. The register of East Ferry is included in that of Scotton. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. The trustees of the late Sir Richard Frederick bart. are lords of the manor, the Hon. Mrs. Meynell-Ingram and Thomas Harsley Carnochan esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are potatoes and wheat. The area is included with Scotton; rateable value, £1,153; and the population in 1881 was 143: this includes 33 in the hamlet of Susworth, 2 miles north, part of which is in East Ferry township.

PINCHBECK is a parish and village, with a station upon the Great Northern and Great Eastern joint railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, Spalding union and county court district, rural deanery of South Holland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north from Spalding and 95 from London, situated on the river Glen. The church of St. Mary is a spacious edifice of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, a large Decorated chapel on the north side, south porch and a fine embattled tower with pinnacles at each corner, and containing 5 bells and a clock: there are some fine stained windows in the chancel, and at the west end there is a brass to Margaret Lambert, besides monuments to the Cust family, Wimberley family (1656) and a tomb without inscription to the de Pinchbecks, formerly possessors of the village: the original roof of carved oak supported by angels carrying escutcheons still remains, and the font is a very fine example of Decorated work: the tower greatly inclines towards the west: part of the rood screen still exists: at the entrance to the churchyard is a good lych-gate: the church was restored in 1856 and following years up to 1864 under the direction of Mr. Butterfield. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from glebe £700 with residence, in the gift of and held since 1834 by the Rev. West Wayet M.A. of Queen's College, Oxord, canon and prebendary (non-residentiary) of Lincoln cathedral. The poor parishioners have distributed to them yearly donations, left by Robert Baggott in 1708: Bevill Wimberley in 1725; also by Roger Warner, Samuel Purdy, Mrs. Mary Wayet and others, amounting together to £54 yearly. Pinchbeck parish forms a portion of the Fen drainage; and the land is generally in a high state of cultivation, and yields abundant crops. The manorial rights are possessed by Mr. Charles Foster Bonner and Mr. Theophilus Morris Stephen Johnston. The chief landowners are the Ven. Lord Saye and Sele of Broughton Castle, Banbury, Earl Brownlow D.L., J.P. Messrs. A. Beatson and T. Plowright, sen. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and the trustees of the late T. Buckworth and J. Measures esqrs. The soil is a good rich loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, mangolds, beans, peas and market garden produce, and much land is in pasture. The area of the parish is 13,401 acres; rateable value, £26,413; the population in 1881 was 2,995.

Railway Station, William Perry, station master

West Pinchbeck is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1851 from the civil parish of Pinchbeck: North Drove station, 4½ miles west from Spalding, on the Great Northern railway, is in this parish. The church of St. Bartholomew, erected in 1849, is an edifice in a modern style of Gothic, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a turret containing 2 bells; the east window is stained. The register dates from the year 1850. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £211, in the gift of the vicar of Pinchbeck, and held since 1876 by the Rev. William Hooson M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. The population in 1881 was 1,627. The school-room at Pode Hole, called St. Matthew's chapel, is used for divine services on Sundays. There are six chapels in this parish viz. at West Pinchbeck, United Free Methodist chapel, erected in 1863; and Wesleyan in 1881; Baptist Chapel at Pode Hole, erected in 1850; Congregational at Money Bridge, founded in 1787, enlarged in 1817 and rebuilt in 1840; and at Pinchbeck a Baptist chapel, erected in 1844; and a Wesleyan chapel built in 1847.

There are several hamlets in this parish: MILL GREEN, 2 miles south-west; Money Bridge, 2 miles west; Guthram Cote, 4 miles south-west; Crossgate, half a mile north; Cuckoo Bridge, 5 miles south; Pode Hole, 4 miles south-west and half north from North Drove station, where there is a National school.

GREAT PONTON (or PAUNTON) is a parish, and station on the Great Northern railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Grantham soke, union and county court district, rural deanery of South Grantham and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 102 miles from London and 4 south from Grantham, situate on the river Witham, and is supposed to be the Ad Pontem of the Romans. Ponton is on the Great North road, about a mile from Ermine Street. The church of the Holy Cross, which occupies an elevated position near the Great Northern railway, is a building of stone in the best and purest form of Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel with north aisle, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a tower at the west end containing 5 bells: the oldest feature is part of a finely proportioned and lofty arcade of Early fourteenth century work, on the north side of the chancel; the easternmost arch is closed with masonry, to form a vestry; the other encloses the organ; the rest of the fabric is Perpendicular: a newel staircase to the rood loft remains on the south side of the chancel arch and the chancel contains a hagioscope, a shelved aumbry and a piscina: the great feature of the church is the massive tower 78 feet high, and though erected so late as 1519, it is a splendid example of Perpendicular work and is in excellent condition; it has double buttresses, relieved by richly decorated canopied niches; over the base mouldings is a band of quatrefoil work with shields bearing a ship, a woolsack, surmounted by a christian symbol and other devices; and over the belfry windows is a similar band, the whole is finished with an elaborately panelled parapet and eight crocketed pinnacles: on the west face of the tower are the Royal arms and supporters surmounted by a crown, and on the north and south faces the legend "Thynke, and Thanke God of all." The builder was one Anthony Ellys, merchant of the staple at Calais, who purchased lands here and built himself a house near the church; the remains of his tomb, on which his armorial bearings are carved, still exist in the north-east corner of the chapel adjoining the chancel; his arms appear also on the spandrels of the tower doorway, supported by angels. The register dates from the year 1622. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Andrew Wood M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, and Diocesan Inspector of Schools. There are Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and Calvinist chapels. Both here and at Little Ponton many Roman coins and urns have been found. The Earl of Dysart, who is lord of the manor, and Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. of Stoke Rochford, and Edmund Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. are the chief landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and roots. The area is 2,930 acres; rateable value, £6,466; the population in 1881 was 477.

LITTLE PONTON is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Winnibriggs wapentake, Grantham union and county court district, rural deanery of South Grantham, Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 3 miles south from Grantham and 1 mile north from Great Ponton station, on the banks of the Witham. The church of St. Guthlac is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and has 1 bell: originally a Norman church, the only remains of that style now existing are comprised in a very fine chancel arch and two fragments of carving inserted on each side of the west window of the nave: to the Early English style belongs the southern elevation, including the inner doorway of the porch, a double lancet, above a single lancet in the chancel wall, and a Transitional arcade of three bays in the north aisle: there was once a transeptal chapel, the arch of which is still visible in the south wall, and within it is now a window: the porch is comparatively modern, and the north aisle, which had previously disappeared, was renewed on its old foundations about 1850, and a vestry added: the western front was rebuilt in 1657, and a curious arched aperture ingeniously constructed above the west window for the bell: there are several specimens of good Decorated window tracery, and in the chancel is an aumbry and a piscina; there is also a slab inscribed to Wm. Thorold, lord of this manor, who died in 1725; some good carved oak work, originally belonging to Ripon Cathedral, and a modern stained east window. The register dates from the year 1729. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £427, with residence, in the gift of Christopher Turnor esq. and held since 1829 by the Rev. Pennyman Warton Worsley M.A. of St. Alban Hall, Oxford. The Hall is a stone mansion, situated on the eastern acclivity of the valley, amid delightful pleasure-grounds, and is now the residence of Major William Longstaffe. Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. of Stoke Rochford, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is creach; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The area is 1,490 acres; rateable value, £6,050; the population in 1881 was 229.

POTTER HANWORTH is a village and parish, with station on the Great Northern and Great Eastern joint railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Langoe wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Longoboby and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles south-east-by-east from Lincoln. The church of St. Andrew, rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, in 1857, from designs by Mr. Hussey, chiefly at the expense of the late rector, the Rev. Arthur Henry Anson, is a building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle and a tower with four pinnacles, containing 3 bells: the east window is filled with stained glass given by the late dean of Chester, father of the Rev. A. H. Anson: there is a tomb to the late rector, who died Nov. 29th, 1859: the previous church dated only from 1749. The register dates from the year 1683. The living is a rectory, tithe rentcharge £2, gross yearly value £780, from 698 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1859 by the Rev. William Spranger White M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. By the new scheme of the Charity Commissioners for Christ's Hospital school in Lincoln, four exhibitions of £25 yearly will be open to scholars of Potter Hanworth Elementary school and tenable at the Lincoln Middle school: the amount of each exhibition is to be applied first to the payment of tuition fees, then for his maintenance and benefit: also under the same scheme, the sum of £50 yearly is to be paid to the Potter Hanworth Christ's Hospital Endowment Fund, and under the Potter Hanworth scheme is to be applied by the governors as follows: £10 in maintaining scholarships each of not less than £1 yearly, tenable at the parish elementary school, and to be awarded in equal shares to boys and girls who are and have been for at least three years in such schools; £40 in maintaining two exhibitions of £20 each, tenable for four years at any place of education higher than elementary approved by the governors, to be awarded to girls who are and have been for at least three years in the Potter Hanworth elementary school; the school does not, however, receive the full benefit of this scheme until the pensions now payable to the late masters of the Blue Coat school cease to be paid. The poor have yearly distributed to them the interest of £59, amounting to 20s. yearly, and left in 1826 and at other times by Richard Newbee, T. Lyon and W. Tyrwhitt. The manorial rights belong to Christ's Hospital, Lincoln. The principal landowners are Lieut.-Col. Mildmay Willson Willson J.P. of Rauceby Hall, Mr. H. N. Headland and Mr. William Briggs. The soil is gravel, fen land and heath; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,150 acres; rateable value, £4,327; the population in 1881 was 435.

Booths is a hamlet in this parish, two miles north-east. Parish Clerk, George Atkinson.

QUADRING is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Kirton, Spalding union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles north-west from Surfleet station, 102 from London, 8 north-west from Spalding and 2 south-east from Donington, situated on the road from Spalding to Donington. The church of St. Margaret is a fine edifice, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, porch and a beautifully proportioned tower and spire containing 4 bells: there are tablets to the memory of Brestovius and Edward Brown esqrs. dated 1680 and 1739 respectively: in the north aisle is a tablet with the figure of an ecclesiastic, his head upon a pillow and holding a chalice, and inscribed to Richard Perckine, a former vicar, 1462: the church possesses a small but exceedingly fine organ: in 1861-2 the church was partially restored, the chancel being rebuilt, a new porch erected and the interior of the chancel refitted; the work was carried out under the superintendence of Mr. Charles Kirk, architect. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1583; marriages, 1681. The living is a discharged vicarage, formerly united to that of Wigtoft, but now separated, net yearly value £250, including 80 acres of glebe with residence, built by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Forster Ashwin B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. There are Baptist, Primitive Methodist and Wesleyan chapels. Thomas Cowley esq. in 1718, left an endowment of 44 acres of land to this parish, and this was supplemented at a later period by a gift of 26 acres, by Edward Brown esq.; a small portion only of the joint devises is devoted to the education of children, the major portion being distributed in gifts to the poor of the parish. Crawford's charity consists of about 40 acres of land, the whole of which is expended in clothing and educating poor children in Quadring parish. Henry Smith esq. of Horbling is lord of the manor of Wykes, and Cowley's trustees of that of Monks Hall. Edward Nathaniel Conant esq. of 14 Grosvenor gardens, London, is the principal landowner. The soil is clay and silt; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, peas and potatoes; the grazing land is extremely good. The area is 4,210 acres; rateable value, £8,040; the population in 1881 was 900.

Eaudyke is a hamlet, one mile and a half east.

Post Office.—John Robinson, receiver. Letters through Spalding, arrive at 6.15 a.m.; dispatched at 7.10 p.m. The nearest money order & telegraph offices are at Donington & Gosberton ment are of encaustic tiling, and the altar steps of Devonshire marble: a low screen of carved oak, with a pulpit of the same material abutting on it on the south side, separates the nave from the choir: at the east end of the north aisle there remain a bracket and a very small piscina: land for the enlargement of the churchyard was given in 1879 by the Marquess of Bristol: the western window on the south side has been filled with stained glass, representing subjects illustrative of baptism: the font is placed near this window: the window was erected as an offering of thanksgiving by the late Mrs. Newbatt, of Sleaford. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, with Old Sleaford annexed, gross yearly value £300 with residence, in the gift of the Marquess of Bristol, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Frederick William Shannon B.A. of Durham University. Dame Margaret Thorold, in the year 1718, left £5 yearly for distribution in the parishes of Carnwell, Rauceby and Silk Willoughby. The Marquess of Bristol is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The chief crops are ordinary grain and roots. The area is 1,620 acres; rateable value, £3,660; the population in 1881 was 364.

RAITHBY, near Louth, is a village and parish, in the Northern division of the country, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of Louth Eske hundred, petty sessional division of Louth Eske, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 3, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln. The village is situated in a delightful valley, 2 miles south-south-west from Louth, and about a quarter of a mile south from the Hallington station on the Louth and Lincoln railway. The church of St. Peter was rebuilt in 1839, at a cost of between £3,500 to £4,000, raised principally by subscription: almost the only portions that now remain of the old church is the arcade of the north side and the font, both of Early Decorated work: the existing church is a building of brick and cement, in the Florid Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, and a tower with eight crocketed pinnacles containing 3 bells: the windows are stained: the chancel was again restored in 1883, the windows raised two feet, all the old wood-work in the chancel removed, and substantial oak choir stalls placed, and a new oak pulpit erected on a stone base; this was done chiefly at the cost of the present rector: in the churchyard is a monument, erected by the parishioners, to the memory of the Rev. George A. Chaplin M.A. late rector. The register, including Hallington and Maltby, dates from the year 1654. Some of the old entries in the register date from about the year 1555. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Hallington annexed, tithe rent-charge £570, joint net yearly value £640, including £85 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. and held since 1869 by the Rev. William Henry Wyer Honey M.A. LL.M. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. The rectory house is pleasantly situated on a hill, a little above the church. Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. of Blankney, Sleaford, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is partly chalky and partly clay; subsoil, chalk. The crops are on the four-field system. The area is 1,930 acres; rateable value, £2,338; the population in 1881 was 169.

MALTBY (an ancient seat of Knight Templars) is a hamlet adjoining Raithby to the south.

RAITHBY (near Spilsby), is a small picturesque village, on the road to Horncastle, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Bolingbroke soke, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Bolingbroke, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north-west from Spilsby railway station. The church of the Holy Trinity is a building of stone, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, with some Transitional remains, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 3 bells: the church was partially restored in 1873, under the direction of Mr. G. G. Scott, architect, when the chancel and nave were wholly rebuilt, portions of the old piers, the aisle windows, and other features being retained: the tower is a work of the Perpendicular period, constructed of Salmonby green sandstone: there is a stained window in memory of Mary Jeannette Rawnsley, 1873. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value about £150, including 40 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1884 by the Rev. George Ward M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge F.S.A. who is also rector of and resides at Mavis Enderby. There is a Wesleyan chapel. Raithby Hall, a handsome mansion, near the church, is the residence of the Rev. Edward Rawnsley M.A. (Oxon.), J.P. who is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Rev. Edward Rawnsley M.A., J.P. Edward Preston Rawnsley esq. J.P. George Walker esq. J.P. of Offord House, Spilsby, and Captain Claude Edward Buckle R.N. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and sand. The crops are of the usual kind. The area is 853A. 2R. 32P.; rateable value, £1,319; the population in 1881 was 155.

By a Local Government Board provisional order, dated December 12th, 1880, and confirmed by the Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. a detached part of this parish, with a population of 37, was transferred to the new parish of West Fen.

RANBY is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles north-west-by-west from Horncastle 2½ south from Donington station, and 6½ east from Wragby, situated on the river Bain. The church of St. German is an edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry and a lofty embattled western tower, surmounted by four finely carved pinnacles and containing 3 bells: the church in 1860 was restored at the cost of Miss Otter, by Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, when the chancel was rebuilt and a vestry added: the plain Norman chancel arch, which could not be retained in its original position, was removed and re-erected in the eastern face of the tower, opening into the nave; the latter was also new roofed: the east window is stained. The register dates from the year 1550. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £96, in the gift of Francis Otter esq. and held since 1876 by the Rev. Alan Marmaduke Alington M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, who is also rector of and resides at Benniworth. Francis Otter esq. M.A., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner and resides at Ranby hall. The soil is sandy loam and clay; subsoil, mostly white clay.

RAND with FULNETBY.

RAND is a township and parish in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, west division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles east-north-east from Lincoln, and 3 south-east from the Snelland station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway. The church of St. Oswald is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, vestry and a tower containing 2 bells: the nave was rebuilt some few years previous to 1826, and in 1862 the chancel was rebuilt, and a vestry added, and a new pulpit was placed in the nave: the church retains its old font, and a fine recumbent female effigy of stone, of the fourteenth century, now placed beneath a recessed arch, in the north wall of the chancel: the restorations were carried out by Mr. R. J. Wethers, architect, of London. The register, including Fulnetby, dates from the year 1661. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £439, gross yearly value £440, in the gift of the trustees of the late R. Burdon esq. and held since 1854 by the Rev. Charles Albert Lloyd B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge. Mrs. Barker is lady of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the entire parish is 2,485 acres; Rand rateable value, £1,114; Fulnetby rateable value, £1,103; the population in 1881 was—in the township 66, and in the parish 139.

MIDDLE RASEN is a village, consisting of the parishes of Middle Rasen Drax and Middle Rasen Tupholme, in the Northern division of the county, south division of Walshcroft wapentake, parts of Lindsey, Caistor union, county court district of Market Rasen, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 1 mile west from Market Rasen, on the road to Gainsborough and on the river Rase. There were formerly two churches here, St. Peter's, built by the monks of Tupholme Abbey, and St. Pauls', belonging to Drax priory: this latter having become dilapidated. was pulled down in 1860, but the churchyard remains. The church of St. Peter is a stone building, in the Norman, Earlier English, and Early Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and a western tower with embattled parapet and pinnacles containing 3 bells: the church was thoroughly restored in 1860, when a new north aisle was erected, the tower strengthened, and the fabric generally repaired: in the aisle is a Decorated window, brought from St. Paul, Middle Rasen Drax, and in the chancel the effigy of a priest, vested and wearing a hood, and holding a chalice: this was also formerly in St. Paul's, and appears to be fourteenth century work: the total cost of the repairs, carried out under the direction of Messrs. Bellamy and Hardy, architects, was £1,500. The register dates from the year 1708. The two parishes of Middle Rasen Drax, and Middle Rasen Tupholme, which are ecclesiastically united, form a vicarage, of the joint net yearly value of £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, who has one turn, and Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. who has two turns, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Arthur William Tryon M.A. of Dowring College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and Reformed Wesleyan chapels. Frederic Sneath esq. who is lord of the manor, and P. Brown esq. and John Joseph Young esq. J.P. of Claxby, are the principal landowners. The soil is sand and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips, and much land in pasture. The area is 3,550 acres; rateable volue, £6,847; the population in 1881 was 928.

WEST RASEN is a village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Walshcroft, union of Caistor, county court district of Market Rasen, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles west from Market Rasen station, situated on the river Rase. The church of All Saints is a building of stone, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, partly rebuilt in 1829, under the direction of the late Mr. E. J. Wilson, architect, of Lincoln, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, south aisle, south porch and a western tower with pinnacles containing 3 bells: the church was originally Norman, and the arches of the arcade of the north aisle, which no longer exists, are still to be seen built into the north wall of the present nave: on the south side of the chancel is a carved bracket of late Perpendicular work, with three figures of a bishop, a monk and a layman: on the south side of the clerestory is a series of eight shields, once surrounding the sides of an altar tomb which stood in the Powger chantry: two of these bear the arms of Reresby and Fulnetby: in the churchyard is the base and part of the shaft of an ancient cross. The register dates from the year 1683. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £543, arising from 400 acres of glebe in the gift of and held since 1850 by the Rev. William Waldo Cooper M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, and rural dean of Walshcroft J.P. The ancient fourteenth century horsebridge over the river Rase is almost unique, there being but few of a similar character now remaining in this country. Lord Herries is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,120 acres; rateable value, £3,712; the population in 1881 was 251.

NORTH RAUCEBY is a parish and large village, situated on one of the highest parts in Lincolnshire, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Flaxwell wapentake, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Lafford No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles west from Sleaford, and 10 north-east from Grantham: the nearest station is South Rauceby, distance 1½ miles on the Grantham and Sleaford branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of St. Peter is an edifice of Ancaster stone, in the Decorated and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, porch, vestry and a tower with octagonal spire containing 4 bells: the tower and spire may be assigned to the late twelfth or Early thirteenth century: the south aisle is Decorated, the porch Early English: the chancel was rebuilt by Anthony Wilson esq. in 1853, from designs by Mr. S. S. Teulon, architect, and has a stained east window representing the leading subjects of our Lord's life: there are other stained windows to Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Peacock, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Welby: the north arcade and aisle date from about 1320-50, and at the east end of the latter there remains a canopied niche, and in the south aisle a piscina, carved bracket with canopy, and a hagioscope; and here also is the arch of a founder's tomb, enclosing a slab of freestone incised with an enriched cross, and the date 1385, which, however, is later than the arch above: adjoining is another and similar slab: during the restoration of the north aisle a large mural painting was disclosed, 20 feet long and 5½ wide, with a figure conjectured to be St. Anthony, and another of a grotesque monster: the rood loft stairs remain perfect, together with the upper doorway: the font is Perpendicular, and most of the bench ends are original: there are brasses, an effigy, and inscription to William Styrlay, vicar and canon of Shelford, ob. 1536: in the churchyard is the tomb of an ecclesiastic, apparently of the fourteenth century, on the top of which is carved his effigy, clothed in eucharistic vestments, and holding a chalice in his hands. The register dates from the year 1688. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £225 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1854 by the Rev. Charles Thoroton M.A. of Durham University. North and South Rauceby are united for ecclesiastical purposes. There is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1881. The charities are Carre's of £5 yearly, left in 1593 by Robert Carre, of Sleaford, and Dame Margaret Thorold's, of £10 yearly, left in 1718. Near the vicarage garden, where the road to Ancaster branches from the one leading to South Rauceby, stands the base of a village cross; this has been supplied with a graceful shaft and finial, and is a pleasing ornament to the village. The Marquess of Bristol is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and shale. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, turnips and mangolds. The area is 3,461 acres; rateable value, £3,773; the population in 1881 was 270.

EAST RAVENDALE is a small village, township and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake and petty sessional division of Bradley Haverstoe, Caistor union, Great Grimsby county court district, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles east-south-east from Caistor, 8 south from Great Grimsby and 5 west from North Thoresby station on the East Lincolnshire railway. The church of St. Martin, erected in 1857, at a cost of £1,400, chiefly given by the munificence of the late Rev. J. P. Parkinson D.C.L. of Ravendale Hall, on the site of the former small and mean edifice, is a building of warm tinted stone, with freestone dressings, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, and consists of chancel, nave, vestry, porch and a turret containing 1 bell: there are sittings for about 100 persons. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1723; marriages, 1755. These registers include West Ravendale. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £58, gross yearly value about £127, including 43½ acres of glebe with residence, erected in 1858, at the cost of Dr. Parkinson, in the gift of R. J. H. Parkinson esq. and held since 1841 by the Rev. Thomas Massey B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who is also rector of and resides at Hatcliffe. Robert John Hinman Parkinson esq. M.A., B.C.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, occupies the manor house and land attached, and Mr. Thomas Coates farms the rest of the parish. The soil is of good depth; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the entire parish is 1,430 acres; East Ravendale, 810 acres; rateable value, £2,357; the population in 1881 was 165; East Ravendale township, 108; and West Ravendale, 57.

WEST RAVENDALE is a chapelry and township in East Ravendale parish, containing but two farm-houses and a few cottages, pleasantly situated on the Wolds, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Bradley Haverstoe wapentake and petty sessional division, Great Grimsby county court district, Caistor union, Grimsby No. 1 rural deanery, Stow archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, about 8½ miles east-south-east from Caistor, and 8 south-by-west from Great Grimsby: the nearest railway station is at Waltham, 5 miles distant. The site of the ancient church can still be traced: the inhabitants attend those of Hatcliffe and East Ravendale. The register is included in that of East Ravendale. The living is a perpetual curacy, annexed to Hatcliffe, yearly value £44, including 27 acres of glebe at West Ravendale, in the gift of the Bishop of Manchester, and held since 1840 by the Rev. Thomas Massey B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who resides at Hatcliffe, and is also vicar of East Ravendale. An alien priory was established here by the Abbot and Convent of Beauport in Brittany, for Præmonstratensian canons, as a cell to the abbey of La Luzerne: the existing remains consist only of the little chapel of the priory, which stands on a high grassy knoll, and has an area of about 12 by 33 feet, and is rudely built of chalk and green sandstone, but its architectural features have almost wholly disappeared. Robert John Hinman Parkinson esq. M.A., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light and chalky; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is returned with East Ravendale parish; the population in 1881 was 57.

REEPHAM is a village, parish and station on the Lincoln and Hull railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Lawress wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 1, Stow archdeaconry and Lincoln diocese, 4½ miles east-north-east from Lincoln. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a large tower containing 1 bell: the church was restored in 1862, under the direction of Mr. Michael Drury, architect, when the tower and north aisle were rebuilt, a new porch erected, and the nave roof retimbered, at a cost of £900, of which the Mercers' Company gave £300. The registers date from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £361, gross yearly value £400, including 17½ acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Mercers' Company, London, and held since 1873 by the Rev. William Clement Upton M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, who also receives the rectorial tithes by the payment of a small rental. There is a Wesleyan chapel. The poor of the parish have about 14s. annually, derived from a bequest of the late T. Greetham esq. of Stainfield: there is also £100 invested in £3 per cent. consols, left in 1880 under the will of Ann, wife of William Horner Crosby; the yearly dividend £3 5s. is divided amongst the necessitous poor on the 15th December in each year. The fox-hounds of the Burton Hunt have their kennels here; Charles Peyton Shrubb esq. master; Thomas Morgan is huntsman. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,766 acres; rateable value, £3,313; the population in 1881 was 356.

NORTH RESTON is a small parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Louth Eske, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 3, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles south-east from Louth and about one mile and a half east from Legbourne station, situated near the road from Louth to Alford. The church of St. Edith is a small edifice of sandstone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret, containing 1 bell: the church was thoroughly restored and enlarged in 1867, from designs by R. J. Withers esq. of Doughty street, London, at a cost of about £650, wholly defrayed by Howard Jackson esq.: the chancel, which is entirely new, contains a handsome east window, stone reredos and sedilia: there remains a plain rounded chancel arch of early date: on the external face of the walls of the nave may be distinctly traced two narrow round-headed windows of the same style: the walls are of great thickness: the church plate includes a silver chalice with the date 1559. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, tithes commuted at £174 yearly, gross yearly value £214 with residence and 21 acres of glebe, in the gift of Howard Jackson esq. and held since 1882 by the Rev. John Hampden Jackson B.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The Hall is the seat of Howard Jackson esq. who is lord of the manor and owner of the land: the SOUTH RESTON is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, situated on the road from Louth to Alford, 2 miles north from Authorpe station, 6 south-east from Louth and 6½ north-west-by-north from Alford. The church of St. Edith, rebuilt in 1864, is in the Geometrical Decorated style, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, consisting of apsidal chancel, with vestry on the north side, nave, south porch and a bell-cote on the western gable, containing 1 bell: the building is of rough Ancaster stone outside and red brick internally, and has sittings for 150 persons: the greater part of the cost of the late church was borne by the Rev. G. Jackson, a former rector, who also renewed the glebe farm-house and buildings and the parish school: on the appointment in 1870 of the Rev. R. Appleton, the first resident rector for two centuries, the present rectory was built, and two acres of glebe appropriated as a garden for the same, at a cost of nearly £2,000, £800 of the amount being borrowed on mortgage on the living. There are sittings for 120 persons. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1766; marriages, 1757. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £6, gross yearly value £197, including 118 acres of land, with residence, in the gift of the Duchy of Lancaster, and held since 1883 by the Rev. John Harvey Knapp M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan Chapel, built in 1878. This parish was enclosed under an Act of Parliament in 1772, at which time the glebe was given in lieu of the greater portion of the tithe, which was then extinguished: under this Act grants of land were made for repair of the church in trust to the churchwarden for the time being, in compensation for certain other pieces and rights; the rent of this is now £4 yearly; also a small portion for repair of roads, which now goes to the highway rate, and the poor allotment of 3 acres produces £3 4s. yearly, which is now given yearly on St. Thomas' day to the aged and deserving poor by the trustees, the rector, churchwarden and overseer: from the date of the award to 1830 this was placed in aid of the poor's rate, but by order of the Charity Commissioners it has since been regularly given to the deserving poor. This parish is in the manor of Bilsby. William Hay esq. Rev. Basil Arthur Galland M.A. rector of South Thoresby, and Mrs. Holloway, are the chief landowners; there are several small owners. The soil is clayey; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are beans, wheat, barley, oats and roots. The parish contains 770 acres; rateable value, £1,160; the population in 1881 was 238.

REVESBY is a parish and small village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, western division of the soke of Bolingbroke, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district; 12 miles north from Boston, 7½ north-east from Tattershall station and 7 south-east from Horncastle. The Catchwater drain passes on the south of the old enclosure. Part of this parish is included in Wildmoor ecclesiastical parish. The church of St. Lawrence is a substantial building of oolitestone, in the Early English style, consisting of nave and an embattled tower with four pinnacles, containing 1 bell: it was rebuilt by the first Joseph Banks, who appears to have bought the estate and manor about the end of the seventeeth century from the Hon. Craven Howard. The register dates from the year 1595. The living is a donative, in the gift of J. B. Stanhope esq. and held since 1867 by the Rev. Thomas Barker M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, rural dean of Bolingbroke and rector of Wilksby with Claxby: it has an endowment of £2, left by Theophilus Hart about the beginning of the eighteenth century, as a rent-charge on a field in Moorhouses. Almshouses for ten decayed agriculturists were founded by Joseph Banks esq. of Revesby, in 1727, and endowed by him with £50 yearly. There are other small donations for the benefit of the poor, amounting altogether to £4, which is derived from lands in Moorhouses. The cottages, schools and almshouses stand in a semicircle on the south side of a large, well-kept green, having the church and parsonage opposite: the cottages were erected and the almshouses rebuilt by the present proprietor. This place has navigation to Boston by the Medlam drain. In the close vicinity are two mounds, of very early date, supposed to be barrows. The Cistercian abbey of SS. Mary and Lawrence was founded here in 1142-3 by William de Romara, Revesby Abbey is a handsome building, in the Elizabethan style (after designs by Burns), and was erected in 1849 by the present owner, James Banks Stanhope esq. J.P.; it stands in a deer park of 330 acres, which has been extensively replanted by the present proprietor. James B. Stanhope esq. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, Sir Henry James Hawley bart. of Noove Lea, Brighton, and the Rev. Osman Parke Vincent M.A. rector of St. Mildred, Bread street, London, are the principal landowners. The parish is partly upland and partly fen; the soil of the former is heavy loam, on a white clay; and of the latter, mostly peat, on a blue clay subsoil. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, turnips and mangolds. The area is 4,577 acres; rateable value, £5,299; the population in 1881 was 565.

By a Local Government Board Order, dated December 24th, 1880, detached parts of this parish, without houses or inhabitants, were transferred to Leake, in Boston union, and a detached part containing 48 inhabitants was transferred to Carrington.

MOORHOUSES is a hamlet, 3½ miles south of the village: here is a small chapel of ease, built in 1875 by J. B. Stanhope esq.; it is a building of brick, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and a bell turret containing 1 bell: there are 90 sittings, all free. Letters for Moorhouses go through New Bolingbroke. The children of this place attend the national school at Tumby Woodside. Medlam was the dairy farm of the old abbey.

RIBY is a parish and small village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, eastern division of the Yarborough wapentake, petty sessional division of Great Grimsby, union and county court district of Caistor, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles west-by-south from Grimsby, 2½ south from Stallingborough station and 7 north-east from Caistor. The church of St. Edmund, rebuilt with the exception of the Perpendicular tower in 1868, retains portions of the Norman and Decorated styles, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, aisles, porch and a tower with four pinnacles containing 3 bells: the church retains a fine example of a Norman door-way; the roof of the chancel and lantern is of groined stone, and the open benches are of oak: there is a fine stained east window, erected by the late John Torr esq. M.P. in memory of his brother: it was restored under the direction of Mr. Ferrey, architect, of London, at a cost of £5,000, defrayed by G. Tomline D.L., J.P. and M.P. for Grimsby, 1868-74, as a memorial to his grandfather, Dr. George (Pretyman) Tomline, Bishop of Lincoln, 1787-1820: the church plate, which originally belonged to the parish church of Little Waldingfield, Suffolk, was bought by Col. Tomline in 1869, and given to the church. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £130, gross yearly value £190, including 1 rood of glebe, in the gift of Col. G. Tomline D.L., J.P. and held since 1847 by the Rev. John Williams Deane M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, who resides at Stoneferry; the Rev. J. M. Holt M.A. vicar of Keelby, is the curate in charge. Almshouses were erected in 1848, at the sole cost of Col. G. Tomline D.L., J.P.; they hold four inmates, being poor men, each of whom receives £9, which is paid half-yearly. Riby Hall, the seat of Col. George Tomline D.L., J.P. is a fine mansion, surrounded by plantations, and was long the seat of the ancient family of Tomline, the last of whom, in 1803, bequeathed his estates to the late Dr. Pretyman, who was Bishop of Lincoln from 1787 to 1820, and assumed the name of Tomline. An encounter, called "the Battle of Riby Grip," took place here, June 18, 1645, between the Royalists, under Col. Foster, and a Parliamentary force, under Col. Harrison, in which the latter were routed, and their leader slain; nine soldiers, who also fell, were buried in the churchyard, and Col. Harrison at Stallingborough. Col. George Tomline D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. A Wesleyan chapel was erected here in 1884, at a cost of £400, on a site given by Col. Tomline; it has sittings for 120 persons. The soil is generally light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are barley, wheat and turnips. The area is 2,749 acres; rateable value, £4,701 2s.; the population in 1881 was 273.

RIGSBY, with the Hamlet of BAILBY, is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of the hundred of Calceworth, petty sessional division of Alford, county court district and union of Spilsby, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 1½ miles west from Alford station, on the East Lincolnshire branch of the Great Northern railway, and 132½ from London. The church of St. James, rebuilt under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, and re-opened in 1863, is a small edifice of Ancaster stone, lined within with white brick in the Norman style, and consists of nave, with eastern apse, transeptal vestry on the north and an open belfry on the western gable, containing 1 bell: the inner portions of the doorway of the west front, and the arch between the nave and vestry, are remnants of the ancient Norman church; the stained wheel window in the west front was given by Lady Mary Nisbet-Hamilton; and one in the apse is a memorial to the late Mrs. Higgins; the fittings are new, and a rich table cover and cushions have been presented by Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton, and a Bible and prayer book by the architect; to the general fund every labourer in the village contributed a week's wages. The register dates from the year 1686. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the vicarage of Alford, joint gross yearly valne £430, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Thomas Luffman M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, who resides at Alford. Sir R. Christopher's charity of £2 yearly is for bread, which is given away on St. Thomas' day. Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, same. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the parish is 1,040 acres; rateable value, £1,349; the population in 1881 was 112.

RIPPINGALE is a parish and large pleasant village, having a station on the Bourn and Essendine branch of the Great Northern railway, which is 1 mile east from the church, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, hundred of Aveland, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles south from Falkingham, 5 north from Bourn and 102 from London, near the high road from Bourn to Sleaford. The church of St. Andrew is a large stone building in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, south aisle and a western tower containing 5 bells: there is a stone pulpit and four stained windows and part of the rood loft still remains; the church is especially rich in sepulchral monuments, including first, two recumbent effigies of knights in armour, in chain mail of the thirteenth century, and cross-legged, one of whom is supposed to have founded the church in 1250, but it has also been suggested that these represent Guy and Gobard, two early lords of Rippingale: a large altar tomb of the late fourteenth century, with three mutilated effigies of a knight and his two wives said to represent Roger de Quincey, one of the dames being a Zouch, and the other of the Cressy family: this tomb had once a canopy, fragments of which exist in the rectory grounds: contiguous is a similar stone monument to John de Thorp, an ecclesiastic of the thirteenth century, with a full-length effigy and a Latin inscription: in front of the south wall of St. Anne's chapel is a canopied tomb with an effigy, of Lady Margaret, who married first Lord Roger de Colville, and afterwards John Gobard: at the head of the figure are two armed men, and one at the foot, but the smaller figures are mutilated: in the pavement of the chapel is a slab, now bereft of its brasses over the grave of Mawncere Marmyon 1505, and Edith (Barkley), his wife, 1535: over the entrance to the chancel is an ancient piece of wood carving: the church was restored previous to 1860, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kirk, architect. The register dates from the year 1633. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value about £820, including 557 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Lord Aveland, and held since 1853 by the Rev. William Cooper M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The living, previously in three portions, was consolidated in 1725. The Wesleyans have a chapel here, built in 1832, and the Primitive Methodists have one, built in 1869: both are very small. The interest of £150, amounting to £6 per annum, is distributed yearly at the school to the deserving poor. Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and rock. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley, and much land in pasturage. The area is 2,740 acres; rateable value, £5,473; the population in 1881 was 551. The parish has some fen allotments.

RISEHOLME is a small parish, 2½ miles north from Lincoln, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Lawress, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Lincoln, rural deanery of Lawress No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln. The ancient parish church of St. Mary, went to decay in the seventeenth century; the present structure was built by Dr. John Kaye, bishop of Lincoln (1827-53), at his own cost, after the designs of S. S. Teulon esq. architect: it is a beautiful building of stone in the Later Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave without aisles and an elegant bell turret at the western end and is decorated with stained glass, presented to the Bishop by the clergy of Lincolnshire and by the members of his own family: Bishop Kaye lies interred at the east end of the churchyard, where a monument has been placed by his family. The registers date from the year 1851, when the church was consecrated. The living is a rectory, composition in lieu of tithe £15, gross yearly value £100, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1846 by the Ven. William Frederick John Kaye M.A. archdeacon of Lincoln, canon residentiary of Lincoln, rural dean of Lawress No. 1, perpetual curate of South Carlton and chaplain to the Bishop of London; a parsonage house has been built by the rector, upon land given by the Bishop for that purpose. The late Francis Chaplin esq. resided here, and at his death the house and a portion of the estate were purchased by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners with the proceeds arising out of the sale of certain portions of the estates belonging to the see of Lincoln, in order to provide a residence for the Bishops of Lincoln, who up to that period had resided at Buckden, in Huntingdonshire, which, with the counties of Leicester, Bedford and Buckingham and part of Herts, formerly belonged to the diocese of Lincoln. The late Dr. Kaye was the first Bishop of Lincoln to reside at Riseholme palace. The house comprises part of the old hall, with new external walls and decorative features of the Doric order, after designs by W. Railton esq. architect, including a handsome colonnade on the south side: the grounds around it are prettily wooded and ornamented by a small lake: the palace contains interesting portraits of two former Bishops of Lincoln, one of Bishop Sanderson and one, on wood, of St. Hugh, dated 1550; also copies of portraits of several other Bishops of Lincoln, from the time of Bishop Fleming (1420-31): the eastern wall of the private chapel has been embellished by the present Bishop (Dr. Wordsworth) with paintings of the eight Beatitudes: above the seats of the Bishop and clergy are pictures from the Catacombs and other early Christian sources, representing Our Lord committing Holy Scripture to the church as the Good Shepherd, and as treading on the lion and the dragon: the oaken screens and fittings of the chapel were designed by James Fowler esq. of Louth. The Bishop of Lincoln, who is lord of the manor, and Sinclair Frankland Hood esq. J.P. of Nettleham, are the principal landowners. The soil is gravelly; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,370 acres; rateable value, £1,272; the population in 1881 was 68.

ROPSLEY is a large parish and village, with the hamle, of LITTLE HUMBY, in the Southern division of the countyt parts of Kesteven, Winnibriggs and Threo wapentake, Spittlegate petty sessional division, Grantham union and county court district, rural deanery of South Grantham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-east from Great Ponton station and 6 south-east from Grantham. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone, chiefly in the Norman and Early English styles, with some portions of later work, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a tower of Early English date, with broach spire and containing 2 bells: at the north-east angle of the nave is a fragment of Saxon long and short work: the north aisle arcade and a window in the south wall of the chancel are Norman: in the north aisle on the left of the east window is a small and curious niche, probably intended to contain a relic: one of the pillars of the south arcade has an inscription recording the date of its erection, 1380: the chancel arch is Early English, and on the south side of the chancel are two sedilia and an eastern sepulchre; here also is the effigy of a lady in the costume of the fourteenth century, her head resting on two small cushions beneath a canopy: traces of the staircase of the rood loft are seen in the north aisle, and in a window at the east end of the south aisle is an aumbry and a piscina, and west of these a sepulchral arch and another aumbry and piscina: the porch, erected in 1453, has a panelled parapet and pinnacles; over the porch is the legend "Hac non cede via, nisi dicas Ave Maria:" a stained window was placed in the east end of the south aisle in 1871, in memory of Mrs. Brooke, wife of the late curate in charge. The register, including Little Humby, dates from the year 1729. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £769, derived from 688 acres of glebe land, with residence, in the gift of the Duke of Rutland, and held since 1846 by the Rev. John Henry Coke B.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, who is non-resident; the Rev. Anthony Garstin is curate in charge. There is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel here, erected in 1837. The charities are of the value of £20 yearly, arising from 25 acres of land awarded to the poor, with the interest of £28, left by an unknown donor in 1795. Land producing £10 yearly was left for the maintenance of the fabric of the church. Ropsley was the birthplace of Richard Fox, of Magdalen Hall, Oxford, and Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, successively Bishop of Exeter (1487-93), Bath and Wells (1493-6), Durham (1494-1502) and Winchester (1502-28) and Lord Privy Seal: in 1516 he founded Corpus Christi college, Oxford, and was also the founder of the Free Grammar schools at Grantham and Taunton: he died at Winchester, 14th September, 1528. The Duke of Rutland K.G. is lord of the manor and principal landowner: all the land is tithe free. The trustees of the late William L. Ostler esq. the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, John Archer Houblon esq. of Hallingbury, Bishops Stortford, and others own portions of the land. The soil is various; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, oats and turnips. The area is 3,740 acres, of which Little Humby contains about 855 acres; rateable value, £5,199, including £957 for Little Humby; the population of the township of Ropsley in 1881 was 647.

LITTLE HUMBY is a township in this parish, about 1 mile south-east, and contained a population in 1881 of 104.

RUSKINGTON is a parish, with a station on the Great Northern and Great Eastern joint railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Flaxwell, Sleaford county court district, petty sessional division and union, rural deanery of Lafford No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3¾ miles north-north-by-east from Sleaford and 2 from the Sleaford canal. The Local Government Act of 1858 was adopted in this parish on the 21st day of March, 1864; the board consists of 9 members. The church of All Saints is a large building of the Norman and Early English periods, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a low tower, containing 3 bells: the tower is a debased structure, chiefly rebuilt in 1620, when its grand Norman arch, dating from about 1150, was removed to the south side of the church: the chancel arch and both arcades are Early English, the south arcade being however more richly ornamented and taking precedence as to date: the church was restored in 1861, at a cost of £850, when the building was new roofed and refitted, chiefly by the exertions of the Countess of Winchilsea and the Rev. R. Coward, then curate, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kirk, of Sleaford: in 1873 the chancel, which had been deprived of 6 feet of its length in 1710, was enlarged and a stained window inserted at the east end: it retains a sedile and aumbry: the font is of the Perpendicular period; on one of its panels the instruments of Our Lord's Crucifixion are carved, and on another appears the pillar of flagellation, flanked by a sword and some other emblems. The register dates from the year 1558. The living formerly consisted of two medieties, which have been consolidated under the present rector: it is now of the gross yearly value of £600 with house, in the gift of C. J. Myers esq. and held since 1871 by the Rev. Arthur Myers M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels. A cemetery of 1 acre was formed in 1882, at a cost of £400; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. Mr. Jesse Clare, of Sleaford, clerk to the burial board. A charity of £42 10s. yearly, left in 1719 by Anne (Thorold), Lady Hodgson, of Rowston, and widow of Sir Thomas Hodgson, is distributed in support of the schools at Ruskington and Rowston, and for maintenance, clothing and fuel for three poor widows. Reading room and library, built in 1877, by public subscription, on a site presented by the Hon. M. E. G. Finch-Hatton D.L., J.P.; James Adlard, secretary; Frank Cock, librarian. The principal landowners are the Hon. Murray E. G. Finch-Hatton M.P., D.L., J.P. of Haverholme Priory, who is lord of the manor, Messrs. S. and W. Pattinson, Charles Stephenson, Elston Law, the trustees of the late Charles Bradley, Charles S. Dickinson, the Rev. Arthur Myers M.A. and Rowland Williams. The soil is light and some clay; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 4,750 acres; rateable value, £5,896; the population in 1881 was 1,191.

The church of St. Margaret, rebuilt in 1869, is an edifice of white brick, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a tower with pinnacles and containing 2 bells: the east window is stained: in the chancel is the recumbent figure of a knight, with the date 1302. The register, including Thoresthorpe, dates from the year 1661. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300, including 249 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1878 by the Rev. Richd. Dudding, of St. Aidans. There is a Wesleyan chapel. In 1762 the Rev. Thomas Faulkner devised a house and upwards of 10 acres of land for the benefit of the vicar of this parish, with the exception of £6 to be paid yearly out of the rent for the education of the children of poor parishioners; the poor have also £2 yearly, left by an unknown donor, and 10s. charged on the impropriate rectory of the parish by Mr. George Justice in 1647. To the east is a barrow. The Master and Fellows of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, blue and red clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,770 acres; rateable value, £2,048; the population in 1881 was 223.

SALMONBY is a village and parish, in one of the Wold valleys, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Hill hundred, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, Hill rural deanery No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5½ miles north-east from Horncastle station and 8 south-west from Alford. The church of St. Margaret is a small and compact edifice of stone, in the Perpendicular style, completely restored and almost rebuilt in 1871, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry and a small tower at the north-east angle, with spire containing 1 bell: its windows are much admired for their rich tracery: in the chancel is a piscina: the stained east window is a memorial to the late Rev. H. Fielding, a former rector, 1872; and that at the west end to the late Rev. Matthewman Manduell, rector of Tetford, 1874. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £300, net yearly value £300 including 8 acres of glebe land, in the gift of Mrs. R. S. Booth, and held since 1877 by the Rev. John Booth B.A. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge. William of Wainfleet, a prelate and statesman, the son of Richard Patten or Barbour, of Wainfleet, provost of Eton, Bishop of Winchester and Lord Chancellor, was formerly rector of this parish: in 1458 he founded Magdalen College, Oxford, and died 11th August, 1486. Here is a chalybeate spring, the medicinal properties of which are similar to the waters of Tunbridge Wells. Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton, who is lady of the manor, Mrs. Ferrer, John Bolton esq. Francis Scamon Dymoke esq. of Scrivelsby, and Mr. George Harrison, are principal landowners. The soil is mostly sandy loam; subsoil, clay and sandstone rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 991 acres; rateable value, £1,228; the population in 1881 was 102.

SALTFLEETBY ALL SAINTS is a village and parish, situated near the North Sea, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred and petty sessional division of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludburgh No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9½ miles east-by-north from Louth and half-mile from Saltfleetby station on the Louth and East Coast branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of All Saints is a building of stone, chiefly of the Lancet period, with some portions of Transitional date, and insertions in other styles, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, extending nearly to the full length of both, south porch and a western embattled tower containing 5 bells, of particularly fine tone: the chancel was restored in 1873, at a cost of over £300: on the south side of the chancel is a curious double arcade of one arch, immediately behind which is a slight pillar and two narrower arches; the ancient screens across the nave and aisle, and between the chancel and chantry, still remain: at the east end of the latter is a reredos niche of Geometrical Early English; the font is in the same style: in the spandrils of the outer arch of the porch are shields of arms, and an inscription recording the erection of some part of the church by John Granthaim, a former patron: in the chantry chapel is an ancient slab, with an almost effaced inscription in Norman French: some fragments of stained glass remain. The register dates from the year 1558, and contains many records of the Newcomen family. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £311 with 22 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1867 by the Rev. William Horace Hutchins B.A. of Magdalen and Queen's Colleges, Oxford. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. In 1785 the Rev. Montague Cholmeley D.D. bequeathed £200 for the poor or any church purposes, at the discretion of the rector and churchwardens for the time being: it has since been considerably increased, and the interest, amounting to about £20 yearly, is now expended in gratuities and the support of the school. There are almshouses for four poor widows. Simon Thomas Scrope esq. of Cockerington, and the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, are lords of the manor. William Robert Emeris esq. M.A., F.S.A., J.P. of Louth, the Rev. H. Aubert, the trustees of William Grant esq. William Williams esq. and the trustees of F. Exley esq. are chief landowners, and many of the occupiers are owners. The land is chiefly rich grazing. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay. The area is 1,164 acres; rateable value, £2,156; the population in 1881 was 169.

SALTFLEETBY ST. CLEMENT (or EAST SALTFLEETBY) is a long scattered village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred and petty sessional division of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 10 miles east from Louth by road and 7 by rail, and 1 mile east from Saltfleetby station, situated on the shore of the German Ocean. The church of St. Clement is a small building of stone, very much mutilated, and repaired with brick, in the Early English style, and dating from about 1225: it consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a tower containing 3 bells: in 1841 the lead was taken off the roof, the timbers shortened and covered with slates, and the church was restored in 1877: it had originally both north and south aisles, but the latter has been destroyed: the remaining aisle is separated from the nave by a very beautiful arcade of five arches. The register dates from the year 1716: earlier entries relating to this parish are included in the register kept at Saltfleetby All Saints. The living is a discharged rectory, tithe rent-charge £260, gross yearly value £270, including 4 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Ernest R. C. Cust esq. of Arthingworth, Northants, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Henry Usher, of St. Bees. Simon Thomas Scrope esq. of Cockerington, is lord of the manor. The Rev. John Henry Overton M.A. rector of Epworth, and William Allison esq. are chief landowners; and many of the occupiers are also proprietors. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay: the principal part of the land is rich bullock feeding pasturage. The area is 1,030 acres of land and 1,175 of water; rateable value, £1,491; the population in 1881 was 133.

SALTFLEETBY ST. PETER'S (or WEST SALTFLEETBY) is a village and parish, with a station on the Louth and East Coast branch of the Great Northern railway, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred and petty sessional division of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludburgh No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles east-by-north from Louth. The church of St. Peter was rebuilt in the year 1877; the old edifice, a building of the Lancet period, except the tower, which contains 5 bells, remains and is sometimes used as a mortuary chapel: the new church, situated about half-a-mile west of the old site, is an exact reproduction of the previous church, with the exception of the tower and clerestory: it is built of stone, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles and a bell cot at the west end, containing 1 bell: the chancel seats are of carved oak and the church is fitted with open benches, seating 190 persons; the monumental memorials include early slabs inscribed to Maria, wife of William Pornard; and to Michael Gros, 1380; and a mural tablet with pilasters and weeping angels to John Williamson, gent. 1722, and Frances (Gonvill) his wife. The register dates from 1653, but there are two loose leaves of an earlier register, dated 1607. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £244, net yearly value £218, including 19 acres of glebe, without residence, in the gift of the Provost of Oriel College, Oxford, and held since 1856 by the Rev. William Richards Watson M.A. of that college. In 1839 a yearly rent-charge of £484 was allotted in lieu of tithes, which is equally divided between the incumbent and William Morton esq. the impropriator. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Near Saltfleetby house is a prospect tower, commanding most extensive views. Simon Thomas Scrope esq. of Cockerington, is lord of the manor; and the principal portion of the land belongs to Major Richard Francis Chaplin, of Louth, William Emeris esq. J.P., M.A., F.S.A. of Louth, and Owen Daly M.D., B.A. of Hull, in addition to a number of small freeholders. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,147 acres; rateable value, £3,742; and the population in 1881 was 327.

NORTH SCARLE is an extensive village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Lower division of the hundred of Boothby Graffoe, petty sessional division of Sleaford, union and county court district of Newark, rural deanery of Graffoe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 10 miles south-west-by-west from Lincoln, and 2 north from Swinderby station, near the Notts border. The church of All Saints is a small building of stone, portions of which are supposed to date from the reign of William Rufus: it consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, modern vestry and a western tower containing 3 bells: the interior is seated with very ancient oak benches with carved ends: the walls and roof of the building were restored in 1874: the south side of the church, and the lower part of the tower are Norman work; the doorway leading to the vestry has the dog-tooth ornament: some carved capitals were found during the laying of the new chancel floor in 1859, one of which is in the church. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £264: gross yearly value £300, including 32 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1859 by the Rev. Henry Inman, of St. Bees. There are Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels. The poor had property bequeathed to them in 1702, by Hugh Badger esq. viz. house, garden, and 15 acres of land, which produce £33 yearly for fuel; also the interest of £100, left by Joseph Banks in 1829, is yearly distributed in coals. R. Falkner esq. of Newark-on-Trent, is lord of the manor; the land is divided among many small owners. The soil is various; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,936 acres; rateable value, £2,631; the population in 1881 was 515.

Parish Clerk, Henry Astlin.

SCARTHO is a village and parish, within the Parliamentary borough of Great Grimsby, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred and petty sessional division of Bradley Haverstoe, Caistor union, county court district of Great Grimsby, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles south from Great Grimsby, on the road from Great Grimsby to Louth. The church of St. Giles is an ancient edifice of stone, partly (including the tower) of Saxon date, the nave being Early Decorated, and consists of chancel, nave and a tower containing 2 bells: the belfry stage has a double window in each face, the arches resting in the middle on a single stone extending through the thickness of the wall, supported by a shaft with a curiously ornamented impost, which seems to be wholly confined to Saxon work; the basement courses show signs of fire, indicating that a still older tower, once standing on these foundations has been burnt, and at the west end of the north wall there appears to be a fragment of the earlier church once forming an exterior angle, and consisting of huge blocks of brownish sandstone: the interior was repaired in 1859, at a cost of £400, when a stained window was inserted at the east end and the interior reseated. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £250 with residence, including 36 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Oxford, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Charles Fredk. Thomas M.A. late scholar of that college. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Upon a small eminence to the north-west of the village is situated the reservoir of the Grimsby Waterworks Company Limited, constructed in 1863. The Earl of Yarborough D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, Trinity College, Cambridge, J. Benn and W. H. Daubney esqrs. and Mr. W. S. Parker are the principal landowners. The soil is light clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, and turnips, with artificial grasses. The area is 922 acres; rateable value, £1,787; the population in 1881 was 224.

Parish Clerk, Robinson Conlbeck.

SCOTHERN (or SCOTHORNE) is a parish and well-built village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Lawress wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles north-west from Langworth station and 6 north-east from Lincoln. The church of St. German is a building of stone, partly in the Early Decorated style, comprising chancel, nave, north aisle, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing 3 bells and a clock, the gift of Mrs. Ellison, of Sudbrooke: the church was rebuilt in 1796, when the south aisle was thrown into the churchyard, and the nave and north aisle were covered with a single roof: when the church was reseated in 1876, some traces of the south aisle were found: two stained windows have been placed on the south side of the nave to the memory of Charles Battersby and John Milner Barry M.D.: an elaborately carved stone coffin lid, bearing a floriated cross, lies in the entrance: the church plate includes a chalice of the seventeenth century. The register dates from the year 1696. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £12, net yearly value £140, from 72 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Scarbrough, and held since 1852 by the Rev. Edward Milner Barry B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here are Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels. Grantham's charity of £16 yearly, left in 1616 by Robert Grantham, is for ten poor beadsmen of this parish, and of the parishes of Dunholme and Sudbrooke; there is also a charity of £40, being the interest on a sum invested in £3 per cent. consols, left for the poor of the parish in 1859 by Richard Ellison esq. of Sudbrooke Holme. Coningsby Charles Sibthorp esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. of Canwick, who is lord of the manor, Mr. Joseph Grimes and Miss Battersby, are the principal landowners. The soil is of a light kind; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,500 acres; rateable value, £3,726; the population in 1881 was 495.

SCOTT WILLOUGHBY, see WILLOUGHBY.

SCOTTER is a parish and large village, pleasantly situated on the small river Eau, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Corringham wapentake, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Gainsborough, rural deanery of Corringham, Stow archdeaconry and Lincoln diocese, 3½ miles north-by-west from Northorpe station, 10 north-east from Gainsborough and 4 north-west from Kirton-in-Lindsey station. The Trent is about 3 miles west-north-west, on which run the Hull and Gainsborough steamers. The church of St. Peter is a large and ancient building of stone, mostly of Late Perpendicular character, but with portions of Early English work and some remains of the Earlier Norman fabric: it consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a western embattled tower containing 4 bells, re-hung in 1880, and a clock: on the south wall of the nave is a monumental brass to Marmaduke Tyrwhitt esq. 1599, and Ellen (Reresby), his wife; and there are other memorials to Robert Pearse, rector, 1741, Tirrell Hewett, rector, 1721; William Carrington M.A. rector, 1697; Albert Smith, minister, 1770; and to the families of Laughton, 1679-93, Anderson, Aistroppe, Drewry, Herring, Tonge and Ashton: the font is Early English: the church was badly repaired in 1820, but there still remains a good Perpendicular chancel screen, with traces of the old painting: in 1854 the western gallery was removed and the tower arch opened: the stained west window is a memorial to the mother of William Harrison Osborne; there is an engraved copper memorial to Mrs. Sarah Ashton, 1739: in the church is an ancient helmet found close by. The register dates from 1563, and contains several entries of excommunications. The living is a rectory, gross value £1,000 with residence, in the gift of the Duke of Rutland K.G. and held since 1833 by the Rev. John Henry Pooley B.D., J.P. formerly fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge and prebendary of Lincoln. The income is derived from 744 acres of land, awarded in lieu of tithes under the Enclosure Act, in 1812. There are Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and Methodist New Connexion chapels. King Richard I. granted to this place a fair to be held on three days at the feast of SS. Peter and Paul; and a weekly market on Thursday. A fair for horses and cattle is held at Scotter on July 6th, and a pleasure fair on the 10th, being the anniversary of the foundation of St. Peter's church; and a horse and foal show early in July. There is a Public Reading Room and Library, under the management of a committee, the rector being the president, and Mr. J.M. Allen hon. sec.; the library contains about 140 volumes. Here is an Assembly room, built in 1875, and holding about 200 persons. Gravenor Roadley esq. J.P. is lord of the manor; the Court rolls of the manor dates from 1519. The principal landowners are the rector, William Carnley, Arthur Egginton, and the trustees of William Harrison Osborne esqrs. The soil is various, chiefly loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, carrots, turnips and pasture. The area is 4,976 acres; rateable value, £7,577; the population in 1881 was 1,070.

SCOTTERTHORPE is a hamlet, one mile north.

SUSWORTH and COTEHOUSES are other hamlets on the river Trent, 3 miles west-north-west from the village. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. Letters for Susworth and Cotehouses should be directed through Owston Ferry.

Parish Clerk, John Green.

SCOTTON is a parish, township and village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Corringham, Gainsborough petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles north-east from Gainsborough, 3 north-west from Kirton station and 162 from London. The parish is bounded on the west by the river Trent, and the river Eau flows through it. The church of St. Genewys is a spacious edifice of stone, in the Norman, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles and a tower containing a clock and 3 bells, one of which is inscribed to St. John: the church was originally a fine fabric, and was beautified by several of the Nevill family, who were lords of the manor till 1384-5: it suffered much at the time of the Reformation, and again in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, A.D. 1566, when five of its altar stones were broken up and used as paving-stones: in 1820, by the direction of Archdeacon Bayley, the portions of the aisles which overlapped the tower were pulled down, a fine rood-screen destroyed, and forty-one shields of arms of the Nevills, which, with other glass, had up to that time adorned the windows, were carried off and inserted in the windows of Massingham church, of which Dr. Bayley was then rector; the materials of the destroyed rood-loft are said to have been used to make a bridge; one doorway and the tower arch are Norman, and there is a beautiful Early English doorway in the north aisle, the principal part of the tower is Early Decorated, the upper stage being Perpendicular: the Caen stone and marble font, designed by the late J. E. Street esq. R.A. was presented by the Rev. E. F. St. Leger M.A. rector: the communion plate was given by the Rev. Wm. Morley, rector, 1721-31: in the north aisle, beneath an arch, is a sepulchral slab, with a legend in Norman French, to John de Thevelby; another slab bears the shield of Nevill, and a defaced inscription to one of their family, lord of Scotton in 1382; a third slab displays the bust of a priest within a quartrefoil, and one other, only fragmentary, has some Lombardic letters: in the south aisle there is an hagioscope, and the chancel retains an aumbry, piscina and credence: the chancel was restored in 1866: in the south aisle is the recumbent effigy of a knight in mail armour with crossed legs, and probably of the reign of Edward II. and also a female effigy; a slab with floriated cross bears a mutilated inscription to Richard Sallenby, 1400; there are one or two shields on the roof of the chancel: there are sittings for 300 persons. The register, including East Ferry, dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £665, net yearly value £650, with residence and 110 acres of glebe, in the gift of Earl Beauchamp, of Madresfield Court, Malvern, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Heaton Edward von Sturmer M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here are Primitive and Wesleyan Methodist chapels. This place was successively a seat of the Nevills, the Busseys, and a branch of the baronial house of Sheffield of Butterwick. T. H. Carnochan esq. of Crowle, who is lord of the manor, and Miss Beckett, of Somerby Hall, Messrs. Robert Howell, Moses Fish, Samuel Parkinson and Richard Eminson, are the chief landowners. The soil is loam and sand; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, turnips and pasture. The area of the parish is 4,920 acres; rateable value, £3,313; the population in 1881 was 385; the population of the township of Scotton was 260.

EAST KINNARD'S FERRY, a township in this parish, will be found under Owston.

SCRAFIELD is a small parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Hill hundred, county court district, union and petty sessional division of Horncastle, rural deanery of Hill No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles east-by-south from Horncastle. The church of St. Michael went to decay many years ago; no traces now remain: the churchyard is still used as a burial-ground. The registers are included in those of Hameringham. The living is a rectory, consolidated with that of Hameringham, joint gross yearly value £510, including 240 acres of glebe, in the gift of William B. and Francis J. Coltman esqrs. and held since 1866 by the Rev. Henry Shorrock B.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. William B. Coltman esq. and Francis Joseph Coltman esq. are the lords of the manor and principal landowners. Scrafield House, the residence of David Roberts esq. is pleasantly situated in a well-wooded district; it was rebuilt in 1840. The soil is principally heavy loam; subsoil, white clay. The crops are chiefly barley, wheat, oats, seeds and turnips. The area is 670 acres; rateable value, £759; the population in 1881 was 53.

SCRIVELSBY is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, southern division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, Horncastle rural deanery, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 2½ miles south from Horncastle. The church of St. Benedict is a flue stone building, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with aisle of two bays, nave of three bays, north aisle, a small tower, with spire, erected by the late Hon. Sir Henry Dymoke bart. in 1860, and containing 1 bell: the nave and earlier chancel arcades and the chancel arch are Early English; the windows of the nave Modern Decorated work: the chancel retains a piscina. the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. John Dymoke, who died in 1828, and Amelia Alice Elphinstone, his wife, who died in 1856, and was erected by their eldest son: the monuments chiefly commemorate the Marmion and Dymoke families, possessors of the manor of Scrivelsby and hereditary champion of England: there is a brass to Sir Robert Dymoke kt. and bart. ob. 15 Ap. 1575, with effigy and inscription: this is placed on the upper slab of an altar tomb beneath the chancel arcade: of earlier date is a recumbent effigy in stone of a knight in armour, with crossed legs, and conjectured to represent Philip, last Lord Marmion, of Scrivelsby and Tamworth, 1292: contemporary with this is the recumbent effigy of a lady, with a dog at her feet: a plate of copper in the church is inscribed to Sir Charles Dymoke kt. champion at the coronation of James II. his wife, Lady Dymoke and other members of his family: in the chancel is a slab inscribed to the Hon. Charles Dymoke, 1702, erected by his widow, Jane Dymoke, in 1726, and also mural monuments of white marble to the Hon. Lewis Dymoke, champion at the coronations of Geo. I. and Geo. II. and the Hon. John Dymoke, champion at the coronation of Geo. III.: the church was restored in 1876. The register of Scrivelsby dates from the year 1566 and that of Dalderby from 1690. The living is a rectory, united to that of Dalderby, tithe rent-charge £700, gross yearly value £820 including 52 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Hon. the Queen's Champion, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Samuel Lodge M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, hon. Canon of Lincoln and rural dean of Horncastle. Scrivelsby Court, the property of the Hon. Francis Scamon Dymoke, the Queen's Champion, who is lord of the manor and sole landowner, is an irregularly-built Gothic mansion, standing in a park of 360 acres, well wooded and stocked with deer: this manor anciently belonged to the Marmions, but came into the family of Dymoke in the reign of Richard II.; it is held by the performance of the office of Champion of England, or King's Champion, the owner being required to appear at the coronation of each monarch, armed and upon horseback, and to cause a challenge to be proclaimed to all opposers of the sovereign's right to the succession, receiving as his fee the King's drinking cup: this ceremony, has, however, been dispensed with at the last two coronations: the Champion is usually styled "Honourable." The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, white clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 1,916 acres; rateable value, £2,388; the population in 1881 was 124.

By a Local Government Board Order, dated December 24th, 1880, the Fen allotment, containing 14 inhabitants, was transferred to Langriville parish.

SEARBY-cum-OWMBY.

SEARBY is a secluded village and a parish, comprising the hamlet of Owmby, about half a mile distant, situated in a valley a short distance from the turnpike road from Caistor to Brigg, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, south division of Yarborough wapentake, Caistor union and county court district, Yarborough rural deanery No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles north-north-west from Caistor, 5 south-east from Brigg and one mile and a half north-east from the Howsham station on the Hull, Market Rasen and Lincoln railway. The church of St. Nicholas, built in 1833, is a structure of white brick, in a Modern Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave and an embattled tower, containing 5 bells and clock: in 1860 the church was rescated and a chancel screen erected: two of the bells, the clock, altar rails and screens were the gift of the Rev. T. J. M. Townsend B.A. the present vicar: in the alley of the nave there is a stone coffin lid with Latin inscription to a former vicar, who died in 1441: in the churchyard, close to the entrance, is the capital of a pillar of the original church, with a delicate moulding of the dog-tooth ornament: the base of the churchyard cross, with the square hole in which the shafts stood, and the circular steps leading to the churchyard gate, also remain: and an ancient coped stone, with a raised foliated cross of very elegant design, probably of the fourteenth century, now covers the grave of the wife of a former parish clerk, and is inscribed: "Isabella Barkwith, died April 6th, 1712." The register, including Owmby, dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, including 60 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1845 by the Rev. Thomas Jackson Milnes Townsend B.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. There is a Wesleyan chapel. Mrs. Dixon, who is lady of the manor, and John Bennard esq. Joseph J. Burkinshaw esq. Mrs. Hett and John West esq. of Melton Ross, are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk, clay and sand; subsoil, similar. The chief crops are wheat and turnips. The area is 1860 acres; rateable value, £3,487; the population in 1881 was 217.

SEDGEBROOK is a parish and station on the Grantham and Nottingham railway, in the Southern division of the county, Winnibriggs and Threo wapentake, parts of Kesteven, Newark union, Spittlegate petty sessional division, Grantham county court district, rural deanery of North Grantham, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles west-north-west from Grantham. The village is pleasantly situated near the confluence of two rivulets, on the Bingham and Nottingham road. The church of St. Lawrence is an ancient building in the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, with chantry chapel, nave of three bays, aisles, porches and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the earliest portion of the fabric comprises the arcade of the north aisle, the rest of the building being Perpendicular: in the angles of the chancel are large canopied niches, and in the south wall a canopied sedile, piscina and credence within a single niche; in the north wall is a smaller niche: the pulpit, of carved oak, has the date 1634, and the prayer desk is constructed from portions of the old screen; the font is coeval with the north arcade and has an octagonal basin: the chapel on the south side of the chancel was built by Sir John Markham, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1462-9, and opens into the chancel by two arches, the easternmost of which is now enclosed by the remains of the rood screen: there was formerly an altar tomb to the judge on the south side of the chapel, but of this only the upper slab, now in the pavement of the building and deprived of its brasses, is left: in the east wall is a small incised slab, with effigy and inscription to Alice (Skipwith), wife of Sir John Markham, 1494, and Dorothy, his daughter: the judge is said to have built a chamber over his tomb, where he spent his last years in prayer and meditation; in the angles of the chapel are canopied niches similar to those of the chancel, a piscina with credence, and at the west end a stoup, with a shield below it. The register, including also entries for East Allington, dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of East Allington annexed, tithe rent-charge £456, joint gross yearly value £600, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1864 by the Rev. Wm. Drake M.A. late fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, hon. canon of Worcester, and one of Her Majesty's chaplains in ordinary: the rector is also dean of Sedgebrook, and as dean paid 15s. a year to the Crown until 1873, when the payment was commuted. A field called the "Abbey Field," to the east of the church, but now included in the parish of Barrowby, seems to indicate the former existence here of a monastic house. This parish is entitled to a share of a charity left by Sir Wm. and Lady Ann Thorold, of Marston, in 1670. The Thorold trustees give a yearly sum of £15 to be distributed among the poor at Sedgbrook at the discretion of the rector, the churchwardens and the overseers of the poor. Sir John Henry Thorold bart. D.L., J.P. of Syston, near Grantham, is lord of the manor and owner of the land, except the glebe of 57 acres. The manor anciently belonged to the Markhams, and there are numerous references to this family in the old registers; the old manor house, situate near the church, is now occupied by Mr. George Kemp, farmer. The soil is clay and loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The parish comprises 1,635 acres of fertile land; rateable value, £3,635; the population in 1881 was 221 in the civil parish and 434 in the ecclesiastical parish, including East Allington.

SEMPRINGHAM-cum-POINTON and BIRTHORPE

Is a large parish, inhabited principally in that part known as POINTON and BIRTHORPE, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. It is 2 miles south from Billingborough station, 3 south-east from Falkingham, 8 north from Bourn and 106 from London. The church of St. Andrew, the nave of which formed part of the ancient priory church, is a building in the Norman and Perpendicular styles, consisting of a modern apsidal chancel, nave of four bays, aisles and a plain but massive central tower of Perpendicular date, with eight rich pinnacles and containing 3 bells: the nave and north aisles are Norman: there is a plain doorway of this period on the north side and a very fine Norman doorway on the south side, with ancient doors of fir, splendidly ornamented with iron scroll work: the font is octagonal: there were formerly north and south transepts, which, together with the chancel, were taken down and the materials sold: the church is situated on an eminence, overlooking the Fen district, about half a mile from any residence now existing, but was formerly surrounded by the village, which gave name to the parish: it was restored in 1868-9, at a cost of about £1,500; Her Majesty, as impropriator and owner of half the parish, through the Commissioners of Woods and Forests, contributing most liberally: the north wall was wholly rebuilt from the foundation and extended, three out of four of the lower arches opened, the roof renewed and the church reseated, the new seats being careful reproductions of the old work: a stained window, the gift of Mrs. Saunders, was inserted on the north side of the tower and on the south side is another, presented by the Rev. J. C. K. Saunders M.A. rector of Friesthorpe and vicar here 1861-9; there are memorials to their two daughters; another stained window was given by Mr. W. H. Constable, of Cambridge, who executed the two preceding windows: the chancel, rebuilt by the Crown, is in the Early English style: the church was reopened July 13, 1869, by the Bishop of the diocese. The register, including Birthorpe and Pointon, dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Pointon annexed, tithe rent-charge £7, net yearly value £180, including 34 acres of glebe and some in hand, with residence, in the gift of Earl Fortescue, and held since 1877 by the Rev. Thomas Charles Lichfield Layton M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. The Rev. J. C. K. Saunders, during his ten years residence in this parish, was instrumental in building a good vicarage house, and the school at Pointon, and in procuring the restoration of the abbey church. In monastic annals, this parish is celebrated as being the birthplace of Sir Gilbert de Sempringham, founder of the religious order called "Gilbertines": he was the eldest son of a Norman knight, and chaplain to Alexander, Bishop of Lincoln, who made him a priest; Gilbert de Gaunt, lord of Falkingham, in 1139 gave the land for this religious house, for the foundation of which Sir Gilbert had personally obtained the sanction of Pope Eugenius III.; the order, intended to include persons of both sexes, who lived in separate houses within the monastic precincts, was soon joined by great numbers, the rules being those of St. Augustine for the monks, and of St. Benedict for the nuns, but they were not allowed to see each other except at the celebration of Holy Communion: the founder lived 106 years, and before his death, 13 houses of Gilbertines had been founded, containing 700 men and 1,300 women and at the time of the dissolution, the number had increased to 25, the total yearly income of which, in modern value, amounted to £100,000: Sir Gilbert, who had devoted a great portion of his fortune to the Abbey, was canonized in 1202; and on the surrender of the priory it was given by Henry VIII. to Edward, Lord Clinton, who built a fine mansion out of the materials thus obtained; but on the death of the second Lord Lincoln in 1616, it was pulled down, and only a few irregular mounds of earth mark the site: the moated area of the priory can still be traced near the parish church: the Gilbertine order was the only one of English origin. Captain Handley, who is lord of the manor, the Crown and Captain Smith, of Horbling, are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crop is corn, but most of the land is devoted to grazing. The parish contains 3,480A. 1R. 4P.; rateable value, £3,190; the population in 1881 was 580 in the parish and 85 in the township.

SEMPRINGHAM FEN is about 3 miles to the east of the Abbey church. Sempringham House, now a farm, is about 1 mile east.

Birthorpe is a small township, which maintains its own poor, 2 miles east-by-north from Falkingham and 1 mile west from Billingborough station. The Manor House, now occupied as a farm-house, is a good stone building, forming three sides of a square. The area is about 500 acres; rateable value, £809; the population in 1881 was 57.

SIBSEY is an extensive village, parish and station on the East Lincolnshire railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, western division of the soke of Bolingbroke, Boston union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-north-east from Boston and 112 from London, situated on the road from Boston to Spilsby. The church of St. Margaret is a spacious structure, of the Norman, Early English and later periods, and is reputed to have been originally built A.D. 1087: it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch, vestry and a lofty embattled tower containing a very fine peal of 8 bells: the nave, including its arcades, is Norman and the north aisle has a doorway of this period; the chancel retains piscina and sedilia, and there is another piscina in the south aisle: the clerestory, lighted by five windows on either side, as well as a bell-cot on the western gable, is Perpendicular, the tower is four stages in extreme height, of which the lower are Early English, the upper is a debased addition: the font, consisting of an octagonal basin on a clustered stem, is also Early English: it was completely restored in 1854-5-6, by church-rate and subscription, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kirk, of Sleaford, architect, when the roofs, floor, seats and pulpit were renewed: there are five stained windows in the chancel, and one in the tower: the large five-light east window was put in by the tenants and friends of and to the memory of the late Thomas Gape esq. the lay impropriator, who entirely rebuilt the chancel in 1855: the cost of the whole work was about £2,500: the organ was built by Nicholson, of Lincoln. The register is complete from the year 1565. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value of £295, including 170 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1871 by the Rev. Frank Besant M.A., B.A., F.R.A.S. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. NORTHLANDS is a collection of houses, 2 miles north from the village of Sibsey. The Wesleyans have a chapel in the village, erected in 1874, and the Primitive Methodists have one at Northlands. Various small charities in money, land and houses have been amalgamated, and are now represented by about 10 acres of land, on which several small houses stand. Dr. Pacey also in 1859 left an annuity of £20 for the benefit of the poor of Sibsey. John Samuel Wanley Sawbridge Erle-Drax esq. M.P. of Ellerton Abbey, Richmond, Yorkshire, who is lord of the manor, and John Malcolm esq. are the principal landowners, with several smaller owners. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, heavy clay. The chief crops are wheat and other corn, with excellent pasturage. The area is 6,079 acres; rateable value, £8,606; the population in 1881 was, of the civil parish, 1,204, and of the ecclesiastical, 1,127, which comprises parts of the civil parishes of Sibsey and Frithville, including the hamlet of Frithbank, which is a detached but ancient portion of the parish.

By a Local Government Board order, dated December 24th, 1880, a detached part of this parish, with 10 inhabitants, was transferred to Frithville, and at the same time a detached part of Frithville, with 49 inhabitants, Skirbeck Fen allotment, with 38, were transferred to Sibsey.

Parish Clerk, Joseph Mawer.

POST OFFICE.—John Tuxford, postmaster. Letters arrive from Boston at 5.30 a.m.; dispatched at 7.30 p.m. The nearest money order office is at Boston & telegraph office at Sibsey railway station

INSURANCE AGENT.—Northern Assurance, W. Tomlinson, Northlands school

SCHOOLS:—

Free, rebuilt in 1869, & endowed with 48A. 16R. of land, enclosed from the waste, & now let for £110 a year; there are 110 free scholars; the school is managed by trustees, of whom the Rev. F. Besant M.A. is chairman; Arthur Bale, master; Mrs. Jane Bale, mistress

Endowed, Northlands, founded about 1846 by Mr. Plant, of Worcester, for the free instruction of poor children & endowed with about 25 acres of land, producing £40 a year; there are now (1884) 60 scholars; William Tomlinson, master; Miss Tomlinson, mistress

Endowed, Frithbank, founded in 1726 by Dame Margaret Monson & endowed with £12 a year; in 1863 a new school room & master's residence were built at the sole cost of John Malcolm esq. of Pollalloch, Lochgilphead, N.B. owner of the Frithbank estate, who also provides the master: the school will hold 80 children; average attendance, 65; George Marshall, master

SIX HILLS is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Caistor union, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles east-by-south from Market Rasen, and 10½ west from Louth, situated on the road from Market Rasen to Wragby. The church of All Saints is a stone edifice in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower with pinnacles, containing 4 bells: the church, with the exception of the tower and south doorway, was entirely rebuilt in 1869, at an expense of about £2,000, the principal part of which has been borne by Edward Heneage esq. M.P. of Hainton Hall, the patron: there was once a north aisle of three bays, traces of which may be seen in the north wall; in the south wall there are two Decorated windows: at the time of the restoration of this church it was intended to retain and restore the tower, but owing to the incautious manner in which the work was carried on, the tower gave way, and was eventually, with much trouble, removed: the restoration may be generally described as of a mean and inferior character, with the exception of the tower, which was rebuilt in 1875, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1672, marriages, 1682. The living is a vicarage, with that of Hainton annexed, tithe rent-charge (Hainton) £223, (Six Hills) £75; joint gross yearly value £298, including 33 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Edward Heneage esq. M.P. and held since 1883 by the Rev. Arthur Trosse Fortescue, of St. Alban Hall, Oxford. A Gilbertine priory, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, was endowed here in the reign of Stephen, by Albert de Greslei: in this monastery King Edward I. confined Mary, wife of Christopher Seton and sister of Robert Bruce, in 1306: at the dissolution in 1534, its gross revenue was valued at £170 8s. 9d. its site and possessions were granted to Sir Thomas Heneage and Catherine, his wife. Edward Heneage esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Hainton Hall, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is strong clay and sand; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,960 acres; rateable value £2,446; the population in 1881 was 175.

Parish Clerk, William Barnaby.

SKEGNESS is a flourishing village, bathing-place and coastguard station, and the terminus of the Firsby and Skegness branch of the Great Northern railway, pleasantly situated on the sea-coast, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Candleshoe wapentake, Spilsby union and county court district, rural deanery of Candleshoe No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 12 miles east from Spilsby, 4 east from Burgh, and 5 north-east from Wainfleet, 131 from London, 75 from Nottingham, and 93 from Leicester. It has of late years become a popular place of resort for the inhabitants of the Midland counties, and is also largely visited by invalids; the sands are firm and broad, and the bathing safe. The town is lighted with gas. As many as 250,000 persons visited Skegness during the year 1883. The Pier, erected at a cost of £21,000 by a Limited Company, was opened in May, 1881; it is constructed of iron, the length is 1,843 feet, with a saloon to seat 500 people. The Water Works at Winthorpe are the property of the Earl of Scarbrough and were opened in 1879; the well is 321 feet deep, and yields a plentiful supply of water. The church of St. Clement is an ancient building in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing 1 bell; it was partially restored and reseated in 1884 and a stained window inserted, in memory of Bishop Steere, of Central Africa, formerly curate: the font, apparently of earlier date than the church, is octagonal, with blank shields around the basin: there are monuments to the Chapman family, 1708-55. The church of St. Matthew, erected in 1880, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, of Louth, and at present consists only of nave, south aisle, porch and the lower stage of the tower, but the church when completed will have an apsidal chancel, with organ chamber and vestry, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north and south porches and a tower of three stages, the material used being Ancaster stone, and the total estimated cost £7,870: the first stone was laid November 5th, 1879, by the Countess of Scarbrough, assisted by Viscount Lumley, and the first portion of the church opened by the Bishop of Lincoln, September 21st, 1880. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £160, net yearly value £220, including 16 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Earl of Scarbrough, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Francis Baldwin B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. There are five hotels, fitted with warm, cold and shower baths; and numerous lodging houses. The Skegness Turkish Hot and Cold Swimming Baths Co. Limited erected public baths in 1883, at a cost of about £4,000, consisting of ladies' swimming bath, with seven private baths, and gentlemen's swimming baths, with seven private baths; the Turkish baths consist of three heating, shampooing, cooling and lounge rooms. The "mirage," or "sod bank," may be seen on the sea here in calm weather: the phosphorescence of the sea is very beautiful, and may be frequently observed in the summer: the shore is composed of fine sand. The National Lifeboat Institution have a station here, with a boat, originally procured by a local society, but the present lifeboat was presented by Mrs. Ingram, of the "Illustrated News," in memory of her husband, the late Herbert Ingram esq. formerly M.P. for Boston. The County Police Station, Roman Bank, was built in 1883, at a cost of £1,200, and comprises quarters for an inspector and three cells and a court-room for occasional use. The Earl of Scarbrough is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is rich loam and silt; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, potatoes, peas, oats and mustard. The area is 1,644 acres of land and 830 of water; rateable value, £9,967; the population in 1871 was 349, and in 1881, 1,338.

Parish Clerk, John Dunn.

SKELLINGTHORPE is an extensive and scattered village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, lower division of Boothby Graffoe, wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district, Graffoe rural deanery, and Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 3½ miles south-east from Saxilby station on the Great Northern and Great Eastern joint railway, 6 miles west from Lincoln, extending to the borders of Notts. The church of St. Lawrence is a small building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, south porch and a tower with low spire containing 5 bells, ; the east window is a memorial to R. Carline esq. and his wife; in the churchyard is a handsome monument to H. Stone esq.: the church was rebuilt in 1855. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £268 with house, in the gift of the trustees of Spital Hospital, and held since 1881 by the Rev. James Cutliffe Blenkarne, M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. The Hospital owns 300 acres of rectorial glebe, and a corn rent in lieu of tithes, producing together £830 a year. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. Hartsholme Hall, the seat of Alfred Shuttleworth esq. D.L., J.P. is a mansion of red brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style, erected by the late Joseph Shuttleworth in 1862; it is pleasantly situated in extensive grounds, containing a lake 25 acres in extent, and is 3 miles south-west from Lincoln, on the high road from Lincoln to Skellingthorpe. Skellingthorpe Hall, the residence of Richard Coupland Bergne-Coupland esq. D.L., J.P. is a modern mansion, half a mile south of the church. The manor, with a large estate, including the farms called the Decoy, Lounds and Stones Place, was bequeathed, in 1693, by Henry Stone esq. to Christ's Hospital, London. The principal landowners are Christ's Hospital, Richard Bergne-Coupland and Alfred Shuttleworth esqrs. The soil is light sandy; subsoil, gravel and fen land. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 6,220 acres; rateable value, £9,509; the population in 1881 was 722.

SWALLOW BECK, a hamlet on the Witham, 2 miles south of Lincoln and 2 miles north-east from Hykeham station, is in this parish, and belongs to Thomas Beverley Richardson esq.

SKENDLEBY is a pleasant village and parish, delightfully situated in a picturesque valley, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of Candleshoe wapentake, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Candleshoe No. 1, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles north-east from Spilsby and 2½ south-west from Willoughby station. There was a church here at the time of the Domesday survey. The church of St. Peter, appropriated to the abbey of Bardney by Gilbert de Gaunt before 1094, and situated in a valley, is an ancient building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a tower containing 3 bells: the chancel retains a piscina: the font is octangular and consists of a moulded basin supported on a panelled pedestal, surrounded with buttresses, and resting on a graduated base: in the chancel are the arms of the Raffords, and near the porch is an altar tomb to the family of Fowler: there is a stained window in the chancel, to the memory of the Rev. John Cheales M.A. a former vicar, also one to Dr. Sale, formerly vicar of Sheffield, father of the Rev. Thomas Walker Sale M.A. late incumbent: there are monuments to the Brackenbury, Pilkington and Thory families: the church was restored in 1875, under the superintendence of Mr. Gilbert Scott, at a cost of £3,000 raised by public subscriptions. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1723; marriages, 1745. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £150, including 24 acres of glebe land, with residence, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1883 by the Rev. John Alexander Stamper M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1849. In 1644 Thomas Woodruffe left for the poor of this parish 7A.3R.7P. of land, called "The Moors," which are occupied by about thirty poor families: the poor have also the interest of £100, bequeathed in 1780 by Isabella Pilkington, which is distributed in stuff gowns to poor widows; also the rent of lands at Ulceby, amounting to about £5 yearly, which is distributed by the vicar and his churchwardens. Skendleby Hall, the seat of Mrs. Gainsford, which has been restored and enlarged, is a handsome mansion in the Elizabethan style, pleasantly situated, and commanding a beautiful view of the surrounding country. The Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, who is lady of the manor, William Dunn Gainsford esq. of 3 Old square, Lincoln's inn W.C. George Walker esq. J.P. of Offord house, Spilsby, John Wilby Preston M.A., J.P. of Dalby, and William Hoff esq. of Grebby, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, limestone. The crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area is 1,710 acres; rateable value, £2,066; the population in 1881 was 270.

SKIDBROOK (or SKIDBROOKE), WITH SALTFLEET HAVEN.

SKIDBROOK is a scattered village and parish, on the seacoast, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Louth Eske wapentake, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 10 miles east-north-east from Louth and 2½ miles from Saltfleetby station on the Louth and East Coast railway. The church of St. Botolph is a very fine building of the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, cased over with Perpendicular work, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a western embattled tower containing 3 bells: the tower, which is very large and of Early English date, had originally eight pinnacles, none of which now remain: the chancel had once lateral chapels, of which there are still traces: the pulpit, an example of very late Gothic, dates from the reign of Charles I.: there is an incised slab in the chancel floor to the memory of a former vicar, 1413: the church has been reroofed, and in 1871 it was reseated with open benches. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge (vicarial) £377, gross yearly value £395, including glebe with residence, in the gift of and held since 1862 by the Rev. Frederick Freshney M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, J.P. for the parts of Lindsey. Messrs. Badley are the impropriators, having a tithe rent-charge of £110 yearly. There is a Free Methodist chapel here, built in 1870. The Baroness Willoughby de Eresby is lady of the manor. The old manor house now belongs to and is occupied by Samuel Allenby esq. J.P. of Cadwell Hall: on one of the windows is engraved a "lover's knot" and the record of a marriage. Samuel Allenby esq. Miss Cartwright and E. H. Cartwright and Ernest Floyer esqrs. are chief landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,067 acres of land and 1,290 of water; rateable value, £3,672; the population in 1881 was 415.

Saltfleet (or SALTFLEET HAVEN) was formerly a considerable market town and port, and is a polling place for the Northern division of the county; the nearest railway station is Saltfleetby, on the Louth and East Coast railway, distant about 3 miles; Saltfleet is mentioned in Domesday Book as an important port; it was also one of the royal ports, as appears in the Hundred Rolls of Edward I.: in the reign of Edward III. 1359, Saltfleet furnished two ships and 49 men for the invasion of Brittany. The tidal and navigable haven of Saltfleet, formed by the Withern Eau and Grayfleet, has of late years been much improved, and a very large and increasing trade is now carried on in coals. The market was discontinued many years ago, but a fair for stock (chiefly cart foals, of which a large number are bred in the immediate district) is still held on the 3rd of October. Here are places of worship for Wesleyan (enlarged 1867) and Free Methodists (built 1855). Here is a coastguard station for four men, with a life-saving rocket apparatus, provided by the Board of Trade. In the neighbourhood are many overflowing springs of excellent water, and off the coast is a valuable oyster bed. Samuel Allenby esq. Miss Cartwright, Rev. John Henry Overton M.A. rector of Epworth, Mrs. C. C. Darnell, Miss Freshney and Messrs. Overton and Allison are the principal landowners.

Parish Clerk, John Gould.

SKILLINGTON is a village and parish, picturesquely situate on the south-west border of the county, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Beltisloe wapentake, Grantham union, petty sessional division and county court district, Beltisloe rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles south-west from Great Ponton, which is the nearest railway station, and 8 south from Grantham. The church of St. James is a building of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, with some Saxon or Early Norman work at the north-east angle of the nave and Decorated insertions; it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of two bays, south transept, aisles, south porch and a tower of three stages with an octagonal broach spire containing 5 bells: in the transept is a sedile and a piscina: there is also a piscina and an aumbry in the chancel: fixed in the north wall of the chancel are two sepulchral slabs of the fourteenth century, with fine floriated crosses: in the south aisle is a stained window to the Rev. Charles Hudson, vicar of this parish, who perished on the Matterhorn, in 1863: on the same side in the chancel is a smaller window commemorating the same event: in the north wall of the chancel is a double lancet window; and at the east end a large aumbry: there are sittings for 205 persons. The register dates from the year 1542. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £183, including 62½ acres of glebe land, with residence, in the gift of Christopher Turnor esq. and held since 1882 by the Rev. Henry Smeeton Stevens. There is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1847. The Earl of Dysart and Sir Hugh Arthur Henry Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. who are lords of the manor, and Christopher Turnor esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is creach; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, turnips and barley. The area is 2,158 acres; rateable value, £2,786; the population in 1881 was 393.

SKINNAND is a small village and parish, in the vale of the Brant, Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, higher division of the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, Lincoln union and county court district, rural deanery of Graffoe, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles south-by-west from Lincoln and 2 south-west from Navenby station on the Lincoln and Grantham branch of the Great Northern railway. The church has been in ruins many years, and nothing now remains except a few scattered stones, but a portion of the burial-ground is still used: divine service is performed at Mr. John Woolfit's. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1791; there is no register of marriages. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £135 including 70 acres of glebe, in the gift of J. R. Nicholls esq. and held since 1874 by the Rev. Francis Charles Cole M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. J. R. Nicholls esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowner is J. R. Nicholls esq. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 600 acres; rateable value, £995; the population in 1881 was 39.

SLEAFORD.

SLEAFORD is an improving market town and railway station, head of a union, county court district and petty sessional division, and is a polling-place for the Southern division of the county, consisting of the parishes of NEW and OLD SLEAFORD and parts of HOLDINGHAM and QUARRINGTON, in Flaxwell wapentake, parts of Kesteven, rural deanery of Aswardhurn-with-Lafford No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, on the Sleaford river, 14 miles east-north-east from Grantham, 18 south-east from Newark, 18 south from Lincoln, 17 west from Boston, 24 north-north-east from Stamford and 118 from London, situate on the road from Stamford to Lincoln. There is admirable railway communication by Great Northern railway direct to Boston and the East Coast, to Grantham for main line trains, London and the South, and to Bourn and South Lincolnshire, and by a recently constructed line, Great Northern and Great Eastern railway joint management, to Lincoln, Doncaster and the North, and to Spalding, Cambridge and London by the Great Eastern railway system in the Eastern counties.

The town of Sleaford is situated on the banks of the river Slea, at a short distance below its source, in a highly fertile district (and connected, by means of a canal and the river Witham, with the towns of Boston and Lincoln, and with the Trent navigation). The principal streets (called gates), named from the cardinal points, intersect each other at right angles; the market place occupying the angle contained by North and East gates. The town is governed by a local board of 12 members, and paved, drained and lighted with gas. Of the Castle built here by Alexander, Bishop of Lincoln (1123-47), and long one of the greatest ornaments of the town, only a massive piece of wall at the north-east angle now remains; but the foundations and moats, the causeway leading to the castle, the position of the drawbridge and of the gatehouse mentioned by Leland, may still be distinctly traced: in this castle King John sickened after the loss of his army and baggage at the Wash; and here also Richard Fleming, Bishop of Lincoln (1420-31), who so bitterly opposed the doctrines of Wickliffe, died: here Lord Hussey, who was beheaded for high treason, possessed a house, and in this house, called the Old Place, Henry VIII. when on his progress towards York to meet the King of Scotland, passed the night; a modern building now occupies the site on which this house stood. Sleaford also was the residence of the Carrs, ancestors in the female line of the Marquess of Bristol, a family whose name, through their munificence, is held in grateful remembrance in the place, one of them being the founder of the Free Grammar school, and another of the Bede-houses.

The church of St. Denis, which stands to the east of the Market place, is a large structure of the Transitional, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, and consists of a chancel, nave, transepts, double north aisle and south aisle, south porch and a western tower surmounted by a broach spire, and containing a good peal of 8 bells; the lower part of the tower is Transitional and spire Early English: the nave, aisles, transept and south porch are of the Decorated period, and the chancel, clerestory of nave, sedilia and some minor details, are Perpendicular: the chancel screen is a beautiful specimen of mediæval oak carving, pronounced by the late Mr. A. W. Pugin to be one of the most perfect in England; there are double-rood stairs and also a flight leading to the chancel roof, and there is a Decorated font: on the external east wall of the chancel is an inscription, in abbreviated Latin, to Richard Dokke, Johan, his wife, and John, their son, 1407; and on the south side, an inscription, in English, to William Harebeter and Elizabeth, his wife; to the Carr family there are four monuments, the earliest of which is a thick slab of grey marble on the chancel floor, formerly containing brass effigies of George Carr, 1520, his wife, Ann (Flower), 1521, and their children, with arms and inscriptions; the next, on the north side of the chancel arch, is a mural tablet above a plain altar tomb, to Robert Carr, 1590, his three wives and children; and on the other side of the arch is a canopied tomb, with recumbent effigies of alabaster, to Edward Carr and his second wife; the last is a fine altar tomb of black and white marble, inscribed to the Right Hon. Sir Robert Carr kt. and bart. Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster from 1672 to 1680, who died in 1662, and of the last heir male of this family, Sir Edward Carr, who died at the age of eighteen, 28th December, 1683, one year after his father: during the Commonwealth the heraldic glass in the church was destroyed, as well as the organ, and the brass eagle lectern broken up and sold: in the year 1853, the church was restored under the direction of Messrs. Kirk and Parry, the old pews removed and open oak sittings substituted, the galleries removed and a new aisle erected: four windows were also filled with stained glass: the church, previous to the alterations, contained 743 seats, of which 326 were free; it has now 1,088 sittings, of which 573 are free: in 1873, a new oak roof was placed over the chancel, at the expense of Col. M. W. Willson, and one over the nave by public subscription; the transept roof was restored as a memorial to the late Mr. Parry, of this town, by his widow; and a stained glass, by Ward and Hughes, was placed in the south-east window of the transept in 1883, by Mr. G. H. Peake, also in memory of Mr. Parry. The register dates from the year 1575. The living is a discharged vicarage, gross yearly value from 109 acres of glebe £180 with residence, in the peculiar jurisdiction of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Alfred Langdon B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge.

Here is a Catholic school-chapel, erected in 1882, and Dedicated to Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception.

There are also Congregational, Primitive Methodist and Baptist chapels. The Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1848, in North street, on the site of what was the Old Falcon inn, is a building of white brick and Ancaster stone; adjoining which are a house for the minister, school-rooms and two vestries; the total cost was about £3,500, including £1,500 for the purchase of the inn and minister's house. The Congregational chapel, built in 1868, on the west side of South street, is a large building of stone, and will seat 450 persons.

The Cemetery, situated on the east side of the town, behind the Alvey school, covers a space of three acres, of which about one-third is unconsecrated: it is under the control of a burial board.

The Carr Hospital was founded in 1636, on his coming of age, by Sir Robert Carr, 2nd baronet, son of Sir Edward Carr, 1st bart. and grandson of Robert Carr, the founder of the Grammar school, for the maintenance of twelve poor men, and endowed it with estates of considerable value: in 1830 it was rebuilt, and in 1845 enlarged for the reception of six additional poor men, upon an order of the Court of Chancery, granting a new scheme for the government of the charity; in 1857 the trustees, with part of the balance then in hand, purchased a site in North street, upon which they erected eight additional almshouses: the present number of bedesmen is eighteen, each of whom has a stipend of 10s. a week, comfortable apartments, a blue cloth coat, and coals, medical attendance free, and the attendance of a nurse, while a chaplain attends to their spiritual wants: the income of the charity is derived principally from farms in Metheringham.

The other charities for distribution amount to about £50 yearly, derived from various sources.

Here are three banks and a savings bank.

The Town Hall, or Sessions House, on the north side of the Market place, was built in 1829-30, at a cost of £7,000, is an edifice in the Tudor style and contains a spacious court in which the Quarter and Petty Sessions are held, retiring rooms for the magistrates and grand jury, and other apartments.

Quarter Sessions for the parts of Kesteven are held alternately at Bourn and Sleaford, and by adjournment from each place for financial business at Spittlegate; the Easter and Michaelmas sessions being held at Sleaford, Epiphany and Midsummer at Bourn.

The Corn Exchange, in the Market place, built in 1857, is a building of stone, in the Perpendicular Gothic style, from designs by Mr. Kirk: it was built by shareholders, on a site sold to them for the purpose by the late Miss Bankes, and has a spacious interior, handsome and well adapted to its purpose: underneath is a butter market, and attached to it are other rooms and offices.

The Market is held on Monday; and there are six fairs yearly, on Plough Monday, Easter Monday, Whit Monday, August 12th, October 1st for cheese, and October 20th for cattle. Stock sales every Monday.

Some traces of the site of the Castle of Sleaford with its moats may be observed north of the railway embankment.

At the southern end of South gate is a monumental cross, 65 feet high, erected to the memory of the late Henry Handley esq. M.P. for South Lincolnshire: the design is in the Decorated style of the reigns of Edward I. and II. (1272-1327), and was furnished by Mr. Boyle, architect, of Birmingham.

In 1858, during the progress of excavations for the purpose of extending the Grantham and Sleaford railway to Boston, an interesting discovery was made in an old pasture close near the southern entrance to the town, of four or five skeletons, each accompanied by a shield, knife and spear head, all of which were in good preservation, the remains of the wooden shafts of the spears being still more or less distinctly visible; a brass coin of Valentinianus was also found, bearing a figure of Victory, and the legend "Securitas Reipublicæ."

The manor was held by the Carrs till 1688, when Isabella, daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Robert Carr, being left sole heiress, married John Hervey esq. of Ickworth park, Suffolk, afterwards Earl of Bristol, and thus transferred it to that family. The Marquess of Bristol is lord of the manor and owner of the principal part of the land.

The area of the entire parish of New Sleaford is 3,160 acres; rateable value, £14,195; the population in 1881 was —of the township, 3,955; of the parish, 4,075, including 151 officers and inmates in the workhouse; and of the local board district, 4,965, viz.: Holdingham, 120; New Sleaford, 3,955; Old Sleaford, 526; and Quarrington, 364.

Parish Clerk, Robert Bennett Graham.

HOLDINGHAM is a township in this parish, on the road to Lincoln. There was formerly a chapel here dedicated to the Virgin Mary, but it has long since disappeared. The population in 1881 was 120.

OLD SLEAFORD parish adjoins New Sleaford to the south: it has no church, and is ecclesiastically annexed to Quarrington. The area is 1,150 acres; rateable value, £2,919; the population in 1881 was 526.

SNARFORD is a parish in the Mid division of the county, wapentake of Lawress, parts of Lindsey, Lincoln union, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 1, archdeaconery of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles south-west from Market Rasen, 2 west from Snelland station, and 9 north-west-by-north from Lincoln. The church of St. Lawrence is a stone building, in the Norman, Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with chantry chapel, nave, and a western tower containing 1 bell: within the tower are four late Norman arches, one with billet and interlaced mouldings; the font is a rich and somewhat peculiar example of Perpendicular work, on an earlier base: the church contains a series of stately but faded and dilapidated monuments of the St. Poll family; the earliest of these is a canopied altar tomb, enriched with ten statuettes, and bearing effigies of Sir Thomas St. Poll. kt. 1582, and his wife, together with an inscription: the next, according to date, consists of two effigies placed within a recess in the north wall of the chantry, adjoining the chancel, representing Sir George St. Poll kt and bart., 1613, and Frances (Wray) his wife: on the south chancel wall is an inscription on brass, giving the conjugal history of this Lady St. Poll, who in the same year her husband died married Robert, Baron Rich of Lieze, who was created Earl of Warwick in 1618; and there are in the church memorial busts of the Earl and Countess, with an inscription: on the floor is a dark grey slab, with an inscribed brass to Joan (St. Poll) wife of John Tornay, of Caynby, esq., 1521, and on the floor of the chantry chapel is a slab inscribed to George Brownlow Doughty esq. 1743, and his wife, a co-heiress of Sir Henry Tichborne bart. The register dates from the year 1718. The living is a rectory annexed to the rectory of Friesthorpe, joint gross yearly value £370, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. John Charles Kitching Saunders M.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, who resides at Friesthorpe. The trustees of the Tichborne estates are lords of the manor and sole landowners. The soil is clay and sand; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, turnips, and pasture. The area is 1,120 acres; rateable value, £1,151: the population in 1881 was 102.

SNELLAND is a parish, village, and station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, western division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Lincoln union, Market Rasen county court district, Wraggoe rural deanery, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 145¼ miles from London, 4½ west-north-west from Wragby, and 9 north-east from Lincoln. The church of All Saints, almost entirely re-built in 1863, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, architect, at the expense of the Hon. C. H. Cust, and the late Rev. the Hon. Richard Cust, is a building of stone in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, and a bell-gable containing two bells. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £248, from 35 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of E. R. C. Cust esq. and held since 1873 by the Rev. John Francis Stukeley Vavasour M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford. Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. D.L. of Arthingworth, Northants, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravelly; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, and oats. The area is 1,365 acres rateable value, £1,603; the population in 1881 was 133.

SWINTHORPE is a hamlet of five houses, a mile west.

SNITTERBY is a parish and village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Aslacoe wapentake, union of Caistor, Market Rasen county court district, Lawress petty sessional division, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles south from Brigg, 5 south-east from Kirton station and 7 north-west from Market Rasen. The church of St. Nicholas, erected on the site of an older structure, in 1780, at the meagre cost of £219, was rebuilt in 1866-7 at a cost of £1,000, raised by subscriptions, aided by a parish rate amounting to £100, and is now a building of stone and brick, in the Early Decorated style, from plans by Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, porch and a tower, at present unfinished, containing 1 bell: the interior has a reredos of Caen stone and alabaster and a font, the basin of which is supported on eight shafts of serpentine marble: the fittings of the chancel are oak: the lectern, communion table cloth and other articles were presented; the chalice and paten are of silver, and date from 1568: there are sittings for more than 200 persons. The separate register of this parish dates only from the year 1858; the earlier registers are included in those of Waddingham. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, from 260 acres of glebe, £400 with residence, in the gift of the Crown, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Richard Edward Warner M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. W. Danby esq. who is lord of the manor, and the rector, William Parker esq. of Atterby, and John Dauber esq. of Brigg, are the principal landowners. The soil is peat, clay and sand "corn-brash"; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 1,640 acres; rateable value, £2,481; the population in 1881 was 274.

SOMERBY (near Brigg) is a small agricultural parish on the Wolds, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, south division of Yarborough wapentake, union and county court district of Caistor, Brigg petty sessional division, diocese of Lincoln, archdeaconry of Stow, and rural deanery of Yarborough No. 2, 4½ miles north-west from Caistor, 2 south from the Barnetby-le-Wold, and 2 north from Howsham stations and 4 east from Brigg, near the high road from Brigg to Caistor. The church of St. Margaret is a building of stone of the eleventh century, consisting of chancel and nave and a western tower containing 3 bells: it it has several monuments to the Weston family, and in March, 1884, there was discovered near the chancel the effigy of a cross-legged knight, in chain mail: there are sittings for 70 persons. The register dates from the year 1661. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £162, gross yearly value £173, including 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Walter Goold, of Queen's College, Birmingham. The Hall is the seat of Charles Fleetwood Weston Underwood esq. lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, on the Wolds, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 975 acres; rateable value, £1,402; the population in 1881 was 99.

the arms of Threckingham; a portion of the carved and elaborately painted oak chancel screen is now incorporated in a pew: in the south porch is a recumbent effigy of a knight of the time of Edward II. presumed to represent a member of the de Somerby family, formerly lords of this parish: in the chancel are two mural monuments of marble to Elizabeth (Cartwright), wife of Sir John Brownlow, subsequently (1718) created Baron Charleville and Viscount Tyrconnel; and to Jane, daughter of Sir Richard Brownlow bart. of Humby, and wife of Peregrine (Bertie), 2nd Duke of Ancaster; she died June 1st, 1670: there are other mural monuments to the Cheyney and Hotchkin families: in the chancel are two brasses, one of which is dated 1590, the other is to a brother of Bradshaw the regicide: the massive silver communion plate was presented by the Brownlow family. The church was thoroughly restored in 1876, at a cost of £1,000, when a vestry was erected, a new east window inserted and an organ introduced. The registers, including Great Humby, have been regularly kept from the year 1773, but there is a previous register, dated 1730, much dilapidated and very imperfect. The living is a rectory, united with the chapelry of Great Humby, gross yearly value £600, including residence and 162 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1875 by the Rev. William Nash B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, who resides at Grantham; the Rev. Algernon Home Cochran B.A. of University College, Oxford, is curate and resides at the rectory. The Earl of Dysart is lord of the manor. The principal landowner is Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. The soil is various; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and turnips. The area is 2,990 acres; rateable value, £6,385; the population in 1881 was 1,189, inclusive of New Somerby within the borough of Grantham; the rateable value, exclusive of New Somerby, is £3,046.

BLUE HARBOUR, formerly called Cold Harbour, is an inn, situated about one mile from the parish church, on the Old Roman road, Ermine street, and still retains a considerable portion of the old Roman brick work.

GREAT HUMBY is a chapelry, 3½ miles south-east and 6 east-by-south from Grantham. The chapel, consisting of a very small nave only, was originally the private chapel of the Brownlow family, the former possessors of the Hall, which stood close by, and traces of the foundations of which still exist. The chapel underwent restoration in 1878, chiefly at the expense of J. Murgatroyd esq. the chief landowner.

NEW SOMERBY, see GRANTHAM.

NORTH SOMERCOTES is a large scattered village and parish, not far from the North Sea, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Louth Eske, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 6½ miles from Saltfleetby station and 10 miles north-east from Louth. The church of St. Peter is a spacious building, apparently of Early English date, but its architectural features have been destroyed by modern repairs; it consists of a chancel, nave with a portion of the clerestory, aisles, north and south porches and a western and now spireless tower containing 3 bells: the tower terminates in a plain parapet without pinnacles; both nave and aisles are covered by a single flat leaded roof, which cuts off the heads of the aisle arches; the south aisle is wide, the north narrow; both had a chantry at the east end, and in the latter remains an ancient altar stone and a piscina; the slab of the high altar and one support lie near the north door; the chancel is now only about two-thirds of its original size, and the chancel arch has been destroyed; in the chancel is a slab incised with a stepped floriated cross; in the north porch is a stone coffin lid, used as a door-step; the font is octagonal, and is supported on eight marble shafts; on the sides are shields of arms and emblems of the Passion. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a vicarage, yearly tithe rent-charge of £498, gross yearly value £500, including 1 acre of glebe with residence, in the patronage of the Queen as Duchess of Lancaster, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Albert A. Wood. Here are places of worship for Wesleyans and Free and Primitive Methodists. At the enclosure of the Marsh in 1635, about 120 acres of land were allotted to the poor, of which 80 acres belong to North and 40 to South Somercotes: the yearly income (which varies) is distributed two-thirds to the poor of North Somercotes and one-third to the poor of South Somercotes. The poor of North Somercotes also receive a yearly rent-charge of £5 4s. from Hardie's charity at Louth, and £2 from Sir R. Christopher's charity. These charities are distributed at Christmas. There is a well-built range of buildings at Donna Nook for the accommodation of eight families belonging to the coast-guard service; a building has been erected here, under the auspices of the Lifeboat Institution, for the reception of shipwrecked mariners, and there is also a lifeboat under the command of Captain Dobson. Simon Thomas Scrope esq. of Cockerington, Louth, is lord of the manor. Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton, and J. Sharpley, R. G. Chatterton, Capt. Robert Charles Vyner, of Ganby, Horncastle, W. Robinson and W. Brownlow esqrs. are the chief landowners. The soil is sandy and loamy, and produces wheat, oats, barley and beans. Part of the soil is so sandy that there are 137 acres of rabbit warren. The area is 4,806 acres; rateable value, £7,218; the population in 1881 was 1,219.

Parish Clerk, Samuel Bucknell.

SOUTH SOMERCOTES is a pleasant village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Louth Eske hundred, Louth union and county court district, Louth Eske and Ludborough rural deanery No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north-east-by-north from Louth and 3¾ north-west from Saltfleetby railway station. South Somercotes was formerly one of the most prosperous places in the marshes, but is now poor, owing principally to the great decrease in the value of the produce of the land, much of which was bought at the highest prices by many small occupiers, who are unable to bear the losses of the successive bad seasons. The church of St. Mary, called the "Queen of the Marsh," is a handsome building of the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower with lofty and tapering spire and containing a peal of 3 bells, dated 1323, and beautifully lettered and enriched with foliated work and grotesque figures: the spire, the only one within a distance of 60 miles north and south, serves as a sea mark; the ancient chancel screen and some Early benches remain; the tower is Early English and has a west doorway of the Perpendicular period: the font is panelled and carved with emblems of the Passion. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £559, gross yearly value £600, including 28¾ acres of glebe and residence, in the patronage of the Queen in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, and held since 1864 by the Rev. Edmund Richard Hopper Griffith Palmer M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1869, and a Free Methodist chapel, built in 1872. The poor of this parish have about £34 yearly from the poor's land, noticed in North Somercotes; they have also £2 a year from Sir R. Christopher's charity, and a yearly rent-charge of 10s. left by John Lowrie in 1620. These amounts are distributed in money at Christmas. Simon Thomas Scrope esq. of Cockerington, is lord of the manor, with the exception of the hamlet of Scupholme, which belongs to Miss Constance Nisbet-Hamilton; these, with Messrs. Bancroft, Allison, Houlden and Cartwright are the chief landowners. The soil is loamy, and the subsoil clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 2,526 acres; rateable value, £4,191; the population in 1881 was 435.

SCUPHOLME is a hamlet 1½ miles south-west.

SOMERSBY is a small parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, hundred of Hill, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Hill No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-east from Horncastle, 7½ west from Alford station and 6 north-west from Spilsby. The church of St. Margaret is an ancient building of sandstone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a low but massive tower, with four small pinnacles and containing 2 bells: there are some memorials to the Burtons, lords of the manor, but the only monument of interest is a small brass in the chancel, with kneeling effigy, to George Littlebury, 1612: in the porch is a stoup: in the churchyard is a lofty and singularly perfect cross of Perpendicular date, with octagonal shaft, and bearing on its summit beautifully sculptured figures of Our Lord upon the Cross, and the Virgin crowned and bearing a lily: the church was thoroughly restored in 1863-5 and fitted up with open benches, at a cost of £500, defrayed by the late rector. The register dates from the year 1730. The living is a rectory, with that of Bag Enderby annexed; tithe rent-charge £399, joint net yearly value £420, including 50 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1883 by the Rev. John Soper B.A. of Hertford College, Oxford, who resides at Bag Enderby. The poor's land of 3¾ acres produces £3 10s. yearly, which is distributed in clothing: the poor have also 21s. every second year left by some unknown donors. Lord Tennyson D.C.L. (Oxon.) and hon. fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, was born here in 1809, his father the Rev. G. C. Tennyson being rector of the parish at the time he succeeded Wordsworth as poet laureate, in 1851. Langhorne Burton Burton esq. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay and sand; subsoil, mostly blue and red clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area is 600 acres; rateable value, £663; the population in 1881 was 43.

HOLYWELL is a woody dell on the Somersby estate, with a spring flowing from a rock. "Warden Hill," an elevated spot on the same estate, and also a plantation.

Cloven Hill, a curiously divided eminence, parallel with Warden; and Harden's Gap, below Warden, on the flat, are SOTBY is a parish and village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, Horncastle union and county court district, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 16 miles east-north-east from Lincoln, 5 east from Wragby, 3½ south-west from East Barkwith station and 8 north-west from Horncastle. The church of St. Peter is a small building, chiefly of stone, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave and an open belfry containing 1 bell; the chancel was rebuilt in 1857 in the Early English style, from plans by Mr. M. Drury, of Lincoln; and in the course of the work some mural paintings were disclosed on the splays of the chancel windows, representing Our Lord and St. Mary Magdalene, Belshazzar's feast and the Last Supper, apparently of the fourteenth century: a large quantity of oyster shells were also met with: the arch dividing the nave and chancel is late Saxon or very early Norman, and very massive; there remains a credence table, piscina and a sepulchral arch, the latter probably covering the tomb of the founder, or possibly that of Ralph, a vassal of the Bishop of Bayeux, who is mentioned in Domesday as having land in this parish. The register dates from the year 1658. Other registers relating to this parish from 1695 to 1779 are at Baumber, and the present rector has placed in the parish chest a copy of transcript in the Archidiaconal Registry, dating from 1566 to 1590. The living is a discharged rectory, gross yearly value from 330 acres of glebe £376, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1880 by the Rev. James D'ombrain M.A. who is also vicar of Market Stainton, and was formerly Civil Commissioned Chaplain at Smyrna. A rectory room constructed to hold 50 persons was built in 1882, by the present rector, on his premises; it is used for Sunday school, and is attended by between 40 and 50 scholars, and supported by the rector. Several finely sculptured stones have been dug up in a field in this parish. Capt. Robert Charles Vyner, who is lord of the manor, and the Rector are the sole landowners. The soil is mostly marl; subsoil, marl and white clay. The chief crops are barley, oats, wheat and turnips. The area is 1,500 acres; rateable value, £1,586; the population in 1881 was 191.

Parish Clerk, W. P. Gowshall, who for nearly 40 years has also filled the office of churchwarden.

Letters by foot post through Wragby, which is the nearest money order office; the telegraph office is at South Willingham. WALL LETTER BOX, at the Rectory, cleared at 3.30 p.m. The United Parochial school at Raudby serves also for this parish & that of Market Stainton

SPALDING.

SPALDING is a seaport, market and union town and railway station, head of a county court district, and polling place for the Southern division of the county, and parish, in the wapentake of Elloe, parts of Holland, diocese and archdeaconry of Lincoln, and rural deanery of South Holland No. 1, situated 93 miles from London, 14 from Boston, 45 south-east from Lincoln, 17 north from Peterborough, 20 east from Stamford and 10 east from Bourn. Spalding is a member of the port of Boston, and is the port for Stamford, Market Deeping and Crowland, and has water communication with the whole county. The river Welland runs through the town, dividing it into two portions, the larger of which is on the north bank; it is navigable for vessels of 80 tons, by which means a fair trade in coals, oil-cake and timber is carried on. the course of the river, extending in a comparatively straight line for two miles, constitutes the remains of highest antiquity about Spalding, for the embankments on each side of the arm of the sea or Wash, beginning from the Marsh Rails, are undoubtedly the work of the Romans. The Great Northern Railway Company have branch lines from here to Bourn and Stamford, Holbeach and Lynn, and also to March, and their East Lincolnshire line gives access to Boston, Louth, Grimsby and Hull. The Great Northern and Great Eastern joint line passes through to Sleaford, Lincoln and Gainsborough, giving direct communication between Yorkshire and the Eastern Counties. The High Bridge over the Welland was rebuilt in 1838; there are three other bridges, for foot passengers only. The town is not incorporated, but is governed by fifteen Commissioners, under the Spalding Improvement Act of 1853; C. F. Bonner esq. is the chairman of the Commissioners. An Act was passed in the year 1860 for supplying the town with water, which is conducted in pipes from Bourn; the works are situated close to the town, on the road to Pinchbeck; the capital is £8,000, raised in shares of £10 each. The town is lighted with gas, and has been much improved by the erection of several large and handsome public buildings. The parish church of SS. Mary and Nicholas is a spacious building, originally Early English, and rebuilt in 1294, but with many alterations in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, some later portions being of Post-Reformation date: the plan is complex and anomalous, but, in its original arrangement, it consisted of chancel, with south aisle, nave with aisles, transept, with eastern and western aisles to each wing, south tower, attached to the western bay of the south aisle, and a north porch; to this structure a large rectangular chapel, dedicated to SS. Mary and Thomas à Becket, has been added on the south-east, occupying a portion of the eastern aisle of the transept; the eastern portion of the nave aisles was also doubled and a south porch with turret erected: the total length is 157 feet, and the width, at the transept, which corresponds in this respect to the double aisle of the nave, 92 feet 6 inches: there are monuments to the Johnson and other families; the west window and all the windows in the chancel, including the east windows, presented by the ladies of Spalding, are stained, as are also two in the north and south transepts, and two in the eastern aisles of the transepts; the tower, Early English, is surmounted by pinnacles, from within which rises a very elegant Decorated spire; the tower contains a clock and 6 bells: the church was extensively repaired and restored by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. in the year 1865, the sum of £10,000 having been raised for the purpose: the Lady Chapel, or St. Thomas à Becket's, on the south side, is now used as the Free Grammar school. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1538; marriages, 1550. The living is a perpetual curacy, gross yearly value £1,100 with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1866 by the Rev. Edward Moore M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, Canon (non-residentiary) of Lincoln, rural dean of West Elloe, and surrogate.

The ecclesiastical parish of St. John the Baptist was formed in 1875 from the civil parishes of Spalding and Pinchbeck. The church, erected in the year 1875 at Hawthorn Bank, at a cost of about £7,500, from designs by R. J. Withers esq. Adam street, Adelphi, London, is a handsome building of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, crypt, vestry, organ chamber, south porch and a turret containing 2 bells and a clock. The register dates from the year 1875. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £400 and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Augustus William George Moore M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The area is 2,500 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,872 in Spalding, and 33 in Pinchbeck civil parishes.

The ecclesiastical parish of St. Paul, Fulney, was formed in 1878 from the civil parish of Spalding. The church, together with a vicarage and Sunday school, was erected in 1880, at a cost of £40,000, defrayed by Miss Charinton, who also endowed it with £300 a year, £50 being added by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The church is a handsome building of red brick and Ancaster stone, in the Early English style, after designs by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. and consists of clerestoried nave, aisles, vestry and a western tower with spire 135 feet high, containing 8 fine toned bells: there are sedilia and piscina: the font is of Mansfield and Woodhouse stone with Purbeck marble shafts, and the pulpit of carved oak on a stone base. There are sittings for 350 persons. The register dates from the year 1880. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350 with residence, in the gift of Miss Charinton, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Richard Guy Ash M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford.

The church of St. Peter, in the Abbey gardens, is a building of red brick in the Early English style, erected in the year 1875, from designs by the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott R.A. and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry, north porch, organ chamber and a turret containing 1 bell: this church is served from the church of SS. Mary and Nicholas.

A galvanized iron church was erected in 1873 in Pinchbeck street, and is called St. John's Free church.

The new Catholic Church, dedicated to the Immaculate Conception and St. Norbet, in Henrietta street, built in 1876, enlarged 1879, is a plain building of red brick in the Early English style, consisting of nave and a turret containing 1 bell; some of the windows are stained.

Here is a Friends' meeting-house, and nine chapels of various denominations viz. two Congregational, two Primitive Methodist, two General Baptists, one Baptist (Ebenezer), one Wesleyan Methodist and a Free Methodist chapel.

The Cemetery, situated about half a mile from the town, was formed at a cost of about £4,500, including the purchase of land and the erection of the two chapels: an additional piece of land, about 2 acres in extent, was purchased in 1876, but half only has yet been added to the cemetery, which is under the control of the Improvement Act Commissioners.

The Corn Exchange, erected 1855-6, by the Improvement Commissioners, at a cost of nearly £3,000, is a building in the Elizabethan style, with an illuminated clock: the exchange-room, which is 73 feet long and 43 broad, is fitted with stands for the accommodation of corn merchants, and provided with a movable platform; it is let for various public purposes, and one of the annexed rooms is let to the friendly societies at a nominal charge, for their periodical meetings: the income derived from the building amounts to about £450 annually. The Commissioners have purchased for a sum of about £4,000, the market tolls, formerly belonging to the lord of the manor; the market place was in 1876 paved with granite, and the sheep market with asphalte, and permanent iron pens erected. A fountain, the gift of the late Miss Johnson, has been erected in Hall place. Close to the Exchange stands the Butter Market, opened in 1857, and lately much enlarged and improved.

There are three banks—the Stamford, Spalding and Boston, the National Provincial and that of Messrs Garfit, Claypon and Co.; in addition to which are savings banks. There are two hotels.

Gamlyn's Almshouses, for 34 men and women, founded by Sir John Gamlyn, in the year 1650, were rebuilt in 1844, in the Gothic style: each inmate receives 3s. 6d. weekly, and 1 ton of coals yearly. The almshouses founded by William Willesby have been taken down, and a charity of £60 is given to 6 persons of £10 each, male or female, annually. Mrs. E. Sparkes's almshouses for six widows were rebuilt in 1812, each inmate receives 3s. 6d. weekly. Charities for distribution amount to upwards of £650 yearly, arising from lands and houses.

The Johnson Hospital, built in 1881 by subscriptions, and partially endowed from bequests of the late Misses E. A. and M. A. Johnson (from whom the hospital takes its name), at a cost of £4,000, is a plain building of red brick, faced with Bath stone, in the Domestic Gothic style, and contains six wards, three for males and three for females; Miss Jane Spragg, matron.

The Sessions House is a large building in the Sheep market, erected in the year 1842, at a cost of £6,000: quarter and petty sessions are held here for the parts of Holland. The House of Correction, a large building erected in 1826, at an outlay of £15,000, is now closed, the prisoners being sent to Lincoln. The Police Station was erected in 1858, at a cost of £1,400.

The "Lincolnshire, Boston and Spalding Free Press" is published every Tuesday, by Henry Watkinson, and circulates extensively throughout the county.

The market day is Tuesday, for corn, cattle, sheep, fish, fowls, vegetables and dairy produce; and on Saturday vegetables and fruits are sold.

There are five yearly fairs for cattle and merchandise, held the first Tuesday after Lincoln fair (April), last Tuesday in June, Aug. and Sept. 25th, and on the Friday before the London great Christmas market; also two statute fairs for hiring servants—one in May, the other in October or November.

The Club House, situated in Broad street, belongs to the Spalding Club Company Limited, which has a capital of £2,500, in 250 shares of £10 each; the House opened in August, 1875; is a building of red brick, containing reading, smoking and billiard rooms, and has about 140 members.

The Christian Association and Literary Institute, situated in Spring gardens, and opened in the year 1875, is a building of red brick, in the French Gothic style, and contains lecture hall, reading and class rooms, with a library of 1,230 volumes, and a residence for the curator.

The Spalding Mechanics' Institute, situated in Red Lion street, and established in 1845, contains reading rooms, and a library of nearly 2,000 volumes.

Spalding is the head quarters of the F Company of the 2nd Volunteer Battalion of the Lincolnshire Regiment.

The town carries on a very extensive trade in corn, meal, flour, timber and cake. There are large steam flour mills, from which a great deal of flour is sent into the manufacturing and London districts; there are also several wind mills for grinding corn, and a steam saw mill. Large quantities of fruit and vegetables are also sent by the Great Northern and Great Eastern railways to the London markets and manufacturing districts. There are breweries, maltings, limekilns, brick fields and iron foundry.

Spalding as a town, existed before Crowland, and its central position in the Mercian Kingdom led to the erection of a castle, the site of which was at the north entrance to the town on the east side; some vestiges of the moat may be distinguished, and a fetter-lock, preserved on the spot, is believed to have been the veritable lock of the Castle of Ivo Taillebois, Earl of Angers, and nephew of the Conqueror, who resided here, and, dying about 1114, was buried in the Conventual church.

There are some fifteenth century remains of the outbuildings of the ancient Benedictine priory of SS. Mary and Nicholas, founded in 1051 by Thorold de Bokenhale, lieutenant of his father, the Duke of Mercia; these are now incorporated into dwelling houses, and consist of a turret staircase, the dormitory, the octagonal turret or prison and portions of the moat.

The house known as Fulney Farm, 1½ miles south-east from the town, and now held by Mr. George Pruden, is a very ancient structure, erected in 1080, and is supposed to have been the dairy farm of the monastery; it is built with a mixture of bricks, stone and concrete; its walls being 4½ feet thick, and in capital preservation; the upper part of the house is supported on a groined lower story, and was at one time approached by a stone staircase outside the building on the south side; there are still traces of the moat and fishpond, by which the building was surrounded; it is at present unoccupied, and is undergoing a thorough restoration.

Fulney House, 1½ miles east of the town, is a handsome mansion, surrounded by extensive pleasure grounds, and is the seat of Mrs. Everard.

Ayscoffe Hall, the residence of Charles Foster Bonner esq. is an ancient mansion, standing in a garden of 3 acres, surrounded by yew trees.

The trustees of the late Maurice Johnson esq. and C. F. Bonner esq. are lords of Spalding manor; Everard Theophilus Buckworth esq. J.P. of Cockley Cley, Swaffham, is lord of the manor of Spalding Crowland; C. F. Bonner esq. steward. The principal landowners are Lord Carrington, of Wycombe, Bucks, and the Venerable Lord Saye and Sele D.C.L., M.A. of Broughton Castle, Banbury.

The land produces large quantities of wheat, oats and market garden produce, also roots, beans, peas and flax; there is also a fair proportion of fine grazing land. The area is 12,070 acres; rateable value, £43,490; the population in 1851 was 9,260; 178 officers and inmates in the workhouse and 80 officers and prisoners in the prison.

Wykeham is an estate in Spalding parish, 3 miles north-east from the parish church, and adjoins the parish of Weston St. Mary: here are the remains of a domestic chapel built by Clement Hatfield, prior of Spalding, and finished in 1311; it is an exact parallelogram of ashlar, 43 by 22 feet, disposed in three bays, distinguished by deeply projecting buttresses; the east window is Perpendicular, the rest are imperfect or bricked up; a lychnoscope and sedilia are also covered in a similar way, and on either side of the east window are two elegant niches: at the south-west corner an excellent specimen of a stone spiral staircase. Wykeham chapel is a sinecure donative benefice, endowed with about £20, and is in the gift of the governors of Spalding school, and held by the Rev. Canon Moore, vicar of Spalding. Mrs. Everard, of Fulney house, Henry Everard esq. J.P. and Edward Montague Earle Welby esq. J.P. are the owners of the Wykeham estate.

Parish Clerk, Robert Appleby, Market place.

SPANBY is a parish and village, 3½ miles north-east from Falkingham, 2 south from Aswarby station and 6 south from Sleaford, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland wapentake, Sleaford union and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 1, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. The church of St. Nicholas, rebuilt in 1880 by subscription, at a cost of £765, is a small building of red brick, with red Ancaster stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, western porch and a bell turret containing 1 bell. The register dates from the year 1681. The living is a rectory, annexed to the vicarage of Swaton, tithe rent-charge £81, gross yearly value £80 and joint value £424, in the gift of Mrs. Seymour and Miss Campbell, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Richard Henry Mann B.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, who resides at Swaton. William Alfred Cragg esq. of Threekingham, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chiefly clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,019 acres; rateable value, £1,300; the population in 1881 was 104. LETTER BOX cleared at 4.40 p.m. week days only. Letters through Falkingham, which is the nearest money & telegraph office
The children of this place attend the school at Osbournby

SPILSBY is a small but thriving market town, railway station and polling-place for the Mid division of the county, head of a union and county court district, in the parts of Lindsey, east division of Bolingbroke soke, rural deanery of Hill No. 2, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 17 miles north-east from Boston, 10 east-south-east from Horncastle, 16 south-by-east from Louth, 8 south-west from Alford, 9 north-west from Wainfleet and 126 from London on the road from Boston to Louth. A line of railway, called the Spilsby and Firsby branch of the East Lincolnshire Railway Company, was opened in 1868. The town is pleasantly situated on an acclivity overlooking a vast tract of marsh and fen land, extending southward to the Boston Deeps: it is well built, and consists chiefly of two streets and the Market place, which is intersected in the centre by a row of houses: at one end is the Town Hall and Corn Exchange; at the other end stands an ancient market cross, consisting of a plain octagonal shaft, rising from a flight of steps. The church of St. James is an edifice of green sandstone and brick, chiefly in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, double nave with clerestory, north aisle, north or Willoughby chapel and an embattled Perpendicular tower, containing 6 bells: the earliest portions of the structure are the nave arcades, dating apparently from the early part of the fourteenth century, to which period the arcade opening into the chapel seems also to belong: about the middle of the same century the south aisle was removed, and a large secondary nave erected, of which the eastern portion constitutes the present chancel, the remainder forming about half of the existing nave. In the fourteenth century there was a chapel here dedicated to the Holy Trinity, of which the arcade of the Willoughby chapel is supposed to be a fragment. The church contains a very interesting series of monuments commemorating several of the most distinguished members of the house of Willoughby, including: 1. An altar tomb of stone, adorned with shafts originally supporting a canopy; on the upper slab lie the effigies of John, first Baron Willoughby de Eresby, and Joan (Roseline), his wife; the figure of the former is in armour with shield and sword, and has the legs crossed: the lady wears a coverchief and a flowing mantle over a close fitting dress; Lord Willoughby was knighted in 1326-7, and took part in the Scottish and Flemish wars, including the relief of Aiguillon, 1345-6, and the battle of Crecy, August 26th, 1346; he died in 1348. 2. A fine altar tomb of stone, and supporting a finely carved alabaster effigy in full armour of John, second Baron Willoughby de Eresby, the head resting on a mantled helmet and the feet on an animal, and around the cornice of the upper slab are little figures of monks holding scrolls, staves and rosaries; this baron is mentioned by Froissart as one of the most distinguished knights of his time; he fought most valiantly at Poictiers, September 19th, 1356; took part in the subsequent invasion of France, by Edward III. and the Black Prince, and died in 1372. 3. An altar tomb of alabaster; on the coped slab above are recumbent effigies of Robert, third Baron Willoughby de Eresby (ob. 1396), and his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Latimer, and widow of Lord Nevill, of Raby; the figure of the baron is in full armour, with the head resting on a helmet surmounted by the Willoughby crest, and the feet on a lion: that of the lady is very richly habited, the head resting on two cushions supported by figures of monks, and at the feet three pet dogs. 4. A brass, with effigy, to Margaret, daughter of William, Lord Zouch, and third wife of Robert, third Baron Willoughby de Eresby; around the figure are eight shields of arms, and the whole is enclosed by a marginal inscription, which gives the date of her death as October 18th, 1391. 5. A remarkably fine triple canopied brass with effigies of William, fourth Baron Willoughby de Eresby, ob. 1410, and Lucy, daughter of Lord Strange, his first wife; the figure of the baron is in rich armour, and that of his wife in a high gown, falling in voluminous folds about her feet. 6. A heavy monumental stone screen, between the north aisle of the nave, and the Willoughby chapel eastward of it, forming a memorial to Richard Bertie esq. ob. 1582, and his wife Catherine, Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and widow of Charles Brandon, first duke of Suffolk, ob. 1580. 7. A monument of Derbyshire alabaster and various marbles, bearing on a panelled base a reclining effigy of Catherine, only daughter of Pergrine Bertie, eleventh Lord Willoughby de Eresby and wife of Sir Lewis Watson, knight, of Rockingham, where she died in childbed, Feb. 14th, 1610, placed within a little cradle; at her feet lies her infant; above this an erect effigy of her father, the famous Peregrine, eleventh Lord Willoughby (ob. 1400), in a suit of half armour, full skirt and light hose: in the pavement of the church are several grey slabs, now deprived of their brasses: the interior was reseated in 1851, and in 1879 the south aisle was entirely rebuilt and extended westwards, and now forms the nave proper, the east end constituting the chancel: an additional aisle was also erected on the south side, and the rest of the fabric thoroughly restored: these works have been carried out under the direction of Mr. W. Bassett Smith, architect, of London, at a cost of £4,330, to which the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby contributed £1,000: the east window was given by the representatives of the late Prebendary Hollway, thirty years vicar of Spilsby; the west window by Mrs. and Miss Russell, in memory of the Rev. S. Russell, master of Spilsby Grammar School, and the Rev. J. Russell, rector of Holland Fen; other windows have been inserted by Mrs. Walker, of the Manor house, Spilsby, to her husband and children; by Mr. Hill, organ builder, of London, to his father, a native of Spilsby, and by Mrs. Coates, to the memory of her daughter: one large window has also been recently erected by public subscription to the late Colonel Cracroft-Amcotts. The Willoughby monuments were carefully restored by William Forsyth, of London, in 1879, by the order of the Baroness Willoughby, at a cost of £250: the church was reopened by the Bishop of Lincoln and the Bishop Suffragan of Nottingham, July 25th, 1879: the communion plate, which is silver gilt, consisting of flagon, cup, paten and two alms dishes, was given to the parish by the late Prebendary Hollway, at a cost of £200, in the year 1854. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £100, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1873 by the Rev. William Wright Layng M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, who is also vicar of Hundleby, rural dean of Hill, Div. 2, chaplain of Spilsby union, and a surrogate for the diocese of Lincoln. The churchyard was closed, except for interments in vaults and brick graves, by an order in Council, dated 13th September, 1884. Here are Congregational, Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. A new Wesleyan chapel was erected in 1878, with two good residences for the ministers, at a cost of £7,000, and will seat 560: there is is a sunday school attached. The large Congregational chapel has been purchased by the Freemasons for a masonic hall: the services are now held in the old school-room in Franklin passage. A Free Grammar school was founded here in 1550, but does not appear to have had buildings of its own until 1611, when Lord Willoughby de Eresby granted a plot of land for the erection of a school: it was supported for many years by donations and subscriptions, from which 32 acres of land have been purchased, now let for abont £82 yearly: the funds provide for the education of a number of free boys, not exceeding thirty; the average number of scholars is now (1884) 40: a house scholarship of £20 a year, given by the master, is offered for competition in December: prizes are publicly awarded at the end of the summer term: the management of the school is vested in eight trustees. The charities amount to £105 yearly, for the benefit of the poor, and consist of the following yearly rent-charges: 5s. left by Tobias Anderson, a former vicar; 5s. by William Wayet; 4s. by John Wayet, in 1705 and 20s. for apprentice fees; 10s. by John Hutton, in 1759, and 20s. left by Henry Mowbray, in 1697, for apprentice fees. The poor's land has been vested in trust for the benefit of the poor from time immemorial: it comprises about 22 acres, including an allotment of 13A. 17P. awarded to it at the enclosure of the East Fen; upon the old poor's land are several tenements and the Red Lion public-house; the whole lets for about £90 5s. which is distributed in half-yearly moieties, generally among those who are not receiving aid from the poor rates. The Spilsby foal show is held on the 1st or 2nd Monday in September, and the Agricultural ploughing meeting is held in November. A large fair is held on the first Monday after the 12th of July for fat and store cattle, sheep, pigs and horses. The market is held every Monday, and is well attended, and supplied with fat and lean stock, pigs and poultry. A Court House and House of Correction, erected in 1824, at a cost of nearly 30,000: the House of Correction was closed and the prisoners removed to Lincoln April 15th, 1876, and it is now (1884) demolished, the sessions house and lock-up being the only portions remaining, with residences for the superintendent and constables. The Gas Works in Ashby road were erected in 1854. The late Sir John Franklin knt. K.C.H., D.C.L. the discoverer of the North-west Passage, was born at Spilsby, 16th April, 1786: a statue to him was erected here in 1857, by public subscription. The area is 1,147A. 1R. 2P.; rateable value, £5,195 1s. 6d.; the population in 1881 was—1,482 in the civil and 1,549 in the ecclesiastical.

By a Local Government Board provisional order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by the Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. a detached portion of this parish, containing a population of 67, was transferred to Stickford parish.

Eresby is a small hamlet. Eresby Hall, formerly standing about a mile south of the town of Spilsby, was destroyed by fire in 1769: the only relic now remaining is a pillar at the end of a fine avenue of trees leading into the road. The manor of Eresby, or Spilsby, was given by William the Conqueror to Walter de Beke, one of his barons, and after passing through various successions it descended to the Lady Priscilla Bertie, wife of Baron Gwydir, mother of the 19th Lord Willoughby de Eresby, and is now vested in the present baroness Willoughby de Eresby.

SPRINGTHORPE is a pleasant parish and village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake of Corringham, Gainsborough petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Corringham, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles east-by-south from Gainsborough, 4 north-east from Lea station. The church of SS. George and Laurence, the only church in England with this dedication, is an edifice of somewhat uncertain origin, but exhibits features of the earliest Norman and Early English periods, with a good deal of modern work, and consists of chancel, with organ-chamber serving as a vestry, and organ, on the north nave, south aisle, south porch and a tower with 4 bells, of which one is dedicated to St. George, and the other three were purchased and hung in 1865, at the expense of the parishioners: the tower is reputed to be Saxon, and may possibly have been erected before the Conquest: the inner doorway of the porch is a fine example of ornate Norman work: the font is Early English, fixed on a base of recent date: there is one stained memorial window; suspended in the chancel are a maiden's funeral wreath and gloves, cut out of white paper; the tradition being that the girl (Mary Hill) thus commemorated was killed (in 1814) through the unwary manner in which she pulled one of the bell ropes, by the recoil of which she was dashed against the belfry floor above: on the left-hand side of the vestry doorway is a slab of the fifteenth century built into the wall, inscribed "(Hic) jacet Radulphus filius Johanis cujus anime propicietur (Deus), Amen": the church was restored in 1865, at a cost of £1,400, raised by subscription. There are sittings for 130 persons. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £180 with residence, gross yearly value £230 including 16 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1863 by STAINBY is a village and parish, on the south-west border of the county, adjoining Leicestershire, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Beltisloe, petty sessional division of Spittlegate, union and county court district of Grantham, rural deanery of Beltisloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles west from Corby railway station, 14 north-west from Stamford and 9 south from Grantham: this parish is connected with Colsterworth by a stone and iron bridge over the Witham. The church of St. Peter, is a structure of stone, chiefly in the Early Decorated style, with some features of the Transition Period, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry and a tower, with spire, containing 4 new bells and a clock: it was thoroughly restored in 1865 by the Rev. Geo. Osborne, then rector, at a cost of about £4,800, under the direction of Mr. R. Cord, architect: the stained east window was presented by the Misses Johnson, of Spalding, and other windows were given by the Rev. Edw. Ashby, of Quenby hall, and Mr. W. Jackson, of Stainby: the rector has presented a new organ, reredos and ornaments for the communion table and a western screen. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, consolidated with that of Gunby St. Nicholas, joint gross yearly value £400, including, in the united parishes, 425 acres of glebe, with a good residence, in the gift of John Chase esq. and held since 1877 by the Rev. Wilfrid Augustus Holden Thorold M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. The Earl of Dysart is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, red limestone and rock. The chief crops are the usual cereals and clover. The area is 1,550 acres; rateable value, £1,981; the population in 1881 was 153.

STALLINGBOROUGH is a parish extending to the Humber and large straggling village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, east division of Yarborough wapentake, petty sessional division of Yarborough, Caistor union, county court district of Great Grimsby, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln; here is a station on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, the village is 158 miles from London, 4 north-west from Great Grimsby and 2 from the Humber. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a plain brick building, erected in 1780 and consisting of chancel and nave and a tower containing 4 bells: in 1874 the interior was thoroughly restored, the chancel rebuilt and the church reseated with open benches: there are several monuments of the Ayscough family, including an altar tomb with effigies of Sir William Ayscough (Askewe), the father of Anne Ayscough, who was burned at Smithfield, July 16th, 1546, being the last person burned in the reign of Henry VIII. and Dame Margery (Hilliard), his second wife; the figure of Sir William, who was knighted in 1513, is in armour, covered with an heraldic surcoat, and his lady wears a robe similarly emblazoned; the tomb also bears several shields of arms and an epitaph in Latin; there is also an alabaster tomb, with semi-effigy, to Sir Francis Ayscough, his son, who gave his sister Anne up to the authorities; this Sir Francis was sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1544, and had three sons; to the second son, Sir Edward Ayscough, who died in 1612 and his wife Esther (Grantham), there is a fine altar tomb, with effigies and many coats of arms: Colonel Harrison, a Parliamentary officer, slain in the fight at Riby, June 18th, 1645, is buried in the churchyard: the roof of the church has recently been thoroughly repaired and new slated; the tower strengthened and partially rebuilt, and 4 new bells hung, at a total cost of £468. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £75, gross yearly value £250, including 75 acres of glebe, with residence (erected in 1868), in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Edward Jackson Lowe M.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. A Wesleyan chapel was erected here in 1864, at a cost of about £500, raised by subscription, the site being granted by the lord of the manor: it has sittings for about 380 persons. There is also a Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1881. The poor have 6s. 8d. out of the manor of Humberstone, and £3 a year ont of the Bishop's land, which was reserved as a rent-charge when the land was sold by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners to the lord of the manor in 1856. On the shore is a lighthouse and coastguard station; there is also a ferry here. Miss Boucherett, who is lady of the manor, and Col. George Tomline D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is good strong loam: subsoil, clay. A large portion of this parish is grazing land. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 4,392 acres of land and 1,490 of water; rateable value, £8,539; the population in 1881 was 483.

STAMFORD.

STAMFORD is an ancient parliamentary and municipal borough, market town and railway station, of considerable agricultural importance, situated on the borders of Northamptonshire and Rutlandshire, separated from the former by the river Welland, which flows on the south side of the Lincolnshire portion of the town. A part of the parish of St. Martin, forming part of the borough of Stamford, is within the county of Northampton. The town is in the Southern division of the county, Ness wapentake, head of a union and county court district, rural deanery of Stamford, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 89 miles from London, 45 south from Lincoln, 32 south-west from Boston, 21 south-east from Grantham, 12½ north-west from Peterborough, 10 south-west from Bourn and 20 south-west from Spalding. The Midland railway (Peterborough and Leicester branch) and the Great Northern (Stamford and Essendine branch) have each a station here. The London and North Western railway business is done at the Midland station: their branch railway runs to Market Harborough and Rugby, opening direct communication with the south-Midland district; by means of the branch railway from Essendine to Bourn and Spalding, direct railway communication is given to the south-eastern districts of Lincolnshire and northern parts of Cambridge and Norfolk: from the great facility afforded, the town has been supplied with coals at a greatly reduced price: the Northampton and Peterborough railway comes within 7 miles. The town is governed by the corporation, consisting of a mayor, six aldermen and eighteen common councilmen, and the council is the urban sanitary authority: the borough has a commission of the peace and a separate court of quarter sessions: it formerly returned two members to Parliament, but by the "Representation of the People Act, 1867," it now returns one only. The town is well paved and drained, lighted with gas and abundantly supplied with excellent water. The old bridge over the Welland, now removed, was a narrow and incommodious though a picturesque structure: the new bridge, erected by the late Marquis of Exeter, at a cost of £8,500, is of Bramley-Fall stone, in the same style as the old bridge, with three segmental arches and massive octagonal piers.

Stamford at one period had fourteen churches, besides priories, but now only six, including St. Martin's.

The church of St. Mary, situated on St. Mary's Hill, is reputed to be the mother church of Stamford, and was built about the latter end of the thirteenth century: it is a large structure of stone in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel with chapels, nave, aisles and a noble tower surmounted by a broach spire banded at the angles, and enriched with statues at the base, and canopied windows: the tower contains a peal of 8 bells, a set of chimes and a clock: traces of the original edifice, contemporary with All Saints, appear at the east end; the tower, Early English, is covered with arcading, richly and deeply worked, the spire is Decorated, and dates from about 1300: the font is octagonal, and of Perpendicular date: the north chantry, commonly called "the golden choir," is the finest portion of the church in this style, and has a panelled, carved and painted roof, with an inscription on the cornice to William Hickman, alderman of Stamford, 1467, and Alice, his wife; the matrix of a brass to the same persons can be traced; in this chantry is a canopied altar tomb of the Decorated period, with the recumbent effigy of a knight, and opposite a very rich altar tomb, also canopied, bearing recumbent effigies of a knight and lady: the sides are enriched with figures of the apostles, and an angel with a shield; the tomb is of the period of Henry VII. and the effigies are said to represent Sir David Phillips and his wife: in the chancel is a fine stained window; that on the south-east is a memorial of a son of the Rev. F. Gretton, a former rector: in 1859 considerable improvements were effected in the chancel, under the direction of Mr. Edward Browning, a new roof being put on, a reredos erected and two windows filled with stained glass; there are sittings for about 250 people. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a rectory, yearly value £75 with residence, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Albert Channing Abdy M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford.

All Saints, situated near the centre of the town, is a structure of stone, in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, chapel of St. Mary, nave, aisles, a curious porch and a tower with spire containing 6 bells and a clock: the ground plan of the Early English church is exceedingly irregular, but the extent of the structure is clearly indicated by the almost continuous arcades surrounding the basement: the tower, rather late Perpendicular, is embattled and has octagonal turrets at the angles; the spire of the same date, with crocketed angles and spire lights; the erection of this and other portions of this date is attributed to William Browne, merchant of the staple of Calais; the wooden font cover and one desk are ancient: the church was completely restored in 1857, when the interior was reseated with oak, and a reredos of Caen stone, and an oak chancel screen erected; St. Mary's chapel was also new roofed; during the progress of the work, superintended by Mr. E. Browning, of Stamford, the base of an Early English chantry was discovered, 15 feet below the floor level; several brasses, some ancient tiles, a piscina and stoups were also met with: there are sittings for about 300: there are brasses to Margaret Elmer; Henry Wykys, vicar in cope, and a civilian and lady, and a very fine brass to William Browne, and Margaret, his wife. The register, including St. Peter's, dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, with St. Peter's and other additions, yearly value £577 with residence, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, who has two turns, and the Lord Chancellor, who has one turn in three, and held since 1874, by the Rev. Charles Oldfield M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge.

The church of St. John the Baptist, situated in St. John street, is a small structure of stone, chiefly of the Perpendicular period, and furnishes an excellent example of that style: it consists of chancel, north and south chantries, nave, aisles, porch at the last bay of the south aisle, and a tower over the last bay of the north aisle, containing 4 bells: a great part of the beautiful ancient glass still remains in the windows of the north aisle; and there is a very rich screen: the church was re-seated with oak benches in 1857, and stained east and west windows inserted, at the respective cost of the Rev. D. E. Jones, vicar, and Mr. R. N. Newcomb: there are brasses to Nicholas Byddleadon, and his wife, 1484; and a priest in chasuble. The register, including St. Clement's, dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, united with the rectory of St. Clement, yearly value £200, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, who has two turns, and the trustees of the late R. Newcomb esq. who have one turn in three, and held since 1881 by the Rev. George Waller M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin.

St. George's, situated in St. George's square, is an edifice of stone in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, singularly confused, and consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a plain western tower containing 4 bells and clock: the Perpendicular portion of the structure is due to the manificence of William Burges, first Garter King of Arms, who died in 1449, and whose arms still remain in one of the windows; there are also considerable portions of other ancient glass, consisting of figures of saints under canopies, and quarries with the garter and motto; drawings by Dugdale and engravings by Hollar, of the glass formerly in the chancel, are in the possession of the Earl of Winchilsea and Nottingham: the church was restored in 1862 by Mr. Edward Browning, architect, when the windows were partially renewed, a vestry built, the monuments repaired and an organ introduced: there are sittings for about 300, all free. The register, including St. Paul's, dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly value £180 and residence, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Henry Bailey Browning M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge.

St. Martin's, Stamford Baron, situated in High street, is a structure of stone in the Perpendicular style, and was erected, it is believed, by John Russel, Bishop of Lincoln, in 1482, whose name and arms, with those of Thomas Scott or Rotherham, his predecessor, appear on the corbels of the roof and in the glass of one of the windows: the church contains a large amount of ancient glass, much of it of excellent character, brought from the Collegiate Church of Tattershall and other churches in the county; but it has been very much broken up; the mausoleum of the first Lord Burghley is a splendid monument of marble: a recumbent figure under a canopy represents the Lord Treasurer with the wand of office in his hand; a lion is at the feet; the church consists of chancel, nave, aisles and fine tower, with 6 bells and clock and has been refitted with handsome oak pews, carved pulpit and desk, a beautiful stone reredos, with illuminated lettering, and oak carved chancel stalls, at a cost of £1,500; in this church is the splendid mausoleum of the Burghley family. The register dates from — marriages, 1582; baptisms and burials, 1572. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £215, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, and held by the Rev. Ellis Bowden Were M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford; the Rev. Alexander Rhind Webster M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, is the curate in charge.

St. Michael's, standing in High street, is an edifice of the Early English period: rebuilt in 1856, at a cost of £3,800, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a noble tower, containing 6 bells and clock, and has 1,000 sittings: in the chancel is a window of three lights, the centre of which, representing the Ascension, was presented by Rev. C. Oldfield in memory of his wife in 1863: the parishioners subscribed for the other two lights, which represent respectively the Last Supper, and Christ Blessing Little Children. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly value £120, in the gift of the Marquis of Exeter, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Henry Macdougall M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford.

The Catholic church, dedicated to "Our Ladye and St. Augustine, Apostle of England," in Broad street, is a large building of stone, and has a bold and effective campanile tower, which rises over the western porch, and faces down Broad street: it was erected in 1864: the style is a mixture of Romanesque and Early English: the interior is beautifully decorated, and is remarkable for its splendour: in the aisle, which contains the chapel of St. Joseph, the font and confessional, are two very good stained windows: adjoining the church are the Presbytery and an excellent school, also of stone: the buildings form a very pleasing group, and add greatly to the architectural beauty of this portion of the town: this church is always open: the priest is the Rev. Henry Basil Allies M.R.

Here are Congregational, Wesleyan, and Particular Baptist chapels.

The Cemetery, on the Casterton Parva road, laid out covers a space of nearly 6 acres: there is a mortuary chapel, erected in 1855, with two fine stained windows: it is under the control of a Burial Board of 30 members.

Browne's School, Stamford, is a Gothic building, erected at a cost of £7000, on the site of the old Grammar school (founded A.D. 1548), and was opened under a new scheme at Midsummer, 1874. The scheme is intended to provide a sound, practical and liberal education at a very moderate cost: the new boarding-house, in connection with the school, was opened in December, 1875; the most complete arrangements have been made in it for the health and comfort of the boys: there are spacious dormitories, with a separate private cubicle for each boy: the building is warmed and ventilated; there is a large bathroom, supplied with hot and cold water: a detached building has been erected and set apart as an infirmary: the boys have the use of an excellent playing field: the builders were Messrs. Hinson, of Stamford; the architects, Hay and Oliver, of London: the governors are empowered to grant exhibitions not exceeding £10 a year each in value, and tenable by boys at the school: they can also reward a certain number of meritorious scholars by a remission of the tuition fee; the governors can further grant exhibitions of such value as they may think fit, tenable by scholars from Browne's school, at some place of higher education, there being £150 annually for this purpose: this school has been placed on the list of those eligible to send up candidates for the junior scholarships annually offered for competition by the Royal Agricultural Society of England; these scholarships, 10 in number, and of the value of £20 each, are awarded after an examination of the qualified candidates in land surveying, elementary mechanics, chemistry and the principles of agriculture: an annual sum of £50 is applied to the Blue Coat school, towards the advancement of the education of scholars attending such school; £100 per year is assigned for educational purposes, tenable at Browne's school for boys and girls: in 1876 a branch of Browne's school was opened in St. Martin's for girls; Miss Lucy M. Munro, mistress.

Truesdale's Almshouses, founded in 1700 by Thomas Truesdale, and Snowden's Almshouses, founded in 1604 by Thomas Snowden, have both been rebuilt in the Gothic style: in the former, erected at a cost of £2,900, shelter, food and clothing are afforded to twelve aged poor of the parishes of St. John and All Saints; and the latter is liberally endowed for eight poor aged widows, who receives 5s. a week, and other distributions half-yearly; the rebuilding of this hospital cost £450. Browne's Hospital was founded in the reign of Richard III. but not completed till that of Henry VII. in 1493, by William Browne, for a warden, confrater, and twelve poor: it is endowed with houses and 1,985 acres, producing £4,500 yearly, of which £1,500 a year is paid to the Stamford Endowed Schools Trustees, and the remainder is appropriated for the salaries of the warden and confrater, the maintenance of the poor, and the repairs and keeping up of the estates belonging to the charity: the building, situated on the north side of Broad street, is in the Late Perpendicular style, consisting of hall, chapel, cloister, porch, audit room and dwellings for ten men and two women: the chapel has a four-light window filled with ancient glass, including figures of the Holy Virgin, St. John the Baptist, St. James, St. Catherine, St. Barbara, and various others; all the glass is of the highest order; the glass in the audit room is equally beautiful: in 1870, on the demolition of the warden's lodgings, a curious alms box was found in the splayed recess of a closet near the fire-place of an upper room; it is made of maple wood, circular in form and 8½ inches high, hooped and ribbed with iron and provided with a lock protected by two hasps, over which passes a wide band, fastened by a staple and padlock; the head is hollowed out like a basin, and has a slit at the bottom for the reception of money. The dean of Stamford, the vicar of All Saints, and the Mayor of Stamford are the governors and trustees. Connected with Fryer's charity, in St. Martin, are almshouses for six widows. In St. Martin is also the Burghley Hospital, founded in 1597 by the then Lord Treasurer; it provides for the maintenance of twelve poor men and a warden: here are also All Saints', Callis and Bede almshouses.

The Town hall, situated on St. Mary's hill, was rebuilt in the year 1821; quarter sessions are held in it; also petty sessions every Saturday, and meetings of the Town Council and occasionally public meetings: the sessions-room, or hall, measures 52 feet long, 25 wide, and 19 high; the other rooms are in good proportion: above the bench is a portrait of James II. presented by the ninth Earl of Exeter, and at the south end is a portrait of the Lord Treasurer Burghley. In 1837 a fireproof room was erected for the better security of the documents.

The Borough Gaol was closed in 1878. Prisoners are now sent to Her Majesty's Prison, Leicester.

The Corn Exchange, situated in Broad street, is a handsome and roomy building, erected at a considerable expense; it contains stalls for salesmen, and is occasionally let for balls, concerts and lectures; it was opened January, 1859.

Odd Fellows' Hall, situated in All Saints street, erected in 1876, on the site purchased by the Loyal Albion Lodge, at a cost of £2,500, is a plain building; the lodge and other rooms are commodious, the upper hall being 60 feet by 30; the rooms are also suitable for meetings, balls, concerts and lectures.

Stamford Chess, Billiard and News Club, in St. Mary's street, was formerly the theatre, and was in 1871 converted into a club house, at a cost of about £1,250: there is a large handsomely decorated billiard-room, with three billiard tables, a bar and refreshment room, and a reading room.

The Literary and Scientific Institution, a very fine building, erected in the year 1842, at a cost of £1,200, is situated on St. Peter's hill, and contains a library of about 6,000 volumes, a large number being valuable books, and is well supplied with periodicals and newspapers; there is also a camera at the top of the institution, which gives a good view of the town and neighbourhood: on Fridays the public are admitted free to view the curiosities in the museum. The Marquis of Exeter is the patron.

The market, held on Friday, is extensively supplied with corn, meat, poultry and provisions.

Cattle markets are held in Broad street every Monday, and are largely supplied with stock of every description.

The principal fairs are held January 7th, February 7th and 8th, March 20th and 27th, April 11th, May 8th, June 19th, August 5th, September 1st, October 6th, November 8th and 9th, December 1st.

The principal stock fairs, toll free, are:—Candlemas Fair—Monday and Tuesday before the 13th of February. Mid-Lent Fair—Monday before Mid-Lent, and Mid-Lent Monday. Spring Fair—Tuesday about the 10th of April. May Fair—Monday before the 12th of May. Corpus Christi Fair—Monday after Corpus Christi. St. James's Fair—August 5th. St. Simon and St. Jude Fair—November 10th and 11th.

There are two weekly newspapers published here every Friday, the "Lincoln, Rutland and Stamford Mercury," the oldest newspaper in the kingdom, and the "Stamford and Rutland Guardian." The first "Stamford Mercury" was printed by Thompson and Bailey, in St. Martin's, about 1712: it was afterwards printed by Francis Howgrave; then by Pect and Newcomb; and subsequently by Newcomb and Son; and so it continued until the death of Mr. Alderman Richard Newcomb, who died in May, 1834, in his 74th year, having been a proprietor of the "Lincoln, Rutland and Stamford Mercury" for 48 years.

An extensive trade is carried on here in corn, coal, malting, timber, stone and slates. There is a large iron foundry and agricultural implement and machine manufactory; also two smaller foundries, breweries and extensive cart and road waggon building works, all of which are in good work.

The Stamford Hotel is an extensive building, erected in the year 1810, under the superintendence of Mr. Boad, for Sir Gerrard Noel Noel bart. at a cost of £43,000: the façade has six Corinthian columns supporting an entablature, over which is a statue of Justice, executed in Roach Abbey stone, by Mr. Rosse R.A.

The Stamford and Rutland Infirmary, on the east of the town, is a substantial stone building, in the Modern Gothic style, with spacious lawn, erected in 1828, and has beds for 36 in-patients and for 20 fever patients, in detached buildings: it has received several munificent bequests, and is liberally supported: it has greatly extended the sphere of its influences, and is now called the Stamford, Rutland and General Infirmary. At the entrance lodge, there is an ancient arch, which formed part of the gate house of the White Friars Monastery, founded by the widow of Edward the Black Prince subsequent to 1376.

The celebrated Daniel Lambert lived and died in the town in 1809, and his enormous body, which weighed 52 stones 11 lbs. lies buried in the new burial-ground of St. Martin, where there is a stone to his memory.

Near Hudd's Hill are the ruins of the Benedictine Monastery of St. Leonard, said to have been founded by Wilfrid, about the middle of the seventh century; the existing remains dating from about 1082, consist of five bays of the Norman nave (60 by 21 feet) on the north side, and with part of the clerestory, and the west end, the front of which exhibits details of great beauty; there was only a north aisle: the west gate of the house of the Carmelites, or White Friars, established here by the widow of the Black Prince, remains on St. Mary's Hill; there is also a gateway on the south side of St. Paul's street, of the Geometrical Decorated period, not later than 1300, which is supposed to be the entrance gate to Brasenose College.

Burghley House, the seat of the Most Hon. Marquis of Exeter P.C. is a magnificent stone mansion, situated at the south end of Stamford, about one mile and a half from the town. This building, commenced in 1575, by the Lord Treasurer William Cecil, Baron of Burghley, is built of freestone, in the form of a parallelogram; Mr. John Thorpe, an architect in the reign of Elizabeth, superintended its erection; there is a beautiful court and chapel with a spire: the walks are ornamented with grottoes; the park is studded with stately trees, and divided into three portions, viz.: the upper, lower and middle parks, of which the lower is open to the public; the middle park is used for grazing and game preserving, and the upper park contains an extensive herd of deer; the entire park is about two miles in length and one mile in width, and contains about 1,500 acres: the rearing of foreign trout for the lakes, which extend three quarters of a mile, is carried on in the conservatories with great success.

The Marquis of Exeter P.C. is lord of the manor and chief landowner.

The soil is rich and fertile. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and there is fine pasturage land.

The population of the several parishes comprising the Municipal and Parliamentary borough in 1881 was:—

nave, aisles, porch and a massive and lofty embattled tower containing 4 bells: in 1853 a new chancel was erected from designs by Mr. Butterfield, and in 1855 the rest of the church was restored by the same architect: the church was lighted in 1884 by the members of the Mayday club, in memory of the late Rev. Canon Coltman: there is a stained window in memory of John Kirkham esq.: the church will seat 436 persons. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £310, including 180 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Pocklington-Coltman, of Hagnaby, and held since 1883 by the Rev. George Henry Hales B.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel. There are several small charities left at various times: in 1811 the Rev. John Robinson left £29 a year out of land and houses in Stickney, for four poor women, and in 1856 this was increased by William Soulby, who bequeathed the interest of £400 to the charity, which furnishes an income of 4s. per week each. Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. is lord of the manor. The land is much divided: the principal landowners are Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts esq. of Blackthorn Hall and the trustees of the Rev. H. Portington. The soil is rich loam and sand; subsoil, clay and loam. The chief crops are mustard, wheat and oats, but a considerable portion is good grazing land. The area is 4,220 acres; rateable value, £3,663; the population in 1881 was 689.

STIXWOULD is a village and parish, with a station 1¼ miles south-west from the village, on the Great Northern railway and on the east bank of the navigable river Witham, across which there is a ferry, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, southern division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Gartree, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 124¾ miles from London, 8 south-west from Horncastle and 6 north-north-west from Tattershall. The church of St. Peter is a building of stone, in the Gothic style, the materials for its construction being acquired from the dissolved nunnery, and consists of a large chancel, nave and a tower with four pinnacles and containing 2 bells: it was rebuilt in 1831, and in 1864 the nave was reseated and the chancel considerably enlarged: in the churchyard is a restored cross. The register dates from the year 1543. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £132, including 44 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. of Stoke Rochford, and held since 1881 by the Rev. William Bennett L.Th. of Durham University. Ranulph, Earl of Chester, and Lucy, relict of Ivo Talbois, founded a convent here, in the reign of Stephen, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, for nuns of the Premonstratensian order: it was valued at £163 1s. 2d. and was granted in 1540 to Robert Dighton: the site of the convent covered several acres, but not a vestige except part of the foundation mounds now remains. A stone coffin, complete, and one in fragments, were discovered in digging a drain on the Abbey farm in 1850, and are now placed close to the tower of the church. Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and mangold wurtzel. The area is 2,250 acres; rateable value, £3,794; the population in 1881 was 227.

STOKE ROCHFORD is a parish comprising the townships of NORTH and SOUTH STOKE and EASTON, united for ecclesiastical but separate for civil purposes, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Spittlegate petty sessional division, Grantham soke, union and county court district, rural deanery of Beltisloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. South Stoke is picturesquely situated a short distance west of the Great North road, 2 miles south-west from Great Ponton station and 6 south from Grantham. The church of St. Andrew and St. Mary, situated on a knoll, commanding a very pleasant view, is a building of stone, chiefly of the Perpendicular period, but with portions of Norman, Early English and Decorated work: it consists of chancel with aisles, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with small angle pinnacles and containing 5 bells: there was formerly a church at North Stoke, dedicated to St. Andrew, and on its demolition the conjoint title was given to this building, formerly known as St. Mary's: the oldest features are the nave arcades, of rich Norman work, the north side being the oldest, and the Early English tower; the tower and some other portions are Decorated, but otherwise most of the remainder of the edifice appears to be Perpendicular work; the south chancel chapel was built by Ralph Rochford and his wife, in 1448, and the opposite one soon after by another member of that family; in the south wall of the former is a plain piscina, and below the easternmost arch of both chapel arcades is a panelled altar tomb, the southernmost having an arched canopy; at the east end of the north chapel is a fine sepulchral memorial, said to have been brought from the church at North Stoke, and consisting of a large freestone slab, on which are cut in high relief effigies of a knight and lady of the early part of the fourteenth century, believed to represent John de Neville and his wife; in the chancel is a brass, with effigies, to Henry Rochforte esq. 1470, and his wife Elizabeth (Scrope), five sons and three daughters; another slab has a brass, with effigies, inscribed to Olyver Sentjohn esq. 1503, son of the Duchess of Somerset (who was grandmother of King Henry VII.) and to Elizabeth (Bygod) his wife; a third brass is inscribed to Sibella Seyntjohn, daughter of Oliver Sentjohn, 1493: there are various monuments to the Cholmeley and Turnor families, of which the finest is one of freestone, placed against the south wall of the south chancel chapel, erected by Montague Cholmeley, in 1641, to his father and mother, Henry and Elizabeth, and other members of his family; it is richly carved and gilt, and upon the base within arched recesses are kneeling effigies of the parents, and in smaller recesses effigies of two sons; intermediate columns support a cornice of panel work, enriched with armorial bearings and ornaments; there are inscriptions dating from 1631 to 1803, and other monuments of the same family to 1880: of the Turnor monuments, the best is one of black marble, attached to the north wall of the north chancel chapel and inscribed to Sir Edmund Turnor, 1707, and Elizabeth, his wife, 1679; there are monuments to this family to 1853: the three eastern windows, the west window and two in the south aisle are stained: the communion plate is dated 1671. The register dates from the year 1663. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £1,150, including about 20 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Frederick Jesson M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here are almshouses, founded by Sir Edmund Turnor in 1677, for six poor people, each of whom receives 1s. weekly and coals. The charities are of £13 yearly value, arising from property at Grantham. The manor belongs to Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. who is also principal landowner, and resides at the Hall, a noble mansion in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1840–5 from designs by Salvin; it occupies the site of a former residence and in front of it is an obelisk with the inscription on a panel; "In honour of Sir Isaac Newton": in the park there is also a splendid waterfall from a spring which rises here from the limestone rock; the estate is of a very undulating character and extensively wooded; Roman remains have been at various times discovered here, the most recent "find" being some portions of a Roman villa which were uncovered in 1824. The soil is cresch; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is, North Stoke, 1,844 acres; South Stoke, 1,412 acres; rateable value, North Stoke, £1,574; South Stoke, £3,437; and the population in 1881 was 509 in the parish viz.: North Stoke, 156; South Stoke, 134; Easton, 219.

EASTON is a township, on the east of the Great North road. Easton Hall, the beautiful seat of Sir Hugh Arthur Henry Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. is a noble mansion of stone, in the Elizabethan style, almost wholly rebuilt since 1805, and situated in the midst of a well-wooded park, through which the river Witham runs. The magnificent entrance hall contains an extensive display of mediæval armour and weapons.

STOW is a parish, comprising the townships of NORMANBY and STOW and BRANSBY and STURTON, in the Mid division of the county, Well wapentake, Gainsborough union and county court district, parts of Lindsey, rural deanery of Lawress No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln: Stow is 150½ miles from London, 7¾ south-east from Gainsborough and 2 west from Stow Park station on the loop line of the Great Northern railway, which joins the main line at Doncaster and Peterborough. St. Mary's church, a venerpile, and originally serving as the Cathedral church of the ancient diocese of Sidnacester in Lindsey, founded in the seventh century: it stands on the site of a still older one, erected by Egfrid, in commemoration of his saintly wife's stay in this place: the former church was probably cruciform in plan and rather longer than the present structure, with a south aisle attached to the chancel: it is supposed to have been burnt by the Danes A.D. 871: the present fabric, commenced about A.D. 1050 by Ednoth, Bishop of Dorchester, is a spacious cruciform structure, consisting of chancel, transepts, nave and a central tower, the (Perpendicular) upper stage of which terminates in an embattled parapet with four crocketed pinnacles: the tower is supported by double arches springing from massive piers, and contains 5 bells: the transept, including the central piers and arches supporting the tower, undoubtedly formed part of the ancient cathedral, but the upper portion of the walls has been rebuilt, yet still in the Saxon period: the existing nave dates from a little before the Conquest: the choir is the work of Bishop Remigius (1070-92): this grand old edifice, chiefly Early Norman, was restored by subscription in 1863-5, at a cost of £5,000, through the instrumentality of the late incumbent, the Rev. John Atkinson, and the assistance of the Venerable Edward Trollope, the present Archdeacon of Stow, who presented a handsome communion service to the church in 1875: the church has three beautiful doorways in the nave, each of which is a fine specimen of Norman work: the chancel, restored in 1852, has a vaulted stone roof, and the outside bears marks of fire to which this mother church of the diocese of Lincoln has been subjected: a large pillar at the west end of the nave, left unrestored, bears marks of the great conflagration at Stow A.D. 1156, referred to in the annals of the Court of Exchequer: the west window is Perpendicular, and there is a niche of that date on the north side of the west door: the font consists of an octagonal basin on a single shaft, surrounded by smaller ones: the total length of the church is 150 feet: in 1865, during the removal of some stone work placed within a recess in the east wall of the north transept, evidences were met with of the existence of an altar here dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury, and above the site of the altar were considerable remains of a mural painting representing the figure of an archbishop vested, and on either side scenes from the martyrdom of Becket. The register, including Bransby, Normanby and Sturton, dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £301, net yearly value £320, including 21½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1877 by the Rev. Charles Nevile M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford, canon (non-residentiary) of Lincoln, vicar of Coates and rural dean of Lawress No. 2, who resides at Sturton. There is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel. The remains of the moat of an episcopal residence, once occupied by St. Hugh, still exist in Stow park. Stow fair, held October 10th, is still kept up, principally for the sale of colts. Edward Weston Cracroft-Amcotts is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Ashton Cox esq. Mr. Bellwood's trustees and the trustees of the Rev. P. Brown. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are cereals, with peas; there is much pasture for grazing purposes. The area of Normanby and Stow township is 2,716A. 2R. 9P.; rateable value, £4,308; the population in 1881 was, of the entire parish, 1,007; and of the township, 361.

Parish Clerk, William Winterbourne.

western saddle-backed tower, containing 3 bells: in the restoration which took place during 1874-5, the old foundations of the aisles were ascertained, and the whole of the external walls rebuilt upon the old lines, the arcades being opened and the previously built up columns and arches, both in the nave and chancel, carefully repaired: a new south porch was also erected, and the tower, an inferior structure forming no part of the ancient church, was rebuilt: the original Norman chancel arch is now the tower arch, and a later Norman doorway, formerly the western entrance to the early church, has been reset in the western face of the tower: in the north wall of the chancel is a third arch of this period opening into the transept: several small carved dedication crosses belonging to the old fabric have been replaced nearly in the position which they previously occupied: the chancel retains a piscina, and on the north side an arched aumbry of Early English date: the east window is stained: a fine Early English tombstone, with raised floriated cross, found near the west end of the church, has been placed on a slab near the porch: in the transept is a mural monument, with arms, to William Blyth, of Stroxton, 1644: the restoration of the church, intended as a memorial to the Rev. P. J. Earle Welby, late rector, was carried out under the direction of Messrs. Kirk, architects, of Sleaford, at a cost of about £1,500. There are sittings for 100 persons. The register dates from the year 1735. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, from tithe rent-charge £306, in the gift of Sir William Earle Welby-Gregory bart. and held since 1882 by the Rev. Frederick Glyn Montagu Powell M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, who resides at Grantham. In this parish are three copious springs, which help to supply Grantham with water. Sir William Earle Welby-Gregory bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is creach; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat and roots. The area is 972 acres; rateable value, £1,475; the population in 1881 was 100.

STRUBBY, with WOODTHORPE.

STRUBBY is a village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of the hundred of Calceworth, petty sessional division of Calceworth, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, about 4 miles north from Alford, 4 north-east from Claythorpe station, 10 south-east from Louth and 135 from London by the East Lincolnshire branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of St. Oswald, rebuilt in 1857, of brick and stone (with the exception of the chancel), at a cost of about £500, is an edifice in the Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle and a turret containing 1 bell: the only existing portion of the old church is the south arcade, the whole of the remainder having fallen when the roof was removed: the east end of the aisle formed a chantry, enclosed by a screen: in the church are several monuments to the Ballett family, including one dated 1531, but without a Christian name, another to William Ballett, of Woodthorpe, and alderman of London, 1648, aged 99: and a third to Charles Ballett esq. 1703: in the chancel is a female effigy: a piscina remains in the south wall: the chancel was rebuilt by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 1875, at a cost of upwards of £400, and a small vestry was added by the incumbent. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a discharged vicarage, tithe rent-charge £205, net yearly value £202, including 17 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Christopher Tennant Taylor M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. The rectorial tithes are now held by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Here is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel. In 1728 Mr. Thomas Wilkinson left a yearly rent-charge of £2 12s. out of a farm at Cumberworth for the poor of this parish, to be distributed in bread. Strubby is in the manor of Bilsby, and the open fields were enclosed in 1840. The principal landowners are Capt. Robert Charles Vyner, of Moat house, Ganby, and William Holland Ballot Fletcher esq. The soil is clay; subsoil, blue clay and red marl. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and turnips. The area is 2,075 acres; rateable value, £2,465; the population in 1881 was 289, including Woodthorpe.

Woodthorpe is a hamlet belonging to Strubby, from which place it is nearly 2 miles south. The Hall, now the residence of William Kelk esq. is a substantial mansion, and was formerly the seat of the Ballett family, several of whom are buried in the church at Strubby.

GREAT STURTON (or STURTON MAGNA) is a scattered village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of Gartree wapentake, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, situated at the foot of the Wolds, on hilly ground, and bounded on the east by the river Bain, 5½ miles south-east from Wragby station on the Louth and Lincoln railway, 6 north-west from Horncastle station, and 16 east from Lincoln. The parish was enclosed about 1776. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, consisting of large chancel, nave and a low square wooden turret, with five small pinnacles, each surmounted by a vane, and containing 1 bell; it formerly had a north aisle and a tower, but these were taken down and the materials used in building walls to enclose the church-yard: the 3 bells were sold about 1810. The register dates from the year 1656. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with that of Baumber, joint gross yearly value £215, including 250 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and held since 1849 by the Rev. John Fawssett M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Waddingworth, and resides at Baumber. Sturton is supposed to have been a Roman station. Joseph Montague Livesey esq. C.E., F.S.A. who is lord of the manor, and Miss Trafford Southwell are the principal landowners. The soil is marl and white clay; subsoil, mostly white and blue clay: the chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The parish contains 1,440 acres; rateable value, £1,578; the population in 1881 was 145.

SUDBROOKE is a small parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Lawress wapentake, union and county court district of Lincoln, Lawress rural deanery No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-east-by-east from Lincoln, and 2 west from Langworth station. The church of St. Edward was rebuilt in 1860 as a memorial church to the late Richard Ellison esq. of Sudbrooke Holme, who left £2,000 for the purpose, and is a building of stone in the Norman style, from designs by Mr. Dobson, architect, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch and bell gable at the west end, containing 1 bell: some fragments of the early church of Late Norman or Transitional date have been carefully preserved, but the present church, in its plan, elevation and details, is chiefly a copy of the Norman church at Steetley; there are memorial windows at the south of the chancel to Mrs. Ellison, widow of the late Richard Ellison esq. The register dates from the year 1579. The living is a rectory, tithe rentcharge £56, net yearly value £180, including 90 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir Richard Francis Sutton bart. of Barton Court, Hungerford, and held since 1874 by the Rev Roderick Bain Mackenzie M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. The Ellison Trust Fund gives annually £20 to the poor of the parish; a legacy of £100 was left to the rector for the poor by the late Mrs. Humphrey Sibthorp in the year 1876. Coningsby Charles Sibthorp esq. J.P., D.L. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is a heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 1,000 acres; rateable value £1,164; the population in 1881 was 55.

SURFLEET is a parish, with a station, 1 mile north-east from the village, on the Great Northern railway, situate on the river Glen, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, Kirton wapentake, Spalding union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 96¼ miles from London, and 4 north from Spalding. The church of St. Lawrence is a stone structure, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of small chancel, clerestoried and embattled nave of four bays, aisles, south porch, and a tower with spire, containing 5 bells: the tower has sunk considerably, and the spire is much out of the perpendicular; the nave retains its rood loft, and has a newel staircase in a turret at its south-east angle; in the north wall of the chancel is the crossed-legged effigy of a knight in armour, with the feet placed under a canopy in the east wall, and said to represent one of the Cressys, of Cressy Hall. The register, including Cressey, dates from the year 1662. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £132, in the gift of Captain Conant, and held since 1851 by the Rev. Edward Humffreys Parry B.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. There are Free Methodist and Particular Baptist chapels here; there is also a Wesleyan chapel at Seas End. The poor's land produces £104 yearly, which is distributed annually in coals and money. By the rivers Glen and Welland, which unite in this parish, a small trade is carried on in coals, stone and gravel. The salt water of the Welland is kept from mixing with the fresh waters of the Glen by stop gates; there are three bridges across the Glen in this parish. The Venerable Lord Saye and Sele M.A. of Broughton Castle, Banbury, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Venerable Lord Saye and Sele, Captain Conant, Messrs. V. I. Allen, Isaac Muxlow, W. Atkinson, Henry Everard, E. J. Boothby, J. S.

SUTTERBY is a small secluded village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of Candleshoe wapentake, Spilsby union and county court district, rural deanery at Hill No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles north-by-west from Spilsby, and 5 south-west from Alford. The church of St. John the Baptist is a small and plain structure, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an open belfry; containing 1 bell. The register dates from the year 1595. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £118; gross yearly value £135, including 17 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1848 by the Rev. Thomas Owston M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, who is also Vicar of Dalby, and resides at Partney. On the Downs to the east are barrows. Bennet Rothes Langton esq. D.L., J.P. of Langton Hall, Spilsby, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is mostly chalky loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, seeds and turnips. The area is 471 acres; rateable value, £622; the population in 1881 was 36.

SUTTERTON is a parish in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Kirton, Boston union and county court district, rural deanery of North Holland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, half a mile north from the Algarkirk and Sutterton station on the Great Northern railway, 101 miles from London and 6 south from Boston: a great portion of the village is situated round an open green. The church of St. Mary, founded in the eleventh or twelfth century, is a cruciform building of stone, in the Late Norman, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, transepts with aisles, south porch and a central embattled tower with crocketed spire, admirably rebuilt in 1787 and containing 8 bells, dating from 1720 to 1797, and a clock: there is also a "Priest's Bell," of the thirteenth century, inscribed in Longobardic lettering "Synhonde Hotfelde me fecit:" in 1862 the church was restored under the direction of Mr. Edward Browning, architect, when the nave walls and south porch were rebuilt, the arcades repaired, an aisle called "the Massingberd aisle," built on the east side of the south transept, at the cost of a member of that family, who was once resident here; the floor lowered and the interior refitted: the chancel was also entirely rebuilt at the sole cost of the Hon. Charles Cust: the communion table cover, an exquisitely wrought work, was presented by Mrs. Boothby, widow of the late incumbent: the oldest portion of the existing structure consists of the lower piers and arches, the north and south doorways, and nave arcades; of the Early English period are the transept arcades and clerestory of the transept; the nave clerestory is Decorated: the chancel retains a sedile, double piscina and locker: at the west end of the nave, in the Massingberg aisle, are three stone monuments, formerly in the churchyard: these consist in each case of a coped tomb, the first of which, on the north side, bears the recumbent effigy of a man in gown and hood; the margin is inscribed to John, son of William Boneworth, of Sottone, 1382: the next tomb supports a recumbent effigy of Alice, wife of the above named John: the tomb on the south side has the figure of a priest in Eucharistic vestments and is inscribed to John, son of the preceding John Boneworth, chaplain of Sotton, July, 1400. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1538; marriages, 1539. The living is a vicarage, present gross yearly value £1,065, including 510 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Crown and held since 1875 by the Rev. Adam Clarke Rowley M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. The lay rector is E. R. C. Cust esq. of Arthingworth, Northamptonshire. There are Wesleyan, Baptist and Free Methodist chapels here. A Cemetery was formed in 1878, at a cost of £700, and is under the control of a Burial Board. The ancestors of Archbishop Cranmer, resided for some time in this parish and the name of Hugh de Cranmere formerly appeared in the west window of the church. Small plots of land, left by many individuals, the value of which has increased, produce about £250 yearly, which is applied partly to the maintenance of the school. The Parochial library established by the late vicar consists of above 400 volumes. —— Thornhill esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. of Arthingworth, Northants: the representatives of the late Rev. Basil Beridge and Robert Boothby Heathcote esq. of Chingford, Essex. The soil is a rich

SUTTON BRIDGE is an ecclesiastical district, formed in 1874-5 from Long Sutton civil parish, and includes Central Wingland civil parish, which is partly in Norfolk; it has a junction station on the Great Northern and Midland railways and a small seaport called "Lower Port," subordinate to that of Wisbech and situate on the river Nene, 3 miles from its confluence with the ocean, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, Holbeach union and county court district, wapentake of Elloe, rural deanery of East Elloe, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles east from Long Sutton and 8 north-east from Wisbech. The town is governed by a local board of 9 members and consists chiefly of one side of a street, running to a considerable length, with a short street or two diverging from it on the north, besides several detached residences. There is a good quay on the river side, and warehouses for corn, coal and timber. About two-thirds of the houses at Sutton Bridge and nearly all the land in Sutton and Lutton Marshes, belong to Guy's Hospital, London. The rise of this place may be dated from the erection of Sutton bridge, which is here thrown across the outfall of the river Nene. A lofty embanked road extends from the bridge along the Cross Keys Wash, which connects the counties of Lincoln and Norfolk, and by this means, many thousand acres of land were recovered from the sea, and the former unsafe and uncertain mode of transit over the Wash entirely done away with. The original bridge was opened in 1831 and had a movable centre to allow of the passage of shipping, but it has since given place to a large and handsome cast and wrought iron swing-bridge, finished in 1850, at a cost of more than £20,000. The depth of water close to the bridge is sufficient at high tide to float a man-of-war. New docks, covering an area of 12 acres, were opened May 18th, 1881, but unfortunately gave way in June of the same year, and it is now (1884) proposed to re-construct them. A fortnightly depository cattle sale has been established by Messrs. Hackworth & Abbott, which is held on Monday. The church of St. Matthew, consecrated 29th August, 1843, is an edifice of flint with stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 1 bell: the reredos was presented by the wife of the late vicar, as a memorial to her father: there is also an inscribed brass to the Rev. Thomas Drake Young, late vicar of the parish for 40 years: there are sittings for 700 persons, of which 250 are free. The register dates from the year 1844, previous to which it was included in that of Long Sutton. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £110, net yearly value, including 2 acres of glebe, pew rents and fees, £280, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Henry Thomas Fountaine M.A. of St. Alban Hall, Oxford. There is a School Church, St. Philips, Guy's Head, about 3½ miles north from the bridge, built in 1869 on land leased from Guy's Hospital; services are held in this church every Sunday at 3 p.m. There are Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and United Free Methodist chapels. There is a public institute and reading room, established in 1864 and furnished with books and newspapers, principally for the working classes. The principal landowners are the Governors of Guy's Hospital and the Allenby family, of Tathwell, Louth and Garnsgate, Long Sutton. The soil is a light loam; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are wheat, potatoes and other roots. The population of the local board district in 1881 was 2,207; and of the ecclesiastical parish was 2,452, of which 102 are in Norfolk.

Central Wingland, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish, in the Holbeach union, partly in the county of Lincoln and partly in Norfolk, distant about 98 miles from London, 10 west from Lynn, and about 7 north from Wisbech: it is situated on the east bank of the river Nene, opposite Sutton Bridge, in which ecclesiastical parish it is included; the whole has been enclosed from the sea, under the powers of an Act passed in 1826: there is neither a place of worship nor a public house in this parish. The Crown, Guy's Hospital, the Duke of Bedford K.G. Mr. Robert Mossop, Mrs. Gibbons and Col. Long are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, oats, peas and potatoes. The soil is alluvial deposit, rich and fertile. The area is about 3,190 acres; rateable value in Lincolnshire, £2,019 and in Norfolk, £2,187; the population in 1871 was 181.

This parish is contributory to Long Sutton School Board, sending one member

LONG SUTTON (or SUTTON ST. MARY) is a market town, and large township and parish, with a station on the Bourn and Lynn joint railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, Holbeach union and county court district, rural deanery of East Elloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles east from Holbeach, 9 north from Wisbech, and 105 from London. Long Sutton stands on the west side of the Roman Bank, to which some centuries since the tide used to flow, and is on the road from Holbeach to Lynn. The town is governed by a Local Board of 9 members, and is well drained and lighted with gas. The church of St. Mary is a building of Transitional, Earlier English, Late Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of seven bays and aisles, north and south porches, and a south-west tower with angle buttresses rising in the third storey into octagonal arcaded turrets crowned with tall pinnacles, from within which rises an octagonal timber spire containing 6 bells: the tower and spire constitute one of the most remarkable designs of the Earlier English or Lancet period in the kingdom, and is particularly interesting as one of the very few which, having survived both fire and decay, remains still in its original condition: the spire is of wood, covered with lead, and the pinnacles at its base are similarly constructed: at the north-east corner of the chancel is a small and curious octangular building of two storeys, probably the sacristy, with a newel staircase leading to the upper chamber, which is groined, and has a window slit looking into the chancel: the south porch is groined, and has a parvise above with embattled parapet: the north porch has a small statue niche: the clerestory, added by Mr. Allen, is a late and inferior work: the north aisle retains an aumbry, and in the south aisle is a piscina: in the church is a sepulchral slab, with a cross and the words "Jesu mercy, Lady help," and inscription to Alys, wife of John Thomas, 1485: the font is octagonal: in one of the south windows is the figure of a knight being stung by a serpent: tradition says it represents John of Gaunt, but it is more probably intended for St. George and the Dragon: the organist, organ-blower and choir are maintained by an endowment: in 1853, a new east window, designed by Mr. Hugall, was inserted at the cost of the Rev. E. L. Bennett, vicar of the parish, and the west window, which is also stained, was a bequest of the late A. Howard esq. J.P. and cost £500: in 1866 the interior was thoroughly cleaned and reseated, the alleys fresh paved, the south aisle roof partly renewed in oak, and other works executed in the nave, at a total cost of about £2,000, under the direction of Messrs. Slater and Carpenter, of London: the chancel was also substantially repaired by the impropriators, viz. Lady Farquhar, Rev. H. Leigh Bennett M.A. Vice-Chancellor Kindersley and the Rev. Edward Leigh-Bennett B.A. vicar, at a cost of £700: a new pulpit has been set up as a memorial to the late Mr. Thomas Peel: there is a good eagle lectern of brass. The register dates from the year 1672. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £1,135, including the tithes of Sutton St. James and Sutton St. Edmunds, amounting to £1,108 with residence, in the gift of and held since 1843 by the Rev. Edward Leigh-Bennett B.A. of Merton College, Oxford, who is also impropriator of the rectory of Sutton St. Edmunds, valne £1,083. Here are General Baptist, Congregational, Free Methodist and Wesleyan chapels. The charities are numerous, and amount to £324 yearly, left chiefly by Thomas Allen and Robert Phillips, in land, and are applied to church purposes, the apprenticing of poor children and the relief of poor widows, and others deserving assistance: there are almshouses for poor old women. The greater portions of Allen's charity is devoted to the repairs of the church and the maintenance of church music, in accordance with the provisions of his will. There are two branch banks, one of the Gurney, Birkbeck, Peckovers and Buxton bank and the other of the National Provincial Bank of England Limited, two breweries and some corn mills. A handsome building was erected in 1856 to serve as a Corn Exchange, market and public rooms, at a cost of £1,700: the principal room will hold 400 persons. The Friendly Reading Society, which meets at Swain and Sons, has a library comprising about 1,500 volumes. There are also reading rooms at the School Board room open during the winter months. Long Sutton Agricultural Association was established in 1836. A corn and cattle market is held on Friday; the fairs are on the 13th and 14th of May, and the first Friday after September 25th. John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, 4th son of Edward III. owned Sutton and other large manors in this county. Sutton once contained a monastery called Ketel; and in the marsh is a farm called King's House, where King John is said to have rested after having lost his carriages and baggage in the Wash. Here are three manors: Sutton Holland, the largest, of which WilliamGoddard Jackson esq. of Duddington, is lord; Guanock manor, of which Richard Peele Mossop esq. is lord; and the manor of Cranwell, of which Octavius Green esq. is lord. The principal landowners are the Governors of Guy's Hospital, and there are a large number of small landowners. The soil is a light loam; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are wheat, mustard, potatoes and roots. The area of Sutton St. Mary is 9,138 acres of land and 3,510 of water; rateable value, £22,166; the population in 1881 was in the parish, 6,952; township, 4,901; and Local Board district, 2,694.

SUTTON-IN-THE-MARSH is a parish and village, pleasantly situated on the sea coast, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, Spilsby union and county court district, Alford petty sessional division, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4½ miles south from Mablethorpe station, 6 miles north-east from Alford and 18 south-east from Louth. A promenade has been formed along the shore, with seats and covered retreats, and there are many lodging houses for the convenience of visitors. The church of St. Clement is a brick building, consisting of chancel and nave and a gabled tower containing 4 bells: the chancel was rebuilt in 1860. The register dates from the year 1685. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £20, net yearly value £227, including 38 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Henry Williams B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There is a Wesleyan chapel. A new harbour is about to be formed here, which, though not adding considerably to the trade of this district, will be of much value as a port of shelter on a long and exposed coast: it will be opposite the Inner Dowsing Bank, which runs parallel with the coast, at a distance of about nine miles: the works, which will be under the superintendence of Sir John Coode, will consist of an outer harbour of 14 acres, leading by a lock of 50 feet in width to an inner dock of nearly 10 acres in extent: the outer harbour will be protected by a north and south pier, respectively 517 and 418 yards in length, with a lighthouse on the former, and an entrance on the latter one, which is the more sheltered. Here is a coastguard station; the lifeboat, named the "Birmingham," was purchased by a subscription, in 1866, among the working classes of Birmingham; but was replaced in 1876 by the "Caroline." Robert Kirk, who is lord of the manor, and Mr. Richard Brooks and John Louth Needham, are the principal landowners. The soil is fine alluvial and clay; subsoil, same. Bricks and tiles are made. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans, but a great portion is rich pasture. The area is 1,666 acres of land and 430 of water; rateable value, £3,318; the population in 1881 was 360.

Parish Clerk, John North.

POST OFFICE.—John Greet, receiver. Letters arrive from Alford at 9 a.m.; dispatched at 4 p.m. & 3 p.m. in winter, week days only. The nearest money order & telegraph office is at Mablethorpe R.S

SUTTON ST. EDMUNDS is a straggling village and hamlet and ecclesiastical parish, in Long Sutton civil parish, Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, Elloe wapentake, Holbeach union and county court district, East Elloe rural deanery, and Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 4 miles from French Drove station, 17 miles south-east from Spalding, 10 south from Holbeach, 10 south-west from Long Sutton and 10 west from Wisbech. The church of St. Edmund, erected about 1800, is a small edifice of brick and stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower with turret containing 1 bell: in the chancel is a memorial window to Mr. Isaac Whitshed, and three other stained windows have been put in since 1872. The register dates from the year 1706. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value from tithe rent-charge £300, in the gift of the vicar of Long Sutton, who is impropriator of the rectorial tithes, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Henry Holt Winbolt B.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. There is a General Baptist chapel, and one for United Methodists, erected in 1870. The poors' lands produce £100 yearly. This parish is divided by gates or roads known as Luttongate, Aldgate, Broadgate, and Guanockgate: these intersect the parish from north to south, and are traversed at their extremities and in the centre by cross roads; the parish extends from 4 to 10 miles south of the "Old South Holland Drain." The New Cut separates this parish from Cambridgeshire for some distance. William Goddard Jackson esq. of Duddington, Stamford, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Kilham family, of Tydd St. Mary. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and peas; there is also a considerable quantity of rich and fertile grazing land. The area is 5,335 acres; rateable value, £9,505; the population in 1881 was 676.

INKERSON FEN is about 4 miles south from the church.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Lambert.

SUTTON ST. JAMES is a village and ecclesiastical parish, in Long Sutton civil parish, Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, Holbeach union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of East Elloe, and Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 4 miles south-west from Long Sutton railway station, 6 south-east from Holbeach and 9 north from Wisbech. The South Holland Drain passes through the parish. The original church of Sutton St. James' seems to have been built about the year 1300 and consists of a nave and aisle or aisles in the Decorated style: to this were added, in the fifteenth century, a plain but massive brick tower (now stuccoed), containing 3 bells and a chancel of stone, lined with brick, with a vestry on the north side: no part of the original Decorated church now exists except the Tower arch (now walled up), which once opened into the church: in 1879 the existing chancel was converted into a church large enough for the parish, at a cost of £1,260: the east and north walls were taken down and an apsidal chancel of good ashlar stone and a Perpendicular north aisle of Wansford rubble stone erected: the new roof is of pitch pine, very massive and covered with Broseley tiles: new west doors and doorway were inserted, the floors relaid, and the interior reseated for 170 persons, the whole work being carried out under the direction of Mr. Bassett-Smith, architect. The register dates from the year 1570. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from 30 acres of glebe and other sources £93, net £90, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Long Sutton, and held since 1876 by the Rev. George Spencer Leigh-Bennett B.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. The vicarage house was built in 1877. Here are General Baptists and Wesleyan chapels. The charities amount to about £124 yearly, left by Dorothy Rangle, Robert Palmer, Francis Dodge and Thomas Blank for the poor of the parish. To the west of the village, on Ravensbank, stands Ivy Cross, which consists of an octangular base with four tiers of steps supporting a large square stone, in the middle of which rises a broken shaft supported by four flying buttresses: three-quarters of a mile south-west of this is another ancient cross of a plainer construction but much dilapidated. William Goddard Jackson esq. of Duddington, Stamford, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Allenby family, of Garnsgate Hall, Long Sutton. The soil is mostly a strong clay, yielding good crops of corn; the grazing land is excellent. The area is 2,847 acres; rateable value, £4,760; the population in 1881 was 605.

Parish Clerk, William Arden.

SWABY is a scattered village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 8 miles north from Spilsby, 3½ south-west from Claythorpe station and 6 north-by-west from Alford. The church of St. Nicholas is a modern structure of brick, built in 1827, at a cost of £500, and consists of nave with small apse, western porch and a bell-turret containing 1 bell. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from 327 acres of glebe, awarded at the time of the enclosure in lieu of tithes, £420 with residence, in the gift of the President and fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1865 by the Rev. James Cholmeley M.A. formerly fellow of that college. Swaby is in the manor of Bilsby; the land belongs chiefly to Magdalen College, Oxford, and the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby. The soil is mostly chalky loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,563 acres; rateable value, £2,103; the population, including that of Whitepit, in 1881 was 414.

Whitepit is a hamlet, ½ mile west, on the road from Spilsby to Louth, with Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels.

SWARBY is a parish and small village, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aswardhurn wapentake, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Aswardhurn with Lafford No. 2, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 4 miles south-west from Sleaford, 3½ west from the Aswarby station, 5 north-west from Falkingham and 10 east-by-north from Grantham. The church of St. Mary and All Saints is a small but ancient building, in the Early English, Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an interesting embattled western tower of excellent masonry, with a low pyramidal roof and four pinnacles, and containing 1 bell: there is a Decorated niche, richly canopied: in the chancel in the east wall, and in the south aisle, a headless figure, seated on a bench, supported by a corbel: the font is Early English: the stairs to the rood loft remain: both nave and aisles are covered by a single modern roof of the meanest description, in order to fix which the windows of the south aisle have been decapitated: in the churchyard, at the east end of the south aisle, lies a mutilated effigy. The register dates from the year 1705. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £90 including 47 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. and held since 1850 by the Rev. Christopher Whichcote M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Aswarby, where he resides. John Arthur Houblon esq. of Hallingbury, Bishop's Stortford, who is lord of the manor, and Sir Thomas Whichcote bart. D.L. of Aswarby hall, are the principal landowners. The soil is light loam and stiff clay; subsoil, limestone. The population in 1881 was 171; the parish contains about 910 acres, including three farms at CROFTON, a hamlet half a mile south-east of the village; rateable value, £1,196.

SWATON is a parish and village, near the ancient Roman Carr dyke, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Aveland wapentake, Sleaford union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Aveland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north-east from Billingborough station on the Bourn and Sleaford line, 4½ south from Heckington station on the Boston and Sleaford line, 5 north-east from Falkingham and 9 south-east from Sleaford. The church of St. Michael is a remarkably beautiful cruciform building, in the Early Geometrical, Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel and nave, under a single roof, aisles, transepts, fine south porch and a central tower containing 3 bells: the chancel, lower part of the tower and the piers supporting it are the earliest portion; the nave and aisles Decorated and the upper part of the tower Perpendicular; the side windows of the chancel are lancets, a rare feature in Early Geometric work: the chancel retains a large double Early English piscina, and has a beautiful window of two lights: in the north transept chapel, dedicated to S. John Baptist, are the traces of a tryptych and a small trefoiled piscina; there is also a piscina in the south transept: the west window, which is of great size, occupies the entire end of the church, and has reticulated quatrefoiled tracery: the font is a remarkably good and almost unique example of curvilinear Gothic, and consists of an octagonal basin, carried on a shafted hexagonal stem: the pulpit reading-desk and choir stalls and seats are of finely carved oak, many of the latter being of fifteenth century workmanship: the nave was reseated and restored in 1851, and again five years later, by the present vicar, and in the course of the work, some interesting frescoes, representing scenes in the life of Our Lord, were discovered above the chancel arch. The register dates from the year 1681. The living is a vicarage, with Spanby rectory annexed, tithe rent-charge £81, joint gross yearly value £424 including 25A. 3R. 3P. of glebe land, in the gift of Miss Campbell and Mrs. Seymour, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Richard Henry Mann B.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. A small stock fair was formerly held here on October 11th, but was discontinued about the year 1866. Henry James Lee-Warner esq. M.A. of Walsingham, Norfolk, is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, gravel and Oxford clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, seeds and roots. The area is 3,670 acres; rateable value, £5,014; the population in 1881 was 288.

SWAYFIELD (or SWAFIELD) is a scattered village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, wapentake of Beltisloe, union of Bourn, county court district of Grantham, parts of Kesteven, rural deanery of Beltisloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, and is situated upon the highest elevation between London and York, one mile and a half south from Corby station, 98½ miles from London, about 12 north-north-west from Stamford and 12 south-east from Grantham. The church of St. Nicholas is an edifice of stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel and nave and a tower containing 3 bells: it was rebuilt, with the exception of the chancel, in 1824, and the nave was in 1876 rebuilt and enlarged, and stained windows inserted in both chancel and nave by public subscription, in memory of the late Rev. John William Eagleton B.A. former rector. There are sittings for 160 persons. The register dates from the year 1724. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £222, gross yearly value £282, including 50 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Richard Cooper M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Corporation of Browne's Hospital, Stamford, own the manor and a greater portion of the land. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are cereals. The area is 1,300 acres; rateable value, £5,317; the population in 1881 was 253.

SWINDERBY is a pleasant village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, on the borders of Notts, parts of Kesteven, lower division of the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, Newark union and county court district, petty sessional division of Lincoln, rural deanery of Graffoe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 9 miles south-west from Lincoln. The Midland Railway Company has a station within a mile east of the village, and the Roman Foss way is on the south-east. The church of All Saints is a building of stone, chiefly of the Norman period, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch, organ chamber and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells: the arcade of the north aisle is a fine example of Early Norman work: there is a brass, with inscription, to certain members of the ancient family of Disney, 1613, and also a monument to the Misses Cartwright, sisters of the famous Major George Cartwright, late of Ossington hall, Notts, dated 1778: the church was thoroughly restored in 1879, at a cost of £861, under the direction of Mr. John T. Lee, of London, and reopened on All Saints' Day (Nov. 1) in that year: the works accomplished included the addition of a circular apse to the chancel and the erection of a porch and organ chamber: 2 new bells, by Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, were also added: there are three stained windows in the apse, and a stained window to the memory of Mrs. Talbot has also been placed at the east end of the north aisle: since the restoration two screens of iron work have been fixed in the north arches of the chancel and a similar screen under the chancel arch: the organ was given by E. Matthews esq. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge (vicarial) £15, gross yearly value £260, including 150 acres of glebe with house, in the gift of Charles Edward Lyon esq. and held since 1876 by the Rev. Charles Hamilton Kellett Long B.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1869, at a cost of about £600, is a red brick building, and has sittings for 300 persons, and there are Sunday schools attached. The poor's land of 20 acres with 18 houses was granted by deed in 1658 by John Dianey, then lord of the manor, and produces £58 yearly for bread and fuel, which is distributed on St. Thomas' day. T. Curtis esq. is impropriator of the rectory and lord of the manor. The principal landowners are T. Curtis esq. Osborne Johnson esq. Edward Henry Solly esq. and Charles Sheldon esq. The soil is of a mixed character; subsoil, clay in some parts, in others sandy. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips, potatoes and peas. The area is 2,073 acres; rateable value, £2,798; the population in 1881 was 503.

SWINESHEAD is a large village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Kirton, union and county court district of Boston, rural deanery of North Holland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles south-east from Swineshead station on the Boston, Sleaford and Grantham railway, 104½ from London and 7 west-south-west from Boston: the great navigable Forty Foot drain passes through the parish. The church of St. Mary is a spacious edifice of stone, chiefly in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, porch and a massive and lofty tower with small spire and containing a clock and 8 bells: the tower, 160 feet high, is chiefly Decorated, but the upper part is Perpendicular and has an embattled parapet and angle pinnacles; the south aisle, porch and clerestory are Decorated and the latter has six windows on either side and is finished with an embattled parapet: the north aisle is in part Perpendicular: on the south side is an octagonal turret with conical roof, containing a stair formerly leading to the rood loft and chancel roof; both aisles have at one time had chantries; in the pavement of the nave are three sepulchral slabs, one of which of grey marble once enclosed brass effigies of a civilian, his wife and children, with marginal inscription; the next, of free stone, has incised figures of a civilian and his wife and a marginal legend to Richard Benett, 1520, and Agnes, his wife: the third, of stone, bears an elaborate stemmed cross, surrounding which is an inscription to Roger Berdney and Alice, his wife, 1512: in the vestry are remains of a fine marble and alabaster monument erected on the north wall of the old chancel, to Sir John Lockton kt. 1610; the inscription shows it to have been placed by Frances, his wife, in 1628; the ancient altar slab, with five consecration crosses is now under the communion table and several of the ancient benches remain in the south aisle: the church also contains a picture of "The taking down from the Cross," presented by the late Herbert Ingram esq.: the chancel was rebuilt in 1847, at a cost of £2,000, by the Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge; and the nave was restored and reseated in oak, the tower arch re-opened, the floor relaid with Ancaster stone and other works effected, in 1869, at an expense of upwards of £2,000: the new organ, pulpit and desk, gas and other fittings were contributed by Mr. Reddish, then churchwarden: a new communion table with other fittings were given and the font and three windows repaired by the vicar: the lectern was presented by Col. C. T. J. Moore D.L., J.P., F.S.A. of Frampton hall; and the altar cloth, curtains for doors &c. by the ladies of the parish: a new porch and south aisle were built in 1880: the stained east window, placed in 1874, is a memorial to Joseph Mason Tennant esq. of Leeds, a principal landowner in this parish: there are others to the late Mr. Reddish and Mr. and Mrs. John Jessop. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1639: marriages from 1640. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £220, including 60 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1848 by the Rev. Joseph Holmes M.A. of that college. There are Baptist, Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels. There are numerous charities, amounting to nearly £500 yearly, left by Henry Pridgen and others: a portion of Cowley's school charity is also appropriated to the purchase of bread and coals for the poor. The market is now obsolete. An annual fair is held on October 2nd. The steps and part of the shaft of an ancient cross are still standing in the Market place. About a quarter of a mile north-east of the town is a circular Danish encampment, called the Man-war-ings, about 60 yards in diameter, and surrounded by a double foss. An abbey for Cistercian monks was founded here by Robert de Gresley, in 1134, the revenue of which, at the Dissolution, was valued at £175 19s. 10d. and there were then eleven monks: many valuable coins and several skeletons have, at various periods, been dug up near the spot; and in 1825, on sinking a well, one of the latter was discovered, which measured six feet four inches. The sea formerly flowed up to the town and near the market place was a harbour. The curfew is regularly tolled here at 8 p.m. and a curious custom exists of cutting a large cross in the turf, if any parishioner dies prematurely. Swineshead abbey is the property of William James Ingram esq. J.P.: the abbey is represented by a farm of about 160 acres and a farm-house built out of the materials of the monastery. Mrs. Herbert Ingram is the lady of the Abbey manor and there are several other manors in the parish. The principal landowners are Trinity College, Cambridge, and Messrs. Thomas Tennant, Charles Parker and John Cooper, and Mrs. Herbert Ingram. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, potatoes, peas and beans. The area is 6,747 acres; rateable value, £10,630; the population in 1881 was Swineshead, 1,626; Chapel Hill, 117; total, 1,743.

BARTHORP, Holt Hill, and Crossgates are adjacent to Swineshead.

CHAPEL HILL is given under a separate heading.

Vestry Clerk, William Sheridan Dobney.
Sexton, Henry Dawson.

Gibbet Hills and Forty Foot Bridge, formerly extra-parochial, now form a parish, in the union of Boston, near Swineshead railway station, comprising one farm of 174 acres, owned by Mr. Richard Ingall; rateable value, £480; the population in 1881 was 52.

Royalty and Rakes Farms, formerly extra-parochial, are now parishes in Boston union, the former 7½ miles south-west from Boston, and consisting of one farm of 120 acres; rateable value, £163; and the latter half a mile from Swineshead railway station, consisting of 100 acres, both owned and farmed by Mr. John Cooper, of Swineshead House. Royalty has no resident population. The two houses on Rakes farm stand in three parishes, Heckington, Hale and Swineshead: there were 8 persons living there in 1881.

Great Brand End Plot or Little Brand End, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish, one mile from Swineshead railway station and 8½ miles south-west from Boston: it is situated on the outskirts of Swineshead parish, near the Forty Foot Drain, and comprises one farm of 25 acres; rateable value, £36. Mr. Francis Key is owner and occupier; the population in 1881 was 4.

SWINETHORPE, formerly extra-parochial, is a parish on the border of Notts, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Kesteven, in the higher division of Boothby Graffoe wapentake, Lincoln union and county court district and diocese of Lincoln, 7 miles west from Lincoln. This parish is now ecclesiastically joined to Harby, in Nottinghamshire, situated 1½ miles north. The nearest railway station is at Thorpe-on-the-Hill, 2 miles south-east. The inhabitants attend the church at Harby. The registers for the parish of Harby-cum-Swinethorpe date from 1868; previous to this entries were made at North Clifton. Mrs. Curteis is sole landowner and lady of the manor, which formerly belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem. The Hall, or Jungle, one of the most curious architectural anomalies in the country, is an ancient, ivy-clad, castellated mansion, built in a rustic Gothic style, and was considerably enlarged by the late R. S. Collett esq.; it is now the residence of the Rev. Richard Davies Harries M.A. vicar of Harby. The soil is clay and sand; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 980 acres; estimated extent, 1,034 acres; rateable value, £1,208; the population in 1881 was 42.

SWINHOPE is a parish and very small village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake and petty sessional division of Bradley Haverstoe, union and county court district of Caistor, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 1, Stow archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, situated in a picturesque vale, about 9 miles north-east from Market Rasen, 7½ south-east from Caistor, 10½ north-west from Louth and 6½ south-west from the North Thoresby station on the East Lincolnshire railway. The church of St. Helen is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Gothic style, partly rebuilt by the late Rev. M. Alington, and restored by G. M. Alington esq. with the assistance of a small parish rate: it has a tower, and there are several good stained windows in the church, some monuments to the family of Alington, and two to the Fields of Laceby. The parish register dates from the year 1697. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £230, gross yearly value £234, including 14 acres of glebe, in the gift of George M. Alington esq. and held since 1837 by the Rev. Richard Alington-Pye B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Stenigot Horncastle and curate of Thorganby. George Marmaduke Alington D.L., J.P. lord of the manor and principal landowner, resides at Swinhope House, a mansion built in 1786 by the late Rev. M. Alington. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk generally. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area of the parish is 1,307 acres; rateable value, £1,924; the population in 1881 was 140.

SWINSTEAD is a pleasant village and parish, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, wapentake of Beltisloe, Bourn union and county court district, rural deanery of Beltisloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles west-north-west from Bourn, 2 south-east from Corby station and about 11½ north from Stamford. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and an embattled tower containing 4 bells: it was restored, with the exception of the chancel, in 1854, re-pewed and stained windows introduced, chiefly at the cost of Lord Willoughby de Eresby: there is a fine monument to Brownlow, fifth and last Duke of Ancaster and Kesteven, who died 8th February, 1809: the chancel was beautifully restored in 1859: there are sittings for 250 persons. The register dates from the year 1733. The living is a vicarage, gross nominal yearly value, from 120 acres of glebe, £50 with residence, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Beaumont Griffith Jarrett B.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. The late vicar restored, for the purpose of repairing the church, about 3 acres of land belonging to the living, which had by some means become attached to the poor's land. There is a small Wesleyan chapel. There are about 15 acres of poor's land; the rent is expended as directed yearly. Barnes' charity of £2 10s. yearly is for clothing. In the village there is an ancient stone cross and also a well of pure and refreshing water. In a farm-house, called the Abbey farm, is a doorway of the Early English period. The Baroness Willoughby de Eresby is lady of the manor, lay impropriator and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are cereals. The area is 1,330 acres; rateable value, £92 5s.; the population in 1881 was 349.

SYSTON is a parish, in the Southern division of the county, Winnibriggs and Threo wapentake, parts of Kesteven, Spittletake petty sessional division, Grantham county court district, Newark union, rural deanery of North Grantham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north-by-east from Grantham, and 1½ south-east from Barkston station. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a structure, in the Norman, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch, and an embattled tower with pinnacles containing 3 bells: the nave has several inserted windows of the Early Decorated period, and a clerestory of Perpendicular date: the arches opening to the tower and chancel from the nave are very fine examples of Norman work, and the tower itself remains nearly as in the twelfth century: the chancel has three stained lancet windows, erected with two side windows, in memory of Sir John Charles Thorold bart.; and there are monuments to several of the Thorold family: the church was repaired in 1861-2, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kirk, of Sleaford, architect, at the cost of the late Sir J. C. Thorold bart. when the roofs were renewed and raised to a high pitch, the chancel almost wholly rebuilt, and several ancient windows restored: the curious stone lintel of the south doorway, with its arcading enclosing figures of saints, has also been renewed: the font was presented by the Rev. Prebendary Gilbert, late vicar, and is Early English in style: the Communion plate of silver-gilt was also his gift. The registers date from the years—marriages, 1755; baptisms and burials, 1783. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £14, gross yearly value £89, including 67 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir J. H. Thorold bart. and held since 1875 by the Rev. Edward Mansfield Clements B.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford, who is assistant diocesan inspector of schools and curate in charge of Barkston, where he resides. Under the scheme of the Charity Commissioners relating to the Thorold charities (for particulars of which see Marston), £10 is distributed to the poor of this parish. The interest of £35 bequeathed by Thomas Lowrey esq. in 1819, is expended in bread for the poor on December 14th in every year. The Jericho woods, adjoining the Gonerby hills, together with the church and village of Syston, are described under the name of "Willingham" in Sir Walter Scott's celebrated novel of the "Heart of Mid-Lothian." Syston Hall, the seat of Sir John Henry Thorold bart. D.L., J.P. the lord of the manor and proprietor of the whole parish, is situated one mile from the village, within a park of over 546 acres, which contains a large sheet of water; the western façade of the mansion, from its extreme length, produces a most imposing effect; adjoining is a noble conservatory, opening on to the garden: the house, built by the great-grandfather of the present baronet, stands on the summit of a hill, the previous mansion having occupied a site near the parish church, in the valley below: it commands a very extensive prospect of the vales of Grantham and Belvoir, extending to the distant hills of Nottinghamshire: the library is a noble apartment, but the very valuable collection of books was sold in 1884. The soil is light and sandy; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and seeds. The area is 1,613 acres; rateable value, £3,203 16s. 5d.; the population, including the inhabitants of six houses at the GIPPLES, formerly an extra-parochial place (the property of St. Katherine's Priory, near Lincoln), amounted at the census in 1881, to 224.

Parish Clerk, James Carter.

TALLINGTON is a parish, village and station on the Great Northern railway, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Ness wapentake, union and county court district of Stamford, rural deanery of Ness, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, situated on the river Welland, 4 miles east from Stamford and 3 west-by-south from Market Deeping: the high road from Stamford to Market Deeping passes through the village. The church of St. Lawrence is an ancient cruciform building of Barnack stone, erected in the twelfth century, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts and a tower containing 3 bells, and there is also an ancient Sanctus bell: the church had formerly a spire, which was destroyed by lightning about 1790: there are two stained windows. The register dates from the year 1690. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £150 with good residence, in the gift of the Earl of Lindsey, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Frederick Carroll M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. There is a Congregational chapel. The charities amount to £80 yearly, arising from lands and house property left by the Heron family. The Earl of Lindsey D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, the Hon. Mr. Cavendish and the vicar are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crop is wheat. The area is 690 acres; rateable value, £4,582; the population in 1881 was 245.

TATHWELL is a parish, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Wold division of the hundred of Louth Eske, Louth Eske petty sessional division, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 3, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles south from Louth and 1½ miles south-west from Hallington station, on the Lincoln and Louth branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of St. Vedast is a small and unpretending red brick and stone building of Norman date, having chancel, nave and a square embattled tower with 1 bell: the church was partially restored in 1857, by inserting Gothic stone casements instead of the old wooden ones, and in 1882 a vestry was built by the present vicar: there are several monuments to the Hanby and Chaplin families, and a monument surmounted by a cross to Lord William Henry Cavendish Bentinck. The register dates from the year 1633. The living is a vicarage, tithes commuted at £425 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1872 by the Rev. William Gibson Patchell M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and diocesan inspector of schools. There is a beautiful sheet of water in the valley below the church, well stocked with trout. On an eminence, called Orgarth Hill, are traces of an old encampment, said to have been formed in the wars of the English and Danes; and on an eminence, called Bully Hill, about one mile south-east of Tathwell, are six tumuli. Tathwell Hall, the property of Henry Chaplin esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. in the occupation of Mr. Richard Botterill, tenant farmer, is a handsome building in the Grecian style, erected in 1841, standing in tastefully arranged and extensive grounds. Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay, gravel and limestone; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and mangold-wurzel. The area is 4,314 acres; rateable value, £5,078; the population in 1881 was 422.

CADWELL and DOVENDALE, 1 mile west, are hamlets belonging to the parish of Tathwell. Samuel Allenby esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor of Cadwell and chief landowner, resides at Cadwell Hall, a pleasantly situated mansion.

TATTERSHALL with TATTERSHALL THORPE.

TATTERSHALL is a parish and township, in the Mid division of the county, Southern division of the wapentake of Gartree, Horncastle union, petty sessional division and county court district, parts of Lindsey, rural deanery of Gartree, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 119¼ miles from London, 9 south-by-west from Horncastle, 22 south-east from Lincoln and 12 north-north-west from Boston. Tattershall station, on the Great Northern railway, is one mile from the town. The church of the Holy Trinity, formerly Collegiate, is a beautiful cruciform structure of grey stone, in the Perpendicular style, erected in connection with the college here: it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, north and south porches, lofty transept and a massive embattled western tower with four pinnacles, and containing a clock and 5 bells: the greater part of the ancient stained glass, representing sacred subjects, figures of saints, besides many shields of arms borne by the Cromwells, was removed in 1754 to the church of St. Martin, Stamford Baron; the remainder, collected together, is now in the east window: the chancel retains three sedilia, a piscina and an aumbry, and there are also piscinæ in both transepts, and in the north porch a stoup: the stone screen was the gift of Robert de Whalley, a member of the college in 1528, and he was buried beneath its archway: the pulpit is panelled and enriched at the base with fine carved work; there is in the choir a very fine but mutilated brass with canopy to Ralph, 3rd Baron Cromwell, lord treasurer to Henry VI. founder of the College and Castle (1400), and Margaret (Dayncourt) his wife, 1454: in the north transept is a slab of Purbeck marble, with brass effigy and inscription to Matilda or Maude (Stanhope), wife of Robert, 6th baron Willoughby de Eresby, and niece of the above Ralph, Lord Cromwell, 1497: here also is a canopied brass highly enriched, with effigy and inscription, to Joan (Stanhope), wife of Sir Humphrey Bourchier, 4th baron Cromwell, 1479; there are also three brasses of ecclesiastics, the finest being that of Provost Warde, the first appointed provost of the college, with large effigy in cope and other vestments; next is a brass, with vested effigy and a rhyming Latin inscription of eight couplets, to William Moor S.T.P. second provost, canon of York, and rector of Leadenham, 1456; the third is a similar effigy, with inscription, to William Symson, chaplain of Edward Heryn, 1519. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £122, in the gift of Earl Fortescue, and held by the Rev. Mortimer Thomas Latham B.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford, who is also lecturer of Tattershall, under the Gilson bequest, and surrogate. There is a Wesleyan chapel. There are almshouses for ten poor families, founded in 1440 by Ralph Cromwell, lord treasurer in the reign of Henry VI. which are endowed with £30 yearly. The charities for distribution amount to £12 yearly, derived from money left by Hirst Gibson esq. in 1835. An annual fair for cattle and sheep is held on the 25th September. Tattershall Castle, as at present existing, was erected about the year 1440, at a cost of 4,000 marks, and was a strong fortress, but much injured during the Parliamentary wars: the principal remains consist of the keep, a quadrangular tower of fine brickwork, with an area at the base of 89 by 67 feet, and massive walls, in part 16 feet thick and sloping inwards: at the angles rise four octangular turrets, tapering gradually upwards, with machicolated battlements, reaching a height of 112 feet, and two of these have low conical roofs: in the south-east turret is a staircase of 181 steps, leading to the top of the fourth storey, where there is all round a covered projecting gallery, resting on massive corbetted masonry and embattled. Earl Fortescue is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light sand; subsoil, gravel and blue clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips: The area is 4,578 acres; rateable value, Tattershall, £3,210; Tattershall Thorpe, £2,301; the population of Tattershall township in 1881 was 481, and of the parish 782.

By Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. a detached portion of this parish was transferred to the new parish of Wildmoor.

TATTERSHALL THORPE is a township 1 mile to the north-east, with a scattered population in 1881 of 301, and a Wesleyan chapel.

TEALBY (otherwise TEVILBY) is a parish and large village, in the Northern division of the county, southern division of Walshcroft wapentake, parts of Lindsey, Caistor union and petty sessional division, Market Rasen county court district, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, situated on a rivulet, a tributary to the river Ancholme, 4 miles north-east from Market Rasen station, 19 north-east from Lincoln and 8 south from Caistor. The church of All Saints, which occupies a commanding site, is a large edifice of stone, in the Norman, Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, porch and a massive western tower, with embattled parapet and pinnacles and containing 4 fine toned bells and a clock: the lower portion of the tower is Late Norman: both aisles are Early English, with some Decorated windows; both the clerestory and aisle walls have Perpendicular embattled parapets with pinnacles; within the plaster ceiling is a good timber roof of the same period, and there are some fragments of stained glass: the chancel, with the exception of some inserted Decorated windows, is of the same style and date as the aisles: the church was restored in 1872, under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, architect, when the tower arch, an extremely fine example of Late Norman work, was opened: in the course of the work, a good deal of ancient mural decoration was met with, many portions of tombstones were found to have been used in the construction of the windows, and one of these, forming the sill of a window, bore an ornamental circular-headed cross, with other devices: the cost of the restoration of the chancel was defrayed by Admiral E. C. Tennyson-d'Eyncourt C.B.: the stained east window, a memorial to the Rev. F. Flowers, 42 years vicar of Tealby, was presented in 1877 by the d'Eyncourt family: the tower was restored in 1884, at a cost of £350, and a new parapet added, in memory of Mr. Flowers. The register dates from the year 1714. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £100, gross yearly value £135, including 13 acres of glebe, in the gift of Admiral Edwin Clayton Tennyson-d'Eyncourt C.B. and held since 1878 by the Rev. Samuel Lewin B.A. of Lampeter, who is also vicar of North Willingham. There are Wesleyan, Primitive and Free Methodist chapels. Bayons Manor, in this parish, the seat of Admiral Edwin Clayton Tennyson-d'Eyncourt C.B. is a modern castellated manor-house, beautifully situated in an undulating park on the slope of the wolds, commanding extensive view towards Lincoln: the house is surrounded by a moat, crossed by a draw-bridge and includes all the architectural features and accessories peculiar to a baronial residence of the middle ages: the interior comprises a large and well proportioned hall with an open and massive roof adorned with suits of armour, ancient weapons and portraits, a large and valuable library with a similar roof, besides other spacious apartments. Previous to the Conquest the lands afterwards forming Bayons Manor were chiefly held by Rolf and in part by Alnred; it subsequently became the possession of Odo, Bishop of Bayeux, from whose title its modified name was derived, and afterwards of the baronial family of de Bayeux, the Lords Beaumont, Lovel and d'Eyncourt: it was forfeited by Francis, Lord Lovel and d'Eyncourt, in consequence of his having supported the pretender, Simnel, at the battle of Stoke, June 16th, 1487, and was next granted by Henry VII. to Henry Norris, son of Lord Lovel's sister, Frideswide, but refusing falsely to accuse Queen Anne Boleyne, he was executed May 17th, 1536; in 1539, Thomas Hatcliffe held the manor, and on the death of his son in 1545, it was transferred to the Duke of Norfolk; by subsequent grant and repurchase, the manor became the property of the family of Mr. Tennyson-d'Eyncourt, by whom the manor house and grounds have been restored to their present condition. In 1807 a glazed earthen vessel was turned up by the plough on the estate, containing about 6,000 silver pennies of Henry II. of various mints, and disclosing to antiquaries several mintages and specimens before unknown: by the liberality of the owner, collections were placed in the British Museum and in other repositories: the discovery was made almost at the top of the Wold, near what appeared to have been anciently a road, on the southern boundary of the parish, near to North Willingham. Admiral Edwin Clayton Tennyson-d'Eyncourt C.B. lord of the manor of Bayons and Miss Boucherett are chief landowners. The soil is various, there is loam and stiff clay, it is generally sand in the lower portion; subsoil, sand, and on the higher parts of the parish the soil rests on the limestone and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 3,950 acres; rateable value, £4,838; the population in 1881 was 654.

TEMPLE BRUER (on the Heath) with TEMPLE HIGH GRANGE.

THIS is a parish, formerly extra-parochial, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Flaxwell wapentake, Sleaford union and county court district, rural deanery of Longoboby, archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-west from Sleaford, 10 south-by-east from Lincoln and 4 east from Leadenham station. Navenby and Leadenham station on the Grantham and Lincoln line (Great Northern) and Digby station on the Lincoln and Sleaford line (Great Northern and Great Eastern joint) are the nearest stations, each four miles distance. The church of St. John the Baptist is a small structure of stone, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, erected in 1873 by H. Chaplin esq. M.P. of Blankney Hall: it consists of chancel, nave, porch, vestry and a wooden bell-cote with spirelet, containing 1 bell: there are sittings for 130 persons. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £250, in the gift of Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. and held since 1884 by the Rev. James Richard Dutton Tompson, of Oxford University, who resides at Wellingore. A vicarage house is about to be built near the church, on a site given by Henry Chaplin esq. M.P. the cost being defrayed by voluntary subscriptions. On Temple Bruer farm are the remains of an extensive establishment, formerly a preceptory belonging to the Knights Templars; a massive square tower and a few vaults still remain; the tower is Early English, and was erected probably about the middle of the thirteenth century; it is of three storeys and 51 feet in height, with a newel staircase at the north-west angle leading to the upper chambers and the roof; the basement, used as a chapel, is vaulted and groined and surrounded by an arcading, with a piscina on the south side: the bases of the eight pillars of the circular church still exist at some depth below the soil, a little to the west of the tower, and were laid bare in 1833, by Dr. Oliver: the diameter of the church was 52 feet, and it was united by some other structure to the remaining tower; the whole ground in the vicinity abounds with evidences of the extent of the original buildings, and there is also a remarkably fine well, 9 feet in diameter, and never known to be dry: stone coffins and other remains have at various times been exhumed. In 1541, King Henry VIII. when on his way towards the north, for the purpose of holding a conference with his nephew, the young King of Scotland, paid a visit here to Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, who had held the Commandery buildings since the suppression of the House in 1538. Temple High Grange lies 2½ miles north-east from the church, and is occupied by Mr. Frank Chatterton, farmer. Henry Chaplin esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Blankney, is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The land is mostly arable and heath. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and mangolds. The parish contains 3,910 acres; rateable value, £3,695; the population in 1881 was 201.

Parish Clerk, George Hayward.

TETFORD is a large village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, Hill hundred, parts of Lindsey, Horncastle petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Hill No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Stow, 6½ miles north-east from Horncastle, 8 north-west from Spilsby, 8 west from Alford and 9 south from Louth. The church of St. Mary is a stone building, chiefly of the Decorated and Perpendicular periods, with some Early English remains and modern work, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch, and a western tower with four pinnacles containing a clock and 3 bells: the south aisle and both arcades are Decorated, but the north aisle was rebuilt in 1826; in the south aisle is a piscina, and a crocketed ogee arch; the porch retains a stoup: on the south wall is a memorial, dated 1749, to the Hon. Captain Edw. Dymoke, Champion of England, surmounted by a breastplate and helmet of large size: in the churchyard stands the base and part of the base of a cross. The register dates from 1584. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, principally from land, £620, in the gift of Sir Hugh A. H. Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. and held since 1875 by the Rev. Arthur Bolland Skipworth B.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. Here are Free and Wesleyan Methodist chapels. In 1714, Edward Richardson gave a cottage and about 7 acres of land, now valued at £20 yearly, towards teaching poor children of Salmonby and Tetford, whose parents do not "farm" a tenement of above £4 yearly; this endowment is now applied to the school in this parish. Limestone is obtained here in large quantities, and burnt for manure. In the parish are traces of extensive encampments, supposed to have been formed during the wars between the Britons and English. Sir Hugh Arthur Henry Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor, and The Hon. Francis Scamon Dymoke of Scrivelsby, Queen's Champion, Mr. George Westoby and Meaburn Staniland esq. J.P. of Harrington Hall, Spilsby, are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,210 acres; rateable value, £2,282; the population in 1881 was 590.

TETNEY is an extensive village and parish extending to the sea shore, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, wapentake and petty sessional division of Bradley Haverstoe, Grimsby county court district, Louth union, rural deanery of Grimsby No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 1½ miles south-east of Holton-le-Clay railway station, 7 south-south-east from Great Grimsby. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 4 bells: an inscription with the date 1363, found on one of the pillars of the north arcade, is commonly supposed to record the erection of the nave; the translation is as follows: "This work was accomplished Anno Domini 1363; Master Robert Day then Vicar": the tower and chancel are Perpendicular: in the church are two memorials of the de Elkynton family, one to Robert de Elkynton and Christiana, his wife, 1322, and the other to William de Elkynton and Alice, his wife, 1348: there is also a monument to John Jekyll: the church was restored in 1851-2, under the direction of Mr. R. J. Withers, architect, when the chancel and part of the north aisle were rebuilt: the east end of the latter, enclosed with oak screens, forms a vestry; the interior was generally refitted: during the work some carvings of the Norman period were found. The register dates from the year 1720. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £330, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1872 by the Rev. John Wild B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The vicarage house, pleasantly situated near the west end of the church, was built in 1875 by the present vicar, at a cost of £1,800: the rectorial lands amount to about 800 acres, of which 411 acres were allotted in lieu of tithes at the enclosure of 1777: the vicarial lands amount to about 130 acres, of which 121 acres were allotted in lieu of tithes at the above date. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1877, at a cost of £1,300, and a Primitive Methodist chapel, 1853, rebuilt in 1856. There are Sunday schools attached to the church and chapels. The Tetney ram and foal fair is held in September, and a pleasure fair, which is but of little importance, on the first Monday after the 12th of July. There is a small Temperance Hall, built in 1851, and holding 250 people. Here are several blow wells, that send forth copious streams of pure water. Sir Hugh Arthur Henry Cholmeley bart. D.L., J.P. of Easton park, Grantham, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Earl of Scarbrough, George Henry Haigh esq. D.L., J.P. of Grainsby, and John Frankish and Cornelius Parker esqrs. The soil and subsoil are clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 5,030 acres of land and 3,295 of water; rateable value, £7,226; the population in 1881 was 807.

Tetney Lock is a hamlet, 2 miles east from the village, close to Tetney Haven, which is the outfall of the Louth navigation. There are coal wharfs and brick works at the Lock, two inns and a coast-guard station. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1864. A great part of the hamlet consists of low but fertile marshes.

EAST THEDDLETHORPE (or THEDDLETHORPE ST. HELEN'S) is a village and parish, on the seashore, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred, and petty sessional division of Calceworth, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 11 miles east from Louth and 8 north-east from each of Legbourne and Authorpe stations, on the East Lincolnshire railway and half a mile east from Theddlethorpe station on the Louth and East Coast railway. The church of St Helen, rebuilt in 1866, consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 3 bells: there is a marble tablet to the memory of Henry Cracroft Marshall, dated 1789. The register dates from the year 1716. The living is a rectory, united with that of Mablethorpe St. Peter, tithe rent-charge (Theddlethorpe) £449, joint gross yearly value £600, including 26 acres of glebe here, with residence, in the gift of the Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Lewis Drummond Kennedy M.A of Christ's College, Cambridge. The Rev. George Shaw B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, is curate in charge. There is a Primitive Methodist chapel. The charities for the poor amount to £3 6s. yearly, derived in part from lands belonging to the trustees of the late H. Winder; besides the interest of £20 left by Mrs. Elizabeth Rooke and £2 10s. payable from the estate of the Rev. B. Belcher. The Rev. Brymer Belcher M.A. vicar of St. Gabriel, Pimlico, London; Mrs. Parke and Mrs. Austen, who have the manorial rights, the trustees of the late Wastel Brisco esq. John Taylor esq. and the trustees of the late Rev. J. Wood, are the principal landowners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area is 1,866 acres of land and 640 of water; rateable value, £3,329; the population in 1881 was 414 of the civil parish and 469 of the ecclesiastical.

WEST THEDDLETHORPE (or THEDDLETHORPE ALL SAINTS), near the sea shore, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh divison of Calceworth hundred, Louth union and county court district, Calceworth rural deanery No. 1, Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 10 miles east from Louth, with a station on the Louth and East Coast branch of the Great Northern railway. The church of All Saints is a fine building, principally in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and a broad and massive western tower containing 6 bells: the nave and aisles have embattled parapets, finished with pinnacles and grotesques; the tower of three stages has walls nearly five feet thick and is embattled, but has lost its pinnacles: the chancel is divided from the nave by a very elaborately worked screen, extending across the whole width of the nave and divided into seven compartments, the central division being wider than the others and retaining its original gates: the east end of each aisle is also enclosed with screen work of the late fifteenth century, two altar slabs still remain and on the north side the approach to the rood loft: much of the old seating exists in different parts of the church and some portions of the timbered roofs exhibit very good carved work, in the form of bosses, armorial shields &c. in the south chapel is a slab with the brass effigy of a knight, wearing the then almost disused camail and remarkable as being the latest known brass exhibiting this piece of defensive armour: the slab also bears two shields and is inscribed to Robert Hayton, 1424: there is also a brass inscription on another slab to Roger de Hagnaby and a third bearing a shield of the Angevine family: the church was extensively repaired and a new organ introduced in 1865-6: the nave was restored and reopened in November, 1883: there are sittings for 150 persons. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value of £165, including 88 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. Brymer Belcher M.A. vicar of St. Gabriel's, Pimlico, London; Mrs. Parke and Mrs. Austen, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Willoughby Charles Haines T.A.K.C.L. The church land comprises about 3½ acres for the repairs of the fabric: in 1840 the great tithes were commuted for a yearly rent-charge of £419, and are the property of the patrons of the living. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. Here are charities for the poor, amounting to £3 yearly. Here is a coast-guard station for three men. The Rev. Brymer Belcher M.A. and Mrs. Parke have the manorial rights and are also the principal landowners. The soil is strong loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, peas, beans, oats and most roots, but the land is principally pasturage. The area is 1,670A. OR. 12P. and 865 of water; rateable value, £3,070; the population in 1881 was 329.

Parish Clerk, William Wilson.

THIMBLEBY is a parish and village, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Horncastle soke, union, petty sessional division and county court district and rural deanery of Horncastle, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, one mile and a half west from Horncastle station; it is bounded on the east by the Bain and on the south by the Witham. The Langton St. Andrew's district and Fen Allotments of this parish are under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners to improve and drain Fen Lands. The church of St. Margaret, built in 1879, is a building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, organ chamber and a tower with octagonal spire, containing a clock and 1 bell: there are seats for 136 persons. The registers date from the year 1695. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £580, net £420, arising from 583 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1874 by the Rev. Charles Augustus Potter M.A. of Merton College, Oxford. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. Michael Boulton, on April 10th, 1719, left an annual rent-charge of 40s. for a schoolmaster. Elizabeth Boulton left by will, in 1725, land of the value of £20 annually, to teach four poor children, but this charity is in abeyance: there is also a small charity of 6s. 8d. left by Robert Clarke, which is distributed annually. In this parish, near Woodhall Spa, on the side of the road to Horncastle, is a small monument, erected in commemoration of the Battle of Waterloo: on the apex is a bust of the late Duke of Wellington. T. S. Hotchkin esq. Reuben Roberts esq. and John Hassard Short esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. Mrs. Tebbutt, of Horncastle, is lady of the manor. The soil is clay and sandy loam; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,416 acres; rateable value, £2,580; the population in 1881 was 393, of which 95 are included in Langton St. Andrew's ecclesiastical parish.

By the Act 44 Vict. c. xvii. the Fen Allotment was transferred to the new parish of Wildmoor.

HALLGARTH forms a separate manor, of which Reuben Roberts esq. is lord and owner

NORTH THORESBY is a large village and parish, with station on the East Lincolnshire railway, 8 miles north-by-west from Louth, 8 south-by-east from Great Grimsby and 148 from London, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Bradley Haverstoe wapentake and petty sessional division, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Louth Eske and Ludborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln. The church of St. Helen is an ancient building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave and a tower containing 3 bells: the chancel is of more modern date: in the year 1848 the church was thoroughly repaired, at a cost of £600, raised by voluntary contributions. The register dates from the year 1546. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £430, net yearly value £430, including 53A. 3R. 22P. of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1852 by the Rev. Richard Edward Bassett B.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel here. The poor's land comprises 18 acres, partly allotted at the enclosure, but mostly purchased with £20 left by Mrs. F. Smith in 1680, and other benefactions; the whole is now worth about £35 a year. George Henry Haigh esq. D.L., J.P. of Grainsby, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Robert John Hinman Parkinson esq. M.A., B.C.L., J.P. of Ravendale, the trustees of the late F. Campion, G. H. Haigh esq. D.L., J.P. and Messrs. William Payne and Thomas Bond. The soil is generally strong and stiff, excepting the Fens, which are of a peaty nature; subsoil, strong clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 2,485 acres; rateable value, £3,997; the population in 1881 was 745.

SOUTH THORESBY is a pleasant village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of the hundred and petty sessional division of Calceworth, union and county court district of Louth, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles south from Claythorpe station, 4 west from Alford, 8 north from Spilsby and 9 south-east from Louth. A trout stream runs through the parish. The church of St. Andrew is a building of brick, erected in 1738, and consisting of chancel and nave and a tower with four pinnacles, containing 2 bells: the church was repaired and reseated in 1872. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £310 with residence, in the gift of the Queen, as Duchess of Lancaster, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Basil Arthur Galland M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1873. Chalk is obtained here in large quantities and burnt for manure. Willoughby Wood esq. of Hollyhurst, Burton-on-Trent, is lord of the manor and principal landowner: his family formerly resided at the Hall, which was taken down about the year 1826. The soil is chiefly adapted for the growth of turnips and barley. The area is 932 acres; rateable value, £1,376; the population in 1881 was 159.

THORESWAY is a village and parish, situate in a picturesque valley of the Wolds, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, southern division of Walshcroft wapentake, Caistor union and county court district, petty sessional division of Walshcroft, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-east from Caistor, 13 north-west from Louth, 7 north-east from Market Rasen and 8 south-east from Moortown railway station. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of stone, in the Norman, Transitional, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and a western bell-cote with spirelet, supported on framing, and containing 1 bell: the church, until recently, consisted of a short chancel and nave only, the aisles and western tower having been taken down on account of their ruinous condition; but in 1880 the whole structure was thoroughly restored under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, architect, of Louth, when the chancel was rebuilt on the old foundations, vestry, organ chamber and north porch added, the aisles re-erected, the fourteenth century arcades, which had been built up, being reopened, the flooring laid anew and the chancel refitted; the total cost was £1,842: during the rebuilding several stone coffins with floriated crosses were exhumed; these are now at the west ends of the north and south aisles: there are also three ancient slabs to the memory of Sir Philip de Chauncey, John de Gothmundham and to one of the De Bohun family. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1726; marriages, 1728. The living is a rectory, net yearly value about £550 including 687 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1875 by the Rev. George Maule M.A. of University College, Oxford. The rectory house, a handsome residence, was built in 1840, at a cost of £1,800. The Rev. John Jarratt M.A. vicar of North Cave, who is lord of the manor and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the landowners. The soil is calcareous; subsoil, chalk and marl. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,730 acres; rateable value, £2,909; the population in 1881 was 258.

THORNTON CURTIS is a scattered village and parish, with a station 1½ miles east from the village, on the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, northern division of Yarborough wapentake, Glanford Brigg union, petty sessional division and county court district of Barton-on-Humber, rural deanery of Yarborough No. 1, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 5 miles south-east from Barton-on-Humber and 4 south from New Holland. The church of St. Lawrence is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower containing 4 bells: there is a curiously carved Norman font, square in plan, the bowl resting on a large central shaft, with a smaller one at each angle: the whole surface is enriched with sculpture in low relief: the oaken pulpit and communion table are seventeenth century: there is a curious monument near the south porch to Mr. Skinner, 1626, and near to it a very ancient and rude female bust: the church was restored in 1883-4, at a cost of over £3,000, and reopened Jnly 3, 1884, by the Dean of Lichfield: there are sittings for 300 persons. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £45, net yearly value £215, including 108 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Rowland Winn esq. M.P. and held since 1882 by the Rev. Henry Fletcher D.D. of Brasenose College, Oxford. About a mile and a half east of the village are the ruins of the Abbey of St. Mary, founded by William-le-Gros, Earl of Albemarle, on the festival of St. Hilary, January 13, A.D. 1139, and in the following year, on the day of the same festival, the founder brought hither an establishment of twelve Augustinian, or Black Canons, from Kirkham Priory: one of the number was then constituted prior, but in 1148 the monastery was raised by Pope Eugenius III. to abbatial rank, and in 1517 became a mitred abbey: the abbey was dissolved in 1541, and refounded by Henry VIII. as a college for a dean and twenty prebendaries, in honour of the Holy Trinity; it was visited by the king in person in the same year, when he stayed several days; but this new foundation lasted only till 1547, when the site was granted to Henry Holbeach, Bishop of Lincoln, the clear yearly income being estimated at £594: the remains of the Abbey church are insignificant, the only existing portions being the end of the south transept and a fragment of the adjoining chapter house: within the area of the nave and north transept are a number of stone coffins and incised slabs, and outside the east wall of the choir a slab with a very rich cross and marginal inscription to John Girdyk, 1363, and Johan, his wife: the ruins are generally of the Early Decorated period, the chapter house dating from 1282-1308, choir 1315, and the presbytery 1443-73: the remains of the abbot's house is now a farm: the entrance gatehouse is one of the finest existing specimens in England of the Early Perpendicular style, and was built abont 1382, the general plan being that of a parallelogram of two storeys, with octagonal tower at the angles, and on either side of the entrance: the font is enriched with several canopied niches, from some of which the figures have disappeared; the three largest, however, remain, and are in a perfect state; the centre figure of the three is the Virgin Mary, to whom the Abbey was dedicated, and over her head may be discerned a very rare and remarkable representation of the Holy Trinity: the Father is crowned, and holds in his hand the orb, the emblem of kingly power; the Son wears the crown of thorns, and they are both in the act of sending down the Holy Ghost, in the form of a dove, upon the Blessed Virgin; to the left of the Virgin is the figure of an abbot holding a book and a pastoral staff; the figure to the right of the Virgin probably represents William-le-Gros, the founder: the roof of the gateway is handsomely groined, and there are some remains of the original oaken doors: the second storey is reached by a winding newel staircase, which has an elegant stone roof, with eight cusped ribs springing from corbels and meeting in the centre: the whole area of the abbey, surrounded by a wall and moat, was 100 acres. The principal landowners are Rowland Winn esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Nostell Priory, Wakefield, and W. Hudson esq. The soil is light loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and potatoes. The population in 1881, including the hamlet of BURNHAM, 2 miles west, was 471, with 4,792 acres of land; rateable value, £7,536.

THORNTON-LE-MOOR is a small secluded parish and village, in the Northern division of the county, parts of Lindsey, north division of the Walshcroft wapentake, Caistor union, county court district of Market Rasen, petty sessional division of Walshcroft, rural deanery of Walshcroft, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 3½ miles south-west from the Moortown station on the Lincoln and Hull railway, and 6½ south-west from Caistor, near the Ancholme navigation. The church of All Saints is a small building, and chiefly in the Early English style, with some remains of Norman work; it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, porch, and a bell-gable containing 2 bells: the south doorway is Norman and has dog-tooth mouldings; it once had a north aisle, of which there are still some indications: the clerestory is Early English, and there was one window of this date on the south side: the church plate includes a chalice given by John Le Neve, the antiquary, who was rector here from 1722 to 1741: four of the clerestory windows and two at the west end are stained: there is a stone in memory of a former rector and his daughter, removed at the restoration of the church, and very injudiciously placed in the porch: the church plate includes a chalice, presented about 1740, by the Rev. John Neve, then rector: there are sittings for 100 persons: the church was restored in 1871 by subscription, and the chancel rebuilt and refitted; a south porch was also erected, the work was carried out under the superintendence of the rector, no architect being employed: during the restoration a Norman doorway was discovered east of the present porch, half of which was removed for a window. The register dates from the year 1711. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £240, with 12 acres of glebe and house, in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Edward Hudson Edman M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. On September 28th, 1649, the manor was sold to George Foxcroft esq. for the sum of £2,752 16s. 11d. by the Long Parliament: the present lord is Sir Mathew Wilson bart. M.P. of Eshton Hall, Gargrave, Yorks. The principal landowners are Sir Mathew Wilson bart. M.P. Miss Ann Dixon, of Holton park, and J. W. Dixon esq. of Caistor. The soil is strong clay loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and turnips. The area is 1,494 acres; rateable value, £1,639; the population in 1881 was 96.

THORPE ST. PETER, near Wainfleet, is a scattered village and parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, eastern division of the soke of Bolingbroke, Spilsby union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Candleshoe No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles south-east from Firsby Junction station, 125 from London, and 2 north-west from Wainfleet. The Thorpe Calvert station on the Firsby and Skegness branch of the Great Northern railway is three-quarters of a mile south from the church. The church of St. Peter is a building chiefly of the Decorated period, with remains of Early English work and Perpendicular additions, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, porch and a picturesque western tower, with four crocketed pinnacles, containing 3 bells: the tower and chancel were restored at the expense of the late Rev. William Hopkinson M.A. of Stamford, and the nave and aisles restored and reseated in 1866, at a cost of £370: a Perpendicular carved oak screen separates the nave and chancel, and there is a richly carved pulpit of the Jacobean period, and the roof exhibits rude carvings of grotesque heads, flowers and other ornaments: the font rests upon a fragment of an altar-stone, and is an Early English work with an octangular shaft and circular bowl: the chancel appears to have had lateral chantry chapels, and the piscina of one of these appears on the external north wall: several large stone coffins were discovered during the restoration of the nave, and a slab at the west end bears a foliated cross, the head of which is encircled by a label bearing the legend: "Orate pro anima Ricardi Markeby Capellani:" the east windows of the aisles were inserted by Mr. Hopkinson: the restorations, completed in 1866, were carried out under the direction of Mr. James Fowler, of Louth. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £34, gross yearly value £336, in the gift of the Bishop of Peterborough, and held since 1843 by Rev. Thomas Whitworth B.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels here. There are some small charitable donations, namely, the interest on £30, distributed on Good Friday by the vicar, churchwardens and overseers, together with a yearly sum of £3, payable by the impropriator; there are also two bede-houses, left by an unknown donor. Bricks are made here. Samuel Birch-Reynardson esq. D.L., J.P. of Holywell hall, Stamford, is lord of the manor. The heirs of the Rev. William Hopkinson are the chief landowners. The soil is rich grazing land; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are grass and wheat. The parish contains 2,996 acres of marsh and fen land, including the East Fen allotment; rateable value, £4,865; the population in 1881 was 566.

By a Local Government Board Provisional Order, dated December 24th, 1880, and confirmed by Act 14 Vict. c. xvii, a detached part of Hagnaby, with a population of 16, was transferred to Thorpe St. Peter parish.

Parish Clerk, Henry Johnson.

WEST THORPE (or THORPE-IN-THE-FALLOWS), is a parish, watered by the river Till, in the Mid division of the county, wapentake of Lawress, parts of Lindsey, and Lincoln union and county court district, 8 miles north-north-west from Lincoln, and 3½ east from Stow Park station, on the loop line of the Great Northern railway, which joins the main line at Doncaster and Peterborough. The church has long since disappeared, but the site of the building, the foundations of which were removed a few years back, may still be traced; the inhabitants attend the church at Aisthorpe. The register is included in that of Aisthorpe. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with the discharged rectory of Aisthorpe, tithe rent-charge £355, joint nett yearly value £290, with 1 acre of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Otter, of Aisthorpe, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Thomas William Bury M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, who resides at Aisthorpe. The Rev. George Roberts and Robert Fawsett Ealand esq. of Aisthorpe House, own the whole of the parish. The soil is clayey, subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 847 acres: rateable value, £796; the population in 1881 was 70.

THREEKINGHAM with STOWE.

THREEKINGHAM is a parish and small scattered village, including the hamlet of STOWE, in the Southern division of the county, Aveland wapentake, petty sessional division of Bourn, Sleaford union and county court district, parts of Kesteven, and rural deanery of Aveland No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 2 miles north-east from Falkingham, 3 north-west from Billingborough railway station, and 7 south from Sleaford. This place was at a remote period called "Laundon," and obtained its present name about 870, when three Danish kings or chieftains, slain by Earl Algar, with Morcar and Leofric, in a sanguinary attack on the Danish forces on the festival of St Maurice (Sept. 22), were buried here. It is further interesting as being situated at the intersection of the Roman roads Ermin Street and the Salter's Way. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building in the Transitional, Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower with spire containing 3 bells: the chancel furnishes a singular example of the admixture of earlier styles, having three equal circular-headed windows separate on the outside, but connected in a continuous arcade on the inside; the east end is good Transitional work; the lower part of the tower is not much later; the upper portion and spire present one of the best examples of a heavy broach spire to to be met with; the spire was struck by lightning in 1871, but restored in 1872: the north aisle is Late Decorated, and the font a combination of Early English and Perpendicular; there is some good ironwork on the south door, and several singularly carved bench ends of very late date: at the east end of the chancel is a beautiful early triplet: in the north aisle of the church are three stone coffins, with lids entire, which were removed from the churchyard about 1806; one of these bears the inscription "Hic intumulatur Johannes, quondam dominus de Trekingham," commemorating John de Trekingham, high sheriff in 1324. The font bears the legend, "Ave Maria gratia P.D.P.": and at the end of the nave are two recumbent effigies, on a low raised slab, of Lambert de Trekingham and his wife, the former in chain mail and flowing tunic, bearing a shield with the arms of Trekingham, c. 1245-1315. The register dates from the year 1572. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £55, net yearly value £161, including 63 acres of glebe, in the gift of John Wilson Wilson esq. and held since 1884 by the Rev. Charles Edward Walker Foottit B.A. of University College, Durham. Here are Baptist and Calvinist chapels. The principal landowners are John Wilson Wilson esq. who is lord of the manor, W. Nouaille Rudge esq. of Waterloo Place, Southampton, and William Alfred Cragg esq. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 2,270 acres; rateable value, £2,324: the population in 1881 was 143, including Stowe.

THURLBY, near Bourn, is a large agricultural village and parish, and has a station on the Bourn branch of the Great Northern railway, three quarters of a mile west from the church, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Ness wapentake, Bourn union and county court district, Ness rural deanery and Lincoln archdeaconry and diocese, 2 miles south from Bourn, 5 north-west from Market Deeping and 95 from London, on the road from Bourn to Market Deeping. The Roman Carr dyke runs between the church and the vicarage house, and the river Glen forms the eastern boundary of the parish. The church of St. Firmin is a low cruciform building in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, north and south porches, and a very early tower, with stunted spire overcrowded with lights and containing 5 bells: the nave, including the arcades, is chiefly Norman, as is also part of the chancel, which has a richly designed piscina with a canopy: both transepts were used as chapels, and each has a hagioscope; the porches are Early English, the south porch having a Norman doorway; the tower partakes of both styles: it has a circular Norman font, some oak screenwork, and an organ: the stained east window was presented in 1860 by T. Cooke Hubbard esq. lay rector, and a reredos of carved stone, the work of Mr. R. Tinkler, jun. has been erected. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £550, including 215 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Eton College, and held since 1864 by the Rev. George Villiers Thorpe B.A. of St. John's College, Oxford. There are Wesleyan and Free Methodist chapels, and a reading room and working men's institute, where the local newspapers are taken in. There are lands in the parish left by unknown donors, for keeping the causeways in repair, and the poor have the interest of £100 left by Ann Fisher in 1769. The parish abounds in fine oak. Bricks are made here. A few yards westward of the church runs the "Carr Dyke," a vast artificial canal of Roman origin, extending from Peterborough to Lincoln, with a total length of 56 miles. Lord Aveland P.C., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Eton College are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay, silt and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 5,070 acres; rateable value, £6,019; the population in 1881 was 814.

OBTHORPE is a very small hamlet, one mile south-west from the village.

NORTHORPE is a hamlet, half a mile north-west.

ELSEA WOOD is one mile north.

TORKSEY, with BRAMPTON AND HARDWICK.

TORKSEY, once a town of some importance, and mentioned in Domesday Book as being at that time a borough town, is a pleasant parish and township, with station on the East Retford railway, in the Mid division of the county, Lawress wapentake, though locally in the wapentake of Well, parts of Lindsey, petty sessional division of Lincoln, Gainsborough union and county court district, rural deanery of Lawress No. 2, archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln, 146½ miles from London, and 8 south-by-east from Gainsborough. Torksey is situated at the junction of the Fossdyke with the river Trent. The church of St. Peter is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Norman, Transition and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel with vestry, nave, north aisle and a western tower with 8 pinnacles containing 3 bells: there is an ancient Norman font: the church was restored in 1821: in the church is a monument with carved effigy of Margaret de Multon, superioress of Foss nunnery. There are sittings for 200 persons. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £110, including 18 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of E. R. C. Cust esq. of Arthingworth, Northamptonshire, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Thomas Abraham, of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury. There is a Wesleyan chapel here. Near the banks of the Trent are the ruins of Torksey Castle: the remains consist chiefly of the principal front. The charities amount to £7 yearly, derived from 2 acres of land at Truswell, left by Mr. Makins; William Bull left 10s. 6d. in 1805. Ernest Richard Charles Cust esq. D.L. of Arthingworth, Northamptonshire, is lord of the manor, and owns nearly all the parish. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are barley and wheat. The area of the entire parish is 3,276A. 2R. 5P.; rateable value, £4,170; the population in 1881 of the entire parish was 236, and of the township 160.

BRAMPTON and HARDWICK are townships; the former place, in Well wapentake, is one mile north-east from Torksey; the area is 915 acres; rateable value, £996; the population in 1881 was 97. HARDWICK is a township situated 3 miles south-south-east, in which direction it joins Saxilby, where is the nearest railway station; it is on the east side of the Fossdyke navigation, over which there is a ferry for passengers and vehicles to the opposite parish of Kettlethorpe; the township is owned by small freeholders, and contains a few straggling farmhouses and a small Wesleyan chapel. The area is 926A. 2R. 5P.; rateable value, £1,702; the population in 1881 was 79.

WEST TORRINGTON is a parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, western division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, petty sessional division of Wragby, Horncastle union, county court district of Market Rasen, rural deanery of Wraggoe, archdeaconry of Stow, and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles north-by-east from Wragby, 4 north-east from Snelland station, and 13 north-west from Horncastle. The church of St. Mary is a small edifice of stone, rebuilt by subscription in 1862, from the designs of Mr. Withers, and is in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch and a turret containing 1 bell. During the restoration of the church, on digging round the exterior, the battered remains of an effigy of a Knight Templar were found, confirming a tradition, of long standing, that three crusaders had been respectively buried at Panton, Buslingthorpe and West Torrington: the other effigies still exist in the two former churches: the fragments now discovered have been placed near the font, which is a fine and unusually large structure of the Norman period: the stained east window is a memorial to W. G. E. Gerald B.A. of St. John's College, Oxford: the churchyard cross has recently been restored. The register dates from the year 1638. The living is a vicarage, with East Torrington annexed, tithe rent-charge, £304: joint net yearly value £310, including 14 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Christopher Turnor esq. and held since 1859 by the Rev. Thomas Wimberley Mossman B.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. There are Wesleyan and Reform Methodist chapels. The only charity consists of 26s. yearly rent charge, distributed weekly in a dole loaf to the oldest widow. Christopher Turnor esq. D.L., J.P. of Stoke Rochfort, Grantham, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Messrs. William Gurnell, Cyrus Sharpley and Mrs. J. B. Sharpley. The soil is various: subsoil, clay and sandy gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,121 acres; rateable value, £1,429; the population in 1881 was 160.

TOTHILL is a small parish, in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Marsh division of Calceworth hundred and petty sessional division, Louth union and county court district, rural deanery of Calceworth No. 1, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 6 miles north-west from Alford, 2 north-east from the Authorpe station on the East Lincolnshire railway. The church of St. Mary is a small and plain edifice, principally of chalk and brick, and was built from the ruins of the old church: it is at present in a state of decay, but the erection of a new church is contemplated. The register dates from the year 1608. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £149, gross yearly value £215, including 68 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Willoughby de Broke, and held since 1851 by the Rev. William Grice B.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge. In the parish is an old military earthwork, consisting of a wide deep ditch, upwards of 20 feet in length, near a lofty round mound, commonly called Toot Hill. Lord Willoughby de Broke is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is clayey; subsoil, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The area is 854 acres; rateable value, £1,001; the population in 1881 was 47.

TUPHOLME, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish in the Mid division of the county, parts of Lindsey, Horncastle soke, west division of the wapentake of Wraggoe, union, county court district and petty sessional division of Horncastle, 9 miles west from Horncastle, 2 north from the river Witham and the Southrey station of the Great Northern railway. The poor children of this parish are entitled to receive education at the Bardney Free schools. Some picturesque ruins, including one side of the refectory with six lancet windows, and retaining the pulpit, from which a monk used to read to the others while dining, are all that remain of the Premonstratensian abbey of St. Mary the Virgin, founded in the time of Henry II. by Allan and Gilbert de Neville: it was richly endowed, and held part of Middle Rasen with the tithes. Capt. Robert Charles Vyner of Gautby, Horncastle, is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is mostly clay; subsoil, blue and yellow clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,795 acres; rateable value, £1,401; the population in 1881 was 93.

TYDD ST. MARY is a parish, village, and station 2 miles distant from the church, on the Peterborough and Sutton Bridge railway, bordering on Norfolk and Cambridgeshire, on the road from Long Sutton to Wisbech, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Holland, wapentake of Elloe, Holbeach union and county court district, rural deanery of East Elloe, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, 3 miles south from Long Sutton, 6 north from Wisbech, 8 south-east from Holbeach and 3 from Sutton Bridge. The great South Holland Drain, which bounds the parish on the north, empties itself into the river Nene. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, with some remains of Transitional date, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch, and a western tower of brick, with stone dressings, embattled and surmounted by a spire with 3 tiers of lights and containing 5 bells: the earliest portion of the church is comprised in the aisle arcades of late Transitional work, but the fabric was almost wholly rebuilt in the Decorated period: the clerestory is lighted by five windows on either side, and on the gable of the nave is a small bellcote: at the east end of the north aisle is an alabaster slab bearing the now upright effigy of a knight of the time of Richard II. (1377-99) with the following inscription on its champered edge: "et per l'alme William de Tidde et sa femme dame Margaret:" it was repewed in 1825 and reseated in 1879: the chancel was restored in 1869, and the east window of five lights filled with stained glass in 1872. The register dates from the year 1540. The living is a rectory, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £1,250, gross £1,300, including 77 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1866 by the Rev. Charles Benjamin Lowe M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There is a Mission church at Chapelgate, built of brick with spirelet, and erected in 1859, at a cost of £750, from designs by Mr. Hakewill, of London, and was the first church of England mission church erected in the kingdom. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The charities amount to £161 5s. yearly, arising from land, and are distributed in January and April: the widows "gown" charity, known as "Watson's," consists of one-third of the rent of about 6 acres of land in Sutton St. Edmunds, and is distributed by the rector and churchwardens yearly: a sum of £24 yearly, originally belonging to the Free School, founded by Miss Martha Trafford, of this place, in 1740, is employed for educational purposes. William Goddard Jackson esq. of Duddington, Stamford, is lord of the manor of Dunton and Mr. Richard Kilham, of that of Tilney. The principal landowners are Captain Long, Mrs. Harrison, Thomas Englesby Rogers esq. M.A. of Yarlington House, Wincanton, Mr. Richard Kilham, the Duke of Somerset K.G. Edward Southwell Trafford esq. of Wroxham Hall, Norwich, and Messrs. J. T. Marshall, H. C. Bailey, John Edwards and Trinity College, Cambridge. The soil is a light loam; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, peas, brown mustard, potatoes, and other roots. The area is 4,770 acres, rateable value £8,131; the population in 1881 was 928.

Tydd Gote (or Gowt), a hamlet half a mile south, stands one part in Lincolnshire and the other in Tydd St. Giles, Cambridgeshire.

UFFINGTON is a parish and village, pleasantly situated, 2 miles east from Stamford, on the river Welland and on the road to Market Deeping, in the Southern division of the county, parts of Kesteven, Ness wapentake, Stamford union and county court district, Ness rural deanery, and archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln. The Midland railway (Stamford and Peterborough branch) has a station, half a mile south-east from the Hall. The church of St. Michael is a large and fine building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, private chapel belonging to the Trollope family, now represented by Lord Kesteven, porch and a tower, dated 1639, with a crocketed spire containing 5 bells and a clock: the church was elaborately restored in 1866, under the direction of Mr. Browning, when the nave was almost entirely rebuilt and the roof renewed in oak; the chancel walls were relined with ashlar, a new vestry and organ chamber erected, and the fabric generally re-floored: the pulpit, a superb work, was the gift of Merthyr Guest esq. and the font was presented by Archdeacon Trollope: the stained east window, inserted in 1882, is a memorial to the late Sir John Trollope, baron Kesteven, who died 17th December, 1874, and there are various other stained windows, one of which was presented in 1876 by the rector, in memory of his father. the church contains several remarkably handsome and ancient monuments, including one of marble and alabaster, with kneeling effigies in armour, to Roger Manners esq. of Uffington, esquire of the body to Queens Mary and Elizabeth, 1587; and his younger brother, Oliver Manners, who served against the French at Newhaven, and died of the plague, 1563; there is also a memorial to Dr. Stanton, Dean of Lincoln and formerly rector here, 1612, and a recumbent stone effigy of a knight in armour, discovered about 1840, built into one of the walls of the church; some members of the Lindsey family are buried here, including Charles, fifth son of Montague, second Earl of Lindsey K.G. 1716; and Charles, his son, 1720: the communion plate, of silver gilt, was presented by Lady Trollope and the Lindsey family: there is also a massive silver salver, given by Susannah, wife of Sir Thomas Trollope, in 1724: the churchyard, which is tastefully planted with evergreens, is surrounded with some very fine lime and chesnut trees. The register of baptisms dates from 1675; marriages, 1684; burials, 1676. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £3, gross yearly value £800 with house, built in 1857, from designs by Mr. Philip C. Hardwick, of London, in the gift of the Earl of Lindsey, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Frederick John Ramsden M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. There are some charitable bequests to the poor, and amongst others £50 bequeathed by the Lindsey family, as recorded on a tablet placed in the church. A priory of Austin Canons was founded in this parish by W. D'Albini in the reign of Henry III. and dedicated to St. Leonard: an extensive flour mill now occupies the site, and no vestiges of the ancient buildings remain. Casewick Hall, the seat of the Right Hon. Lord Kesteven, is a large Elizabethan mansion, standing in a well-wooded park of 77 acres, surrounded by fine scenery and commanding an extensive view of Northants and Lincolnshire. The Earl of Lindsey D.L., J.P. who resides at Uffington House, an ancient mansion standing in a park of 66 acres, on the north bank of the Welland, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Earl of Lindsey, Lord Kesteven, and James Peel Stevenson esq. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and rock. The chief crops are hay and pasturage. The area is 3,996 acres; rateable value, £9,297: the population in 1881 was 462.

UFFINGTON FEN is about 9 miles north of the parish church.
